NO. 182. THE OFFICE BOY'S REVENGE.

No.	Code Word.	Title and Description.
182.	GALLING.	THE OFFICE BOY'S REVENGE.

SCENE.—THE OFFICE OF STOCK, BROKE, & CO., IN "THE CITY."

James, the office boy, is "doing the dusting;" when his work is done he stretches himself in the guv'nor's chair, and then turns his attention to the typewriter at the other side of the office. He is engaged in thumping it vigorously, and fails to notice the arrival of the guv'nor, who, enraged at this desecration of his property, approaches from behind, seizes James by the collar of his coat, and gives him a good shaking, then ordering him out. The guv'nor, a strenuous man, then settles down to peruse his morning's letters without waste of time. While he is thus occupied the lady typist enters. She is a bewitching damsel—but—business is business—and the guv'nor merely grunts "Morning!" The typist, after having taken a weight from her mind by removing her hat, sits down at her table. James re-enters, bearing a card announcing that the guv'nor's wife is waiting to see him. The guv'nor says, "Show her up!" and James is about to depart when an idea strikes him. Still smarting from his recent chastisement, and being "more than seven," and having heard the word "intrigue," and looked it up in the dictionary, he thinks that the time for his revenge on the guv'nor is the present. Hastily picking up a pair of scissors, he sneaks behind the typist's chair, and stealthily cuts two golden hairs from off her head; then he creeps behind the guv'nor, and manages to place the said golden hairs on his shoulder without detection. He then leaves the office, and returns immediately after to show in the "Missis." This worthy lady is not welcomed in a boisterous manner by her spouse, who, without turning his head asks her to be seated. She is, however, impatient and rather taken back at the frosty greeting, and walks up to her husband, putting her arms round his neck. The rest is plain sailing—for the office boy. The two golden hairs are discovered, the typist is accused of tampering with affections, &c., and the husband and wife are left to fight it out by themselves. Needless to say, the lady gets the best of it, and the guv'nor makes his escape closely followed out of the office by his enraged wife. The office boy then returns and dances a "highland fling," and all ends happily—for him.

A Roaring Comic. Length, 165ft. Price £4 2s. 6d.

NO. 199. THE LOST SHUTTLECOCK.

The scene opens with a view of a country back yard, where two little girls are playing at shuttlecock. In their eagerness to outdo each other, one, the taller of the two, gives her shuttlecock an extra hard bang, which deposits it on the roof of the wash-house. The poor little girl starts crying, and her companion tries to console her, and they both try to jump up, but cannot even see it. Presently an old gouty gent comes along and asks the little girl what ails her. "My shuttlecock's up there," she sobs. The poor old gent vainly endeavours to reach it with his stick. Failing to do so, he bids them fetch him a pair of steps, by which he may rescue the lost article. These forthcoming, he puts his stick against the wall, and mounts the steps as fast as his gouty legs will let him. With many groans he reaches the top, but leans too heavily on the gutter, and down he comes, pulling with him the roof, gutter, the rain-pipe, and a line full of nice white clothes, which descend to the dirty ground. Little miss, whose shuttlecock he has so bravely tried to rescue, then turns traitor, and, rushing to the door, calls "Mother," who instantly appears, fresh from the washtub; seeing the clothes on the ground and the general state of affairs, goes for the old gent "hammer and tongs;" while, to add to his discomfort, up comes her burly, brawny-armed son, who has also heard the shouts. After some more pummelling, during which the old gent is felled to the ground, they proceed to drag him out of the yard into which he has so good-heartedly trespassed. We leave them so doing.

OUT WITH THE FOXHOUNDS.

This is a picture in several short scenes, depicting various episodes of a fox hunt. The first view shows the M. F. H. surrounded by a fine pack of hounds all eager for the chase. He leads the way and is followed by the other members of the party, while the hounds run swiftly about in dangerous proximity to the horses' hoofs. The party is followed by the camera and a pretty panorama of some beautiful country is obtained. At another point the horsemen have to jump some hedges, and a fine exhibition of horsemanship is given.

Length, 75ft. Price, £1 11s. 3d.

No. 640.
THE SPOILT CHILD.

The hero of this delightful little subject is apparently an only child who has been considerably spoilt. The part is acted with wonderful naturalness, and indeed it is so thoroughly well done that it is very difficult to believe that the young scapegrace could possibly have been conscious of the presence of a camera. Reproved for some naughty trick the little boy scratches his nurse, and is promptly "put in the corner" by her while she goes to get tea ready. The moment she is out of the room, the younger darts out, removes the middle leaf from the table, and spreads the cloth again so as to hide the gap. When the nurse returns she puts the things on the treacherous place, and they are all smashed in the fall which results. The naughty child gets well spanked, but one supposes that he considers the game well worth the candle.

Length, 100ft. Price, £2 1s. 8d.

No. 642.
A PHANTOM RIDE ON THE CAMBRIAN COAST.

The coast of Wales has always been famous for its scenic beauty, and some of the most beautiful parts are embraced in this ride on an engine-front around the numerous curves and indentations of the coast line. The railway line of the Cambrian Railways runs around most of the promontories, and in many places is actually cut on the side of the cliff. It could hardly do otherwise, in fact, without tunnelling nearly the whole distance, for the hills are of a great height and very close together. In numerous places where the hills jut right out into the sea, they are pierced by a tunnel for a short distance; but, nevertheless, the curves on the line are sharp and numerous, and an ever-changing variety of scenery is presented to the eye. On the one hand tower the high hills, on the other is the open sea broken by vast stretches of smooth sand; the curves are like double s's, following one another in quick succession, and some beautiful stereoscopic effects are obtained as the engine dashes round them. Every now and again we plunge into a black tunnel and emerge into the sunlight on the other side almost immediately afterwards. Crossing the famous Viaduct over the Barmouth Estuary, we get a hurried view of Barmouth town before diving again into another tunnel. Short cuttings through the solid rock are interspersed with beautiful views of open scenery, and the thickly growing foliage, past which we dash in places, stands out in bold and brilliant relief against the more distant scenery. Later on we get a fine view of the famous castle of Harlech, which is built on a bold rock, around the foot of which the line runs. The scenery is of a wild and extremely picturesque character, and the constant changes of sea-scape, copse, villages, stations, and tunnels make this one of the most exciting and beautiful railroad pictures ever produced.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER, BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Chapter I. COPYRIGHT AS OPPOSED TO PERFORMING RIGHT

Chapter II. PERFORMING RIGHT.

Chapter III. INFRINGEMENT AND REMEDIES.

Chapter IV. MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.

Chapter V. INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.

Published at "The Era" Offices, 49, Wellington-street, Strand, W.C.

Mr A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes" which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette, Aug. 2d, 1901

"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer, by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as "the Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright, and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright," is dedicated to Mr A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman, July 31st, 1901

AUTUMN TOURS.

WE ARE NOW VERY BUSY CLEANING DRESSES FOR AUTUMN TOURS, but have plenty of room, and, like Oliver Twist, WE ASK FOR MORE.

We are also very busy Cleaning and Renovating Tableaux Curtains and Draperies from London and Country Theatres and Music Halls.

We still hold the field as Cleaners and Dyers to the Theatrical and Music Hall Professions. This fact is clearly proved by the unsolicited testimonials we are continually receiving.

Professional Work takes Precedence over all other orders.

By Special Arrangement,

TOURING MANAGERS

can have their Wardrobes Cleaned between Shows, when in or near London.

COPY OF MR COLE'S LETTER.

Yarmouth, Aug. 10.

My Dear Mr Harris,—

Very many thanks for your wire. I would have replied only was, as you can imagine, very busy. We managed to open all right, as you are, no doubt, aware, and everything went off splendidly.

I cannot thank you enough for all the trouble you took on our behalf, and but for your prompt action I am certain we could not have opened on Monday.

With kindest regards and again many thanks,

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) HORACE COLE,

"Darling of the Gods" Company.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.

Her Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; General Manager, Mr Eade Montefiore; Acting-Manager, Mr H. C. Cavanah.—The Private Secretary is here this week. Mr W. Hargreaves plays with remarkable freshness and vivacity as Uncle Cattermole, and Mr Donald Pryce-Evans represents the mild curate with great fidelity and humour. Miss Dora Gray shows talent as Edith Marsland; and Miss Mary E. Deverell is successful as Eva Webster. Other parts are creditably filled by Mr Raymond Chester, Mr Vivian Gilbert, Mr Fred Inwood, Mr Wilfrid Compton, Mrs Alfred Davis, and Miss Cissie Wade. The piece is preceded by Good for Nothing.

Palace Theatre, Limited.—General Manager, Mr Ernest Sheldon.—Mr Horace Wheatley is heartily received here, and a clever turn is done by Roze and Calvert. Miss Lily Sharplin, mimic and vocalist, makes a decided hit, and a refreshingly original and smart exhibition is given by the Hoopers. Mr Will Candlish, Negro comedian, is highly amusing, and the Dorrells dance with much grace and sing sweetly. The Paragon Trio of glee singers delight the audience by their rendering of a number of popular ballads. The Two Macs are as funny as ever, and an excellent entertainment is concluded with an exhibition of capital pictures by the Bioscope.

The Pierrots.—Managers, Messrs Sinclair and Parr.—Two performances are given here daily, and the excellent artistes include Mr George Sinclair, Mr Fred Parr, Mr E. J. Wilkes, Mr Will Hewitt, Mr Bert Noels, and Mr Harry Ritchie. The piano accompaniments are played by Miss Maude Howarth.

ABERTILLERY.

Theatre Metropole.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. W. Ventom; Stage-Manager, Mr Fred Thomas.—The attraction here on Monday and two following days was Mr Oswald Cray's No. 1 company in the comedy-drama My Native Land. Mr Oswald Cray as Andy Blake gave an effective and manly rendering, Mr John Riley as Norry Boyle was very natural, Mr L. H. Stephenson as Dr Maggee scored heavily, Mr Beresford as Eardley Cunningham was effective, Mr Joe English and Mr J. S. Chamberlain must be congratulated on their comicalities as Solomon Moses and Mike Murphy respectively, Miss Cissy Vines did capable work as Winnie Blake, and Daisy Rocheford as Nannie Blake sang very prettily. As Rebecca Moses Miss May Rochefort did exceedingly well. Miss Ethel Whitely as Myra Pyne added considerably to the evening's amusement. On Thursday and Friday the Garside, Knowles, and Ludlow company was here with The London Fireman.

ABERYSTWITH.

Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr F. Rogers.—The enterprising and popular manager, Mr Frank Rogers, who took his benefit on Wednesday, has provided a wonderful triple programme this week, which is drawing crowded houses. Foremost is Arthur Roberts and his talented company, including Miss Ruby Celeste, the chic and clever comedienne, in The Darling of the Guards and Where's the Count? The Royal Strolling Players are also here, under the direction of Mr Chas. Penrose, a singularly versatile and humorous comedian. They are a first-class troupe, and in Mr Richardson Taylor they have one of the finest whistlers and bird-imitators in the country. He is also a capital actor and ventriloquist. The "Besses o' the Barn" band, winners of the National championship, gave special performances here on Tuesday.

Assembly Rooms.—Lessees, Messrs Baring Brothers; Manager, Mr H. P. Towers.—Messrs Baring's grand opera company has been here in Faust, Tannhauser, and Marriage of Figaro. The performance of Faust was a highly meritorious one, Mr Reginald Brophy's fine singing and finished acting being worthy of the highest praise. Mr Frank Arthur appeared as Mephistopheles, and his rich basso profundo was heard to advantage. A very fine performance was given by Mr Arthur Deane as Valentine, his voice is a rich baritone of great compass. Full of artistic charm and sweetness was the Marguerite of Miss Lizzie Burgess, while the other parts were in the able hands of Miss D. Wilson and Miss E. Alvord.

ACCRINGTON.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr J. E. Barnes.—Mr William A. Armour's company opened here on Monday with What a Woman Did. Mr William A. Armour is effective as Conrad De L'Orme; and Mr Kenneth Smith is equally successful as the Marquis. Mr Tom Wallace must be complimented on his performance as Perfect Petro Peppin. Mr Owen Edwin as Pitou is all that could be desired. Miss Dora Price gives an artistic rendering of Elise De L'Orme; Miss Blanche Delroy is an ideal Le Papillon; and Nanette is a bright and sparkling performance by Miss Nita Imeson. Miss Louie Lonora gives a good account of herself as Fanchon.

ALDERSHOT.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Williams.—Full of interesting situations is The Village Blacksmith, a new drama with a fascinating story. A feature introduced that has a large amount of interest manifested in it is a wrestling match in the last act. Messrs Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company give a good interpretation. Mr Sam Livesey's is a fine impersonation of the honest, manly John Strong; whilst as the persecuted wife Kate Strong Miss Ethel Kay is capital. A powerful portrayal of the villainous Captain Leo is given by Mr Joseph Carter; Mr Geo. E. Marshall gives a clever embodiment of the itinerant tinker, Jeremiah; and he, with Mrs T. C. Livesey (Sal Parkins), give capital representations. Miss Maggie Edwards's Ruth is worthy of mention, and in the music hall scene she sings with success. Mr George V. Campbell causes great fun as the country boy Billy Twig, his dialect and action being very good. A clever youthful actress is Little Christobel. Mr Frank Harrison is commendable as Marler; Mr Geo. Edwards does well as Harman; Mr Gus Ratcliffe as Inspector Grant; and Miss Edith Giddons, Martha Mopps.

ATTERCLIFFE.

Theatre Royal.—Managing Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr Claude Seaton.—Greed of Gold is being presented here by Mr T. Morton Powell's company. Mr Carthage Caldcleugh impersonates Harry Hood with exceptional ability; the part of Arthur Errol is safe in the hands of Mr Wilson Summers; Mr H. Shea is very amusing as Conn Creamer; a clever impersonation of the dumb man is given by Mr B. Fox; Mr Walter M. Cameron portrays Cull Snig and is genuinely funny; and Miss Edith Wallis is an excellent exponent of Dora.

BACUP.

New Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr Richard Nightingale.—Mr Sydney Vereker's No. 1 company is here this week with The Red Signal. Mr Alfred Allen gives a capital interpretation of the part of the hero, Jack Darkwood, and Mr Charles V. Sandford's performance as the callous villain, Sir Otto Darkwood, is sufficiently repulsive. Mr Sydney Vereker as Sammy Gay submits a humorous study of that character; Mr Whitmore Ledger as Richard Culver ably acquits himself; and Mr John Levey supplies an excellent sketch as Peter Sorrell. Miss Rosa Lehmann is a charming May Sorrell; Miss Noyah Caronne evokes sympathy as Florence Culver; Jenny Jones is vivaciously portrayed by Miss Hetty Jeffries; and Miss Marion Edwards is responsible for some excellent singing between the acts.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

New Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Revill; Director of Entertainments, Mr F. Willmot.—An enjoyable programme is provided at the Hippodrome. The Australian speciality artistes, Austin and Cowan, are pleasing vocal duettists; Lewist, with his comical figures, creates much fun, and as an exponent of the ventriloquial art is very clever; Dan Kennedy as the Yankee tourist patters and sings in entertaining style; Smith and Johnson, coloured duettists, score with sentimental songs, &c.; Onda and Artell are remarkably neat exponents of gymnastics, they execute a series of daring feats on the high trapeze, and are loudly applauded; Vincent, the acrobatic table expert, shows his agility by vaulting and somersaulting from a pyramid of tables; Emma Don, refined male impersonator, and a couple of boy and girl performers, who appear as a street flower-girl and shoeblack, greatly interest with scenes from London life; and the Hippo-Bioscope projects some amusing films.

BARNSLEY.

Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr A. C. Mitchell.—Mr Henry Swinerd's No. 1 company, in Dare-Devil Dorothy, is here this week. General Garston is ably played by Mr Walter Boyce; Messrs W. F. Green and H. C. Ward are excellent as George Fielding and Edward Dudley; Mr A. Stretton as Hawkins is capital; Mr Arthur Verne is admirable in his humorous rendering of Silas Crump; Smith, a footman, is embodied by Mr W. G. Hearson with much ability; Mr Frank L. Oliver is responsible for the part of Featherstone Haugh; Misses Mabel and Lillie Blake are specially good as Polly and Rosy Ann respectively; Miss Nellie Harcourt makes a great hit as Judith; Ruth Montrose has Miss Kathleen Garnon for an exponent; and Miss Marjorie Cecil scores as Dorothy Montrose.

Public Hall.—Manager, Mr G. E. Hoey.—The Albano Troupe in their musical speciality top a good bill here this week. Mill May is exceptionally smart as an impersonator, vocalist, and dancer; the Swift Trio are clever trick cyclists; Sisters Bartholomew meet with approval as duettists and dancers; Herbert Betts is a good comedian; and Miss Eileen Moore is a pleasing soprano vocalists with illustrations. The programme concludes with a selection of animated photographs.

BARNSTAPLE.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Bridge Feoffees; Manager, Mr Harry Ashton.—On Monday and Tuesday, enthusiastic audiences greeted Mr Charles Macdona's company in A Chinese Honeymoon, on a second visit here. Miss Ettie Cinders gave a delightfully clever rendering of Fi Fi. The part of Mrs Pineapple was capably handled by Miss Mabel Carlton who certainly deserved the applause given her specially for a new coon song and dance. Miss Ada Lacroft as the Princess Soo Soo did well. Miss Gertrude Le Sage gave an excellent rendering of the domineering official mother-in-law. Mr Steane Louch has an admirable voice, and gives a creditable portrayal of the mighty Emperor. Mr Sidney Burt as Pineapple created plenty of fun, eliciting immense applause for his rendering of the "Happy Land." Mr Lindsay Harman as the Admiral, Mr Tom Foote as Tom Hatherton, and Mr Louis Ashmeade as the Chancellor satisfactorily undertook their respective parts. The company is under the direction of Mr W. E. Woodward, with Mr Jean Desormes as conductor of the chorus.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

Royalty Theatre and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr George Stone.—Mr William Greet's company with The Lady Slavey is here this week. Miss Addie Lennard as Phyllis, the lady slavey, is exceedingly bright and lively, her dancing and singing are really excellent. As Major O'Neill Mr Harry Walsh is a typical humorous Irishman. Mr Allen Morris takes the part of Vincent Evelyn with great success, and uses his fine voice to advantage. Mr Frank Sherlock as Roberts is a most entertaining comedian, dances and sings well, and creates roars of laughter. Mr Walter Hybert gives a most diverting impersonation of Lord Lavender. Miss M. Marsden makes a charming Flo Honeydew. Miss Jean Van Dalle and Miss Ethel Ashton as Maude and Beatrice delight the audience with their dancing.

Tivoli.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi, Stage-Manager, Mr Tom Whiting.—The top turn here this week is filled by the Breton's troup of pantomimists, six really smart knockabout comedians, who cause much laughter in their sketch, The Tramp's Picnic. Bennett and Martell in their crazy comedy act, fully deserve the applause which greets them. Mannon and Cotterel are exceedingly funny in their burlesque drama, Saved from the Sea. Captain Slingsby is truly an expert ventriloquist, and received a hearty reception. Dan Thomas is a capable comedian; the Jansens give a novel and clever gymnastic display; and the Raies as speciality dancers are a capable turn.

BATH

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr Lewis A. Long.—For the third week in succession melodrama holds the boards, the latest production being the new racing play, Rogues of the Turf, which has been accorded an enthusiastic reception by the patrons of the popular parts of the house. The company is under the personal direction of Mr George R. Montford, who himself appears as the principal rogue, Captain Dudley Clifton, which he embodies with no little histrionic ability. A special engagement is that of Mr John F. Preston as the honest old trainer, Joe Flaxman, a character that appeals to the hearts of the audience. Most of the humour of the piece comes from Mr Harry Benson as young Sam Flaxman, his introduced songs and dances meeting with deserved encores. Mr Ernest R. Allen makes an acceptable hero, Arthur Somerton; while the Jew, Moses Solomans, is portrayed by Mr H. H. Rignold. Miss Gertrude Godart paints the unscrupulous Lady Heathcote in the blackest colours; Miss Susie Fradelle as Nellie Flaxman and Miss Mabelle F. Barlow assist in keeping the interest going. The stud of race horses are much in evidence, and naturally come in for admiration.

Palace Theatre.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Trussell.—Starring here is the "query announced Lind (?), whose artistic make-up and graceful dancing secures for the clever artiste a warm reception. Loud applause is obtained by Stewart and Morgan in their vocal speciality entitled "Leaving Ireland." The acrobatic performance by the Four Rosaires is smartly carried through and watched with interest. Amy Russell, soprano vocalist, is cordially welcomed. Rita and Roma present an uncommon interlude of singing and acrobatic dancing that is well received. Duboss gives his realistic monkey impersonation, which always proves entertaining. Nelson and Thomas, in their absurdity "On the Ra Ta," are meeting with success after a long absence. Lily Turner, a character vocalist, also appears. The Boleros, triple bar artistes, are billed, but did not appear at the first house on Tuesday.

BILSTON.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—A Hidden Crime is being performed here by Mr Augustus Geo. Lytton's company. Mr Chas. Frome displays ability as Henry Adair; and very effective is the Mrs Brander of Miss Jessie Lyons. To Miss Hilda Clyde is assigned the part of Rose Adair, and she plays it to the satisfaction of the audience. Interesting performances are given by Mr Henry St. Ledger (Hop Wah), Mr Wallie F. Dunlop (Curly Black), Miss Bessie Frank (Kitty Rayner), and Mr Harry Ray (Tom Dacre).

BEDFORD.

Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter R. Wilson.—Miss Mabel Comely, who opened the programme on Monday, at once put the audience in a good humour with her admirable burlesque. Gusto next appeared, and his wonderful exposition of the cycling art called forth much applause; J. G. Forde appeared first as a comedian and next as an extempore singer; some marvellous rifle-shooting was given by Winona and King; Cyrus and Maude created roars of laughter with their burlesques; Minnie Palmerston delighted her hearers in excellent songs; and then came the star turn of the evening, a wonderful weight lifting performance by Atlas and Miss Vulcana. Other items included songs and dances by Arthur Forrest, a droll comedian; some fine instrumental music by Schack Seebold; and many up-to-date pictures by the Hippodrome Bioscope.

BELFAST.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr J. M'Cann.—Messrs Loftus and Dale's company opened here on Monday with the successful musical comedy The New Barmaid. Many new features have been introduced, and undoubtedly it proved one of the smartest of musical comedies that have been seen here. The title-rôle was very successfully sustained by Miss Gladys Elvey, her acting and singing being much admired; and much praise is due to Mr Harrison Brockbank for his capital assumption of Captain Lovebury, his cultured voice being heard with much pleasure in patriotic and other songs. Mr Joseph B. Montague, a very funny comedian, appeared in his original character of Bertie White, and greatly amused the audience. His singing of "A little bit of sugar for the bird," with its many up-to-date verses, was specially effective. Mr Alexander Loftus succeeded admirably in the part of William White, and although Mr Herbert Cottesmore had not many opportunities as the peppery Colonel Claymore, yet his performance was a highly finished one. Mr Albert Weston was thoroughly efficient as Mons. Bonsor, his dancing being remarkably smart. Miss Bessie Palliser presented an attractive and vivacious portrayal of Dora Heather, her rendering of several capital songs being delightful. Miss Hilda Blanche's impersonation of Brenda Louth, the old barmaid, merits much approval; and Miss Jean Gilmore successfully delineated the part of Lady Moulton. The chorus was powerful and thoroughly efficient, and the various songs and dances introduced during the course of the piece were vastly entertaining.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Managing Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr John P. Beardmore.—Topping the bill at this very popular theatre are the Manello Marnitz Troupe (three ladies and one gentleman), whose acrobatic feats are nothing short of marvellous; a decided feature of the bill is the sensational act by Stalg's Original Motor Sensation, consisting of motor racing in mid-air; Burns and Evans, American comedians, supply a funny act, and Mr Alec Kennedy, a fine actor-vocalist, has made a hit with his great scena, "Dreams." Miss Fannie Humber, burlesque actress, is deservedly applauded for her instrumental solos and dancing, and Mr E. W. Selman is a humorous comedian with good songs. Miss Marie Elsie, "the French Flirt," has proved to be a fascinating comedienne with good songs, and others on this first-class bill are the Three Sisters Leigh, comediennes and dancers, and Drum and Major, speciality artists, who made a big hit on Monday.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Limited.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas Brock.—The chief attraction this week is the capital sketch Drummed Out, presented by Mr A. C. Lilly and his company. Numerous auxiliaries and a drum and fife band considerably enhance the representation. Cullen and Carthy, who are assisted by Cluny, a miniature comedian, furnish much amusement with their humorous act; and a welcome return visit is being paid by that droll comedian, Mr Edwin Boyde, with his comic character songs. Miss Alexandra Dagmar upholds her reputation as one of the best of comediennes, and Signor and Madame Presper Benn appear to advantage in their comedy act "From the Pavement to the Stage," Signor Benn's manipulation of several musical instruments is clever in the extreme. Miss Dot Hardy, comedienne, and Miss Marie Reeve, comedienne and dancer, complete the programme.

New Alhambra Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr Henry T. Downs.—The ever-popular comedian, Mr George French, heads the bill here. A sensation has been caused by the Continental novelty, Aga, who poses as a suspended maiden. Frances and Melli appear in their musical novelty, Brigands, their manipulation of several musical instruments being very clever. The fine baritone voice of Post Mason has been heard to the utmost advantage, and the juggling feats of Mr George Essman have much to commend them. Mr Gus Harris as a Hebrew delineator has been very successful, and a feature of the bill are the animated pictures, exhibited by Weisker Brothers' Bioscope. Also on the programme are Flo Chevalier, a charming comedienne; the Padleys, acrobats and dancers; and Miss Lil Hartley, comedienne.

BIRKENHEAD.

Theatre Metropole.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr Norman Macowan's company, in Monsieur Beaucaire, presents an undeniable attraction. Mr Macowan plays the title-rôle with most commendable skill and effect. Mr J. Stuart Wilson gives a careful rendering of the somewhat difficult part of the Duke of Winterset, and as Major Molyneux Mr Herbert Cornish is seen to advantage. Lady Mary Carlisle is admirably represented by Miss Violet Sterne, Miss Lilian Holbrook is an excellent Lucy Rellerton, and a thoroughly competent cast includes Mr Cecil Warde, Mr P. Ramsay Forman, and Mr H. A. Young.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—A company under the management of Mr Fred Moule and Mr E. D. Nicholls is appearing here in The Life that Kills. Mr Herbert Sidney as Kendal Croat is particularly successful. Mr Hugh Metcalfe is well placed as Hector Rodney. Miss Vyvyan Montgomery plays Laurie Lindon with much skill, and Mr E. D. Nicholls, Mr Wilton Drury, Mr Morris Lord, Miss Cathleen Cavanagh, and Miss Mabel Kessler are prominent in the cast.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—Melot Hermann is again mystifying audiences. Seeley and West, American comedians and instrumentalists, have made a hit, and Miss Sable Fern, comedienne, is received with all the fervour of a firm favourite. Other turns comprise those of Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, trick bicyclists; Mr Fred Curran, comedian; Allis and Cassati, comic duettists; Queen and Le Brun, comedians; and Mr Harry Zetter, comedian.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

New Theatre and Opera House.—Proprietors, Messrs Bennett; Manager, Mr John Waller.—Mr F. H. De Quincey's company, with the historical play The Days of Cromwell and Richelieu occupies the stage this week in the former. Mr F. H. De Quincey gives a vigorous and clever performance as the invincible Ironhand; Mr Reddell Robinson (Sir Marsden Mardyke) and Mr Geo. Child (his son) are worthy confederates in crime; Mr Montague Lane admirably sustains the rôle of the cavalier lover; Miss Sime Seruya as the persecuted Ruby Avondale fully deserves the applause accorded her; the demure Puritan lady Judith is ably personified by Miss Violet Howard; and the humorous part of the play is safely entrusted to Miss Lottie Wentworth, Miss Frances Ferina, and Mr Frank Hudspeth.

BIRMINGHAM.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry Johnston.—The Cingalee was presented to a Birmingham audience for the first time on Monday, when the verdict of a crowded and delighted house was distinctly favourable. All the company can be extolled, Miss Florence Smithson being a very successful, charming, and melodious Nanoya, Miss Eva Sanford appearing as Peggy Sabine and Miss Lydia Nervil as Lady Patricia. Mr Frank Danby is well suited in the highly comic rôle of Chambhuddy Ram; Mr Harold Thorley is the vocal lover, with many encores; and Mr Leedham Bantock as Boobhamba and Mr Fred Kaye as the irate Indian judge retail many of the good things. The chorus and orchestra are excellent.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr V. Turner.—The Convict's Daughter made its first appearance here on Monday, and won a most favourable reception. Mr Frank Bertram's company was responsible, and Mr Julian Cross in the character of Michael Graham secured primary comedy honours, Mr Alf Terriss scoring as Patrick O'Laragan, while Miss Julie Alexander made a successful Betty. Harold Trevalyen was well acted by Mr T. W. Hurst. Miss Edith M. Savery as the heroine, Edith Neville, was sympathetic. Mr G. Moreton Williams as Jasper Thorn was a bold and clever villain. Mr J. H. Walton as Frederick Neville and Miss Maud Osmond as Marion Thorn deserve warm commendation, and the cast further includes Messrs F. Lawrence, P. Grisdale, E. Bolton, and H. Lee.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Lester Collingwood.—Life's Sweetest Sins, the story of which concerns a sunken yacht, scuttled by the villain, and a submarine vessel, in which the hero and heroine descend to the bed of the ocean for proofs of the villain's guilt, aroused much interest on its presentation here last Monday. Mr T. Arthur Jones as the hero, Captain Marston, keeps the audience well pleased with his natural and manly acting. Miss Madge Morley as the quondam "slave to morphia," Doreen Rivers, secures a liberal measure of sympathy. Miss Amy Rudd as the loyal-hearted Fay Colbrooke is popular, and Miss Sara Dudley, in conjunction with Mr Harry C. Momber, appears in several amusing love interludes. Mr A. Bartleet Garth as the unscrupulous Dr. Colbrooke, Mr Geo. R. J. Austin as "Flash Jim," and Mr Chas. Sewell as Wodstone also deserve mention.

Metropole Theatre.—Manager, Mr Walter Melville; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Hindle Taylor.—The Heart of a Hero, played by Messrs Carson and Granville's company, has triumphed here with large audiences. Mr Fred W. Goddard as Jem Resdale, the Lancashire lad, is applauded to the echo for his fine acting. Mr Charles E. Johnson as the schemer, Wilfred Marl, is deservedly honoured with approbrium for his realistic efforts at villainy; Mr Allen Carruthers as Timothy and Miss Ida Mackay as Susie prove an intermittent source of laughter; and Miss Beatrice Hudson as "the woman of sorrow," Miss Lily Langley as May Ryder, and Miss Cissy St. Elmo as Nell Resdale have proved faithful replicas of their characters.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Owner and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr Ben Sydney.—Jane Shore has once more proved its irresistible attractions, and Mr Arthur St. John and company have won high encomiums. Miss Patey Trounsell is cast for the title-rôle, which she plays with true sympathetic feeling. Mr Arthur St. John undertakes with complete success the double-rôle of Richard, Duke of Gloucester, and Matthew Shore, the goldsmith. Messrs A. Beverley, Marmaduke Langdale, and E. Fergusson, together with Miss Vivian Hamilton and Miss L. Mainwaring, have played the other parts with uniform ability and success, while the Messrs Archie Grant and James Dunlop have been prominent as the swashbucklers.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr Charles Barnard; Manager, Mr Dan Barnard.—An Actor's Romance was revealed here for the first time on Monday. Mr Guy Hastings gave semblance to the rôle of Harold Davenport; Mr Ernest Ruston was successful as Robert Livingstone; Miss Alice Esden as Florence Hastings added much to the sensation of the play by her vigorous and well-considered acting; and Mr Percy Marmont as Jack Woodford, Mr Albert Wainwright as John Lennon, Little Marie Ada Dowsing as Phyllis, and Miss Bertha Northam, in favour as Louise, did much to further the success. Messrs E. H. Dobell, John Detliv, and Miss Connie Leon contributed the comic rôles with considerable ability, and Miss Annie Travers acted ably as Sal Wiggins.

Empire Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr A. W. Matcham.—George Mozart is here with his one-man drama Blue-Eyed Sarah, which keeps the audience in continual laughter, while that popular comedian George Lashwood is loudly applauded. Walter Hast and Peggy Lennie are seen in their operabouffe fantasy, which is excellent. Milner Verren, tenor vocalist, and Harry Coates, the singing navvy, render their songs with effect. Mark Melford, as the K.C., in his breach of promise sketch; Steve M'Carthy, comedian; Alice Maple, comedienne; De Kock Bros., acrobats; Les Brunins, billiardists; and the Olive Trio, character comediennes complete the excellent programme.

Gaiety Theatre.—General Manager, Mr Albert Bushell.—This week we have a return visit of Geo. Leyton, in his Waterloo monologue, which is loudly encored. The St. Johns, in their musical act, are decidedly clever; the Celtic Comedy Four, and Meir and Mora, American speciality artists, are popular turns; Maude Mortimer is effective in her scena, Destiny, and is assisted by Netta Winter; and the Okito Family, magical act; Chummie La Mara, comedienne; Adrim and Oram, in A Sensation and a Draw; Will Sergeant and Ike Scott and Son, comedians; and Valoni, novelty juggler, add to the success of the bill.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford.—Yukio Tani, the champion Japanese wrestler, is the big draw this week, and offers £100 to anyone who defeats him. Ida Rene is vociferously encored for her songs; the Cullane Trio, in a sketch The Dude's Dilemma, win applause; as also do Polk and Kollins, who render some clever selections on the banjo. A. G. Spry is a smart comedian. Other popular turns are Ray and Calden, in a comedy act; Great Scott, equilibristic juggler; the Brothers Huxter and Brothers Donar, acrobats; and Edna Mastin.

Bordesley Palace.—Resident Manager, Mr Geo. Foster.—Miss Marie Kendall is attracting large houses this week, her songs being well received. Robert Baker, the champion jumper, is offering a £25 competition. The Mannings, in their sketch The Hotel Boots, are entertaining; the Julian Sisters are an excellent turn; and Max Millan, the Outlaw Trio, Tom Stuart, Phil Roxby, Beatrice Willey, and Charles F. Johnson are in the bill.

BLACKBURN.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr Harry Yorke; Manager, Mr Reginald Yorke.—For the present week a variety company is appearing here with two shows a night, Harry Yorke, the popular proprietor, himself topping the bill. Tom and Marie Montramo provide a bright and entertaining musical act; Prince Fee Lung is a distinctly clever juggler; and Torbay is a smart silhouettist. Larolo performs many wonderful acrobatic and balancing feats, and Bob Hamilton is a favourite instrumentalist. Rose Cabini, comedienne and dancer, and D. J. Tandy, comedian, add to the evening's enjoyment.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. H. Page.—In Dark Siberia, a drama full of exciting incidents, is attracting well-filled houses here this week.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Will Murray; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Drury.—Leo Dryden is receiving well-merited applause for his song "For Freedom and Japan." Les François perform many marvellous feats, which excite much wonderment; Carlton, is a clever card-manipulator, while his patter creates roars of merriment; Gwennie Hasto is a dancer of exceptional ability, and the Watson Family provide a pleasing musical turn; Abel and Welch, in their grotesque acrobatic act, cause much hearty laughter. Barney Stuart, in "Impersonalia," and Fred Herbert, vocalist, complete the bill.

BLACKPOOL.

His Majesty's Opera House.—General Manager, Mr J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr Tree's company with The Darling of the Gods is meeting with phenomenal success here this week. Mr G. W. Anson contributes a fine portrayal of Zakkurl, and Mr Gerald Kay Souper has in Kara a part that suits his style admirably. Mr Ernest Stallard makes an excellent Kato, and Robert Gray gives a most satisfactory interpretation of Banzo. A delightful Yon San is found in Miss Lillian Stafford, whilst Miss Augusta Haviland is worthy of praise as Rosy Sky. Messrs A. P. Kaye, P. R. Goodyer, Huntly Carter, Charles Tyrell, and Misses Irma Foldi, May Seton, Sybil Glynn, Lorraine Stephens, and Rhoda Strauss are also included in the cast.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr T. Sergenson.—Miss Fortescue and company are here this week in a round of plays. Moths drew a good house on Monday night. Mr Conway Wingfield embodies the villainous Zouroff with his well-known skill, and Lord Jura had a capital exponent in Mr Dalziel Heron. The Duke of Mull was played by Mr Frances Burdett, and Mr G. H. Brooke appeared as Correze, Lady Dolly was very faithfully represented by Miss Madeline Meredith; whilst Miss Gladys Jesson played Vere with great sympathy and personal charm. Miss Fortescue pleased the audience as Fuchsia Leach, and Miss Miriam Lewes submitted a clever study of the Duchess De Sonnaz. The School for Scandal and Ought we to Visit Her? by Mr W. S. Gilbert, are also in the bill.

Hippodrome.—Lessees, Signor Pepi and Co.; Manager, Mr T. P. Duignan.—Ernest Shand is the star comedian here this week. Other popular turns include Griff, the comedy juggler; Kyoto, wonderful contortionist; and Esta Stella, a comedienne and buck dancer, who is a great favourite here. Admirable support is also given by Harry Weldon, May Geraldine, La Bella Dalia, Sisters Urma, Mons. De Lil, Harrison Bros., Prof. Hulbert, and Jack Camp.

Palace.—General Manager, Mr G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Waller.—An unusually good programme is provided here this week, all the artists being on a level of excellence. Paul Vandy a clever juggler and trickster; Alf Chester, comedian; W. H. Clemart, the popular ventriloquist; Mendel, the wonderful blind musician, who brings down the house at every performance; the Three Meers, in their eccentric wire act; Johnny Johnson, the musical dandy; John E. Coyle, comedian; Annie Albon, vocalist; and the Seven Savonas, the musical wizards, are included in the bill.

Winter Gardens Pavilion.—General Manager, Mr J. R. Huddlestone.—There is no change to report in the programme here. Two shows are given daily, and the Huddlestone-Tiller ballet, Killarney; or, from Kerry Fair to the Gorgeous East, fully retains its popularity.

Tower Circus.—General Manager, Mr G. H. Harrop.—The new arrivals here this week are the Musical Avolos and the Lukushima Troupe of equilibrists and dancers, both of which give the utmost satisfaction. The Novellos, the Colibris midgets, Charles Mathews, and Madame Theresa Renz are still retained, and Hagedorn's fairy fountains are also a great attraction.

BOLTON.

Theatre Royal, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Hermann.—Mr James Willard's dramatic company is here with In the Shadow of Night. Mr Howard Tracey is very effective in the part of Gordon Allington, and Violet Kingston is ably represented by Miss May Richardson; Mr Hamilton Deane is seen to advantage in the character of Clifford York; Miss Nellie Sheffield is a very entertaining and vivacious Molly Woodstock; Mr Ern Carlton is seen at his best as James Woodstock; Miss Queenie Elliott is good as Bob; Mr Chisholm Taylor is much appreciated as Tom Nainby; Mr Fred Norburn is excellent as Jake Grudgewell; and Mr Archie Selwyn appears in the dual parts of the Rev. M. Hope and Joe Jackson.

Grand Theatre, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Kenyon.—Ergotti and King Luis, Risley performers, give a daring performance here; and the Twin Andersons, in their original novelty dancing on one rope; Ossi Souplessi, contortionist; Florence Delghton, Anglo-American soprano vocalist; Joe Graham, ventriloquist; Miss Alice Golding, character vocalist; George Prince, comedian; Oma and Calderon, acrobats; Mr Fred E. Terry, comedian; and the Imperial Bioscope are all well received.

BOURNEMOUTH.

Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons; Lessee, Mr Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Messrs Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's company is here this week with Quality Street. Miss Florence Jackson as Miss Phœbe Throssell enlists the sympathy of the audience; Miss Grace Edwin skilfully acts the part of the mature and more sedate sister, Miss Susan Throssell; Mr George A. Brandram represents in vigorous, manly style the rôle of Valentine Brown; Mr Arthur C. F. Lysons is amusing in his self-importance as Ensign Blades; Mr Dan Dyer presents a thoroughly diverting sketch of the Recruiting Sergeant; Miss Gwynneth Galton creates abundant laughter by her quaint acting as Patty; Miss Lilian Rogers is successful as Miss Charlotte Parratt; and the maiden ladies Miss Willoughby, Miss Fanny Willoughby, and Miss Henrietta Turnbull have characteristic representatives in Miss Isabel Merson, Miss Marie Dennett, and Miss Frances Leslie respectively; Mr Herbert Chown ably fills the part of Lieutenant Spicer; Master George Hollom deserves praise in the character of Master Arthur Wellesley Tomson.

Shaftesbury Hall.—Mr T. J. West's living pictures remain in high public favour, which the excellence of the entertainment fully merits.

BRADFORD.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Richardson.—A large audience on Monday evening greeted very heartily Mr C. P. Levilly's company in the new and cleverly constructed comic opera Amorelle. There is much dramatic interest in the piece, which is all brightness and sparkle from start to finish, and it is charmingly staged. Mr Eric Thorne scores a distinct success as the marvellous Dr. Napoleon Bonaparte Crow, and Miss Stella Gastelle is charmingly vivacious and sprightly in the name part. Mr Newton Ide is excellent as François, and Mr Phil Carlton makes a manly Jules. As the sympathetic Lesbia Miss Kitty Cavendish is graceful and winning. Miss Madge Avery plays Marina cleverly. Mr R. Fairbanks, as the Count of Cideaux, and Mr W. Griffin, as Boissey, are both exceedingly good, and Mr F. Seymour scores distinctly as old Father Dotard. There are many other parts in the big cast deserving special mention, notably Alphonso (Mr M. Carlton), Van Kamsferdam (Mr W. J. O'Sullivan), and Jeanette (Miss May Bradbury). There is a largely augmented orchestra, under the able direction of Mr H. Rushworth, and the rich and effective music is finely rendered.

Princes Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Francis Laidler.—Mr Lester Collingwood's company in Mr Charles Darrell's popular drama, When London Sleeps, presents a strong attraction here. The heroine, Queenie Carruthers, is cleverly played by Miss Maud Hastings, and Miss Effie Macintosh as the circus rider, Carrie Jones, lends capital support. Hilda Carode, the lady with a past, is an able impersonation on the part of Miss Mary Brammer. Mr W. H. S. Sams as the athlete, David Engleheart, and Mr Franklyn Graham as Captain Rodney Haynes are prominent members of a capital cast. Mr V. Mason as Sammy Blyth, Mr F. Eden as the Hon. Bertie Broomhead also standing out conspicuously. The play is capitally staged.

EMPIRE. — Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr P. A. Lennon.—Harriett Vernon, the comedienne, is re-appearing here this week with her usual conspicuous success, and in the same line two other capable exponents —viz., Rosie Bartlett and Mabel La Blanche, are favourably received. Spry and Austin, Australian vaudeville artistes, contribute a diverting turn; and some capital parodies are humorously sung by J. W. Rickaby, comedian. Geraldo is seen to advantage in a neat and clever Indian club juggling entertainment; Lew Wells submits an acceptable turn in musical comedy; Clown Ferreros, with his peculiar musical instruments and clever dog, gives a capital entertainment; Ganty is not misnamed "a little lump of fun;" the Petras, comedy jugglers, are repeating their last week's success; and the New York Nippers, who display considerable ability as dancers and vocalists, are amusing in their medley "Bedtime."

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr F. Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr E. Harrison.—Charles Mildare, who heads a capital programme here, is a marvellous whistler and bird imitator, and he is followed by Frank Coyne, an acceptable comedian. Gus Le Dial comes next with some clever juggling and chair vaulting, and then the Borghetti Troupe astonish the audience with some daring acrobatic feats. J. P. Boston's following turn as comedian and dancer proves acceptable; the Three Sisters Jonghmans are next in charmingly rendered harmonised songs; Reuben Hill follows with recital song, vigorously rendered; and the Sisters Morde conclude with an acceptably rendered duet and dance.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—Manager, Mr S. H. Carter. —The New Century company is still exhibiting here with much success their fine series of up-to-date animated pictures.

BRIDLINGTON.

ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Chas. Palmer.—Mr Frank Wilson's company appeared here for three nights in that amusing play The Marriage of Kitty, in which that charming actress Miss Vera Fordyce gave an admirable rendering of the part of Kate Silverton. Miss Kate Hayward was a most emphatic Madame De Semiano, and Miss Averil May a smart Rosalie. The John Travers of Mr Sydney Orton was a clever piece of character acting, and so was the Sir Reginald of Mr Frank Wilson; Mr Royston, Keith, jun., as Hampton and Mr J. F. Leighton as Norbury giving just the right tone to their parts. Madame Ella Russell and her concert party appeared here on Tuesday night. Madame Russell was in splendid voice, and her rendering of her various songs was a great treat.

SPA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Henry Hague.—This week Mr John Leopold's company is amusing the patrons of the theatre by their clever acting and dancing in that screaming absurdity Frivolity, in which Mr John Gerant as Buckwheat and Mr Tony Leopold as Samuel share the honours. Mr John Leopold, jun., is smart as Daniel, and as Lucy Miss Amy Hall is excellent, while the Madame Cobweb of Miss Ruby Wyndham is admirable, and the dances of Misses Violeta, Winter, and Bronte are well done, as also are the acrobatic turns of the various members of Mr Leopold's clever company.

ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE.—Manager, Mr Charles Palmer.—Monday was a grand gala night, with a special programme by Herr Winternitz's Royal Viennese orchestra, and Messrs Pain and Sons gave a capital display of fireworks. Madame Grene, an excellent contralto, is the vocalist this week, and delights the thousands of visitors with her well-chosen songs.

NEW SPA AND GARDENS.—Manager, Mr Henry Hague.—Crowded audiences assemble nightly to listen to the London pierrot team, whose programmes are well selected, the songs by Mr Surrie Lindon, Mr A. Stewart, Mr Harry Collard, and Miss Emerson Hurst being always encored, and the comic trios and quartets are very amusing. Dr. Churchill Sibley's orchestra gains in popularity each week. The Misses Hook, sisters of Madame Clara Butt, are the vocalists for the week, and their duets are most beautifully rendered, their well-trained voices blending admirably in the varied items they contribute to the nightly programmes at the promenade concerts.

PEOPLE'S PALACE. — Managing-Director, Mr William Morgan. — Foremost among the variety turns this week are the Three Martinettes, a clever trio of knockabout comedians and sketch artistes, and Mephisto, the marvellous contortionist, who goes through a really wonderful performance. The Valdo Brothers are smart musical clowns, Fred Howard gives a good turn in ventriloquism, Chadwick Brothers do a neat acrobatic turn, and Barton and Franklin are well received in their instrumental and dance turns.

SUMMER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs Beanland, Bath, and Danton.—The variety entertainments at this popular resort are always a source of attraction to the visitors, and the programme submitted by the pierrots are contributed to by Messrs Syd Hynd, C. Danton, J. Bath, Geo. Hyam, J. W. Ellison, and that amusing comedian, C. Beanland.

BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr Edward Terry and company opened here on Monday in The House of Burnside. Mr Edward Terry gave a finished and delightful portrayal of Richard Burnside; Mr A. Hylton Allen merits unstinted praise for his admirable representation of Jack Morrow; Miss Daisy Murch made a very pleasing Marion Burnside; Mr Arthur Cornell was an excellent Robert Parminter; Miss Kate Mills was seen to great advantage as Betty; and able support was given by Miss Beatrice Terry, Master Roy Lorraine, Mr Allan Pollock, and Mr Fred Knight. The play was followed by Bardell v. Pickwick, in which Mr Edward Terry was admirable as Sergeant Buzfus. The programme for the week also included The Passport, Sweet Lavender, You Never Know, and Love in Idleness.

AQUARIUM.—Manager, Mr W. J. Hardy; Secretary, Mr S. H. Andrews.—Exhibitions of Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope are given here every afternoon and evening this week, and prove very interesting and amusing to the large audiences.

GRAND THEATRE.—Under the control of Mr Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Crowe.—Messrs Hardie and Von Leer's company is here this week with Two Little Vagabonds. Mr J. W. Henson shows able acting as George Thornton, Mr Alfred Russell makes an excellent Bill Mullins, and Miss Marie Pritchard is a capital Biddy Mullins. Miss Laura Hansen gives a charming portrayal of Marion Thornton; the two little vagabonds, Dick and Wally, find popular representatives in Misses May Hart and Miss Dorothy Marsdin. Mr Selwyn Seymour as Captain Darville, Miss Nell Oliver as Barbara Scarth, Mr Basil Hillier as John Scarth, Mr Leslie Parker as Dido Bunce, Mr Fred Archer as the Cough Drop, and Mr Hugh Hollman as Joe Gargoyle also merit praise.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr Ernest Lepard.—The following are here this week:—Marie Lloyd, in her latest creation "The Coster's Christening" and other favourite selections; Ella Lane, comedienne and dancer; Arthur Gilbert, comedian; Lieut. Travis, in a novel ventriloquial entertainment; Lily Flexmore, comedienne; Mdlle. Nina Martino, French chanteuse; Lavers and Lake, in the sketch My Landlord; Ernest Rees, droll comedian; the Two Bells, duettists and dancers; Collins and Rice, comedy speciality artistes, and the Alhambra pictures.

NEW PALACE PIER THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr J. Thompson Ford; Entertainment Manager, Mr Drew Mackintosh.—Mr W. H. Kirby's company is here this week with The New Mephisto. Mr W. H. Kirby gives an amusing impersonation of Dick Pilgrim; Miss Marion Armitage is an admirable Becky Pilgrim; Mr Fred Lyne in the name-part acquits himself very effectively; Miss Lily Gullick makes a winsome Dolly; Mr H. P. Carr's Captain Meredith, Mr Herbert St. John's Lord Hummingtop, and Mr Willie H. Vernon's Major Bantam are well played; and the Misses Dorothy Cecil, Leah Howard, and Marion Keeley are able exponents of the "three goey widows."

WEST PIER PAVILION.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr A. D. Norman.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr Mark Blow's company is here this week with Lord and Lady Algy. Mr Mark Blow is highly successful as Lord Algernon Chetland; Miss May Pardoe makes an admirable Lady Chetland; Mr Athol Stuart is a capital Marquis of Quarmby; and Mr Reginald Hunt is well suited as the Duke of Droneborough; while Mr Henry Bute as Brabazon Tudway and Miss Constance Elgin as Mrs Brabazon Tudway also merit praise.

BRISTOL.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Macready Chute.—Messrs Dauncey and France's company is here with Whitewashing Julia. The comedy, which is staged well, attracted a large audience on Monday evening, and proved to be both interesting and amusing. Miss Ruth Maitland presented a charming exposition of Julia Wren, her refined and expressive style suiting the part well. Miss Kate Bishop acted with rare distinction as Lady Pinkney; Mr Asheton Tonge did full justice to William Stillingfleet, working out a clever study in all its details; Mr Archibald M'Lean made a capital part of Mr Samways; the two brothers, Edwin and Bevis Pinkney, had good exponents, in contrasting styles, in Messrs Willox Cadogan and Carter Blight; Miss Marie Löhr was vivacious as Trixie Blenkinsop; and the remaining parts were commendably taken by other members of the company. The play is preceded by a comedietta, Six and Eightpence, in which Miss Mary O'Neil, Mr Percy Crawford, and Mr Archibald M'Lean appear to advantage.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Ernest Carpenter.—The Biggest Scamp on Earth, first time in Bristol, is attracting a good attendance. Mr Percy Carne Waram displays much ability as Derrick Knight; Miss Frances Delaval presents a powerful exposition of Naomi Belvedere; Miss Dorothy Mahomed is interesting and pleasing as Irene May; Mr Douglas Hutchings is convincing as Vivian Wakefield; Mr Hamilton Urquhart does well as Sir Aubrey Knight; Miss Patty Groves is effective as Mother Hawk; Mr Alfred Rousbey makes the most of Napoleon Hawk; Miss Doris Denman plays in sympathetic style as Bobby; and the comic parts of Rufus Liggins, Joe Piper, and Molly Sterling are capitally taken by Mr L. W. Halfpenny, Mr Bert Goodfellow, and Miss Marjorie Cassine. The drama is effectively staged, and Miss Frances Delaval's company is a good one all round.

PALACE.—Managing Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Resident Manager, Mr Horace Livermore; Secretary, Mr Welchman.—Mr John Lawson and company are attracting good houses with Humanity. Others in the bill are Binns and Binns, in their amusing comedy act; Leo Stormont, an excellent baritone vocalist; Brian and Lawrence, in a good musical comedy sketch; Tony and Flo Vernon, paper-tearers, &c; Miss Dulcie Reigate, a vocalist and dancer of ability; Charles Lilburn, an eccentric comedian, with amusing songs; the Wedburns, pleasing vocal comedians; and Charles Wood, in effective impersonations, with the aid of a felt hat. The performance concludes with a new series of animated pictures. Matinées are now given on Thursdays with satisfactory results.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Charles Prelle's talking dogs evince clever and careful training, many of their tricks being novel; Zarmo does some skilful burlesque juggling; C. A. Frayer and Harry Athol have an amusing comedy illusion entitled "Keep your eye on the statue;" the Westwoods present a good cycling act; Felton and Manley amuse with their athletic scena "A Rural Relative;" Steele and Laing have a capital eccentric singing and dancing act; Clifton and Gibson, comedians, amuse; Little Barney, "a comedian from Scotland" is successful; Alma Mary displays much ability as a dancer; and Marie Sennett, comedienne, is pleasing. The performance, two shows a night with a Wednesday matinée, concludes with some effective animated pictures.

BOSCOMBE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Messrs Hollister and Dew's company is here this week in The Lights o' London. Harold Armytage and Bess, his wife, find excellent exponents in Mr Cecil G. Calvert and Miss Jeanne Burgoyne. Mr F. V. Lloyd is good as Squire Armytage, and the villain, Clifford Armytage, is well represented by Mr Herbert Hollister. Mr Percy Compton is a capital Jarvis, and is ably supported by Miss Emilie Dawson as Mrs Jarvis, while Miss Gladys Murray makes a distinct hit as Shakespeare Jarvis. The rôle of Seth Preene is placed in the capable hands of Mr Benson Cleeve, and mention must also be made of Mr Ernest K. Nelson as Philosopher Jack and Mr Reginald Gear as Ernest De Vere, while Miss Kate Randolph's impersonation of Hetty Preene must not be overlooked. The remaining roles of the lengthy cast are all in safe hands.

BUXTON.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Arthur Willoughby.—For the first three nights this week we had a welcome return visit of Messrs George Edwardes and Charles Frohman's company in Are You a Mason? Mr Harry Ashford is remarkably good as Amos Bloodgood, and Mr Anthony Fawcett very amusing as George Fisher. Mr Stephen Wentworth is capitally suited as Frank Perry, and Mr Tom Mowbray gains applause by his funny impersonation of the Yorkshireman. Miss Harriett Trench plays strongly as Mrs Bloodgood, and Miss Violet Graham is successful as Mrs Perry. Misses Lily Beach and Isla Glynn score as Annie and Lulu. Miss Lucy Edwin is admirably placed as Lottie.

BURY (LANCS.)

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED. —General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling. — Mr Frank Lindo and company are playing Home, Sweet Home here this week. Mr Geo. F. Black throws much realism into the part of Stephen Armitage. Mr Lindo achieves conspicuous success as David Armitage. Lucas Lyle could not have been in better hands than those of Mr Arthur Rodney. Miss Marion Wakeford plays with much charm the part of Joan. Mr W. J. Anson as Hon. Percy Ashfield and Mr T. Lewis as Solomon Keary are good.

CARDIFF.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Robert Redford.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr Mark Blow's company is here with A Sailor's Sweetheart. Miss Adah Barton makes a captivating heroine, and Mr Alfred Goddard does capital work as Lieut. Clive. Mr Robert Faulkner is a villainous Philip Pemberton, and is ably assisted by Mr C. Douglas Carlisle as Stephen Lucas. The comicalities of Mrs J. W. Braithwaite as Mrs Pembury and Mr Edwin Mullins as Tim Kelly are excellent, and Mr Arthur Blunt in his amusing impersonation of Pinkson and Miss Evelyn Shaw as Phœbe are equally deserving of praise. Messrs Charles Stafford (Admiral Sefton) and William Stoneham (Captain Mayland) are well placed.

KING'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Bateman; General-Manager, Mr Robert Sawin.—Under the Russian Flag has been performed here by Messrs Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company. The cast includes that talented artist Miss Ellen Snow, whose representation of Luka Marischka is a fine piece of work. Capital representations are those of Michael (Mr George Arthur) and Ivan (Mr F. W. Freeman). Captain Demetrius has a capable exponent in Mr Walter Howard, and the General Romanoff of Mr Charles Keyne is excellent. Miss Ada Champion is a charming Vera Vassiloff, and Miss Agnes Howard creditably sustains the rôle of Ogarita.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Lea.—George Robey is here and is in exceedingly good form; Miss Minnie Cunningham and Miss Ethel Haydon contribute neat items; Hume, Ross, and Lewis present an amusing comedy act; Fred Harcourt has several new and amazing tricks; Miss Lillian Warren's songs are well rendered; and other attractive turns are done by Nat Travers, coster comedian; Henri Abdy's canine circus; Mdlle. Marvelle's macaws and cockatoos; and Fred Lincoln, who is very amusing.

CARLISLE.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Trustees of Mr R. Stuart M'Kim; Manager, Mr Stanley Rogers.—Miss Annie Bell and company are appearing here this week in an adaptation of Daudet's Sapho. Premier honours, of course, fall to Miss Annie Bell, who, in the title-rôle, has abundant opportunities of displaying her abilities as an emotional actress, and is eminently successful in every phase of the character. She receives excellent support from Mr Horatio Sinclair, who as Jean Gaussin shows ability. One of the best character studies seen here for some time is the Father Legrand of Mr James A. Storey. Mr George Antley is very funny as Cesaire; Mr Guy B Watson does fairly well as Paul Dechelette; the Caoudal of Mr Herbert Langford is very good; and Mr D. Campbell appears as Flamant. Machaume is in the capable hands of Miss Lottie Ray.

CHATHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr George G. Ridley.—The Gay Parisienne company, toured under the proprietorship of Mr Charles Macdona, is here. In the leading part we have Miss Jennie Richards, who does some lively acting. Ebenezer Honeycomb is amusingly represented by Mr Tom May. Roars of laughter are caused by Miss Madge Souttar as Ruth, and the other rôles are adequately sustained.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr L. B. Barnard.—The Jackson Family are especially praiseworthy in their violin solos; Lacey's Erascope has some new pictures; Geo. M. Marriott and company are producing The Man in the Iron Mask; and others appearing are Rosie May, juvenile serio and dancer; Eller and Rose, sketch artists; Nash and Noel, comedians; and Frank Zara, comic singer.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr F. J. Donne. —Mdlle. De Dio's creation, "Terpsichore's Dream," is the leading attraction here. Edith Sylvesto startles the audience by her feats of contortion; Angeline Carmody proves a neat juggler; and Kitty Grey, vocalist; Harry Lawson, comedian; Nellie Adams, serio; and the Lynchs, song illustrators, complete the variety portion of the programme, while the concluding item is the sketch The Bank Robbery, enacted by Edward Ranier's company.

CHELTENHAM.

OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr H. Oswald Redford.—Gentleman Joe, after a long absence, afforded rollicking amusement on Monday evening. Mr Kennedy Allen in the part of the hansom cabby is excellent; Miss Maud Marriott as Emma is spirited and capable; Mr Robert Vincent as Lord Donnybrook sings and acts well; Mr Harry A. Gribben introduces new and taking "business" as Mr Pilkington Jones; and the part of Mrs Ralli Carr finds a capable exponent in Miss Hebe Bliss. Miss Mabel Kerridge as the Hon. Mabel, Miss Eida Burman as the American heiress, and the Misses May Harvey, M. Linscott, and Marie Haydn as the Pilkington girls all throw life and soul into the piece. The Edingale Trio of dancers give some clever acrobatic dances.

CHESTER.

ROYALTY.—Proprietor, Mr Milton Bode; Resident-Manager, Mr H. Burgess Harries.—Mr Vivian Grantham's No. 1 company is here this week in the new drama entitled Slaves of Passion. Mr Allan Wilkie powerfully portrays Prince Mazaroff, chief of the Russian Secret Police. Mr John M Farlane is popular as the hero, Ivan Dronski. Miss Agnes Imlay, an accomplished actress, undertakes the difficult part of Zara Dronski with much success. Minor characters are well sustained by Mr Vivian Grantham, Miss Molly Allison Alexander, Miss Madge Seymour, and Mr Frank Ayrton.

CHORLEY (LANCS).

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr G. F. Santé; Secretary, Mr J. Clay.—This week we are having a welcome return visit from Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr Fred C. Somerfield and company with A Life's Revenge. Miss Dagmar cleverly assumes the character of Princess Vanda Ivyala; Miss Katherine Eckart is capital as Marcia Vittoria; Miss May Davis vivaciously undertakes Daphne Dashaway, and is also a capital dancer; Miss Amy Hughes is successful as Acoulina; Mr Fred C. Somerfield gives a vivid portrayal of the Prince Boris Strogoroff; Mr J. F. Traynor as Paul Starovitch is particularly manly and effective; Mr Pringle Roberts skilfully treats the part of Maurice Trevor; Mr George H. Doyle is humorous as Clarence Chesterfield; Mr Charles E. Warne is seen to advantage as Colonel Tumbleoff; Mr Edwin Cheetham supplies a capital rendering of General Mikhaloff; and Mr Walter Roberts excellently impersonates Michael Orloff. The mounting is particularly effective.

CORK.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr John Horgan.—Boucicault's drama, The Colleen Bawn, was played here on Monday night by Mr H. Glenville's company. As Myles-na-Coppaleen Mr John S Chamberlain played capitally. Mr Bensley Evans was Hardress Cregan, and Mr Desmond Fitzgerald Kyrl Daly, and both did well. The Danny Man of Mr J. P. Carroll was a good study. Mr Tom Baily ably filled the part of Father Tom. Miss Kitty Glenville was a very interesting Eily O'Connor, and Miss Olive Lanty was successful as Anne Chute. The part of Sheelah was effectively taken by Mrs H. Glenville, and Squire Corrigan by Mr H. Glenville. The Shaughraun, Arrah-na Pogue, Green Bushes, and Rory O'More are also included in the company's répertoire.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Mr Hilton St. Just's grand opera company opened here on Monday with Il Trovatore, with Miss Louise Van Dalle, Miss Kate Rivers, Miss Fanny Emerson, Mr Frank Land, Mr Kineall Campbell, and Mr Hilton St. Just in the cast. The opera was well received.

COVENTRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr Wm. Bennett.—A hearty welcome was given on Monday to Messrs C. and F. Renad's company in The Swiss Express. Mr Wilford Bailey is very vivacious in his character of Dr. Gondimar Gull, whose bride, Virginia, is well played by Miss Marie Millward. Mr Alec Wyley is amusing as the dude, Dudley Green. The Four Brighton Girls, vocalists and dancers, are clever, especially in their coon songs. All the other artistes in the musical comedy played their respective parts exceedingly well.

CROYDON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr H. D. Lyle.—A most cordial reception is being given here this week to the American-Indian actress Go-Won-Go-Mohawk in the drama Wep-Ton-No-Mah. Mr C. W. Charles repeats a well-thought-out impersonation of Colonel Stockton; Mr Charles W. Thorn gives a bold rendering of the rascally Manuel Lopes, alias Spanish Joe; Mr George Courtney scores as Captain Franklin; Mr Theo Alker does justice to the part of Chief Ga-ne-Ga; Mr Guy D. Hackney is invaluable in a funny rendering of Sam White; Mr Dan Ryan gives a diverting portrayal of Garry Cullen; Miss Minnie Goepel is a charming little lady as Nellie Stockton; and Miss Jessie Hart is a satisfactory Matilda Sniffles. Go-Won-Go-Mohawk is an immense favourite in the title-rôle, and submits a quiet but effective rendering of the character. Smaller parts are entrusted to Messrs W. H. Killey, Isaac Shaweross, W. B. Brundage, and Bennie Doctor.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Resident General Manager, Mr Eustace H. Jay.—The amusements here are varied and entertaining. Elsie Ruby wins applause in a musical act; Will Musgrave is a whimsical comedian; Lilian and Arthur submit a clever cycle act; the Six Clevelands receive an ovation in their juggling, pantomimic, and dancing turn; Sid Bandon, comedian, is irreproachable; Ulrick, barrel king and tranka artist, wins a triumph; Espinosa and Neilson bring down the house with their smart dancing; the Four Herberts in pantomimic, acrobatic sketch are refreshing; Rich and Rich are quaint patter comedians; Mr Fred Partridge's orchestra is untiring; and good services are rendered by Edmunda, ventriloquist; and Maggie Rennie, comedienne and dancer. The animated pictures are still enjoyed.

DARLINGTON.

ROYAL.—Manageress, Mrs T. W. S. Jennings.—Miss Ida Millais' company is appearing here this week with the interesting drama No Man's Land. Mr Henry Herne in the rôle of Harry Oaklands and Miss Ida Millais as Mary Bathurst are both popular exponents of their respective parts, whilst Mr Fred Conyers, who impersonates the character of Silas Moore, and Mr Williams as Mat Marsden are very successful. Mr Alfred Burrows as the office boy, Mr Sydney H. Morton as Solomon Jacobs, Mr Claude Haviland as Dr. Buxton, and Miss Kate Maynard as Mrs Poodle are responsible for a good deal of humour. The storm scene and rescue from drowning in the last act are well worth seeing.

DERBY.

NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr T. A. Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr Charles Denley. —The sensational drama At Midnight Chimes is being played here this week by Mr Edward Marris's company. Mr Melville Bickford as the villainous Luke Dezzard acts extremely well all through; in the part of Dave Stannard Mr Frank G. Petley is a pronounced success; Mr Henry Beauford plays the rôle of Enza Stannard in a capable manner; Miss Gertrude Price as Mary Stannard is in every way acceptable; Suzette has a vivacious exponent in Miss Annie Magson; in the part of Tom Spavvin, a railway porter, Witty Watty Walton has plenty of scope for his comic business, and is as great a success as ever; Miss Minnie Ethel makes a capital Little Davy; and Miss Ethel M. Ward is well worthy of mention as Zamora, a Hindu girl.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Edwards. —Hanvarr and Lee, in a smart juggling act entitled "The Golfer and the Maid," form the principal attraction here this week. Their various feats are both novel and clever, and secure them a hearty reception. Lillie Lassah soon finds favour with her audience, her songs and dances being well appreciated; Chas. Gardener is a capable comedian, whose songs and patter cause much amusement; the Two Zampas are clever duettists and dancers, their sand-dancing being executed in fine style; Johnson and Bert are diverting knockabout comedians, and are deserving of special mention; Lomas gives a really fine imitation of a monkey; the Sisters Hall, harmonising vocalists, are possessed of pleasing voices; and the Three Condos, Japanese foot equilibrists, also submit a sensational turn.

DEWSBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Resident-Manager, Mr J. Herbert Asquith.—Mr Arnold Bell is repeating after a long absence his former triumph here, with his talented company in Ben-My-Chree. As Dan Mr Bell is still the same passionate fisher-lad. Mr H. M Clifford is well cast as Gilchrist Mylrea, his entire performance being one of merit. Mr C Imrie ably portrays the sneaking Harcourt, while Mr W. Reid embodies the rôle of Davy with humour. Miss Violet Campbell plays with charm and grace as Kitty, and Miss Frances Campbell still continues her praiseworthy rendering of an arduous part. Mr J. Bardsley as Hommy is good, while Mr F. C. Robson as Thorkell Mylrea submits a clever delineation. The Shaughraun and The Octoroon are also down for production.

HIPPODROME.—General Manager, Mr Geo. Weldon.—The following artistes make up an exceedingly strong bill at this popular hall:—Blanche and Diacoff Trio, teacup track cyclists; Sadie Bush, contralto vocalist; Sam Shipley, eccentric comedian; Carr and Rose, vocal comedy couple; Wilson Bell, tramp cyclist; Marie Winsome, male impersonator; Winnie Scott, soubrette; Dorian Trio of gymnasts; and Paddy. The Vernon Bioscope is also an attraction.

DONCASTER.

NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Councillor J. W. Chapman.—The drama entitled I Defy the World was successfully staged here on Monday. Mr Lewis Gilbert as Leon Darville is resourceful, and his characterisation is most convincing; Mr Joseph W. Morley in the rôle of Count De Beaulieu affords very able support; Mr W. Denning as General Delaporte is excellent; Mr Charles Conway's embodiment of Laroche is extremely vigorous; and Mr Horace E. Herbert does yeoman service in the rôle of Andre. Pauline Delaporte came with much natural charm and womanly grace from Miss Guinevere Shelton; as Blanche Darville Miss Lina Nazeby takes high rank; and Miss Maud Lillian is well placed as Marie Wozzle.

DOUGLAS.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED —Manager, Mr Alfred Hemming; Acting-Manager, Mr F. R. Wood.—This popular playhouse has secured large and delighted audiences during the current week. The Duchess of Dantzig, cleverly acted by the members of Mr George Dance's company, is here this week. Miss Rita Pressano as Sans Gene is quite delightful, and her singing has expression. Mr Colin Mackay as Papillon is legitimately funny. Mr Thos C. Maxwell endows the Vicomte De Bethune with dignity, and sings his numbers—especially "The Word of a Gentleman of France"—with skill. Mr Albert Chapman makes Sergeant Lefebvre, afterwards Duke of Dantzig, an interesting personage. The Napoleon of Mr Frederick Moyes is excellent in make-up, gesture, and articulation. He also plays in the spirit of true comedy tempered with an under note of tragedy. Miss Alice Coverick is dainty as Renee, her love scenes with Bethune being delicately treated; Miss Mabel Bailey makes a dignified Josephine; Buonaparte's sisters, Caroline and Pauline, are admirably presented by Miss May Harris and Miss Edith Carlyle; and Miss Amy Burton is well placed as Lizette.

GAIETY THEATRE, LIMITED —Secretary, and Manager, Mr Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Brittain.—Mr George Dance's musical comedy The Chinese Honeymoon has been capitally acted here. Miss Vera Vere is most quaint as Fi-Fi; Miss Eva Berington plays pleasantly as Mrs Pineapple; the Emperor of Mr Frank Wood is full of distinction and humour; Mr Ernest Lawe scores as the Lord Chancellor; Mr Martin Adeson's Mr Pineapple is distinctly laughter provoking; the Tom Atherton of Mr F. Crimp is bright and manly. The other characters are well sustained. The chorus is most admirable, and the stage-setting, costumes, and effects are quite up to the high standard which stamps all Mr George Dance's productions.

PALACE, LIMITED. — Secretary and Manager, Mr Chas. Fox, jun.—The star turn at this, Douglas's premier place of amusement is Mr R. A. Roberts, the celebrated Proteon actor. The first three nights of the week he gave the comic farce Lucinda's Elopement. Mr Roberts is a really talented actor. The Violas, white Mahatmas and second-sight artists, gave an exhibition which puzzles while it interests the crowds who congregate in the Palace. Shang-Hai also excites the imagination with his dexterous tricks. The other component parts of a really excellent programme are Mr Tom Edwardes, a clever ventriloquist; Sandford and Lyons, amusing actors and neat dancers; and Bonhair Troupe. The pictures presented by the Bio-Motograph picture the dramatic features of the moment.

DERBY CASTLE, LIMITED.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Charles Fox, jun.—Miss Florrie Forde is a sure draw. She sang on Monday four songs, and was applauded enthusiastically. The American Comedy Four, eccentric vocalists, are great favourites. Mr Rex Fox presents a daring wire act. Messrs Radford and Valentine, burlesque jugglers, are extremely amusing. The animated pictures combine the comic with the serious, and are much appreciated.

HIPPODROME.—Directors, Mr C. H. Powell and F. J. Connor.—The programme here is very varied. The underlined turns are Marjutti, a really extraordinary contortionist; Mr Fred Cattle, in his ladder act; the Great Algie, a dexterous juggler; a cake-walk extraordinary by the well-bred stallion, Kentucky Beau; Marti and Julietta, bar artistes; animated pictures, and all the interesting paraphernalia which is understood to stand for the generic name circus.

THE EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES continues with an excellent company and two houses nightly to attract excellent attendances.

MR FRED BUXTON'S PIERROTS and Village have such a hold on the visitors that their three performances per diem attract large audiences.

MR GEORGE BURTON'S PIERROTS on the bandstand on the promenade demand and deserve attention from a pleasure-seeking public.

DOVER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Mr Mouillot's company presented Old Heidelberg here on Monday. The play is staged and dressed with the completeness of detail that always characterises Mr Mouillot's productions. Miss Irene Lavington puts a remarkable amount of intensity, energy, and ability into her impersonation of Kathie, her fine dramatic powers being seen to great advantage. Miss Gweima Court succeeds in being interesting as Frau Ruder, and Miss Edith Walton is admirable as Frau Dorffel. To Mr George F. Tully falls the part of Karl Heinrich, and he has achieved a noteworthy success. Mr Clifford Bown gives a delightful and finished study as Dr. Juttner. Lutz is well played by Mr Lionel Gadsdown, whose admirable work carries conviction. As the Stattsminister Von Haugh Mr Eric Phillips takes full advantage of his opportunities. Mr Frank M. Cross is effective as Hofmarschall Freiherr von Passarge, and Messrs Alexander Shinnie and W. Prince Wells are equally good as Kammerher von Britenburg and Baron von Metzing. The buoyancy of Mr Wallace G. Court's performance as Graf von Asterburg has made a good impression, and Mr Percy Madgwick gives a delightful impersonation of the student Von Wedell. Mr Alex Murray is amusing as Kellermann; Ruder is well played by Mr A. M. Moore; and Mr Ivan Mavis as Scholermann is decidedly good. Messrs Louis Calvert and Herbert Ross's company opened here on Thursday with the London success Sunday.

DUBLIN.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Limited; General Manager, Mr C. Hyland.—The amusing farcical comedy The New Clown was presented here on Monday, and was very well received. The principal character, Lord Cyril Garston, is cleverly embodied by Mr Stanley Cooke, who keeps the audience highly amused with his humorous representation. Mr Herbert Greville is well suited as Mr Dixon, and Miss Violet Greville gives an effective portrayal of Winnie Chesterton. Mr Fred Saul acquits himself creditably as Captain the Hon. Jack Trent, and Mr Fred Lake as Thomas Baker and Mr David Beattie as Mr Pennyquick are both good in their respective parts. Miss Kattie Yeates makes an acceptable Rosie Platt, and Miss Evelyn Maxwell is all that could be desired as Maud Chesterton. A one-act farce entitled The Test precedes.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing Director, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr Arthur Armstrong.—A large audience was present on Monday to witness the production of J. M. Barrie's comedy Little Mary as played by Mr Chas. Frohman's company. Mr A. Holmes Gore gives a realistic impersonation of the Earl of Carlton, and Lord Rolfe has an able representative in Mr Arthur Kghdley. Miss Christina Silva gives a most effective portrayal of the rôle of Mol a Loney, and as Sir Jennings Pyke Mr George Mu ie presents a capital study. The rôle of Terence Reilly is successfully played by A. W. Baskcomb, and the same gentleman is to be commended for his representation of the Earl of Plumleigh. Mr Ean M'Donald meets with approval as Dr. Topping, and Miss Evelyn Nesbitt is pleasing as Lady Milly. Mr F J. Watts is admirable as Mr Deighton, and Miss Beatrice Keiston as Eleanor Gray and Miss Elspeth Dudgeon as the Countess of Plumleigh are both creditable in their respective parts. The Bugle Call preceded, and was well received.

QUEEN'S ROYAL THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. W. Whitbread; General Manager, Mr Kennedy Miller.—Mr J. Leicester Jackson's company is playing The Penalty of Crime here this week. The part of George Gibbons is successfully essayed by Mr Sam Arthur, and Mr J. Leicester Jackson's portrait of the Dude Bertie Chumbley is an excellent one. Mr Fred Morton Wright is capital as Lawyer Glendinning, and Guy Glendinning is played in an able manner by Mr Fred Hodson. Mr Frank Breen appears to advantage as Michael O'Reilly and Mr Charles Lambert does well as Martin Norris. As Elsie Norris Miss Blanche St. Albans plays in good style; Miss Phyllis Damian shows ability as Joe the Waif; and Miss Nellie Lambert is a capital exponent of Peggy Sharpe. The other parts are capably filled by Mr Chas. Montague as the policeman, Mr Monte Archer as Pompey, Mr Walter Ranford as Jim Jukes, Mr William Pollard as Bill Sa manner; and Lilian Bishop is a male impersonator of no mean order. Tambo and Tambo, tambourine manipulators, score successfully; and the Sisters Lonnen, duettists and dancers, are pleasing. Frank Seely, who remains from last week, is still to the fore, and the Empire pictures are up to date.

Tivoli.—General Manager, Mr Chas. M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—Mudge and Morton, in their musical speciality act, are the principal feature here this week, and meet with a cordial reception. Another item of interest is Tom White's Arabs, who are as popular as ever; and Vera Mayne, burlesque actress, meets with success. Marntine and Son, illustrators, are an entertaining turn; and Walter Barrett is a good baritone vocalist. Downes and Longford are smart comedians and dancers; Will Montgomery, comedian, scores; the Waldrons are energetic comedy artistes; and the Sisters Nelson, duettists and dancers; and Burley and Burley, acrobatic comedians, meet with appreciation.

World's Fair and Music Hall.—Proprietor, Mr C. A. James.—The following artists are appearing here this week:—Castell and Leslie, sketch artists; Tom Kelly, comedian; Tony Merritt, actor-vocalist; Lizzie Haydon, male impersonator; Van Gelder, conjuror; and Marion Nicholls, soprano vocalist.

DUMFRIES.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr W. E. Potts.—On Monday and two following nights we had a visit from the marvellous Craggs, in the musical pantomimical absurdity Laughter Land. They were greeted with rounds of applause at every turn. The company includes Mr H. B. Lewis, a capital Professor, and Mr Harry Rousby, who as Dick Marlow is very funny. Mr Craigie Edwards as Alderman Trenthman is well placed, as also is Mr G. Westacott as Sir Vincent Marlow. Mr Victor T. Raymond as Archie is smart. Miss Cissie Dawes, Miss Kitty Lingard, Miss Maisie Ryder (the Sisters Belgrave) add much to the enjoyment of the evening.

EDINBURGH.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Hollister.—The Silver King was presented at this house on Monday, by Messrs G. M. Polini and A. Melford's company, before a large and appreciative audience. Mr Lauderdale Maitland, a young actor of prepossessing appearance and decided ability, undertook Wilfrid Denver, and gave a highly effective representation of the character. As the faithful Jaikes, Mr Edward J. George was as powerfully pathetic and as deftly amusing as of yore, while Mr W. V. Garrod acquitted himself admirably as Captain Skinner. Mr Arthur Wright gave a really clever impersonation of the rascally Elijah Coombe, and Mr W. Linton created considerable diversion as the Tipsy Passenger. Nellie Denver was sustained by Miss Lilian Bethell with womanly tenderness and feeling, and Miss Violet St. Clair acted charmingly as little Cissy Denver, speaking her lines most distinctly. Miss Lorna Treherne made a good impression as Olive Skinner, and Miss Bessie Wright was a sprightly waitress at the Chequers. Numerous other parts were in competent hands, and the scenery was excellent.

Lyceum Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; General-Manager, Mr G. T. Minshull.—Mr C. Lubbock's company commenced a six nights' engagement here on Monday in the new musical play The Cherry Girl. Chief among the strong cast was Mr Frank Lincoln, a clever comedian, who worked exceedingly hard as Moonshine. Mr Lincoln showed equal ability as singer and dancer, and his humour was quiet but telling. Mr Albert Fellno doubled the parts of Esau, a monkey, and White Surrey, a horse, and caused undisguised merriment by his quaint antics as these animals, Mr W. H. Walker used a light baritone voice to much advantage as Starlight; and Masters Louis Victor and Sidney Grata displayed remarkable precocity as Snowball and the Rose of the Riviera. Messrs Charles Danvers and Alfred Ibberson also deserve a good word for their comical acting as Bow and Scrape, while in act two they were extremely funny as a couple of village beadles. Miss Elsie Molloy made an attractive Queen, singing and dancing throughout with brightness and spirit and acting in a refined and natural manner. Miss Katie May looked winsome and sweet as the Cherry Girl, and Misses Rita Ravensberg and Violet Macintire were fascinating pierrettes. Miss Connie Loxton danced exquisitely as Tip Toe; while little Dorothy Green executed a pas seul with daintiness and grace and exceeding choregraphic skill. Miss Rosie Campbell acted smartly as Dimples, and Miss Agnes Hodgkinson was a praiseworthy Fairy Sunbeam. A bevy of handsome girls made a vocally perfect chorus, and beautiful costumes and scenery gave the play an artistic setting. An outstanding feature was the glee singing of the Steinway Quartette, Mr Sidney M'Alpine's share in the performance deserving special mention.

Empire Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss.—The Pantzer Brothers opened here on Monday evening, their agile acrobatism and dexterous head-balancing being of quite a wonderful character. Another series of feats executed with the aid of a little boy were equally astonishing. A specially brilliant turn was the smart juggling, trick cycling, and mandoline playing of Miss Lallah Selbini, who has always been a prime favourite in this city. The talented Brothers Edgar were as entertaining as ever, and Mr George Formby's quaint style certainly pleased the house. Brett and Orford made an emphatic hit in a diverting playlet, Two Love Birds, Miss Orford's spirited acting carrying the piece successfully. Phillips and Terry also made themselves popular in one of their best known sketches, and the Three Trentanovi Sisters gave a daring mid-air gymnastic display, their combined grace and strength being greatly admired. Chung Ling Soo repeated his amazing feats of conjuring this week with increased success, and Messrs James Grant, Harry Bickley, and Josh Dixon, comedians, also appeared.

Pavilion Theatre.—Manager, Mr Tom Ellis.—The five weeks during which this theatre was closed have been devoted to the complete renovation and redecoration of the building, interior and exterior, and its reopening on Monday evening attracted a crowded and well-pleased audience. For an occasion so important, the services of the eminent Transatlantic actor, author, and inventor, Mr S. F. Cody, were secured, and his stirring drama of American life, The Klondyke Nugget was staged. The company is a powerful one, and includes Messrs Edward Leroy, Vivian Cody, Leon Cody, Doc Horafall, W. Garth, and Miss E. Mumford, who plays the heroine with striking ability. The frontier scenes were realised with vivid picturesqueness, and a clever exhibition of rifle-shooting was given by Mr Cody's family.

EXETER.

Theatre Royal.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Fred Pollard; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr Charles Frohman's company in Sherlock Holmes is the attraction here this week. Admirable in every way is Mr Kenneth Rivington's delineation of the name-part, furnishing a living embodiment of Sir A. Conan Doyle's famous detective. His antagonist, Professor Moriarty, is portrayed in a thoroughly capable manner by Mr Arthur B. Murray, and a delightfully naive and unconventional conception of Billy is given by Master Walter Hicks. Dr. Watson is ably presented by Mr Edward Heanley. Mr Ernest Gray exercises commendable judgment as James Larrabee, and with Mr Charles Grey the rôle of John Forman is quite safe. Miss Florence Radcliffe as Alice Faulkner is excellent, the same remark applying in no less degree to Miss Carrie Lacie as Madge Larrabee. Mr Harry Stafford is well placed as Sid Prince, and Miss Marjorie Murray is good as Thérèse.

EASTBOURNE.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Samuel Lloyd.—Mr Fred Thorne's company is appearing here in Little Miss Nobody. A large amount of work falls upon Mr P. C. Clifton as Christopher Potter, who does clever work as a comedian. Mr Percy Barrow is an amusing Gussie; Mr Dennis Drew does well as Guy; and Mr C. F. Cooke is a capital Domine Crockett. Mr James J. Jordan is a realistic Jock, and Mr H. E. Garden is an able Dandy. Miss Mabel Archdall is a winning Elsie Crockett, and she uses a nice voice with excellent effect. Miss Molly Tremaine must be highly complimented on the capable work she contributes as Lady Stelton. Miss Dora Dent is an animated and praiseworthy Trixie, and the Misses Melba and Perry are sprightly representatives of Tinie and Tootsie. Miss Dorothy Maxwell is a creditable Violet; Miss Mabel Dent is a bright and lively Maggie; and the Misses S. Henniker, M. Clark, and Armstrong are the capable exponents of the Earl's daughters. The Scotch and Irish dances give great satisfaction.

Devonshire-park Theatre.—Managing Director, Mr A. Standen Trigg.—Mr George Dance's company is appearing here in The School Girl. The pretty scenery, beautiful dresses, and the general excellence are fully up to the high standard associated with the name of Mr George Dance. Mr Leslie Holland again triumphs as a merry-maker, and as Sir Ormesby he is equally successful in clever pantomime work, singing, and acting. Mr Lister Morrah has a capital voice and is a very pleasing Edgar Verney; Mr Alfred Leslie is a smart Tubby Bedford, and makes the most of his opportunities; and Mr Charles Adeson contributes a clever sketch of General Marchmont. Mr Cameron Carr is an appropriate Peter Overend, and Mr Frank Sutton does good work as Corner. Miss Ethel Beech sings brightly, dances daintily, and is an attractive Lilian Leigh; Miss Molly Walbran is a sweet and charming Mamie, and merits high praise for her delightful performance; Miss Gracie Sinclair is a pretty unaffected Cicely; Miss Mildred King gives a picturesque and appealing rendering of the part of the Mother Superior, and Miss Nell Hope is a handsome Saafedra. Miss Grace Wixon is an effective and imposing Mrs Marchmont; Miss Eleanor Sevesi is an efficient Marianna; and Miss Nellie Minshull, Miss Florence Lee, Miss E. Ricardo, and Miss Mai Ricardo perform gracefully the duties allotted to them. A tuneful and efficient chorus works hard under the direction of Mr Edward H. Whitehall.

New Pavilion.—Manager, Mr George Hayes.—A variety bill finds a place here this week. The Five Delevines are enthusiastically applauded for their smart and pretty musical act, into which they introduce clever pantomime and graceful dancing; the Three Avrignys are jugglers of considerable merit, and very dexterously manipulate spinning basins; Miss Bessie Featherstone is a pleasing vocalist, and renders her songs in excellent style; Mahatma again mystifies the audience; Ford and Hanson are well received in their comedy musical mé ange; Lena Verdi is a pleasing dancer and mimic; Ara, Zebra, and Vora give a novel Indian act, which combines dancing, singing, and smart tumbling; Regan and Ryan are clever patterers and dancers; the Twin Sisters Edwardes gain favour as vocalists and dancers; and Signor De Gracia's elephants complete the bill.

FALKIRK.

Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace W. Ebbutt.—The week's attraction is A Hot Night, which is presented by Milton Rays' company. On Monday the comedy was greatly enjoyed by the audience, who were kept in a condition of continual merriment. The company is a capital one, and includes Miss Adeleine Montague, Miss Clara Reid, Miss Susie Bevan, Miss Madge Wrae, Miss Jessie Wrae; and Mr Arthur Milton, Mr Francis Hope, Mr Rolando Martin, Mr Harry T. Butler, Mr James Sherwin, and Mr Maxwell Stewart. The dressing and setting of the piece are exceedingly pretty, and the singing and dancing "catchy" and vivacious. The turns by the Eldorado Quartet of lady dancers are very clever.

FARNWORTH.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell.—Mr Fred C. Imbert and an able company are here this week in First-Class, by F. A. Scudamore. First and foremost is Mr Imbert in a smart representation of Dan, the miser. Mr C. Wordley Hulse does well as Lewis Montford, and in the part of Jack Stroud Mr Leonard Clarke is worthy of praise. Miss Ellen Armour gives a sympathetic rendering of Peggy, and mention should be made of Miss Lizzie Ingles as Florence Franklin.

FOLKESTONE.

Pleasure Gardens Theatre.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland.—Mr Frank Fenton and company, in If I Were King, were here the first part of the week. Mr Fenton ably sustains the character of the hero; Mr Clive Currie does well as Louis XI.; Mr Noel M'Guckin makes an excellent Noel; Miss Marion Grey is charming as Katherine, and is warmly received; Miss Vanssiter as Huguette De Hamel is particularly good; Miss Una Gilbert gives an excellent rendering of the part of Mother Villon; Mr Leonard Maxwell leaves nothing to be desired as Thibaut D'Aussigny; and the remaining parts are in good hands. Mr Moullot's company in Old Heidelburg was here the remaining part of the week.

Victoria Pier.—Lessees, Messrs Keith Prowse and Co., Limited; General Manager, Mr H. De Manche.—Mr Elliston Webb, tenor, renders some admirable songs; Miss Clane Palmer is successful in her songs with harp accompaniment; as a humourist Mr Clifton Barrett is exceedingly clever; Miss Jessie Goldsack is heard to advantage in "Dawn;" Mr Charles Bertram, the Royal conjuror, gives a remarkable performance, and is loudly applauded; Herr Venanzi contributes some clever piano solos. Four times daily the St. George's Glee Singers appear in the café chantant, assisted by Miss Monteith Webb, the society humourist.

Leas Pavilion.—Manager, Mr A. Sitter.—An excellent programme is submitted here this week. Miss Flora Mann, mezzo-soprano, and Mr F. T. Studd, ventriloquist, are well received. All the latest animated pictures are shown nightly. Miss Adela Sutcliffe, violinist, and Miss Nina Lorenza, mandolinist, are very popular, and Miss Helena Brain excels as a solo cornettist.

GLASGOW.

Theatre Royal, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Humphrys.—The ever-popular national drama Rob Roy is being revived here this week, with all the advantages of a strong company and elaborate scenery and ensemble. The production is under the direction of Mr Edmund Tearle, who also acts the title-rôle with fine dramatic effect, his voice and bearing being capitally suited to the part of the bold outlaw. Mr C. C. Hedmondt is the Francis of the cast, and on a stage that has seen his Wagnerian triumphs he charms the audience with his singing of familiar Scottish songs. He has a worthy partner in Miss Lilian Coomber, who appears as Diana, her charming voice giving a new interest to songs like "Robin Adair" and "Bonnie Prince Charlie." The Ballie Nicol Jarvie of Mr T. W. Benson maintains the best traditions of the part for dry querulous humour, while the lines of Helen Macgregor are declaimed in first-class style by Miss Kate Clinton. Mr H. W. Monte gives a creditable impersonation of Dougal, and Mr William J. Miller proves an able exponent of Rashleigh; while Mr Edmund Grogan as Captain Thornton acts with distinction. The parts of Sir Frederick Vernon and Mr Owen are ably filled by Mr Clifford Marl and Mr Neil Fitzwilliam respectively, and Mr Alex. Hamilton as Major Galbraith and Mr Frederick Barlow as Fairservice also play their parts well. Miss Esther Tearle makes an attractive Mattie, and Miss Annie Gill gives character to the part of Jean M'Alpine.

Royalty Theatre, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr H. Macfarlane.—San Toy has been presented here by a company under the direction of Mr Arthur Hart and J. A. E. Malone. Miss Fanny Dango proves herself to be a dainty actress in the title-rôle, her singing being much admired. Mr Reginald Kenneth makes an attractive Bobby Preston, and uses a fine voice with artistic results, "Motherland" being encored. Mr E. Statham Staples exploits with excellent effect the drolleries of the wily Li. Yen-How is amusingly interpreted by Mr John Humphries; Mr Stratton Mills makes a capital Sir Bingo; and Mr Colin Coop does good work as the Emperor. Fo-Hop is well portrayed by Henry Claff, while Mr Arthur Soames does justice to the rôle of Lieutenant Tucker. Miss May Francis is a winsome Poppy; Dudley has an able representative in Miss Maud Darling. The pas seul in the second act is gracefully given by Miss Alice Lethbridge. The principals are ably supported by a tuneful chorus.

Royal Princess's.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr Hugh Murdoch.—Among the many dramas popular in Glasgow one may readily class Boucicault's play The Shaughraun when Mr Chalmers Mackey heads the company as first favourite. Mr Mackey's acting as Conn is instinct with rollicking humour, and his patriotic song "Ireland" was heartily encored. Mrs Mackey's Claire Ffoliott is a pleasant performance, and excellent support is given in the other rôles.

Grand, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr A. Mascard.—The new drama, A Girl's Cross Roads, presented by Mr Walter Melville's company has been drawing crowded houses here. Miss Beatrice Homer's acting as Barbara Wade is a powerful study in dipsomania. Mr Wingold Lawrence is a manly Jack Livingstone. A fine performance is that of the old farmer, Meadows, by Mr Edwin J. Wilde. His hard-hearted daughter Nellie is ably acted by Miss Octavia Noel. Miss Constance Symonds is a pathetic young schoolmistress as Constance Cornell. Mr H. K. Ayliff appears as the scoundrel, Lumley. Humour is plentifully provided by Mr John Hutchins as Toby Turvey and Miss Emily Custance as Tilly. The rough character, Luke Ramsden, is ably depicted by Mr John Brooks. The play is mounted with extreme care and appropriateness.

Metropole, Limited.—Managing Director, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr John Dunbar.—Messrs Beaudyn and Livesey's company is here for the first time with A Traitor Prince, Mr G. M. Montanini representing the Hindoo Prince and mesmerist with powerful effect; while Miss Beatrice Western is equally strong as his accomplice, Vashti, the snake charmer. Miss Lilian Rosebery as Lola Vane is a charming exponent of the heroine, and the hero, Lieutenant Frank Derrick, is ably personated by Mr Austin Mortimer. Mr T. G. Vane as a languid dude is in fine contrast to the more energetic characters. The comedy parts are in the able hands of Miss Maudie Grayson as Pansy Blossom, Mrs E. C. Mathews as Mrs Blossom, and Mr E. Carter Livesey as Billy Bright. Mr Austin Longford doubles the parts of Richard Vane, a showman, and Colonel Vine, a peppery Indian officer. Mr Tom Carter as a Hindoo fanatic is subdued, but yet firm in his rendering of the character. The drama is enlivened by some graceful—and cake-walk—dancing by the Geisha acrobatic Troupe, and the other characters are all well portrayed.

Lyceum.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. H. Oakden.—Mr Morton Powell's company in the new drama Bigamy, which was so successful at the Royal Princess's last week, is now proving equally popular here. Miss Eugenie Magnus as the bigamous Diane De Courcelle, has a strong part, and the cast all round is a good one.

Empire, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Aldin; Assistant Manager, Mr G. Anthony.—The Five M.I.'s, in their smart musical sketch Ten Minutes Before Lights Out, provide an excellent turn. Albert Christian contributes several songs, sung in his best style; and Miss Katie Cohen's ballads are also a welcome item. Silent Tait, the conjuror, is clever and amusing. The M'Connell Trio are here again in their lively sketch The Air Ship. Fred Poplar is an artiste of distinct originality, and his turn is heartily applauded. The Stella Troupe of dancers give some clever items. Kitty Wager, a dainty comedienne; Harry Sheldon, in a coon impersonation; and Eily Adair, serio, complete a varied programme.

Tivoli, Limited.—Managing Director, Mr Barney Armstrong; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred C. Ewing.—The chief attraction here is the engagement of the well-known wrestler A. Aberg. Harry Tate's No. 1 sketch company provides an amusing half-hour in Motoring, and fairly convulses the audience; Barney Vox, in the ventriloquial success "Ally Sloper at Home" is clever and amusing; while the turn submitted by Chris Richards, eccentric comedian, is well worthy the applause elicited. The other members of the company include Princess Quartet, vocalists and dancers; Nellie and Nora, musical entertainers; Chas. Pastor, comedian; Kate Gourlay, coon songstress; Glover Brothers, burlesque artistes; and Prince Bendon's Bioscope shows scenes from the Russo-Japanese War.

Palace.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Rich. Waldon and Thos. Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr David Douglas.—The outstanding item here is Bonnie Goodwin and her Apollo piccaninnies. Other notable turns include the Phillipi Brothers in their latest creation "Shunting"; Geo. W. Leslie and company in Chums; the Penstones, clever jugglers; J. A. Cassels, the popular Scotch comedian; Valdares, cycling specialist; Alethea, contortionist and gymnast; Rhoda Paul, comedienne; Fred Curran, comedian; Cyrus Dare in his children imitations; and a display of up-to-date animated pictures.

Queen's, Limited.—Manager, Mr T. J. Colquhoun; Acting-Manager, Mr B. M. Armstrong, jun.—Mdlle. Kloet, "the artist's model," gives some fine poses, particularly as Mercia, in The Sign of the Cross. James Brady's clever songs are well received; Brothers Zenary contribute a smart acrobatic balancing act; Guy Ryder, the boy whistler, is a clever artiste; the Adonis Trio give an amusing American comedy sketch; Jack Lorimer is a big favourite here; Amy Bell, serio; the Ashers, in a song and dance turn; and Prince Bendon's Bioscope all help to make up a fine programme.

GOOLE.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr John E. Tomlinson.—After being closed for redecoration, &c., this theatre was reopened on Monday, under the sole direction of Mr John E. Tomlinson, the new lessee. For the opening excellent fare has been provided in the shape of the return visit of Mr Chas. R. Stone's company, in the musical comedy What Became of Mrs Rackett? Mr Gerald Wyatt as Timothy Tolman is amusing; Mr Edward Raymond makes an excellent Robert Rackett; Mr Stones, jun., acts the part of Hobson in humorous fashion; and Mr Ed. Oxlee Clarke as Mr Dalroy is well suited. Special mention should be made of Mr Chas. R. Stone, who causes roars of laughter by his comic impersonation of Obadiah Dawson. Miss Edith Madelle delights by her charming acting as Mrs Rackett; Miss Emily Kelsey plays the part of Mrs Tolman in spirited style; Miss Daisy Stone wins the hearts of all by her graceful acting as Katy and her sweet singing; and a special feature of the performance is the excellent dancing of the Sisters Temple. My Sweetheart is billed for the latter half of the week.

GLOUCESTER.

Theatre Royal.—Owners, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr W. H. Weller.—Mr Fredk. E. Phillpott's company in the musical comedy, The Girl from Japan, is very successful here. Miss Maidie Scott perhaps deserves first notice for her sprightly and clever rendering of Maud. Miss Nellie Valentine is also deserving of high praise for her charming embodiment of Violet Meadows. Mr Charles L. Ludlow causes roars of laughter by his comical sallies in the character of Bingle, and the quaint impersonation of the Rev. John Smith by Mr Ernest Spalding adds materially to the success, especially of the humorous side of the piece. Lord Allenbury has an agreeable representative in Mr S. Lockridge. Miss Nellie Jackson is quite acceptable as Polly Perkins, and Lady Flippington is effectively played by Miss Nellie Parker Dent. Mr Alfred Wood is decidedly prominent as Sir Mulberry Flippington, whilst the General Baugh of Mr Percy Baverstock is played in the approved "peppery" military style. Mr Tom E. Sinclair is excellent as Horatio Blinks. The Sisters Violet and Nellie English are cordially received for their neat expositions of the dancing art. An attractive and smartly dressed chorus is a good factor towards success.

GREAT GRIMSBY.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—A Woman's Pluck, played by Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company, has been here. Mr James Willard, the author, appears as Dick Darrell, and gives an admirable representation of the character. Miss East-Robertson supplies a spirited portrayal of Grace Daremont. The work of Miss Jessie Yatman as Jessie Pope is of a charming description. Mr Edward Ashby is very pleasing as Winston Dale. Mr J. P. Dryden works hard in the characters of Mark Scanlan and Jim Daremont, and is eminently successful. Mr William Hayward creditably fills the pathetic part of Mathew Pope, and Miss Sarah Smith is good as Mrs Pope. Excellent comedy is provided by Mr Harry Emmerson as Roger Pippin and Miss Agnese D'Aragon as Ophelia.

Hippodrome.—The Vandyke Troupe of pantomimists has caused much amusement here in Nicodemus, which has created roars of laughter. Prince Ishmael, British-Indian magician, has mystified his audiences completely. Almon has accomplished some astonishing hand jumping. Major Moss and Son have given an amusing scena called Grandpa's Birthday, and good turns have been done by Ray and Rodney, comedians and dancers; the Sisters Hypatia, duettists; Will Lytton, comedian; and Amstell and Lule, in The Lady and the Policeman.

Empire, Cleethorpes.—The charming turn presented to Empire audiences this week by Miss Dolly Harmer has given rise to unbounded satisfaction. The performance of the Three Delaires on the triple trapeze and Roman rings has been recognised as being both smart and novel. Nellie Denham, descriptive vocalist, has met with considerable success. The Sisters Brenton have proved themselves graceful dancers and expert skipping-rope performers. Geo. Bernard, actor-vocalist, has contributed some telling songs. Leighton has done a novel musical turn on the piano, assisted by Miss Annie Mona, and the programme has also included the names of George Edney, light comedian, and Josie Mills, ballad vocalist.

GREAT YARMOUTH.

Royal Aquarium.—Proprietor, Mr J. W. Nightingale.—Mr George Dance's company is here this week with A Chinese Honeymoon. Miss Marion Sadle is lively and humorous as Fi-Fi; Miss Jose Collins is a charming Mrs Pineapple, and gains loud applause for her clever acting and singing; Hang Chow is capitally represented by Mr Frank Wood; Mr P. Allerton Turner and Mr Leonard May are successful as Chippe Chop and Hi-Lung; Mr Percy Yorke sings and acts well as Tom Hatherton; Miss Marie Adair is a fascinating Soo-Soo; Mrs Brown is cleverly depicted by Miss Alice Drummond.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. W. Nightingale.—The comedy Saturday to Monday, capitally presented by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company, is attracting large houses this week. Mr Stuart Champion is easy and natural as Lord Calvert; Miss Moyra Creegan is dainty and charming as Mrs Wendover; Probyn Dyke is well played by Mr Thomas A. Braidon; Miss Nancy Beresford is animated and winsome as Angela; Mr Thomas Sidney contributes a clever character sketch as the Rev. Lemuel Toop; Mr Dallas Welford is amusing as Stanley Pidding; Lady Diana Porchester is excellently acted by Miss Madeline L'Estrange; Miss Ursula Toop and Miss Street are amusingly portrayed by Miss Josephine Rae and Miss Ida Laurie; and Miss Olive Loftus Leyton is good as Thompson.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr George Gilbert.—A varied and attractive programme is drawing full houses. Captain Woodward's sea lions and seals go through a wonderful performance demonstrating to what perfection animal training may attain; Datas astonishes with his marvellous memory; the Hanlons and Little Eddy give a clever gymnastic show; fun is supplied by Talberto and Douglas and the Yoricks; clever dancing is given by the Sisters Warwick; and W. H. Downs pleases as a coloured ballad vocalist.

Britannia Pier Pavilion.—Managing-Director, Mr J. W. Nightingale; Acting-Manager, Mr Edward Gray.—Miss Lottie Collins, the clever London comedienne, is first favourite, her singing and dancing gaining enthusiastic applause; Spry and Monti combine wit and humour in happy fashion; Miss Ruby Bijou dances nimbly and gracefully; J. W. Rowley entertains with his comedy; Little Nora sings and dances prettily.

Wellington Pier Pavilion.—Proprietors, Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr Harry Tunbridge.—The company here includes the Sisters Warwick, in a clever acrobatic cycling act; the Woodbee Wonders, in a smart comedy acrobatic scena; Kloof and Ramsey, in a musical novelty number; Vernando, in an amusing ventriloquial sketch; Tom Hughes and Ted Cowan, comedians; Edwards and Espinosa, speciality artistes; Ailsa Douglas, ballad vocalist; and Professor Buer, with his educated donkey.

Gorleston Pavilion.—Lessees, Messrs Keith Prowse and Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr Bertram Knight.—Mr D'Arcy Clayton's "Gipsies" continue to give their humorous musical entertainment here, fresh items being often added to a programme which is always excellent. The members of the company—Miss Florence Croft, Miss Barbara Antoine, Mr Fred Milner, Mr D'Arcy Clayton, Mr Robert Tattersall, and Mr Eric Davidson—must all be praised for the effective aid they render to ensure the success of the entertainment.

GREENOCK.

Theatre Royal.—Lessees, the Executors of the late Mr Alexander Wright; Managers Messrs A. B. Wright and J. J. Wright.—Mr Edward Marris's company is the attraction here with The Dandy Doctor. Mr James Danvers is a most amusing Colonel Pendred. Mr Edward Marris as Melchisadeck Brown is a host in himself, and keeps the house in roars of laughter with his drolleries. Mr Walter Nugent acquits himself creditably as Doctor Vandyke, and is ably seconded by Mr Callon Salter as Bertie Bolingbroke. Mr Owen Dacroy is a diverting Mr Dryeoff. Miss Lizzie Primmer is a sprightly and attractive Ivy Pendred, and Miss Maisie Ivie is charming as Miss Vandyke. Miss Florence Smithers deserves special mention for her clever work as Jane, which part she acts with great humour. Miss Nora Melton is successful as Henson. The Dandy Belles contribute several pleasing dances, and Mr Ben Rowe and Miss Holden, the society cake walkers, are applauded.

HALIFAX.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietors, Northern Theatres Co.; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—A number of well-trained ponies and dogs go through a clever performance here and reflect great credit on the owner, Tschernoff; Vasco plays on a large number of musical instruments with striking ability; the De Breans present a smart juggling act; Jack and Evelyn, comedy duettists and burlesque artistes, do a laughable turn; Alexandre and Bertie are graceful and accomplished aerial acrobats; Ryder Sloane sings character songs with much effect; Annie Reid, comedienne, sings with success; Ryde and Beeman are clever and amusing; and Joe Humphies sings comic songs.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Steuart Cecil.—A very popular engagement here this week is that of Frank and Jen Latona, whose cheery, nonsensical talk, combined with really good music, affords much enjoyment. The Brothers Leotard are excellent acrobats, equilibrists, and clown hat throwers and catchers; Prevost and Prevost give a clever and funny comedy acrobatic performance; Harry Drew has a good bass voice and sings with taste; Thomas Finglas meets with a great reception for his coon songs and dancing; Ida Gladstone, comedienne, is well received; Howe and Ardie, comedy acrobats, cause much laughter; and the Sisters Wingrove, duettists and dancers, do their work smartly and satisfactorily.

HANLEY.

Royal, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Elphinstone.—Mr and Mrs William Maclaren's company is paying a visit in the romantic play, Proof. The piece is nicely mounted, and is dressed admirably. Miss Gertrude Evans as Adrienne acts with much skill; Miss Marion Holmes scores as the Duchess D'Aubeterre; and Miss Elsie Lorimer is also well placed. Pierre Lorance in the hands of Mr Maclaren is cleverly portrayed; Valentine finds an exponent of much ability in Miss Lily Bandmann; Mr Richard Fulton does well as the Count De Laval; Mr Kingsford Pearse contributes a capital reading as the Duke D'Aubeterre; and Mr Ardene Linden is an entertaining Chamboran.

Grand, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr James Wynes.—Miss Lelia Rose heads a good programme this week. This lady has a nice voice, which she uses well. Nelson's Newsboys' Quintette sing harmoniously; George Antill scores a success with his excellent songs and dancing; the Sisters Casselli are dancers of ability; Renson and Waite in a smart comedy act are highly successful; Miss Clarice Netta has a pleasing voice; Dezmonti and Mora are smart on the triple bars; J. P. Dane introduces his sketch, A Cake Walk Round the Workhouse Door; and the Harry Rambler company are well received.

HARROGATE.

Grand Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr R. Hullah.—The D'Oyly Carte Opera company opened here on Monday, when The Mikado was presented. Mr C. H. Workman, Mr F. Billington, Mr Pacie Ripple, Mr Albert Kavanagh, Miss Nora Maguire, Miss Jessie Rose, Miss Mabel Burnege, and Miss Theresa Rassam ably interpreted the chief rôles, and an excellent chorus contributed valuably to a smart performance.

Kursaal.—Manager, Mr H. J. Dacre.—On Monday Mr Edward German conducted a programme of his own works at the evening promenade concert. On Thursday and Friday the musical festival was held, in which Madame Ella Russell and Madame Albani took part.

HASTINGS.

Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr George H. Gaze.—On Monday Mr Tom. B. Davis's company brought here for the first time The Medal and the Maid, which proved an attractive entertainment. Miss Rita Leonhardt was a bright and engaging Merva Sunningdale, and sang agreeably. Miss Maude Lake made a very pleasing Josephine; Miss Edith Blanche as Mrs Habblcombe won much success; Mr Tom Fancourt was genuinely funny as Simon Pentweazle; the rascally Levanter was played by Mr Tom Graves with quaint originality; Mr Campbell Bishop played Lord Belton with distinction; and as Allen Mr Cecil Kingsley acted his rôle naturally, his duet with Merva was greatly liked. Miss Lillie Leroy and Mr John M. Dougall as Elsie and Lionel Habbicombe respectively were good impersonations; Miss Cissie Sephton both acted and sang with point and effect as Miss Ventner; the brigand chief Darien was effectively presented by Mr William Bland; the school girls and flower girls were attractively presented by the chorus.

Hastings Pier Pavilion.—Pier Master, Mr R. Turner; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles H. Hawker.—Miss Bertha Bird, a wonderful Australian soprano vocalist, is the centre of attraction here. Miss Bird has a voice with a remarkable range. Mr Darren Llewellyn, a well-known Welsh baritone, is extremely popular. Mr Musgrove Tuffnall and Miss Annie Wilson add an attractive extra turn with popular coon duets. Aston's Italian orchestra contributes enjoyable musical selections.

St. Leonards Pier Pavilion.—Pier Master, Mr Elvey Thomas; Entertainment Manager, Mr Drew Mackintosh.—Saturday to Monday has been performed here by Miss Emma and Mr Percy Hutchison's talented company. Mr Charles Howitt gives an intelligent and gentlemanly representation of Lord Culvert. An admirable piece of acting is Mr Donald Maclean's Probyn Dyke. Mr Jack Hampton is amusing as Pidding. Mr W. Ravenscroft gives an ecclesiastical touch to his performance as the Rev. Toop. Miss Frances Vine ably portrays the difficult character of Mrs Wendover. Miss Adelaide Lester as Lady Diana Porchester plays with dash and freedom. Angela is successfully depicted by Miss Aidee Hemsley. Miss M'Aimee Murry is well suited as Ursula Toop, and Miss Charlotte Mead is all that can be desired as Miss Skeet. A brisk waiting maid is Miss Florence Tresilian.

Hippodrome Theatre of Varieties.—General Manager, Mr Harold Penny; Musical Director, Mr W. Denton.—Here the effusions of Mr Victor Travers create great laughter. Miss Marie Wilton is an attractive comedienne; the Dents introduce a laughable comedy sketch; that smart comedienne and dancer, Miss Ella Retfield, has a warm welcome; Signor and Madame Borelli distinguish themselves by their musical humour; an interesting turn is done by a "juvenile prodigy," Miss Maud Wilton; a hearty reception is accorded to Mr Hal Forde, comedian; Athas and Collins contribute a good turn in their musical sketch; and the Gibson Girls, duettists, charm all by their melodious vocalisation.

HARTLEPOOL.

Empress.—Proprietors, Messrs Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg.—The list this week is headed by the Proveanie Family of cyclists, who go through a performance that is the wonder of all beholders, and is repeatedly encored. Another turn that meets with a most enthusiastic reception is that of the Zaros Troupe of lady and gentlemen acrobats, whose tumbling is awarded several recalls. John Lloyd, "the original singing collier," has been in the district previously, as also have the Sisters Brand, comediennes and dancers, and they are received with increased favour. Other turns that are well received are Connie Milton, versatile artiste; the Howards, instrumentalists; and the Brothers Brooks, comedians and dancers.

HEBBURN.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr W. A. Jackson.—Mr Leslie Vyner's company is appearing here this week in Saved from the Sea. Mr Leonard Robson achieves great success as Dan Ellington; Mr Sydney C. Kearns presents an excellent study of Peter Scalcher; Richard Fenton finds a capital exponent in Mr William A. Attfield; Mr H. Naylor Grimson acquits himself admirably as Jim Weaver; and Billy Snooks is portrayed with ability by Mr Harry M. Vernor. Jenkins is in the capable hands of Mr Leslie Gilbert, and Mr George W. Hewitson scores as the governor of Barchester Gaol. Mr James Derwent is appreciated as the chaplain. Mr Henry Carrier is effective as Inspector Jennings. Mr Frank Reid gives a satisfactory representation of Warder Gregory, and Mr Henderson Adams as Convict 90 is also worthy of note. Miss Dora Condor makes a pleasing Polly Blake. Miss Blanche Vernor is attractive as Mrs Blake. Miss Ruby Bahard gives a graceful impersonation of Nurse Vincent, and Miss F. Russell Spiers plays the part of Nancy (Dan's wife) in admirable style.

HORWICH.

NEW PRINCE'S.—Manager, Mr Arthur Sandiford.—Miss Dorothy Oswald's company in East Lynne packed the house on Monday. Mr Herbert Barrs' interpretation of Archibald is excellent; Mr Pascoe Bioletti's Francis Levison is thoroughly up to the mark; Mr H. Wallace Curnock gives a fine embodiment of Richard Hare; Mr Henry Kennedy's Lawyer Dill is very amusing; Miss Oswald's rendering of Lady Isabel is a most artistic one; Miss Tilly Stewart's Barbara Hare is an unqualified success, her singing being much applauded. Miss Maggie Stewart as Joyce is responsible for some genuine comedy, her songs and dances being encored and her business with Mr George Harvie as P.-C. Jorkins creating roars of laughter; Little Ruby plays Willie with remarkable pathos; Cornelia Carlyle has an admirable exponent in Miss E Herries; and Miss G. Chevalier's Wilson is a good performance. Friday was set apart for Miss Oswald's benefit.

HUDDERSFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy G. Arthur.—For the performance of the late Wilson Barrett's drama, The Golden Ladder, Miss Mary Austin has associated with her a thoroughly capable company. Their reception on opening for the week on Monday was distinctly enthusiastic. Miss Austin gave a sympathetic rendering of the part of Lilian Grant. Mr Harry Cullenford was quite successful as the Rev. Frank Thornhill. Mr John Owen contributed a clever bit of character study as Peckaby, Miss Nellie Graham as Mrs Peckaby and Miss Ethel Patrick as their daughter Victoria Alexandra being equally commendable. Mr E. Vivian Edmonds as the villain of the piece, Severn, lacked nothing in force, Mr Graham Winsford making an excellent foil as the more timid Peranzo. Mr Joseph Rowland as Jim Dixon had a congenial line which he played with marked ability. Little Doris Dale was natural as Lily, and the rest of the long cast was in efficient hands.

HULL.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr W. Morton; Local Director, Mr W. F. Morton.—Mr Leslie Norman's company in A Trip to Chinatown is the attraction this week. Little Briton is one of the most amusing of comedians, his diminutive stature adding much to the effectiveness of his work. Miss Harriet Fawn contributes much to the general entertainment, and Mr Charles Sequin is not far behind. The Biograph is a pleasant interlude between the acts.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr J. Hart; Local Manager, Mr Harry Esden.—In Dahomey, that clever Negro go-as-you-please entertainment, pays an early return visit The company is somewhat different to the previous one, and though Williams and Walker and the gifted Aida Walker are no longer of the company, yet the newcomers, Messrs Hart and Otway and Miss Stella Hart, contrive to readily fill the gap. The cake-walk is shown as it should be. Highly commendable are the efforts of Miss Fanny Wise and Miss Ada Guignesse. In Dahomey has caught on again in this city.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Sole Owner, Mr W. Morton; Local Manager, Mr George Morton.—Defending His Honour is a play run by Messrs Carson and Granville. Miss Melrose Millet is a charming heroine, and evokes the sincere sympathies of the audience. The company is a very good all-round one, and contrives to render an excellent account of itself.

PALACE THEATRE. — Moss Empires, Limited; Manager, Mr A. Graham.—The Mills-Stavordale Quintet provide a very passable entertainment. Tatten Hall is a good comedian. Nellie Coleman is as popular as ever. She is funny and never vulgar. Carrie Laurie's "Kindergarten" is always certain of a good reception.

ILFRACOMBE.

RUNNACLEAVE HALL.—The White Coons. This popular troupe of high-class entertainers continues to attract large audiences. On Saturday they gave a special concert, and were assisted by Mr Nix Webber, whose recitations were much appreciated. Miss Kate Temple, who possesses a rich contralto voice, was heard to great advantage in Moir's "Best of all," for which she was deservedly encored. The Irish dialect songs of Mr Alf Hurley delighted the audience, and he showed versatility in his rendering of "The Burglar's Serenade." Mr Charles Neary caused great amusement with his comic songs, his patter ditty "To-morrow" being one of the best items of the evening. Mr J. Macdermott, another comedian, gave his songs with much verve. A pleasing touch in a more serious vein was lent to the whole by Mr Howard Bartley's rendition of "Queen of Angels." He has a nice tenor voice, which shows to most advantage in ballad songs. His duets with Miss Temple were very good, and evoked well-merited applause, "Quarrelling" being, perhaps, their best. This is the Coons' second season in Ilfracombe, and their popularity is now fully established.

VICTORIA PAVILION.—A good entertainment is being presented by the Smart Set, under the direction of Mr Walter George, who is very popular here.

A MUSICAL treat has been afforded to the visitors in the four concerts given by the Besses o' the Barn Band at the Kursaal.

ILKESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr L. F. A. Rogers.—This week we have Mr Howard Hinton's company in Honor Bright. Miss Nellie Marler sings some excellent songs in the leading female part, and Mr Fred Yarnold as Jopkins is delightfully humorous. Mr Richard Courtland makes the best of his opportunities as Sir Godfrey Forrester. Mr Charles Glenrose acts and sings with manly energy as Frank Forrester. Mr William Carriden gives just the correct tinge of villainy to his Richard Ravenscroft. Mr R. Hamilton is an unaffected Mr Gresham; and as Simon Hargreaves, Mr Tom Robertson exhibits genuine ability. Miss Violet Welsh arouses sympathy as Ruth; and as Constance Hope Miss Grace Olivia uses a fine voice with effect.

JARROW.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Secretary, Mr William Y. Oakes.—The attraction here this week is Mr J. F. Preston's company in the powerful drama, entitled The Rich and Poor of London. Miss Dora Dench submits an excellent rendering of the part of May Braithwaite, and Miss Belle Tilbury gives a telling performance of the part of Ruby Redgrave. Miss Marie Ramez is quite at home in the rôle of Auntie Scrimp; Miss Sybil Vincent scores as Polly Philpot; Little Arline T. George plays the part of Seadrift admirably; and as Dixie, the waif, Master Bert Dench is excellent. Mr Andrew Money embodies Mark Stanley in a telling manner, and is ably assisted by Mr Harry Tilbury as Matthew Grabbam, the rascally lawyer. Mr A. Hillier gives a manly portrayal of Dr. Leonard Morton; Mr Sidney Dench is successful as Dan Drake; Mr Sidney C. Cranston wins praise as Gussie Lamb; Mr George Scully does full justice to the park of Bill Binks; and Mr Jay Laurier in the part of Spider Jack, with songs, is quite a favourite.

KEIGHLEY.

QUEEN'S THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Barnes.—This week an excellent show is given by Dainez's Circus; a clever performance is contributed by the Three Sisters Lee; Joe Mac causes roars of laughter; an original musical turn is provided by the Coopers; and Burke and M'Voy are smart. The Knicknacks, Hurman, Harry Oxbury, Doris Lillian Rennies, and Dan Filmer complete the bill.

KENDAL.

ST. GEORGE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr R. F. Chorley; Manager, Mr J. W. Butler.—The theatre was opened on the 12th inst. by Mr Ben Greet's company, under the direction of Mr J. Bannister Howard with The Fatal Wedding, which was played two nights. Mr Algernon Lee as Howard Wilson gave a clever portrayal, and was ably assisted by Miss Eva Moss as Mabel Wilson. Mr Cecil A. Collins was effective in the character of Robert Curtis, and Miss Beatrice Whitney was admirable as Cora William. Mr W. R Evans as Toto and Miss Carrie Fenton as Bridget caused roars of laughter. Miss Masie Richardson was charming as Jessie, the little mother, and the specialities in act three were much appreciated. This week the boards have been occupied for three nights by Mr E. Lockwood's company in La Poupée. Miss Midge Clarke's Alesia is as good as ever, and as Lancelot Mr T. A. Shale is quite an ideal novice, his singing and acting alike being excellent.

LANCASTER.

ATHENÆUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Hy. Wilkinson.—This week the attraction is Queen of the Night, played by Mr James Stillwell and company. Mr Stillwell appears to special advantage as Frank Featherstone, and Miss V. St. Lawrence is equally successful in the title-rôle. Able support is given by Mr A C. Campbell as Philip Stoneleigh, Mr F. Thorpe-Tracey as old Brisket, and Miss Katherine Barnett as Maude Sylvester. Mr Edgar Morgan introduces much comic business as Adolphus Briskett, and the remaining characters are in capable hands.

LEEDS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr Fredk. Vincent.—Messrs E. H. Kelly and C. M. Hallard's new Manchester production of last week, A Man and his Wife, is in evidence here this week, and was well received on Monday. Miss Nina Boucicault plays the wife with considerable dramatic force and effect; the indulgent husband, Roger Ainslie, has a powerful exponent in Mr C. Aubrey Smith; and the part of Sir Noel Drage is a manly and convincing study by Mr C. M. Hallard. Of the subsidiary characters some capital work is done by Mr E. H. Kelly as Lord Francis Hillyer, whilst Miss Enid Spencer Brunton and Miss Beatrice Coleman act with spirit as the Antrobus girls. The Lady Wickham of Miss Kathleen Darvill is likewise well suited to the picture.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr R. Ernest Liston.—That sensational railway drama The 10 30 Down Express is always sure of a big welcome at this popular theatre, and this week Mr Horace Stanley's company has been quite successful. In the part of Jack O'Malley Mr H. T. Wood makes a hit, his manly acting being much admired. An equally effective portrayal of the heroine, Bessie Leigh, comes from Miss Adelaide Clare; while Mr Stanley, in the low comedy part of Sam Wagstaff, finds considerable scope for his abilities. Capital assistance is also rendered by Mr Scott Leighton, Mr Harry L. Day, Miss Kate Kilpack, and Miss Evelyn M. Walton.

QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs Dottridge and Longden; General Manager, Mr C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr Chas. Bush.—The late Wilson Barrett's masterpiece, The Sign of the Cross, is being played here by a strong company, under the direction of Mr William Greet Mr F. B. Woulfe acts the part of Marcus Superbus with considerable dramatic power; the Mercia of Miss Evelyn D'Alroy is a charming and sympathetic effort; and the drunken jester, Glabrio, finds a capital exponent in Mr Frank Wood. Miss Ivy Millais as the child Stephanus is to be credited with a very fine effort, and other prominent members of the company are Mr A. Bernhardt Turner, Mr Chas. Aldred, Mr J. Wetherall, and Mr Robert Hare.

EMPIRE PALACE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr Gerald Morton.—Goldin, the illusionist, figures here as a star turn. That popular coster artiste Alec Hurley appears with his company, and finds much favour. A smart Yankee speciality act by Mr and Mrs Neil Litchfield is thoroughly enjoyed; Grant and Grant are decidedly popular in coon song and dance; a pair of smart comedians and patter artistes are Woodhouse and Wells; the Maningoes' expert gymnastic work again arouses much enthusiasm; vocal contributions by the Two Romers are well received; and Charles Baron causes great amusement with his burlesque animal show. A capital vocal and instrumental turn is done by the Three Sisters Chester. Will Mitcham, comedian, appears with success; and the programme also includes Pattie Bella and Maud Ross, both comediennes of merit.

TIVOLI. — Proprietor, Mr Thos. Barrasford; General Managers, Messrs Edgar O. Waller and Chas. Weldon.—The chief attraction here is the musical playlet, Harvest Home, capitally done by John Tiller's company, of which Freddie French and Jessie Templeton are able leaders. Verno and Voyce present their entertaining vocal scena, "Jack Sheppard," in accomplished style. An old favourite appears in George D'Albert, vocal comedian; and the Three Sisters Andersen meet with good success in a clever equilibristic act. Other smart turns are done by Tray and Rich, comedians; and Edie Gray and Coons, vocalists.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr F. W. Wood; General Manager, Mr J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Jones.—A pair of extremely clever acrobats, the Damm Brothers, are very popular here, and are performing some fine feats in the eccentric line of their business. Amy Anderson and company also please with their comic coster speciality act; Lord, Murray, and Lord and Hughes and Elliott submit entertaining comedy business; Chas. Russell is a vocal comedian of merit; and other popular turns include Adey Spencer, comedienne; Kisbey, the call boy; Edie Rivers, coon specialist; and Barnard's Marionettes in a cleverly worked exhibition.

LEIGH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Dewhurst.—The bill here is headed by the Moxons, the world's marvels, who give a first-class acrobatic, musical, and comical performance; Mr Geo. Belrose and Miss Maud D'Vello, operatic duettists, are very good; Mr Charles Paver, comedian, is greatly applauded; the Sisters Hula, vocalists and dancers, are well received; Messrs Fox and Melville, transatlantic illustrators, are quite successful; the Brothers Sylvesters, hand-balancers, are very clever; Miss Edie Anderson, comedienne and dancer, is pleasing; and Messrs Hess and Lisbon, in their skating performance, are entirely satisfactory.

LLANELLY.

ROYALTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr John Tully.—During a return visit Mr F. R. Benson's North Shakespearian company has played As You Like It, Hamlet, Merry Wives of Windsor, and She Stoops to Conquer. In the first-named play Mr F. Owen Chambers as the Duke shone conspicuously. Miss Dorothy Green as Rosalind, Miss May De Launey as Audrey, and Miss Christie Laws as Phœbe were all very good. Miss Margaret Caskie was also excellent as Celia. Mr A. A. Harris as Touchstone and Mr Bernard Limpus as Orlando did very well.

LEICESTER.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr C. D. Leigh.—Mr George Musgrove's excellent company is paying a farewell visit this week in the musical comedy The Belle of New York. Although the comedy has been seen here many times, the large audience on Monday evening enjoyed to the full the excellent performance given by the company, among whom were many established favourites. Several new numbers have been introduced, and the dressing and mounting leave nothing to be desired. In the title-rôle Miss Beatrice Lamotte repeats her old success, her embodiment being charmingly rendered. Miss Lillian Digges is seen to considerable advantage as Fifi Fricot. Both Miss May Angus-Young as Mamie Clancy and Miss Winnie Browne as Cora Angelique are very good. Miss Kitty Lindley is capital as Kissie Fitzgarter. Mr Frank Lawton's well-known cleverness as Blinky Bill, coupled with his whistling, ensures for him a hearty reception. Mr Harry A. Meynott scores his usual success as Ichabod Bronson, and Mr Philip Leslie makes an excellent Harry Bronson. Mr Max Copland as the Polite Lunatic, Mr Cecil Burt as "Doc" Sniffkins, and Mr Paddy Dupres as Kenneth Mugg are also to be complimented on portrayals of exceptional merit. As the Portuguese Twins Messrs Alfred Selby and Albert Sealy are capital. A word of praise should be bestowed on the chorus and orchestra under the direction of Mr Leonard Hornsey.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Sole Lessee, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General Manager, Mr John H. Clarke.—At War with Women, presented by Mr Frank Bateman's well-selected company, is proving a good attraction here this week. The drama, written by Mr Frank Bateman, is most interesting, the principal scenes being laid in Russia and Siberia. The mounting is well done. Miss Lizzie Montague as Auriel Romanoff gives a powerful impersonation; Mr Clinton Baddeley is seen to considerable advantage as Antolski; and Mr Ed. Oustin does well as Lieutenant Alexis. Mr Shaun Glenville as Jerry Blake and Miss Mabel Leigh as Katinka cause much amusement, and their specialities in the fourth act prove most acceptable. Mr Fred Vaughan as General Malakoff, Mr Steer Flinders as Ivan Clovitch, Mr Fred J. Lennox as Hans Phocas, and Miss Marion Warren as Frida Malakoff should be singled out for embodiments of merit.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Leonard Vidal.—At the head of this week's programme is Horace Mills and W. H. Rawlins, who are again scoring a success in their comedy oddity Mashing the Missus. Big Ben Brown and Little Geo. Le Clerq and company cause uproarious laughter in their absurdity A Dark Night Before Us. Madame Emmy's fox-terriers are put through a performance which reflects the greatest credit on their trainer. The Three Missouris give a clever, amusing, and original show as acrobats. The Langdons, in their pictorially illustrated songs, are popular. Alix Lukos scores with his dramatic reminiscences, entitled "The Pictures in the Fire" George Booker and Mabel Narbis do well in their comedy creation, entitled Inventions. The Smythsons cause much laughter with their sketch, Our Suite. The Imperial Quartet of vocalists and dancers are good, and Elsie Clare, soprano vocalist, also gives an attractive turn.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Lapworth.—Johnnie Trundley, the Peckham fat boy, is billed as the principal attraction here. Zaro and Arno, in their original comedy bar act, are responsible for both an amusing and clever show; Cameron, the 'kerchief king, in his spectacular magic act, is smart; the Sisters Lunelle (Louie and Nellie), soubrettes and dancers, are good; J. P. Devine is a capital Negro comedian; and Gracie Vernon, serio; and Dot Stanley, comedienne and dancer, also entertain.

LIMERICK.

THEATRE ROYAL —Manager, Mr Robert Fogerty.—Mr Horace Lingard's clever comedy company is here this week, and on Monday evening gave a satisfactory performance of that amusing comedy Why Smith Left Home. As John Smith Mr Lingard was at his best, and as Count Von Guggenheim Mr Robert Grey suited the rôle admirably. Mr Sydney Douglas was an artistic Major Duncombe, and Mr George Grey as Robert Walton scored. Mr Herbert Dickeson was clever as General Billetdeux, and Mr Harry Punter was a capital James. The amusing rôle of Mrs Smith had an exceptionally clever exponent in Miss Hilda Stericker, and Miss Rue Daryle made a pleasing Rose Walton. The part of Mrs Billetdeux was entrusted to Miss Dorcas Corsble, a clever actress; and Miss Ethel Russell fairly delighted the house by her vivid interpretation of Miss Smith. As Julia Miss Marie Vere was delightfully chic and vivacious; whilst the rôle of Lavinia could not be in more capable hands than those of Miss Constance Stephens. The play was preceded by the farce entitled The Admiral.

LINCOLN.

ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr Frank King.—Messrs Marston and Buckstone are presenting The Silver Cross. Mr Frederick A. Marston repeats his very fine performance as Old Ben, and the rôle of Little Sunshine is charmingly undertaken by Miss Maud Western. Mr Wilfred Hargreaves, a successful Fudge, exploits a wonderful soprano voice, and Mr Syd Bazley, the Quinton of the piece, proves himself a clever comedian; Mr C. Allen appears with success as Arthur Merton; Mr H. Glenney being a capital Philip. Mr W. A. Buckstone is a dignified Uncle Frewin; Miss Cissy Glenny works with success as Laura Beechcroft; and Miss Poppy Danby is a vivacious Sally; while Miss Edie Sinclair, albeit only afforded her opportunity in the last act, scores as Mrs Fudge. Variety is afforded further by Miss Rose Walmsley's smart trio of dancers; and the Sisters Mazzuchi, xylophonists, mandolinists, and banjoists.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Sydney Arthur.—Mr Fred Karno's comedians, in the pantomime burlesque, Early Birds, constitute the chief attraction this week, and present a thoroughly lively and effective sketch. The entire company, work hard and successfully, roars of laughter greeting the show, and the piece is decidedly well staged. Money had to be refused on Monday. Will Johnson is on a very successful return visit, and we also have the Three American Idols, Musical Silvo, and Daisy Martell.

LIVERPOOL.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Lawrence.—Credit is due to the management of the leading theatre in Liverpool for affording the public an opportunity of witnessing many of the latest London successes. This week Mr Henry Arthur Jones's brilliant comedy Joseph Entangled has been presented for the first time in this city by a company controlled by Messrs Silvanus Dauncey and M. V. Leveaux, the members of which include Mr H B. Warner, Mr Lawrence Grant, and Miss Mona K. Oram. All the fine points of an ingeniously constructed puzzle were brought out with effect, and the humorous and other situations following on a simple mishap to a gentleman's luggage were keenly relished by appreciative audiences. Miss Oram was a charming Lady Verona Mayne, playing with delicacy and also with dramatic force where necessary; Mr H. B. Warner offered an acceptable interpretation of the distracted Sir Joseph Lacy, the cause of all the trouble; Mr Stanley W. Ashworth was a manly Hardolph Mayne; praise is due to Mr Horace Lane for his Harry Tavender; Mr Lawrence Grant was an admirable Jermyn Pyecroft; and others in the cast were Mr Arthur Bell, Mr Cecil Brooking, and Mr Everard Digby. The comedy, which was capitally mounted, was preceded by the lively comedietta Papa's Wife.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. M. Hardie; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Gaffney.—A Royal Divorce has been here this week, and there is evidence that its popularity is almost as great as ever, although it has been fourteen years before the public. Miss Edith Cole, a favourite actress in this part of the country, sustained the rôle of Josephine with her accustomed grace and power. Mr Frederick Victor repeated his able performance of Napoleon; Miss Ethel Murray acted with distinction the part of Marie Louise, and the cast also included Mr Trevor Lowe; Mr Alfred Grenville, Miss Helen Richmond, and Mr Dennis Bryan. The work was well staged and dressed, and there were several effective tableaux.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Licensee, Mr J. G. Howard; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Montgomery, jun.—Messrs Lingford Carson and Granville's company is here this week with the four-act drama A Modern Adventuress, written by the former gentleman. It has been witnessed by appreciative audiences who have followed the unfolding of a well-conceived plot with interest. The principal characters were undertaken by Mr G. D. Knight as the banker, Mr Charles Stirling as his son, Mr Leonard Aardale, a sculptor (his original part), Miss Alice Defoe, and Miss B. M. Anderson. The staging and scenic effects were good.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Coles.—Ethel Arden and George Abel and company in Three of a Kind top the bill here. The Two Bostons, novelty showmen, are amusing; the Four Estrellas are clever and graceful acrobats; Janet Reynolds has a sweet voice, and knows how to use it to advantage; Harrigan and Holt are laughable comedians and clever dancers; Hilton and Hilton are decidedly funny in their bar act; Fred Dunstan is good; and the Lyric Bioscope is much appreciated.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Harris Fineberg; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Simmons.—Large audiences have been present here during the week to witness the four-act drama The Beautiful Avenger, which made its first appearance out of London. The work, which is from the prolific pen of Mr F. A. Scudamore, introduces a new feature upon the stage—viz., radium, the supposed power of which, utilised by the heroine, has a controlling effect upon the actions of several characters. The company is good all round, and is under the direction of Mr F. A. Scudamore and Mr Algernon Syms. In the part of the avenger Miss Daisy Scudamore displayed ability; the character of her lost sister was neatly portrayed by Miss Mabel Scudamore. Mr Syms was an acceptable broken-down artist; the humorous "drunken model," Jim Jhams, found in Mr Fred Withers a capable exponent; Mr Lionel Gillet and Mr William Diamond were the villainous money-lenders; and Miss Cissie Podmore distinguished herself as the outcast boy. The scenery was good.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Responsible Manager, Mr Fred Granville.—During the week Liverpool has been treated to several new things, and among the not least important is the play The Harvest of Sin, which is being given here by Mr Henry Furnival's company. A special feature of the production is the scenery, which is frequently changed, a new picture being introduced each time. Lighthouses, castles, precipices, &c., are shown, while the interior "sets" comprise the back of a theatrical stage and the Hall of Statues. Mr Charles H. Lester handled the dual-part of Harold Mainwaring and his half-brother, Arnold, with care and effect; Mr Sidney Cooper as George Mainwaring, the uncle, displayed considerable talent; Mr Edward Valentine was a capital French Nihilist; and other well-finished parts were in the hands of Mr W. Garrett, Miss Pattie Hastings, Miss Kate Willoughby, and Miss Louisa Peach.

EMPIRE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss; Acting-Manager, Mr T. A. Cook.—Paul Conchas, Continental juggler and armed Hercules, is the chief attraction here this week, and good audiences have witnessed with delight his wonderful feats of strength and dexterity. His performance is certainly novel, and the manner in which he manipulates Krupp shells weighing 84lbs. and 147lbs. respectively provokes surprise. The Poluski Brothers are always welcome to Liverpool, and they had a flattering reception for their laughable entertainment. The remainder of the bill comprises many good items, among which are the Hartley Brothers, with their jumping feats; Homer B. Mason and Marguerite Keeler, in their sketch, Hooked by Crook, which is very amusing; Kahn and Kahn, who provide a clever sleight-of-hand show; Wilson Hallett, an accomplished imitator of children's voices and an expert whistler; Rayfayette's performing dogs; Howard and St. Clair, comedy artistes; Professor Dunning, ventriloquist; Bert Brantford, comedian; the Sisters Govell, duettists and dancers; and the Kreegers, in a musical act.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Miss May Yohe was announced as the strong attraction here this week, but unfortunately indisposition has somewhat interfered with her plans. On Monday evening she had hardly walked upon the stage when she was compelled to go off again and be taken to her hotel, where a medical man was called in. On Tuesday Miss Yohe made another attempt, but broke down in the second house; and on Wednesday evening she was unable to put in an appearance, Miss Lottie Lennox, the favourite comedienne, who is second in importance on the bill, came in for a hearty reception, and had to respond to several encores. Her "Billy Bailey's coming home" evoked much enthusiasm. Miss Lottie Siegenberg's quick-change vocal sketch, "The Lazy Slavey," was an unusually neat turn. Mr Neil Kenyon, with his Scotch patter, evoked much laughter; Sims and Sims scored a success as musical comedians; and others in the programme are Jenny Lynn, queen of comedy; Larry Lewis, comedian; Three Romas, with their feats of strength; Harry Edson, with his performing dog; Three Dagmars, acrobats and tumblers; and D. W. Watson, cornet soloist.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr F. O'Toole.—A very full programme is offered here this week. Ediscope and Barnum's electric animated pictures are a source of great pleasure, and a somewhat unusual novelty is introduced by snap-shots of persons which have been taken in the streets of Liverpool being thrown on the screen. A money prize is given to anyone present who recognises his or her portrait. The company of artistes comprise Poole and Poole, with their comedy act; Florrie Brooklyn, top-boot dancer; Three Funnyosities; the Musical Corlette; T. E. Moet, comedian and dancer; Belford and Mars, comedy duettists; Will Ivor, stilt performer; Clown Ohmy and his dog; Miss Ethel Lucerne, comedienne; and the singing Lancashire mill hand, Jessie Harper.

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor, Mr Edwin W. Smith.—An old Liverpool favourite is Will Hebden, who has this week received a hearty welcome. He brings with him new and old character songs. Herman Friscari is an attractive item in the programme, his manipulation of hats and novelty juggling being exceedingly well performed. Hart and Rudd bring a neat comedy act; the Two Countees are refined duettists; the clever clog dancing of Young Igo is appreciated very much; and other artistes who appear are Harry Manley, comedian and dancer, and Miss Lil Gorman, burlesque actress.

PADDINGTON PALACE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr James Kiernan.—Mr Howell Webb and his comedy-dramatic company is here this week, giving the interesting sketch, The Ship on Fire; or, Our Lads in Blue, which is appropriately staged and performed with smartness and realism. The comic element is largely introduced. Among the general artistes in the programme are Mr Harry Wilbury, vocalist; Emily Huby, elocutionist; Edwin Turner, burlesque artiste; Bella Tilbury, society entertainer; Lewis Thomson, swell comique; Dan Clifford, comedian; and Maud Hastings, soubrette.

WESTMINSTER.—Proprietor, Mr M. Montgomery.—The leading engagement here this week is that of Bell, Pearl, and company, with their capital musical comedy A Bit of String; Keith and Merson provide a good turn as acrobatic singing comedians; the Two Countees are humorous duettists; and others are Bert Weston, swell comedian; Edward Avon and Ethel Crest, with their comedy act; Laura Louise, contralto; and Rose Tilley.

PARK PALACE.—Director, Mr James Kiernan.—Good houses have been the rule during the week to enjoy a well-filled programme. Foremost are the Ringlands, who submit a high-class comedy motor and cycle act, for which they receive hearty applause. Miss May Weatherley and Mr H. F. Ellis, both of whom were formerly connected with the London dramatic stage, provide a capital drawing-room entertainment; Dale and D'Argan make the time pass pleasantly with their conjuring act "Le Café Magique;" Baroux and Bion as eccentric acrobats render a laughable act "Navvies in the Navy;" John Karnell is exceedingly funny with his patter and ditties; and others are Bessie Willow, burlesque actress and vocalist; Mdlle. Lillian Dorle, lady gymnast; Selby and Myers, comedians and dancers; and R. C. Note, swell comique.

LLANDUDNO.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr R. Bellis; Acting-Manager, Mr T. Payn.—Mr Arthur Roberts, supported by an excellent company, was here the first two nights of the week in the comedy The Darling of the Guards.

GRAND THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr C. A. Hatton.—Mr E. Lockwood's company is here this week in the comic opera La Poupée. Mr T. A. Shale (Lancelot) is in fine voice; Mr Eliot Skinner as Father Maxime is excellent; Mr Fred Walsh is well placed as Baron Chanterelle; Mr W. Bink does well as the Notary; Mr Arthur Reynolds scores as Hilarius; Miss Lillie Leigh is successful as Madame Hilarius; Miss Florence Shaw is well placed as Henri; whilst Miss Midge Clark as Alesia is capital, her singing being excellent.

LONGTON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. S. Howard.—Mr F. Brooke Warren's Mysteries of the Thames maintains the popularity achieved at its former visit here. Mr Roy Fortescue as Richard Brandon, the victim of the plot, is well placed. Captain James Denbigh is ably impersonated by Mr F. Brooke Warren. Very amusing personages are Bill Boscoe and Peter Waggles in the hands of Messrs Elton Morgan and Dan Hardie. A pleasing juvenile rôle is that of Little Dorris, played by Miss Nellie Palmer. The dual-part of Helen Price and Grace Rochdale is capably sustained by Miss Gwynne Warren. Miss Flo Norman is diverting as Emma Seaton, and the Kate Brandon of Miss Lallah Shelton is an excellent representation.

MANCHESTER.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr George Lee.—Ralph Lumley's sporting farcical comedy, Thoroughbred, has been presented here this week by a clever company, under the direction of Messrs A. Coventry and John R. Collins. Mr Percy Bell fills the leading comedy part of John Rimple with distinction. Mr Edward A. Coventry has capital opportunities as the Hon. Blenkinsop Carlingham; and other good parts are very capably filled by Mr Richard Boleyn, Mr Allan Cunard, Mr George Elliston, Miss Hilda Stewart, Miss Mary Smith, Miss Katherine Parry, and Miss Beatrice Egerton. The comedy is preceded by the one-act play entitled Cutting Out a Prize.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr W. H. Broadhead; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Messrs Preston and Doherty's company are here this week in Lady Godiva, a drama which quite recently produced the most satisfactory impressions upon local audiences. Miss Hilda Shirley is excellent in the title-part, and capital interpretations are given by Mr Alfred Adams as Peeping Tom, Mr Lionel D'Aragon as Algar, Mr Dan F. Roe as Robin Shacklebolt, and Mr James Duncan as Edgar the Nameless. The drama is excellently mounted, and is played throughout with capital effect.

METROPOLE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Mr J. Rice Cassidy and his company are here this week in the musical play Dan the Rake.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr H. M. Thornburn.—Melodrama is again the attraction here this week, Messrs Gordyn and Gelling's company in The Temptress, by William P. Sheen, occupying the boards. The piece is full of exciting, pathetic and humorous incidents, and the interest is sustained throughout. As the temptress Miss Grace E. Leslie is seen to great advantage, and the acting of Mr Frederick D. Daviss as Lucas Denbeigh, the mesmerist, is marked with fine distinction. Excellent also is the performance of Mr Henry W. Hatchman as Pedro Gonzalez and of Miss Ada M. Ryder as Madge Denbeigh. Mr George Dalper as Philip Welford, the hero, is very commendable, and very pleasing is Miss Vashti Wynne as the heroine. Considerable amusement is caused by Mr Herbert Williams, an excellent comedian, as Bob Tanner, Mr Will G. Gelling as Francis Fitz-Fluke, Mr Johnny Chippendale as Gregory, and Miss Mattie Everett as Rhoda Brown. Other prominent parts are satisfactorily filled by Mr Arthur Sheldon, Mr Wilfred Grahame, and Mr Wallace Bosco. The scenery is elaborate, and the general mounting of the play is excellent.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Miss Marie Menzies' company occupies the stage here this week, in A Rogue's Daughter, a drama of decided interest. Mr Frank V. Fenn does well in the part of Sir George Maynard, and Miss Marie Menzies has ample opportunities in the rôle of Letty Grey to show the extent of her abilities. Others who distinguish themselves are Mr Wilfrid Blair, Mr Richard Ferris, Mr Charles Stimson, Mr Will Wilson, Mr A. Hall-Menzies, Mr E. Palatiet, Miss May Wynlard, and Miss Mabel Hall.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead. — Heading the bill here this week are the Scottish Meisters, a Highland comedy quartet whose good singing and humorous ways are much appreciated. Harry Grey, the Australian vocalist, is an excellent comedian, and gains well-deserved applause; Fred Horsfall is an exceedingly good mimic; the Josberthos in their speciality act do some clever acrobatic feats of strength, the lady members in particular showing to advantage; and the Burgatiles contribute a clever and novel musical turn. Much laughter is caused by the Geoffreys in a smart sketch entitled A Bit of Bacon; Caselli and James are expert banjoists; Cordite manipulates the lasso and spins rope in a surprising manner; and acrobatic turns are contributed by Tell and Tell and the Two Willis.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead. The principal item in this week's entertainment is Fred Karno's farcical pantomimic sketch Hilarity, which is favourably received. The clever sleight-of-hand performance of Satsuma, the Japanese wonder-worker, meets with much applause, and Helene and Emilion supply a gymnastic turn of merit. Much interest is aroused by Mystery Gauze, a clever Canadian female impersonator; and well received are the songs of Wal Croft, Scotch comedian; the sketch offered by Rutland and company; and the vocal and acrobatic efforts of Steeley and Dowton. Other enjoyable items are supplied by the Parez Trio in musical act; Will Godwin, dramatic vocalist; Mintos, trick mandolinists; and the Earles, expert banjoists.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr Arthur B. Wilkes.—Prominent and well received here this week are Fanny Wentworth, in her smart musical sketches at the piano; the popular and entertaining Irish comedian, Joe O'Gorman; and George Newburn, whose excellent imitations of music hall stars are greatly appreciated. Jessica Grace, a pleasing comedienne, is highly successful in her burlesque coon song; Bob Stephenson, comedian, sings two songs with an effective dance added; W. Salmon is a clever trick cyclist, and delightful dancing and vocal turns are contributed by the Three Sisters Selwyn, Gladys Archbutt, and Mabelle May.

GRAND.—Lessees, Messrs Thomas Barrasford and Will Sley; Manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun.—Fred Karno's musical and pantomimical extravaganza, The Dandy Thieves, forms the chief item here this week, with Mr Harry Roxbury as Sergeant Lightning and Miss J. Newcombe as Lady Maude Easem. Some excellent glee singing is introduced by the Empire Quintet. Successful turns also are provided by Nadji, who goes through an exceedingly clever performance in equipoise, dancing, contortion, and hand-balancing; Harry Hayton, an amusing comedian; J. H. Hawtrey, actor-vocalist; Mdlle. De Rose, lady baritone vocalist, who makes a big hit.

PALACE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr P. Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr J. H. Stringer.—Engaged here this week is Miss Alice Pierce, who gives some vivid imitations of well-known actresses. The Boisset Troupe also succeed in arousing enthusiasm by their comic sketch The Dock Strike; while the excellent business of the Haytors, sketch artistes; Frank Sylvo, quaint comedy juggler; and Harry Taft, whistling comedian, is not allowed to pass without the fullest appreciation of the house. Other good turns are done by Orpheus, instrumental specialist; Annie Casey, comedienne; Fyne and Hurley, in a novel act; Charles Chard, eccentric comedian; and Palles and Cussick, the "rib ticklers." A good series of pictures is shown also, and the orchestra contributes a choice and enjoyable selection.

ARDWICK GREEN EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Will Collins.—Houses filled to overflowing are the rule here this week, attracted principally by the popular Eugene Stratton, who meets with an enthusiastic reception at every performance, his tuneful songs, with characteristic and unique dances added, being greatly enjoyed. Another big turn is that of Charles Morritt, the renowned illusionist, who successfully mystifies the audience, and also introduces a blind man with an astonishing memory for dates, who calculates with lightning rapidity. An attractive turn of local interest is Selkirk's spectacle All Scotch, performed by one hundred well-trained children. Marguerite and Hanley are seen to advantage in a clever and graceful hand balancing and sensational wire display; Charles Fanning causes laughter with his amusing patter and songs; Fifi sings and dances in a pleasing manner; Walter Emerson is a capital comedian, and is well received; the Bioscope shows a series of interesting pictures; and roars of laughter reward the antics of the Karno Trio in their comedy sketch The Travellers' Rest and the Brothers Lang in their burlesque boxing act.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Will Smithson.—Messrs Darcy and Little's company is here with The Executioner's Daughter. Mr Edwd. Hamilton gives an impressive interpretation of Monsieur Roche; Felix Marius is powerfully represented by Mr George Beverley; Mr Wilson Howard is particularly good as Paul Rovel; Mr Sinclair Holden admirably portrays Vivian Ormonde; the difficult part of Kretch is cleverly enacted by Mr W. H. Sharpe; and Mr E. W. Avery is smart and effective as Tom Holmes. Miss Dorothy Riddell fills the rôle of Annette with tenderness and grace; Miss Carlotta Anson presents a careful study of Felice; and Miss May Rosine is well received as Sally King.

MEXBOROUGH.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. H. Melton.—Mr Henry Johnson's company is playing here this week in the drama The Bank of England, founded on an adventure in the life of Sherlock Holmes. Mr Geo. Henry gives a dramatic rendering of Sherlock Holmes; the Stephen Hartley of Mr Juan De Alberti is a successful effort; Mr E. Walton does well as Sir Sydney Barraclough; Mr Chas. Ninian makes a typical Jew as Gordon Isaacs; Mr Chas. H. Gallier is a capable Eric Dane; and Mr T. Ernstone scores as Godfrey Dane. Miss Ada Collins plays gracefully in the rôle of Sylvia Barraclough; a clever American character study is that of Miss Marie Loreth as Aminta J. Bean; and Miss Amy Ellam presents a pathetic portraiture of Margaret Dane.

MORECAMBE.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee, Lieut. Julian Malvern; General Manager, Mr C. M. Julian.—That delightful comedy Cousin Kate, by H. H. Davies, has been produced with great success during the week by Mr Percy and Miss Emma Hutchison's company, including Miss Lilias Earle (Cousin Kate) and Mr York Stephens (Heath Desmond), both of whom have achieved distinction in the leading parts. Other parts have been filled by Misses Helen Leyton, Hilda Houiss, Betty Castle; Messrs Walter Ringham and Vyvian Thomas. A Case for Eviction, by S. Theyre Smith, precedes Cousin Kate.

WINTER GARDENS. — General Manager, Mr William Holland.—The ballets Jolly Jack and Dresden China are running most successfully. Several cake-walk contests have proved highly attractive, and last Wednesday, out of twenty-one couples competing, three prizes went to Liverpool. Varieties have been given by the Brothers Redmond, eccentric comedians; Fergana Trio, acrobats and balancers; Ernie Myers, comedian; Lily Lonsdale, ballad vocalist; and Marion Scott, comedienne.

CENTRAL PIER.—Manager, Mr E. Hill.—The bill here is headed by Cee Mee and Family, who have delighted holiday audiences with their clever aerial gymnastics. F. V. St. Clair's politico-topical songs "fetch" every time. Tom Bassett, Shakespearian comedian; Vosper, with several new impersonations of celebrities; Cuthbert Allen, baritone; Learto, musical act, with his dog, Babs; the Redferns, lady dancers and banjoists; Weston and May, in a sketch Married Life; and Lanos and Montes, clever comedy acrobats, are also showing.

ALHAMBRA PALACE.—Manager, Alderman John Gardner.—The following bill has been presented during the week:—The Sarnthalers, Tyrolean lady singers and dancers; Joad Heteb, wizard; Carle and Carmanelli, in the sensational novelty, The Electric Moulding Mill; the Valveros; Mdlle. Agnes Krembser, lady juggler; Lanton and Lane, comedians; Professor M'Cann, with his performing Irish terriers; and the Five Bogannys, lunatic comedians.

WEST-END PIER.—Manager, Mr John Porter.—Included in the programme at this place have been the Miles Stavordale Quintet, "Songs Without Singers;" Winnie Scott, comedienne; Miss Irene Rose, burlesque actress; Signor and Madame Borelli; Marie Winsome, male impersonator; Oswald, equilibrist; Duncan, juggler; and Sanford and Lyons, comedians.

ALBERT HALL.—Manager, Mr Harry Hargreaves.—The Merrions (Will, Fred, and Harry) have been entertaining seaside visitors here with sketch, jest, and song.

MANSFIELD.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr T. Doncaster; Musical Director, Mr T. W. Renshaw.—This theatre reopened for the season on Monday, when Miss Daisy De Roy and Mdlle. Lucretia's company gave a successful representation of the musical comedy burlesque entitled An English Belle. Mdlle. Lucretia submitted a bright interpretation of Jack Tenant, and Miss Daisy De Roy was excellent as Alice Oatfield. Mr Frank Royle as Mrs Oatfield caused much merriment. The dancing of the Lou Roi Quartet was repeatedly applauded, the solo dances by Miss Essie Perrin being specially worthy of praise.

MARGATE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr C. F. Bawtree.—On the first three nights of the week Mr Wentworth Croke's company has appeared here in The Christian. Miss Grace Chalmers achieved success as Glory Quayle; Mr Harry Scott portrayed John Quayle with dramatic force; Parson Quayle had a conscientious impersonator in Mr Charles Hill; Mr Stanley Radcliffe played well as Father Lamplagh; Mr Charles E. Dering admirably depicted Archdeacon Wealthy; and Mr Charles E. Bedells undertook with ability the rôle of Lord Ure.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. Macknight; Business-Manager, Mr Chas. E. Hardy.—Mr Norman V. Norman and company are here with Under the Red Robe. The play is well dressed, and special scenery has been painted by Messrs James Cooke and assistants. Mr Robert Hilton played forcibly as Cardinal Richelieu, and admirably doubled with it the part of Henri De Cocheforet. Mr J. Forrest did well as Marquis De Pombal, and Mr Robert J. Danson was good as Captain Larolle. Mr Norman V. Norman sustained with tact and skill the rôle of Gil De Berault. As M. De Fargis Mr Barnett Parker was efficient, and the other male characters were in capital hands. Miss Kathleen Rind as Madame De Cocheforet, Miss Lilian Kevil-Davies as Madame Zaton, and Miss F. Glossop-Harris as Suzette were especially good. Miss Beatrice Wilson enacted Renée De Cocheforet with ability, her efforts eliciting well-deserved applause.

HALL-BY-THE-SEA.—Sole Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr Charles Evans.—This week's company includes the always popular Walter Munroe, Irish comedian, who meets with a cordial reception. Miss P. Hazard sings well, and Eugene and Willie amuse in their speciality acrobatic act. La Belle Nello is a clever contortionist, and Jack Charman, boy vocalist, sings tunefully. The Sisters Urma (Leona and Maude), trapeze artistes, are decidedly smart, and Walter Payne's Bio-photoscope is well up-to-date.

LORD GEORGE SANGER'S CIRCUS visited the town on Monday, and, in spite of extremely boisterous weather, attracted large crowds at both the afternoon and evening performances.

MIDDLESBROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, the Middlesbrough Theatres, Limited; Managing-Directors, Messrs Geo. and Chas. Imeson.—Messrs Percy D. Standing and Monckton Hoffe's company is fulfilling a week's engagement here in His Excellency the Governor. Mr Percy D. Standing in the title-rôle is excellent. Mr William Allison's dry humour as Mr John Bowerstock, the Governor's private secretary, keeps the houses in a hilarious mood. As Henry Carlton Mr Monckton Hoffe creates a favourable impression, and Mr Frank Bally's Capt. Charles Carew is a capital study. Miss Nora Hoffe as Stella De Lex scores a great success. Miss Isabel Grey's Mrs Wentworth-Bolingbroke is extremely smart and amusing, and as Ethel Miss Joan Ellis is charming. The curtain-raiser, The Lady Who Dwelt in the Dark, is well played.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, the Middlesbrough Grand Opera House Company, Limited; Licensee and Manager, Mr T. Hopcutt.—A Path of Thorns is being presented here under the personal supervision of J. M. Hardie and S. B. Von Leer. Mr Claude King appears in the title-rôle, and he and Miss Violet Luddington as Bessie Edmunds give a most impressive rendering of their respective parts. Mr Cyril Mackay as the Rev. Frank Selby is very good. Mr Alfred Lester and Miss Amy Rogerson as Sam Hallet and Jane Adelaide are most amusing. Jonas Deane is in the capable hands of Mr Cecil Du Gue. Mr G. M. Cooke as Jim Price and Mr W. L. Reynold as Gabbitt respectively are genuinely funny, and Mr G. Cooke's John Langley is good. Miss Winifred Pearson as Constance Howard is charming, and Miss M. S. Burt scores as Nellie Hallet. Mr H. F. Wright (Dr. Gaye), Mr Francis Dacre (Mr Pickford), Mr John Chevington, and Mr Dunstan Haye also contribute to the success of the play.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Brill; Manager, Mr J. W. Thornborrow.—Mr George Grey and company are here in the highly successful sketch, The Fighting Parson. The production meets with an enthusiastic reception. Ryan and Hall, acrobats and comedians, are entertaining; Kitts and Windrum, society entertainers, are as successful as on the previous visits; Miss Beattie Bloom, comedienne, sings some good songs; and Wisper is a clever juggler. The Hamiltons, vocalists and dancers, are smart; Percy Honri is an excellent concertina player; and Miss Katie Butler, character comedienne, meets with a good reception.

OXFORD.—Lessee, Mr Wm. Robinson; Manager, Mr Wm. Ainsworth.—The Chamberlains' show is a decided novelty, their rope manipulating and lassoo work being very smart; and the double trapeze act of the Sisters Geretti is a daring performance. V. J. De Henau executes some clever paintings with his feet; Pete and Juno are clever real coon singers and dancers; and Mdlle. Aladina with her performing cockatoos; Peter Kelly, comedian; and Miss Jenny Belmore, dancer, are good.

MOTHERWELL.

NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident Manager, Mr W. Gillespy.—Mr Richard Waldon's stock company is here this week in East Lynne. Before a crowded house Miss Grace Lester in the rôle of Lady Isabel acts with great tenderness and pathos. Mr Lewis Leslie scores a success as Archibald Carlyle, and as Cornelia Carlyle Miss Jenny Macintyre is well received. Mr Hugh Montgomery scores as Francis Levison, and Miss Margaret R. Frame makes a graceful Barbara Hare. Little Miss Barker gives a clever impersonation of little Willie; Lawyer Dill is embodied with considerable tact by Mr Stuart Forbes; the part of Justice Hare is well acted by Mr Jos. Barker, and as Richard Hare Mr Frank V. Fenn is also very good.

NEWPORT.

LYCEUM. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Sidney Cooper.—Mr Harry Foxwell's company is engaged here this week, in Shadows of a Great City. Mr Newton Pearce as Jim Farren is a typical character; Mr Harry Foxwell as Abe Nathan is extremely funny in a variety of styles; and Miss Sheila Walsh plays the part of Annie Standish and Nellie Standish (mother and daughter) with deep feeling. Other parts are in good hands, and the piece is capitally staged.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr O. Stoll.—The star turn here is an amusing sketch, The Bachelor's Dream, by Mr Fred Edwards and Miss May Edouin. Another sketch, An Artist's Studio, is given by Werner-Amorus Troupe, who are real comedians as well as jugglers; Charles Austin is a quaint comedian; the Tribune Trio, in their grotesque sketch, The Cheerful Idiot, afford much amusement; and Miss Florence Esdaile, a brilliant soprano, sings a medley of operatic airs with signal success. Tennyson and Wallis, comedians, are responsible for a lot of fun; the Stavordale Quintet of lady and gentlemen banjoists play well; James Stewart succeeds in proving himself a "funny tramp;" and the bill includes several Biograph pictures.

NEW BRIGHTON.

GRAND TOWER THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Albert Bulmer.—Lily Marney, character comedienne, does a "taking" turn here. The strong company includes the Ladderites with a clever and original ladder performance; Geo. Wyres, a quaint comedian, who is well received; Frank Bertram and company, who present an amusing farcical comedy sketch, The Chaperon; the Three Zaracs, who introduce a novel comedy sketch on the triple horizontal bars, entitled Mashing the Barmaid; Mollie Doon, a dainty comedienne and coon songstress; and Little Zola, who scores heavily in "The Ghost of Sarah Porter."

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager. Mr Fred C. Sutcliffe.—The Toreador is providing capital entertainment here. Considerable changes are to be noted in the personnel of Mr George Edwardes's company. Mr T. W. Volt is happily placed as the amiable swell, Sir Archibald Slackitt; and Mr Lionel Victor is smart as the "tiger." The title-part is safely entrusted to Mr John Ronald. Miss Daisy Stratton makes a bright Susan, and Miss Nellie Bouverie as Dora Selby appears with credit. Pettifer has a good exponent in Mr W. H. Powell. Miss Alice Oppitz as Donna Teresa sings and acts finely. Miss Daisy Wallace, Miss Nancy Langtyre, Mr Fred Fowler, and Mr E. Nainby are successful in their respective rôles.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Teale Lingham.—Fresh from his successful South African tour, Mr James Welch opened his provincial campaign here on Monday with The New Clown, and in the title-rôle his humorous acting pleased as much as ever. The circus proprietor was excellently embodied by Mr G. H. Snazelle, and Miss Audrey Ford repeated her charming impersonation of Rosie. Prominent performances are also those of Misses Alexandra Carlisle and Estelle Winwood; Messrs Cyril Harcourt, Leonard Buttress, and Harry J. Crane. On Monday Mr Welch also appeared successfully in the one-act play The Man in the Street.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr T. W. Rowe.—The domestic drama Two Little Sailor Boys is being performed here by a company under the direction of Mr W. H. Hallatt, who capitally sustains the leading rôle of Commander Tregarthen. Good support is forthcoming from Mr Geo. C. Murray, Mr Sid Cotterell, Miss Blanche Steele, and Miss Marie Daventry.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Director, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident Manager, Mr E. Leslie Conroy.—A great attraction here is the appearance of Dan Leno, and the popular comedian's reception has been of the heartiest description. Supporting him there are Bella and Bijou, society entertainers; the Leggetts, sketch artists; Stelling and Revell, comedy gymnasts; C. F. Best, comedian; Rezene and Robini, comedians on the bars; Two Graces, duettists and dancers; Frank Lynne, character comedian; Max Welson Troupe, in their gymnastic speciality; Will Cornish, musical specialist; and Bard and O'Brien, in their comedy wire act.

PAVILION THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr Will H. Boardman.—John L. Shine and company are presenting the sketch Hogmanay; and there are also appearing here Joe Almasio, in his juggling and jumping act; Rosina Caselli, with her performing Mexican dogs; Harry Allister, character impersonator; Edward Clode, baritone vocalist; Alma Grey, comedienne; Fred Walker, comedian; Alfred Hurley, vocalist; George Schindler, in his musical speciality; and Edie Rivers, comedienne.

OLYMPIA.—Lessees, Messrs R. Thornton and Sidney Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Nelson Barry.—Mr Frank E. Burdett's company is here successfully engaged in the task of presenting that familiar drama The Indian Mutiny.

GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, the Newcastle and Gateshead Theatres, Limited; Managing Director, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Ernest W. Bacon.—The top of the bill here is occupied by Harry Rochez, with a troupe of cleverly trained ponies and dogs; Misses Lytton, operatic duettists, give an excellent turn, which is much appreciated; Percy Curry causes much laughter with his performance; a coloured child, Texas Hattie, does well as an acrobatic tight-rope performer; Mdlle. Florence, globe walker, gives a smart exhibition of her skill; the Clarks prove themselves clever banjo experts; Marcus Boyle, comedian, gives a good turn; as do Denby and Dent, in their act, The Musical Barber; the Marconis introduce some interesting electrical experiments, including wireless telegraphy; and Ada Fawn, a smart comedienne, scores with a couple of capital songs.

NORTH SHIELDS.

BOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager Mr Arthur Jefferson; General Manager, Mr Horace Lee; Secretary, Mr Gordon Jefferson.—Mr Fred Cooke and his company are here this week, opening on Monday with The Brand of Shame. Mr Fred Cooke as Barney O'Moore was quite at home in the part, and came in for his usual hearty reception. Mr W. Stevenson gave a capital impersonation of Sir Adam Fairfax, Mr Dan Farrough made the most of Kane Fairfax, and Mr H. Edwards Cecil was seen to advantage as Abel Fairfax. Miss Gladys Gilchrist as Zanette Zola acquitted herself with conspicuous success; Miss Ada Frank was well placed as Nat, the Nipper; Miss Davidge Hender came in for a good share of public recognition as Constance Hetherington; Miss Nelly Kinnaird was successful as Molly Molloy; and the remaining characters were well sustained. The Diver's Luck has also been presented during the week.

NEW CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Wm. Mould.—The Young American Quintet, vocalists and dancers, are scoring a great success here; Messrs Reed and Wright, comedians and top-boot dancers, are clever; and Gintaro, juggler and top spinner, performs some wonderful feats. Henriot and Seuvien, burlesque conjurors; Miss Ada Whitton, male impersonator; the Five Zerbinis, in their musical act; and the Bio-Photoscope also meet with favour.

NORWICH.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Manager, Mr Fred Morgan.—Messrs Perry and Stanton's company in The Sporting Girl is here. Mr George Perry gives a good representation of Mr Penton Hook; Mr Jas. H. Sterling as George Drewitt exhibits ability; Mr Marcus Grey does well as Marco Castellino; Miss Maggie Stanton as Kitty Fitzroy throws plenty of energy into her performance; and Miss Gladys St. Leger is responsible for much fun as Martha. Mr Percy Watson as Jack Garling, Mr Chas. Phillips as Gerald Haynes, Mr Horace Moseley as Rev. Jno. Bunyan, Mr Will Prescot as Slodge, and Mr Edmond Pelham as Alfred Jones make the most of their respective parts. Miss Marjorie Tennant as Mrs Owen and Miss Clara Knowles as Amy Beddoe ably assist.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr F. W. Fitt; Musical Director, Captain Selby.—Mr J. H. Milburn has a hearty welcome here, and immense enthusiasm greets his singing of "The Old Mulberry Tree;" Troba exhibits skill and ability as an athlete-juggler; Johnny Holland and company, in their absurdity My Friend Boots, create much fun; the Five Foys introduce some clever acrobatic tricks in their sketch The Excursion Depôt; Will Poluski, jun., is a capital comedian and dancer; and Maud Marlowe pleases with her ballad singing. The Katos, Komical Kidgets, in their automatic theatre, are amusing; Walton and Lester, the world's worst wizards, are well received; and the Ernestine Trio, in their funny sketch The Yorkshire Lad in London, are screamingly funny.

NORTHAMPTON.

OPERA HOUSE. — Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. J. Andrews.—East Lynne is being played here this week, with Miss Lilian Dundas as Lady Isabel, supported by Mr Henry Dundas as Archibald Carlyle, Mr Hope Conquest as Captain Francis Levison, Mr Charles Bartham as Justice Hare, Mr Henry Lawrence as Lawyer Dill, Mr Lionel Bailey as Lord Mountsevern, Mr Hugh Montgomery as Richard Hare; Mr Vere Gore as Barbara Hare, Miss Nellie Holmes as Miss Corney Carlyle, Miss Pauline Garside as Susanne, Miss Rose Helene as Affy Hallijohn, Miss Marion Ryder as Little Willie Carlyle, and Miss Daisy Cooke as Little Isabel Carlyle.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting Manager, Mr Robert Barton.—The programme presented this week is headed by The Enemy of Man, a mystic episode, produced by W. J. Mackay. In the bill are also Miss Kate Donn, a refined serio and dancer; Selbo, a clever juggler with clubs, &c.; Minnie Moran, comedienne and dancer; the Danbys, who furnish great amusement as Weary Willie and Tired Tim; Ernest Wilson, an actor-vocalist of ability; and the Sisters Terry, two charming vocalists.

NOTTINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Howard Finney; Treasurer, Mr Bernard Hishin.—East Lynne forms the fare provided this week, played by Messrs H. Armitage and Percy Burton's company. Miss Bessie Rignold gives a thoroughly artistic and impressive rendering of Lady Isabel, winning much sympathy from the audience for this unfortunate lady. Miss Hilda Stainer plays carefully as Barbara Hare, and Miss F. Olive deserves hearty commendation for her portrayal of Cornelia Carlyle. Mr William F. Grant sustains the part of Archibald Carlyle admirably, and Mr George Spence offers a capital reading of Lord Mountsevern. Mr Paul Belmore brings out the scoundrelly nature of Francis Levison with force and success. Mr Stafford Smith is naturally responsible for much of the merriment by his amusing portraiture of Bullock, and Miss Maude Bartlett makes a spirited Suzanne. Minor parts are well sustained by Messrs Fred Owen, W. Heilbron, and W. F. Clitherow.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Chas. P. Cooke.—A capital audience on Monday greeted The Face at the Window, and its sensational developments were done justice to by Messrs Armadale and Warren's company. Mr Hoggan Armadale suggested the crafty and nefarious character of Lucio Delgado with excellent results. Mr T. W. Dunscombe essayed the rôle of the Detective in his customary conscientious style, making himself a general favourite. Mr George Pythian was a satisfactory Henry De Brisson, and Mr Bob Anderson showed good work as Peter Pottlebury. Mr C. Alan Hineson rendered capital service as Le Blanc, and Mr Alfred Richards scored in the part of Lucien Cortier. Miss Jeannie Dempster had the rôle of La Pinau well in hand, giving a strong and vigorous portrayal. Miss Marie Florence as Marie De Brisson offered a refined representation, and Miss Lizzie Chambers proved highly entertaining as Babette.

KING'S THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr George H. Beagle.—A Beautiful Fiend is well calculated to please audiences here, as was evinced by the measure of applause given on Monday to Messrs Beaudyn and Livesey's company. Miss Sidney Crowe sustained the title-rôle in no uncertain manner, and much of the success is due to her sterling work. Mr Montague Beaudyn invested Ivan Paulovitch with a manly bearing that gained him much commendation, and the villainy of Karateff was strongly and conscientiously portrayed by Mr A. G. Polson Turner. A good embodiment of Sergius Strogoff was given by Mr A. F. Dudley, and an excellent rendering of the drunken Crackles was supplied by Mr Charles Kean. Miss Irene Munroe made an interesting and pathetic heroine as Nadine Karateff, and Miss Annie Clunn helped the comedy element by her admirable performance as Patty Woodlands.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Hatton Wharton.—A capital programme is presented this week, headed by Kelly and Gillette, whose clever performance on the billiard table is greatly enhanced by their comical antics. The other end of the bill is worthily occupied by Conway and Leland, the monopedes, who gain the heartiest plaudits for their skilful and merry tricks. Helen Charles deserves fully the recognition given to her dainty and artistic rendering of the song, "Good-night, beloved." The Herald Comedy Four repeat their pantomime successes of last Christmas at the Grand Theatre here. Cliff Ryland is a host in himself, delivering his quaint patter to the ripple of continuous laughter. Carlotta Levey wins instant favour by her spirited manner and singing of "Bill Bailey." The Tally-Ho Trio help the fun in no unmistakable way; and James Curry is suitably rewarded for his contribution. The Lyons Trio are seen in a knockabout and dancing item; and the performing dog of J. C. Jimson once more demonstrates the value of patience and kindness.

NUNEATON.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE AND ENTERTAINMENTS COMPANY, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr F. S. Gilbert's English opera company are giving an excellent programme here this week. Maritana was the chosen piece for the opening night. On Tuesday The Bohemian Girl proved acceptable. Mr F. S. Gilbert was highly successful as Thaddeus, his fine voice being heard to great advantage in "When other lips;" Mr F. H. Erle was good as the Count, and sung in excellent voice; Mr E. Davies as Devilshoof was exceedingly well suited; Miss Vera Vizard as the Gipsy Queen was successful; Mr E. Fredericks was an amusing Captain of the Guard; Mr Stewart Bolton did well as Florestine; and Miss Constance S. Bride as Arline was as much in favour as on her previous visits. Miss Kate White as Buda gave some graceful and pretty dances. The opera was well staged, and the costumes in excellent taste. The augmented orchestra was under the bâton of Mr Charles Rye. Included in the week's programme are Faust, Il Trovatore, and A Daughter of the Regiment.

OXFORD.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr H. G. P. Wells.—Mr Walter Melville's company is here this week in The Worst Woman in London. Mr Edwin J. Collins may be congratulated upon his fine acting as Jack Felton, and Mr Bernard Mervyn is a very striking Phillip Armstrong. Vincent Lyle, has a worthy exponent in Mr Paul Barry Lewers. As Hugh Drayton, Mr J. Bracewell is a genuine success, and Mr H. M. Payne interprets the rôle of James Milford with commendable consistency. Mr George H. Asquin as Bob Goldfinch and Miss Helena Rigby as Matilda Parker convulse the house with laughter, and Miss Richardson is an ideal Jane Nogood. Miss Lillian Ross enlists the sympathy of her audience by her charming and unaffected impersonation of Ruth Milford. Miss Constance Medwyn imbues the character of Frances Vere with considerable attraction. The play is well mounted.

PERTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Aldridge.—Mr John Cassidy's company in The New Muldoon's Picnic is here. Messrs Edwin Garth and W. G. Wesley as Michael Malcahy and Dennis Muldoon are "moving spirits" in a good all round cast and elicit continuous and hearty mirth. Mr Leo Whamboult is amusing as Mrs Muldoon. Mr Reg. Kloof as Juno Smith gives a very entertaining musical display. Messrs W. H. Montgomery, C. Cromwell, Gilbert Hall, H. Gilbert, and H. Halliday, as Johnny O'Brien, Gussie Tearle, Dr. O'Rafferty, Captain Mishla, and Jack Donovan all worked hard. Miss Florrie Mandeville as Ada M'Loughlin and Miss Nora Waylett as Cora Muldoon are very entertaining, Miss Madge Cassidy as Kitty Muldoon scored a success, and Miss Florrie Mandeville's dancing is well worthy of the applause it receives.

PORTH.

POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE. — Manager, Mr W. Bynorth.—Mr Robert Perris's company opened on Monday in the American drama entitled A Fight for Millions. Mr Robert Perris displays much ability as Tom Manley; Mr W. S. Stephenson gives a powerful rendering of the part of Richard Dudley; Mr J. Newton Cowling supplies a capital representation of Hudson Rivers; Miss Eva's Purcell's impersonation of Pearl Rivers well merits commendation; Miss Evelyn Robson meets with a good reception as Helen Dudley, the part being effectively rendered by her; Miss Gertie Douglas ably sustains the characters of Betty and Mag Brady; Miss Fannie Williams is all that could be desired as Mrs Hudson Rivers; Miss Winnie Acton deserves praise as Little Madge; and the comedy portions are satisfactorily undertaken by Mr Fred Acton as Solomon Moses and Mr Larry Clement as Willie Neverwork. The chief feature of the play is the submarine boat, which is introduced in the third act, and is quite effective.

PORTSMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Bell.—Messrs A. and J. Gatti and Mr Charles Frohman's company is here this week, presenting for the first time in Portsmouth that charming comedy Quality Street, which has been received with every mark of approval by appreciative audiences. Miss Grace Armytage Noble gives a finished and delightful impersonation of Miss Phœbe Throssell; Miss May Whitty as Miss Susan Throssell acts very gracefully; Valentine Brown, in the hands of Mr David Glassford, is deserving of all praise; the Patty of Miss Lizzie Scobie is well rendered, and caused much amusement; Ensign Blades and Lieutenant Spicer are played by Mr A. Carlaw Grand and Mr Reginald Watson respectively.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr T. E. Agate.—Mr George Kirk and Miss Mary Neil's company is here in Judy; or, the Fatal Hand. Miss Florrie Groves in the name-part is much applauded for her clever and successful acting. The Grip of Mr George Kirk is another good study. Mr Carlton Wallace as Duburg, the viper, is an excellent villain. Miss Mary Neil, in the dual-part of Alice, the victim, and Polly, the coster, has very arduous work, but accomplishes it to the entire satisfaction of the audience. Blake, the wretch, finds an able exponent in Miss Muriel Thompson. The remaining parts are all well filled.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr W. Pratt.—George Gilbey, character patter comedian, is convulsing the audiences nightly with his funny comicalities; Flo D'Orville, versatile artiste, is well received, her singing and dancing being of a high order; Wal Pink and company, in their novelty sketch Peggy, are distinctly good; Edgar Granville, comedian, meets with the approval of the audience; Fred Russell, ventriloquial humourist, is a capital turn; and Brindall and Cooper, eccentrics and Terpsichorean experts; Kitty Bell, vocalist and expert dancer; and Payne's Photo-Bioscope, with all the up-to-date subjects, go to make up an excellent all-round programme.

PRESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Stephen Pritt.—Mr Charles March's company is here in The Priest of the Temple. In the rôle of Valerius Mr Chas. March gives a strong and dignified impersonation. Decus Fronto has a powerful exponent in Mr Ronald Bayne. The Appius Herdonius of Mr Henry Moxon is an excellent embodiment. Miss Evelyn Hope is decidedly successful as Polita, and praise must be accorded to Miss Maria North for her realistic and pleasing delineation of Præstantia.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Sawyer and Woodruff.—The attraction here this week is The Sins of a City, which is well played by Miss Winifred Maude's company. Mr Norman A. Overton as Ralph Blackwater, K.C., gives a masterful rendering of the part; and much praise is due to Miss Winifred Maude for her clever and charming portrayal of Seaweed. Mr Ivan Gore does well as Donald M'Ivor; and Mr Victor Du Cane is very amusing as Isaac Levi. Miss Mary Lyons effectively embodies Lesbia, and other parts are ably sustained by Mr J. W. Baxter. Miss Eva Reed, and Mr Manton. Miss Agnes Norman as Mrs Miggs creates hearty laughter; and Mr W. E. Simpson as Johnson and Mr Reginald Green as the Porter create much fun. The play, which is well staged, is presented under the direction of Mr Victor Du Cane.

RAWTENSTALL.

GRAND THEATRE.—Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr J. Ellis Miller.—A clever performance of The Scarlet Woman was given here on Monday evening by Miss Rosalind Scott Watson's company. As Marie Brandon Miss Scott Watson gave a very fine interpretation of the part, and she was ably supported by Mr H. J. Lewis as the villain, Will Raymond. Miss Muriel Allayne as Margery Honor did full justice to the rôle, whilst Miss Lalla Cowell as Fanchette and Mr Reginald Fox as Samuel provided plenty of fun. They also gave a cake-walk which was thrice encored. Miss Ruby Hamilton as Charlotte was good. Mr Reginald Fox as Philip Gordon and Mr Ernest J. Fare as Marchant proved thoroughly capable actors, and the other parts were in safe hands. Songs were introduced at intervals and were well received.

READING.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr Reginald Taylor.—Mr John Tully's company of American actors, singers, and dancers is appearing this week in the perennial favourite Uncle Tom's Cabin. Uncle Tom is touchingly impersonated by Mr Kora Deanrajah; Mr E. Aldworth gives a powerful rendering of George Harris; Miss Kitty Wood as Topsy is highly amusing; Little Marie plays the part of Eva with appropriate pathos; Mr F. G. Kay as Simon Legree, Mr E. Kellen Taylor as Haley, Mr W. H. Cecil Pierpoint as Phineas Fletcher, Miss Rose Salisbury in the dual-rôle of Eliza Harris and Cassy, and Miss Marie Lydon as Aunt Ophelia all act well; and the other parts are ably filled. In the Grand Plantation Festival a number of clever coloured speciality artistes appear.

RUGBY.

"THE SUNNY SIDE."

a Light Comedy, in Three Acts, being Miss Maria Seligmann's English Version of Blumenthal and Kadelburg's Celebrated Play,
"Auf Der Sonnenseite."

ACT I.

Lord Bertie Beresford, a young man who is devoted to art and has expensive tastes, and has run through a fairly large fortune, is found in his rooms with Hoppner, an art dealer. Beresford is arranging for a sale of all his pictures &c, and intends to leave town to try his luck elsewhere. Hoppner tells him he has a rich client who will come that day to view the pictures, and Beresford places the flat at his disposal for this purpose for a couple of hours, promising to go out at the appointed time. Lady Mildred, Beresford's sister, enters and tells him that his brother and she have been talking over his affairs, and suggests a marriage with a rich girl as the only solution. Beresford rejects the suggestion. Whilst they are talking, Richard Cholmondley enters. He is Beresford's great chum, and after Lady Mildred departs there is a long and amusing conversation over the last bottle of champagne as to ways and means between those two happy, thoughtless but penniless young men. Henry Wilson is announced by the servant, and comes in with a bill which Beresford has backed, but is unable to meet. Wilson then says that he is quite willing to prolong the same indefinitely. Beresford is surprised, and then Wilson gives him an explanation. He, Wilson says, is a self-made man, who has a large brass factory which he has worked at for twenty-three years; he has made an immense fortune and has a most ambitious wife. His partner has retired and found a broken-down nobleman, who has launched him into smart society. Wilson suggests to Beresford that he might care to do the same for him, but says at once that it is not his ambition, but his wife gives him no peace, and he is willing to indulge her every whim. Beresford scornfully rejects Wilson's proposition, but Wilson, nevertheless, says he will buy Beresford's pictures. He goes into the next room to see them, then Richard says if Beresford won't take the offer made, he will, and rushes after Wilson. Hoppner appears with Mrs and Miss Wilson, who have also come to inspect the pictures. There is a lively conversation between Kitty and Beresford. The latter falls in love with Kitty, and the mother when she hears it is Lord Beresford they are with, and that he is poor, is most anxious to engage him as her secretary. Meanwhile Richard arranges to become confidential adviser, &c., to Wilson, and has hopes of marrying the daughter, but she evidently prefers Beresford.

ACT II.

In Wilson's newly furnished smart West-end house Wilson and his wife are arranging for a large house-warming, and Richard helps with advice in every way, and to his own advantage. They have engaged a butler, who does not approve of Wilson's homely ways, and Wilson feels very miserable in his grand house and elegant surroundings. They persuade him to ride, which he abominates among other things. Mrs Wilson, in conversation with Richard, says all she wants to complete her happiness now is to find a husband for her daughter, a man of good family, handsome, &c.—riches are of no consequence. Richard jumps at the chance, and offers himself as a possible suitor. Kitty enters, and talks a great deal about Beresford, but Richard blindly hopes her interest is for him. Then Beresford calls, and says he is going away—tells Kitty that a friend of his, in love with a rich girl, has made up his mind not to speak of love to her till he has made a position and a fortune for himself. Wilson joins Beresford, and as the latter says he is anxious for work, Wilson says he can give him employment as a designer in his factory. Beresford accepts. Richard is so anxious to win the rich girl that he proposes for her to Wilson, and in a humorous scene is rejected by Wilson, much to Richard's own surprise. He is found by Lady Mildred, looking very dejected. She says she will advise him as his medical man, and gives him some very severe truths to hear. They are great chums, and Richard promises to turn over a new leaf.

ACT III.

Wilson returns after a dreadful ride. He has been thrown, and vows he will never get on a horse again. The man servant annoys him more and more by his everlasting reference to his late master, an Ambassador. He begins to kick against the absurdities of his enforced society existence. Richard, in a scene with Lady Mildred, tells how he is beginning to earn money by suggesting impossible positions in trade to a rich proud uncle, who, rather than have his nephew in business, pays his debts and offers him a good allowance. He proposes to Lady Mildred and she says she will think it over. They will be neighbours in Scotland, and will often meet up there. Beresford tells them of his work in the factory, and is very proud of his first earnings. He and Kitty soon come to an understanding, and Wilson is delighted with his future son-in-law, and the mother more than pleased to be mother-in-law to a Lord.

The play literally abounds with exhilarating situations, whilst the dialogue is brilliant and humorous.

THE musical, floral, and variety fête annually held in the beautiful public pleasure grounds of the Quarry, Shrewsbury, took place on Wednesday and Thursday, and the lengthy and well-arranged programme of attractions included aerial and stage performances by some of the most talented artists of the day. The Leo Tardy Trio of continental aerial gymnasts gave a graceful and daring series of turns, their treble somersaults and catching feats being particularly smart; the Kaufmann Troupe of eight lady cyclists contributed pleasing and skilful performances, their evolutions being delightful to watch; Lieut. Chard's dogs once again evoked general expressions of wonder and praise, a novel feature being an exceptional exhibition of canine cleverness on a rapidly revolving racing table with hurdle jumps; England's brilliant allies, the Japs, were well represented by the Imperial Asahi Troupe, whose unique acrobatic feats were characterised by exceptional skill and precision; the turn of the Lundgreens, lady and clown, was a welcome and amusing one; Mdlle. Dora Orfina did some graceful and finished work on the high single trapeze; the O'Briens, in their fine three-bar performances, were clean and skilful in their work; Lowell and Lowell were amusing and undoubtedly smart comedians and acrobats; the Luppu Troupe on eight aerial bars contributed one of the best items on the programme, and their flying leaps were splendidly executed; and the Olracs were a droll and clever pair of acrobats. Once again Messrs Spencer Brothers brought their balloon Shrewsbury and others, and for the first time here their airship; while Messrs Pain and Sons, London, delighted thousands of sightseers with their grand pyrotechnic displays, novelties, and set pieces. Classic music, one of the greatest attractions of this fête, was played throughout each day by H.M. Coldstream Guards (Conductor, Lieut. J. Mackenzie Rogan), H.M. Scots Guards (Conductor, Mr F. Wood), H.M. Irish Guards (Conductor, Mr C. H. Hassell), and the local military bands. Mr E. R. Hollier was the courteous and watchful stage-manager; Messrs Anger and Bauer were agents for the performers; and Messrs Adnitt and Naunton admirably carried out the duties of general fête secretaries.

THE DRAMA IN ROTTERDAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ROTTERDAM, AUG. 17.—At the Grand Theatre, Manager Van Eysden has produced De Duivel en zyn Grootje (The Devil and his Granny), which was done at this house some years since. One of the sets representing the Boulevards of Paris during Carnival time, illuminated, and with all the life and animation that distinguish the gay capital, was very effective, and did great credit to Mr Poutsma, the scenic artist. Mrs Van Eysden made a handsome Proserpine, and Mr Poolman was very funny as Pluto.

AT the Tivoli Theatre, which is now occupied by the Haarlem dramatic company, under the management of Louis Bouwmeester, the production is an up-to-date extravaganza entitled Het snoepreisje van Keizer Bram I. (The pleasure trip of the Emperor Bram I. Bram is the popular abbreviation of the name Abraham, and the extravaganza is a "skit" on the doings of Minister Abraham Ke Kuyper. Louis Bouwmeester's make-up as the Minister was remarkable and was fully appreciated.

THE Dutch Dramatic Company of Amsterdam is presenting (in a temporarily erected theatre) the Dutch version of A Night Off. Praise is due to Messrs Ternooy Apèl, Musch, and Post, and to Mesdames Van Der Horst and Post for their excellent acting.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. ARTHUR C. F. LYSONS.

MR LYSONS comes from a well-known Gloucestershire family, the Lysons of Hempsted Court. He is the son of Col. Lysons, and was educated at Cheltenham College. He then entered upon a military career, enlisting in the 7th Royal Fusiliers, but through a severe attack of enteric fever at Quetta, followed by ague and fever and enlarged spleen at Karachi, he was invalided home to Netley Hospital, where he obtained his discharge and a pension of a shilling a day for one year. He left as sergeant, having completed nearly nine years' service. It was in 1897 that the late Madame Dittini, a friend of his, suggested the stage, and put him through his facings. They played in various sketches at the halls, written by Madame Dittini herself, though he was part author of one, first called Captain Jack and afterwards One Summer's Eve. Then through Madame Dittini he was introduced to Mr Charles Cartwright, who gave him a small part in his production at the Grand Theatre, Islington, A King of Fools. In one act he had to shoot Mr Cartwright, as Chicot, from the steps of the altar, and not until he had told him he had just left the Service was Mr Cartwright satisfied that it would be carried out correctly. Mr Lysons' next engagement was in Heroes, playing Archinald Herries. Then followed a "thinking part" at the Lyceum, with the late Wilson Barrett. This was at the end of 1899. His first touring engagement was with Morell and Mouillot's Gaiety Girl, chorus and understudy.

MR. ARTHUR C. P. LYSONS.

In July, 1900, he played Dr. Chapman, in A Message from Mars, two tours. In December, 1901, Mr Lysons married, and two days after nursed his wife through an attack of diphtheria, but had to leave her to play Sir Chichester Frayne, in The Gay Lord Quex. On the opening night he suffered agonies from lumbago, and the next night he could not stand, so had to place himself under a doctor, who soon pulled him through. In March, 1902, his wife and he went out in The Pleasures of London, and in the following August he was again engaged for two tours of A Message from Mars, playing the Solicitor. In August, 1903, he joined Mr Tree's Eternal City company, playing the President of the Court, and had twice to take up the part of Minghelli, an understudy. His second tour with this finished June 1 last. In January he filled in two weeks playing Tackleton, in The Cricket on the Hearth, and one week at Brighton as Dr. Latimer, in Sunlight and Shadow. Mr Lysons is a member of the Actors' Association, which he thinks should be better supported by the members of the profession. He is a vegetarian, and is keenly interested in occult science.

AT the Royal Opera House, Wakefield, The Black Bishop is being played this week by Mrs Robert A. Cuthbert's company. Mr Hartwell J. Kirby gives a capital interpretation as Vaughan Rejanee, the Black Bishop,; Mr John Montgomery skilfully portrays the villainous Simeon Strathcoat; Mr Charles Coventry is good as Captain Keilcritt; Mr H. Belford is able as Branks Bruttlebutt; Mr H. De B. Davis acts well as Joshua; Miss Jeannie Marquise, in the dual rôle of Kate Marleigh and Marion Strathcoat, plays with fine dramatic effect; Miss May Lyttleton depicts with success the character of Ruth Oldbury; Miss Nellie Benson is admirable as Hannah Bruttlebutt; and Miss Gladys Conover is clever as Little Ruth.

AT the Pavilion, Lytham, A Fool's Paradise was agreeably presented on Monday by Mr H. V. Neilson, assisted by Miss Amy Sangster and company. As Sir Peter Lund Mr Neilson was capital; Mr Edward Fenton played Philip Selwyn earnestly; and Mr Geoffrey Guise was satisfactory as Lord Normantower. Miss Daisy Halling was a duly diabolical Beatrice Selwyn, and humour was refreshingly supplied by Mr C. Doyle and Miss Jennie Rutter as Tom Verinder and Mildred Selwyn. Miss Amy Sangster was quite convincing as Kate Derwent.

AT the Leigh Theatre Royal and Opera House on Tuesday Mr J. Dewhurst, the local lessee and manager, took a complimentary benefit. During the performance Mr Dewhurst, in his usual excellent style, recited by special desire "Shamus O'Brien," and was greatly applauded. For an encore he gave, in grand Lancashire style, "Owd Pinder." After the performance Mr Dewhurst entertained a number of his friends at supper.

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

CAPE TOWN, JULY 8.—OPERA HOUSE:—Lessees, Executors late Mr Frank de Jong; Sub-Lessees, Sass and Nelson, Limited; Business Manager, Mr James Nelson.—On Friday, July 1, the Opera House was crowded with a large and enthusiastic audience, when Messrs. Sass and Nelson's new musical comedy company made their début to a South African audience, fresh from their recent triumphs in the Argentine, where they have been playing for some weeks to phenomenal business. The company created an excellent impression, and scored a most conspicuous success in their first production, The Earl and the Girl, a new musical comedy by Seymour Hicks. The piece was well received and the music is extremely pleasing, whilst the choruses are bright and sparkling. The appearance of Mr William Cromwell, an old South African favourite, was greeted with rounds of applause. Mr Cromwell is, perhaps, one of the best comedians we have had out here, and in the rôle of Jim Cheese, dog trainer, he personates a character which suits him admirably, his quaint sayings and grotesque antics keeping the house in roars of laughter. In the second act, when masquerading as the Earl, he scored an immense success with his song "I am a lord, what ho!" and was repeatedly recalled. As Lisa Miss May Audury was seen to advantage. She was vivacious and piquante as the cockney girl, and ably seconded Mr Cromwell's efforts to amuse. Mr Frank Barclay was eminently successful as Dick Wargrave, the real Earl. He is the possessor of a pleasing baritone voice and was heard to advantage in the "Mediterranean Girl" and "The Cosy Corner Girl," the latter song especially. Miss Lilian Hubbard made a sweet and captivating Elphen Haye. Mr Manfred Russell as the Hon. Boodle acted with ability and grace. Miss Andrey Corday was good as Lady Gussie, and scored a success with a clever rendering of a Parisian song and dance, whilst Miss Crissie Leonard is an artiste of exceptional Terpsichorean ability, her dancing throughout being characterised by grace and ease. The chorus was excellent, whilst the dresses were particularly striking. The play was lavishly mounted and the scenery was exceptionally good. A word of praise is due to Mr William Clarke, the capable stage manager and the augmented orchestra, under the bâton of Mr Harry Burton.

AT the Alhambra Theatre, Stourbridge, this week, Messrs Buckstone and Cox's company has been appearing in the drama The Seal of Silence. Miss Gertrude Hunt as Lilian Desbroke plays with much pathos and ability. Messrs Henry Lonsdale as Jack Ellerslie and Reginald Payne as Kenneth Morrison sustain these important rôles in a characteristic manner. Others prominent in the presentation are Messrs George Langdon, E. H. Walton, C. Arrol-Aldersyde; and the Misses Cissie Cleveland and Mary B. Buckstone.

AT the Corn Exchange, Boston, on Saturday the Bohemian Concert Party appeared with success. Madame Mabel Wiltshire was vociferously applauded for her rendering of "Molly the Marchioness" and "Scenes that are Brightest." The violin solos of A. E. Bevan were well received. Mr T. Saunder's pianoforte solo and his rendering of "Go to Sea" both gained marked appreciation. The comedy element was in the capable hands of Messrs Arthur Searle and Alf Valmore, who caused roars of laughter. The performance was brought to a conclusion by Mr A. Valmore's amusing absurdity, A Restaurant Up-to-Date.

THE Midland Railway Company are placing in the Liverpool and London service next week an entirely new train of coaches, which will form the expresses leaving St. Pancras at 5·35 p.m. and Liverpool Central at 11·0 a.m. The coaches will be of the corridor type, with first and third-class dining cars, from which meals can be served throughout the train. Seating accommodation is provided for sixty-six first and 165 third-class passengers.

AT the Theatre Royal, Waterford, Mr C. W. Poole's famous Myriorama has been exhibited this this week. The pictures are excellent. The variety talent engaged includes Daisy Graham with her marvellous collection of trained birds; Miss Kitty Woodford, with her canine circus and orchestra; Little Doretta, the Musical Schaffers, and Harry Stewart, &c. The animated pictures shown are capital.

AT Newquay concerts have been given this week under the management of Mr Frederick Dale. Miss Lily Pritchard's singing of "Sammy" deserves special mention, as also does Miss Edith Serpell's rendering of "The Eternal City."

THEATRICAL PATENTS.

The following abridged description is specially drawn for The Era by Messrs Hughes and Young, patent agents, 55 and 56, Chancery-lane, London, W.C., who will give advice and assistance free to our readers on all patent matters.

7,763. Aerial machines without aerostats. Patentees, Haylock, D., 32, Merton-road, Wandsworth, Surrey, and Haylock, R.A., 41, Boltongardens, Chiswick, Middlesex. A car is provided with vertical lifting-fans and with horizontal propelling-fans. Each lifting-fan is formed of aluminium, Willesden paper, or other material, with a wire backing wound helically on to a framing, which consists of nine sets of eight horizontal radial arms. The helical surfaces are connected to one another and to top and bottom hoops by a helical band. The propelling-fan is similarly formed, and all the fans are mounted on spindles having pulleys, which are rotated by the motors or other power in the car. The rudder has a wooden frame and is steered by means of cords passing through a ring, round a pulley on an arm, and secured to a ring. The lifting-fans are arranged in right and left-handed pairs, and the number of fans may be varied. The lifting-fans when not revolving act as parachutes.

DEATH OF DON EDGARDO COLONA.

We regret to record the death, in his fifty-ninth year, from heart disease (angina pectoris), of Mr Edgar Chalmers-Colona, better known as Don Edgardo Colona, the Mexican tragedian. Mr Colona made his first appearance in England in his eighteenth year, when he played Hamlet at Astley's Theatre. Some two years later he became a member of the Drury-lane stock company. Here he supported such artists as Miss Helen Faucit, Mrs Herman Vezin, Mr Phelps, Mr Barry Sullivan, Mr Walter Montgomery, and other stars. He played Austria to the King John of Mr Phelps, Laertes to the Ophelia of Miss Madge Robertson (Mrs Kendal), and Arthur Carrington, in The Great City, as deputy for Mr Charles Warner. He afterwards appeared as Richard the Third at the City of London Theatre, and the same character and Othello at the St. James's. Still later Mr J. A. Cave engaged him to play Hamlet and a round of Shakespearian parts at the old Marylebone Theatre. He also appeared at the Elephant and Castle, the Greenwich Theatre, and other suburban houses. Then for a succession of years he toured the provinces, sometimes as a star with resident stock companies and sometimes with his own company. Amongst other starring engagements he had one from the late Mr Wilson Barrett, who produced under his management a blank verse play by Mr Colona entitled Crime and Atonement, which he performed for hundreds of nights in London and the provinces. He also produced various other plays written or adapted by himself, among these being Don John of Seville, The Two Daughters, A Year and a

THE LATE DON EDGARDO COLONA.

Day, The Road to Transportation, and a one-act tragedy, Ye Olden Time. Among later engagements were those he fulfilled at Sadler's Wells under the management of Mr Chas. Wilmot, where he played Hamlet and Othello to the Iago of Mr Henry Loraine. Shortly after he made a reappearance at the Elephant and Castle Theatre, and sustained Virginius among other legitimate rôles. In 1901 he reappeared in Liverpool, and performed Hamlet, Othello, Macbeth, Shylock, Don Cæsar, and Richard the Third. Mr Colona had acted very little during the last few years, owing to an accident in which he sustained a broken ankle, but followed the profession of a linguist and journalist. He married, in January, 1878, Miss Edith Temple (now his widow), and had issue an only daughter, Miss Josephine Colona, and two little sons, still at school. Mr Chalmers-Colona died very suddenly in his office in Cornhill on the 12th inst., and he was buried with his parents in the family grave in Tooting Cemetery on Wednesday. Mr Wallace Grove, of Grove and Chalmers, duologue artists, is a nephew of the deceased.

AT the Theatre Royal, Macclesfield, this week, the Revell Troupe in their pantomime act, Mischief, have caused roars of laughter; Fred Ward, eccentric, is responsible for a turn both clever and unique; Alec Thomas, the black-faced songster, sings some amusing songs; Miss Florrie Royle, comedienne and dancer, is very good; Dan M'Grath possesses a good voice, which he uses to advantage; Miss Emmie Titiens, soprano, is excellent; Wm. M'Ivor, a musical treat, meets with approval; Cosmo Trio, eccentric comedians and Ethiopian artists, present a funny turn, which is highly enjoyed; and Carl Mysto is creating a sensation here by the way in which he extricates himself from all sorts of handcuffs and chains.

AT the County Hall, Salisbury, Three Little Maids was presented on Monday by Mr C. Macdona's company, and the performance was greatly enjoyed by a large audience. Musical comedy invariably attracts local playgoers, and the proprietor of the hall has made arrangements with Mr Macdona for the presentation of other well-known pieces in the ancient capital of Wiltshire.

MR EDITOR.—Sir,—In last week's Era my name appeared in the cast of A Fight for Life at the Royal, Stratford. I have not been a member of the company since last May. Yours faithfully, FRANCES WARING. Rotherham, Aug. 17.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—All suffering from irritation of the throat and hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of Brown's Bronchial Troches. People troubled with a hacking cough, a slight cold, or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious pulmonary and asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box. Sold by Chemists everywhere, 1s. 1½d. per Box.—[ADVT.]

"TITUS ANDRONICUS."

The tragedy of Titus Andronicus forms one of the volumes of the works of Shakespeare published by Messrs Methuen and Co. The play is edited by Mr H. Bellyse Baildon, and the introduction, which we assume is written by him, contains much interesting matter. Incidentally the Baconian theory is touched upon, Mr Baildon expressing the opinion "that the least sober Baconian would neither claim nor wish to claim a play of this character, so startlingly replete with horrors, for Francis, Lord Verulam." The writer continues:—"I may candidly say I am not a Baconian because in the first place there are to my mind such stupendous difficulties in the way of conceiving of Bacon as the author, not only of his own mighty works, but also of the most wonderful poetic and dramatic prodigies the world possesses, that no amount of evidence, of the order we are ever likely to get, could be for a moment set in the balance against this tremendous antecedent improbability—I would say impossibility—of this theory. So, if I were an advocate of the Baconian theory, the first thing I should set out to prove would be that Bacon did not write the works attributed to him; as they are the really insuperable obstacle to my belief in his authorship of what we call 'Shakespeare.' What I do believe regarding the generally acknowledged plays of Shakespeare is that they are mainly the work of a single master-mind, of one who not only was one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of all poets, but also the prince of playwrights or dramatists, and certainly the greatest exponent and creator of human character in all literature."

In dealing with a play attributed to Shakespeare and respecting which there have been so many disputed points, Mr Baildon first of all gives those facts upon which, by common consent, all arguments regarding the dates of the writing, performance, and publication of the tragedy are founded. The reasonable inference from the facts given is, first, that the play had been already some time in existence in 1600, and had been extremely popular, having been acted by all the various companies named, and later on, according to the 1611 edition, by "His Majestie's Servants." Secondly, that the printers and publishers, by printing the play along with Shakespeare's acknowledged plays, intended at any rate to produce the impression that the play was the work of Shakespeare.

With regard to the disputed question as to the authorship of the tragedy Mr Baildon brings forward a piece of direct evidence which appears to him to be actually irrefragable, and whose brushing aside by those who wish to disprove Shakespeare's authorship seems to him without the slightest justification. "Francis Meres, a contemporary and acquaintance, if not intimate friend of, Shakespeare's, writes in 1598, apropos of the excellence of Shakespeare's tragedies in English, as compared with those of Seneca in Latin, 'witness for tragedy, his Richard II., Richard III., Henry IV., King John, Titus Andronicus, and his Romeo and Juliet.' Only a man with the keenest interest in matters literary and dramatic would have taken up such a theme at all; and we know that Meres was so interested. He wrote not only within a few years of the first performances of these plays, but while they were still highly popular and frequently acted, and was during Shakespeare's own lifetime in intimate contact, if not with Shakespeare himself (though Shakespeare read his MS. Sonnets to him), at least, with many of Shakespeare's actor and author contemporaries, both friends and enemies, or rivals, like Ben Jonson."

In conclusion Mr Baildon thus clearly defines his own position in regard to this much-disputed play:—"I do not think I take up an extreme, still less an untenable, position when I say that I believe—for absolute proof is out of the question—that Titus Andronicus, in the version which we have, is essentially and substantially the work of the same author as the later and greater plays which were, in common with it, attributed to Shakespeare during his lifetime. I do not maintain that every line and passage is Shakespeare's own original writing. But I do hold that the play, as a whole, betrays, not only in detail, but perhaps still more in the general structure and modelling, in its characterisation, its outlook on life, and what I call its "moral resultant," such unmistakable signs of the same fictive and creative powers, which we find in perfection in his acknowledged masterpieces, that we must hold him responsible, whether we like it or no, for the drama as it stands."

THE employees of the New Palace Theatre, Plymouth, had their annual outing on Sunday last, when a party numbering nearly eighty enjoyed a drive to the Cheesewring, a romantic spot in Cornwall, viâ Liskeard. The trippers left the Palace at 8.45 a.m., in four waggonettes, and although the weather was most unpromising during the morning, after Liskeard was reached the sun shone gloriously, and the remainder of the day was spent under the pleasantest conditions. At Liskeard a recherché dinner was partaken of at the Stag Hotel, after which the party were photographed. A subsequent drive to the Cheesewring was participated in with infinite pleasure, a return being made to Liskeard for high tea, preparatory to the drive home. The journey back in the charm of a summer's evening was most delightful, and Plymouth was reached just before the closing hour of ten, the whole day being productive of unalloyed enjoyment. The annual event was graced by the presence of Mr Jack Field, the genial manager of the New Palace; Mr Niel Carlton, the treasurer and secretary; Mr R. Newcombe, the assistant secretary; Mr J. Creber, and a few privileged friends of the management. The trip was admirably managed by Mr Angel Dodd, and Mr A. May was a most efficient chairman and treasurer of a hard-working committee.

AT the Victoria Theatre, Broughton, G. W. Hunter, comedian, has had a good reception this week; and Miss Marion Grahame, operatic vocalist, also scores heavily. La Tostia, vocalist, pianist, and mandolinist, gives an acceptable performance. A high-class company also includes Irene Challons, speciality artiste; Solo and Mayo, duettists and dancers; Mab Fowler, serio; Billy Taylor, whistling comedian; Albert Duncan, comical juggler; John Callan, American comedian; and Picton Roxborough with Fanny Wright in a musical farcical duologue, entitled Learning the Language.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

The new theatre in Shaftesbury-avenue, of which Mr Charles Frohman is to be lessee, will, it is hoped, be finished in a year. It will be called the Mascot. On the ground floor will be about 200 stalls besides the pit. On the first tier will be the dress circle, with 218 seats; the tier above will be a family circle; and there will be a comfortable gallery. This plan of construction, in two tiers, is in accordance with the London County Council's regulations for all theatres to be built in the future in London. The holding capacity of the house will be 1,448. Mr W. G. Sprague, the architect of so many handsome theatres, will make the stalls and pit level of the Mascot several feet below that of the street.

The treasurer of Guy's Hospital has received from Mr E. C. Silverthorne, the surviving trustee of the Nellie Farren benefit, £1,000 to endow a bed in that institution. This endowment is in accordance with the wish of Miss Farren. The bed will bear her name, and will be available, under the rules of the hospital, for members of the theatrical profession recommended for admission by a director of the Gaiety Theatre.

Mr Percival Craig, the business-manager of the Avenue Opera House, Sunderland, and the Theatre Royal in that city, recently saw Sir Henry Irving at his house in London, and told him that the Sunderlanders were looking forward to his visit to them, as they considered him one of their local celebrities, he having made his first appearance on the stage in the town. Sir Henry remarked,—"I had no idea that Sunderland folk thought so much of my early connection with their town. I am delighted to hear it. It interests me vastly, and I shall now look forward to my visit with peculiar interest. After so many years I shall look with strange feelings upon the place where I made my first appearance, although the building is no longer standing. When I meet my friends in Sunderland I hope to be able to relate some amusing incidents in connection with my début."

This was in 1856, when Irving was between eighteen and nineteen years of age. By the assistance of William Hoskins, a leading actor at Sadler's Wells, he obtained an engagement with Mr E. D. Davis, of the Lyceum Theatre, Sunderland, where Irving made his first appearance in the part of Gaston, Duke of Orleans. Mr Alfred Davis played Richelieu, Miss De Clifford was the Marion De Lorme, and a Mr Edouin was the second secretary; and also enacted a Monkey in the burlesque of The Enchanted Lake, which followed Bulwer Lytton's play.

A "conference" is being held in the United States on the question "Should Actresses Marry?" Mrs Leslie Carter says:—"If a woman attends to the domestic cares which are bound to devolve upon her, and attends to her husband's many little fads, and loves him as she should, she has a very big handful without attempting to give her attention to the stage. To my mind, matrimony and stage success are absolutely impossible together. I think you will find it difficult to point out a really great actress in any part of the world who is married. To be really a great actress,' she continues, "a woman should have experienced all the joys and sorrows of life, from the highest exultation to the deepest grief. As a school for stage fitness I most heartily commend matrimony; but I do not approve of it as a side issue to an actress's life. Just think of the cares of housekeeping."

Miss Blanche Ring considers that "marriage and stage success are impossible together when both are players, for two ambitions then clash."

Miss Irene Bentley remarks:—"Many successful actresses being happily married proves that marriage and stage success are not incompatible. Domestic life must have a refining influence in Bohemia, and the more refined the art the greater the actress."

Miss Blanche Bates says:—"The humdrum of a daily domestic life is such that the trivialities hinder the progress of the unconventional in thought. Art to be true must be free. To divide your time so that at night you are true to your created characters, and in the daytime devote yourself to another as part of his intellectual being, is impossible."

Mr Walter Pallant, of Savoy-mansions, Strand, chairman of the Gaiety Theatre Company, who died on the 2nd inst., aged forty-five, bequeathed £100 to the Stock Exchange Benevolent Fund, £100 to Music Hall Benevolent Fund, £100 to the Actors' Benevolent Fund, £100 to the Royal General Theatrical Fund, £500 to Louisa Coote, £500 to Mrs Grace Bratt, an annuity of £50 to Dorothy Dowle, £500 and the furniture and jewels to his brother, Samuel J. Pallant, Bedford-street, Strand, £250 each to Bernard J. Angle, of the Stock Exchange, and William Slark, of Southampton-street; £2,000 and all his interest in the Theatre Royal, Cardiff, to his sister, Mrs Grace Bedford; £2,000 each to his sisters, Mrs Eliza Sorge, Mrs Maria Lingard, and Mrs Emily Constantine; £250 to his nurse, Mrs Mackie; £200 to his clerk, J. Gough; £100 to his clerk, P. Jordan; and £50 to his valet, Powell. The remainder of his property he left in trust for his brother, Samuel, for life, and then as to £3,000 for his sister, Mrs Redford, and the ultimate residue in equal shares for his four sisters. The value of the property amounts to £40,545 19s. 5d.

A station-master and a travelling theatrical manager were recently chatting together in a provincial town. The latter asked the former if he had been round to the theatre in connection with the next journey of the company appearing there. The station-master replied that he did not think it worth while going round, as the company was only playing for two nights. The manager informed him that there must be some mistake, as he was certain every company played at that house for one week. Cried the station-master, "I am positive I am right, because I have just seen a bill which says, 'Mr Hutchison's company, Saturday to Monday.'" The speaker was astonished and amused when he was informed that Saturday to Monday was the title of a play.

The Shipwreck scene in Mr Tree's revival of The Tempest at His Majesty's next month will be very elaborate. A vessel measuring forty-four feet in length will sail through the storm with a crew on board. The scenery is being painted by Mr William Telbin, Mr Richard M'Leery, and Mr Richard Douglas. The revival will be in four acts instead of five.

Mr Geo. Dance's Duchess of Dantzic and Chinese Honeymoon companies, in travelling from Fleetwood to Douglas last Sunday had a very rough passage. All on board were ill, even those that had never succumbed before. For the loading of Mr Dance's heavy scenery the boat was delayed for several hours in starting. This added to the anxiety of the friends of the companies, who were waiting their arrival at Douglas Head. The members of the company had an opportunity of resting on Sunday evening and Monday morning, and they played capitally at night, both theatres being crowded.

Mr E. S. Willard has commissioned Mr Leon M. Lion, the adaptor of The Man Who Stole the Castle, to make a version of Mr Tom Gallon's story entitled Dicky Monteith.

Mr Huntley Wright, who has been away from London holidaying since the 8th inst., returns to his part of Chambuddy Ram, in The Cingalee, at Daly's Theatre on Monday next. In his absence his rôle has been well looked after by Mr H. J. Ford.

Miss May Yohe appeared on Thursday evening at the Liverpool Hippodrome, where she had a hearty reception. Miss Yohe has had a very eventful career. After winning fame and favour in America, she took London by storm in comic opera, and married, in 1894, Lord Hope, from whom she was divorced in 1902. Miss Yohe's charm of style and freedom of method are likely to make her as popular on the variety stage as she was on the theatrical boards.

Mr George Conquest is to appear in his old part in Mankind at the Grand, Islington, at an early date; and Mr Fred Conquest will also be seen at the same house in his character of the Man-Monkey in For Ever.

Mr Hayden Coffin will be back again at Daly's on Monday week, after a well-earned holiday. Mr Louis Bradfield, his understudy, has been ably attending to Mr Coffin's character since last Bank Holiday.

Mr Oscar Asche and Mr Otho Stuart during their season at the Adelphi Theatre will, in addition to producing in September The Prayer of the Sword, revive The Taming of the Shrew, playing the comedy as Shakespeare wrote it, with the addition of the induction. Mr Asche will double the parts of Sly and Petruchio, and Miss Brayton will be the Katharine.

The Theatres Committee of the London County Council last year ordered nearly 140 alterations to be made at Drury-lane Theatre, and the directors, after a long argument with the Theatres Committee, asked that the matters should go before an arbitrator to be appointed by the Office of Works. The request was agreed to, and Mr John Slater, a distinguished architect, was appointed. The arbitration proceedings were held at Drury-lane, and on the 12 h inst. the directors received the sealed report, which is regarded as being exceedingly favourable. Progress is meanwhile being made with several of the structural alterations. The theatre will remain closed until Boxing Night, when the pantomime, called The White Cat, will be produced.

To-day at the Kennington Theatre Miss Edith Blande completes her 655th performance of the powerful character of Marcel, in Woman and Wine. Miss Blande rejoices in the possession of an abundance of health and spirits. Since adopting the stage at the tender age of three years and eight months, Miss Blande has never requisitioned the services of an understudy. Mr Milton Bode, under whose management she performs, is to be congratulated on securing the services of so reliable an artist.

The Wagner Festival at Bayreuth this year has attracted more numerous audiences than on any previous occasion. A roaring trade was done by speculators in seats, four and five times the actual price (20s.) being paid by those who were too late in their applications for seats for Parsifal, Tannhauser, and Der Ring des Nibelungen. Among those present at the second series were their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Madame Nordica (who is shortly to impersonate Isolde at the Munich Wagner Festial), and Madame Patti, who, with her husband, came over from Karlsbad. The performances, notwithstanding the deficiencies of some non-German new-comers, reached a far higher level than can be obtained anywhere else. The orchestra, chorus, and mise-en-scène were beyond all criticism, whilst the ensemble could not have been surpassed.

At the Grand Theatre, Fulham, on Monday, It's Never Too Late to Mend will be revived, and on that evening each lady of the audience will be presented with a new edition of the novel, containing four beautiful coloured illustrations.

Messrs B. and F. Wheeler have arranged with Mr Charles Manners, of the Moody-Manners opera company, to send out a fully equipped and capable company to play a répertoire of grand opera for twenty weeks on tour in South Africa. The company sails on the 27th inst.

The matinée performances which commenced at the Grand Theatre, Islington, last week, will be continued every Thursday until the spring of next year. A feature which it has been decided to add to the programme is the presenting of extra turns on Saturday evenings for the early door patrons. As a matter of fact, Mr Davey informs us that his patrons, especially those of the gallery order, have taken such a liking to the variety entertainment which precedes the more serious part of the "show," that the house is nearly always pretty well filled at the early doors.

Mr Frank Wilson's Marriage of Kitty company has entered upon the twenty-second week of its tour, during which the company has travelled over 3,000 miles, and given 150 performances. The play is still going strong and playing to record houses. The advance booking at the Opera House, Buxton, for the last three nights of this week has been remarkable.

Mr Leslie Beaufort, who recently concluded a three months' tour as Jack O'Malley, in The 10 30 Down Express, has succeeded Mr William Clayton as Sir John Ingleby, in A Woman Adrift.—Mr Magill Martin has been engaged for the juvenile lead in A Victim of Villainy, opening on Monday at Wallington.

A fire took place in a phonograph storage place in Maiden-lane, immediately opposite the stage door of the Adelphi Theatre, on Wednesday afternoon. The fire whistle of the Adelphi stage was blown, every man went to his post, and, under the instructions of Mr Royce, the stage-manager, the fire hose was carried out of the stage door, across the road, and the fire was extinguished before the engines arrived.

The staff of the Grand Theatre, Islington, proved how well-trained and splendidly disciplined they were on Wednesday night when the electric current throughout Islington was suddenly stopped. In the emergency which thus arose, on the failing of the light a signal was given, and all the doors were opened with an attendant stationed at each, while on the side of the stage Mr Davey, the proprietor, and Mr C. W. O'Connor were in readiness to make any assurances which might be necessary to preserve the peace of mind of the audience. Fortunately the latter took things very easily, and no assurances were needful. The Grand Theatre is plentifully supplied with gas, and the auditorium was fully illuminated within one minute of the failure of the electric light. The gas-lights on the stage, however, were rather weak, and in order to compensate for this condition of affairs the stage was flooded by limelight, a very weird spectacle being presented.

The Haslingden education authority has passed a resolution requesting the town council to make a bye-law forbidding the display of theatrical posters of murders and "horrible intrigue." The resolution was proposed and seconded by lady members of the authority.

Miss Ada Reeve has engaged Miss Dolores Drummond, Miss Dora Barton, Mrs Charles Maltby, Miss Drusilla Wills, Mr Henry Vibart, Mr Farren, Mr Walter Rignold, Mr Robb Harwood, and Mr Eric Lewis for her season at the Criterion Theatre, which will open on Thursday, Sept. 1, with Mr Malcolm Watson's comedy, Winnie Brooke, Widow.

Mr Weedon Grossmith, after studying the part allotted to him in the new play by Mr Pinero, has very reluctantly been compelled to relinquish it, as he does not feel that the character is suited to his style.

Mr J. B. Mulholland has arranged with Messrs Gatti and Frohman to present The Cherry Girl (Mr C. Lubbock's company) next week at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith. This will be the first appearance in Greater London of the piece mentioned, and the production will be an exact replica of that seen at the Vaudeville Theatre, while the company has been most carefully selected and rehearsed.

Although Mr Mulholland has strenuously opposed some of the extreme and unnecessary "requirements" of the London County Council, he not only defends many others as being good, but will even go beyond the official book in providing additional safeguards where his practical experience tells him that such are advantageous. For instance, he has had his fireproof curtain decorated with very large plans of the auditorium at the three levels, so that when this curtain is lowered each evening every person in the audience can see at a glance the means of exit from every part of the house. It will be interesting to observe whether this new idea will find a place in the next batch of regulations sent out from Spring-gardens.

Miss Ivy Dawn, who made such a distinct hit at the Palace Theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue, a little while ago with her charming ballads, has been engaged by Mr George Davey to play the part of Fairy Queen in the pantomime of Babes in the Wood, to be produced at the Grand Theatre at Christmas. Miss Dawn, who, by the way, has proved a great attraction on the Moss and Stoll tour, appeared as the Fairy Queen in the last pantomime which was presented at the Britannia Theatre, Hoxton. She is a very young artist, not yet out of her teens, and there is every indication that she has a very successful career before her.

The English version of La Montansier, which Mr Michael Morton has prepared for Miss Lena Ashwell, will be produced in England under the title of Marguerite. Mr Morton's adaptation makes small claim to historical accuracy. This, together with the fact that the play differs in many essential details from that recently produced by Madame Réjane, has convinced Miss Ashwell that the retention of the original title of La Montansier would be misleading.

Mr George Dance's tour of Madame Sherry starts at the Kennington Theatre on the 29th of this month. The libretto has been rewritten by Mr George Dance, and several new numbers have been introduced. The tour includes all the principal provincial cities and also the London suburbs.

M. Rostand's new play, shortly to be produced in Paris, is called Chanteclair, the poetic title of the cock. For the scene of the play is laid in the world of the birds. The cock has a secret: Is it he who causes the sun to rise? He is constantly chaffed by a thrush on the first branch of the tree. In the last act a nightingale, Poetry, brings the piece to a conclusion.

The creditors of Mr Walter Maclean, motor agent and actor, of 72, New Bond-street, W., met on Monday, Mr H. E. Burgess, Official Receiver, presiding. This debtor has stated that he came of age in 1895, and as a ward in Chancery became entitled to a fund of £5,000 invested in stocks, &c. As an actor he has at various times conducted his own company on tours in England, but has very seldom made any profit from them. Shortly after attaining his majority he took an interest in the Octigan Finance Company, which proved a failure, and caused him a loss of £500 to £600. About 1900 he was engaged as an authorised clerk on the Stock Exchange to Mr H. W. Rust, whom he financed to the extent of £2,000 or £3,000. Mr Rust got into difficulties and absconded, with the result that he (debtor) lost all the money he had put into the business. During 1901 he opened an office at 72, New Bond-street and started business there as a motor agent in partnership with another gentleman, but the expenses were too heavy to admit of a profit being made, and the business was closed at a loss to him of £300. Other reasons given by the debtor for his failure are a loss of £150 by speculating on the Stock Exchange and one of £300 over his theatrical enterprises, also extravagance in living. A statement of affairs was presented showing total liabilities £1,686 3s. 8d. (unsecured £1,086 3s. 8d.) and no assets whatever. The debtor, however, intimated that he hoped later to submit an offer to the creditors. No resolution was passed, the creditors electing to leave the case to be dealt with by the Official Receiver.

A Leicester correspondent, who wrote to Mr Chamberlain asking how his fiscal policy could benefit professions like that of music, has received the following reply:—"I am directed by Mr Chamberlain to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th inst. to say that he cannot see how his policy could possibly, or under any circumstances, be of any disadvantage to the musical profession. On the other hand, as music is one of the greatest of luxuries, any improvement in the general conditions of the population would enable them to indulge in it more freely."

Mr George Davey intends to betake himself within a few days to Margate for a brief holiday, which will be mainly given up to the enjoyment of driving tours in the neighbourhood of the seaside resort referred to.

At the Brixton Theatre next week Brixtonians will have an opportunity of sampling Mr Walter Melville's latest success, A Disgrace to Her Sex, a drama without either "battle, murder, or sudden death" in it. Yet the play has proved intensely popular wherever performed. The cast will be headed by that clever actress Miss Grace Heywood.

At a recent meeting of the Royal Castle Lodge, R.A.O.B. (R. N. C. Banner), at the Grapes Hotel, Windsor (Host, Primo Thomas), Bro. Bert Nicholson, late acting-manager of the Theatre Royal, Windsor, was presented with a jewel as a token of appreciation by the Lodge of his zeal as a "good Buffalo," and his contributions to the "harmony" at Lodge meetings during his sojourn in the royal borough. The most cordial brotherly feeling marked the interesting ceremony, and Bro. Nicholson acknowledged the honour in grateful and appropriate terms.

At the usual weekly meeting of the council, held last Tuesday, A. E. Anson and Nigel Playfair were nominated as candidates for election as members of the Actors' Association. The hon. solicitors reported progress in several matters.

Mr George Imeson, the joint managing-director of the Theatre Royal, Middlesbrough, is recovering from a somewhat severe illness. The numerous friends of Mr Imeson will join with us in wishing him a speedy and complete recovery.

Mr Charles Frohman has fixed upon Thursday, Sept. 8, for the first performance of Mr Israel Zangwill's play Merely Mary Ann, at the Duke of York's Theatre. It will be produced under the stage direction of Charles Cartwright. Miss Eleanor Robson, who is to sustain the leading rôle, and is on the Continent, will return to London on Monday for the final rehearsals of the piece.

Miss Lucy Wilson and Mr Gordon Bailey, whose recent tour of The Second Mrs Tanqueray and The Profligate was attended with so much success, will make their first London appearance since their return from America in Mr Kennedy Cox's new play, now named The Chetwynd Affair, to be produced at the Royalty Theatre on the 29th inst., preceded by a new and original play, in one act, entitled Eriksson's Wife, by Miss Christopher St. John, the adaptress of "The Good Hope."

M. Eugene Ysaye, the Belgian violinist, has entered into a contract to carry out a series of engagements to perform at fifty concerts in the United States. His tour will open at Philadelphia on Nov. 17. M. Ysaye will receive $100,000 for the tour.

Massenet, the celebrated French composer, went to Melun, near Fontainbleau, France, last Sunday, to direct the competitive playing on all sorts of instruments, by all sorts of musicians, from many countries. There were 350,000 performers, some coming from Switzerland and Italy. The spectacle was an astonishing one.

As an example of the capabilities of the Islington Grand Theatre management and stock company, it may be mentioned that a contract which had been arranged in respect of a piece to be presented on the 29th inst. fell through, and Mr Davey has, at a week's notice, decided to revive Harbour Lights. He has managed to get everything in connection with his printing matter settled and the cast selected, as well as the hundred and one other details consequent upon the reproduction or revival of a play.

The visit to the Kennington Theatre next week of Mr George Musgrove's Belle of New York company is announced as a farewell one. Circumstances necessitate the withdrawal of this merry musical comedy to make way for its successor at the Shaftesbury Theatre, The Prince of Pilsen.

Miss Olga Nethersole's second company of Sapho will commence a long autumn tour on the 29th inst, under the management of Mr Henry Tweedie, lately representing Mr Forbes Robertson on the tours of Mice and Men and The Light that Failed.—Mr Michael Sherbrooke has been engaged for Mr Laurence Irving's tour of Richard Lovelace.—Mr Robert Forsyth, so long associated with the part of Professor Moriarty in Sherlock Holmes, under the management of Mr Charles Frohman, has been engaged by Mr Stanley Hope to play the part of "The Master Criminal," in the piece of that name, which commences tour at Hammersmith on Sept. 5.—Mr Alan Borthwick has been engaged by Mr Leon M. Lion as stage-manager for his forthcoming tour of The Edge of the Storm.

Mr Scott Buist will produce, at the Theatre Royal, Worthing, on Sept. 12, a new comedy entitled The Axis, from the pen of Cyril Harcourt. Miss Lily Hall Caine has been engaged for a leading part.

"Blue-Beard" has been chosen, as the pantomime this year at the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham-junction. Miss Billie Barlow will, it is hoped, be the principal boy, with Mr Harry Pleon as Shackaback. Mr Ben Albert has also a part in the annual, and Mr Alexander Keith—late of Lord Anglesey's pantomime company—will superintend the production.

Mr and Mrs Jackson (Miss Blanche St. Albans) will shortly take a well-earned rest. They have been playing with their present production, Her One Great Sin, since January, 1903, and the piece is booked as far ahead as November, 1905. They will go to their Irish seat, Rathmore, Greenisland, Belfast, and then over to Morecambe for a week, thence travelling to the Lakes. Mr Frederick Loyd and Miss Florence Creagh will take up the parts vacated by Mr and Mrs Jackson.

The Port Elizabeth Opera House, S. Africa, has again passed under the management of Mr T. P. Brewster. This gentleman, whose genial kindness is well known to members of companies visiting Port Elizabeth, took up the lease towards the end of July, opening almost immediately with the Wheeler-Edwards Gaiety company, A Country Girl. Mr Brewster has already booked dates so far ahead as February next.

The Salford Town Council, on Wednesday, discussed the question of theatre licences. An endeavour was made to rescind the previous resolution confirming the Watch Committee's recommendation that applicants for dramatic licences should undertake not to ask for excise permits. The motion to rescind was carried by twenty-six votes to nine. An amendment, moved by Alderman Phillips, that only drink licences should be held by those managers undertaking to maintain legitimate drama, and not music hall performances, was adopted.

Albert Barnes was, on the 12th inst., at Portsmouth, charged with selling pirated music. The offence was proved by a detective, and Mr A. Preston, agent of the Music Sellers' Association, informed the Bench that there was no doubt that hundreds of copies of the songs, the copyright of which belonged to a firm belonging to the Association, had been sold in Portsmouth. The market had been so flooded with pirated music that the legitimate music-sellers had been deprived of a large portion of their trade. The magistrates ordered the music seized to be destroyed, and that the defendant pay the costs. Similar orders were made against three other hawkers, who had between them several hundred copies of pirated songs.

The Theatre Royal, Windsor, has been occupied during the past week by Mr Coleman Davies and his company, with the comedy-drama, Money Makes the Man; or, the Pedlar, and the musical comedy-drama, No Escape. The former was played on the first three nights, the latter on the remaining half of the week. In Money Makes the Man Mr Coleman Davies scored distinctly by his clever and humorous rendering of Theophilus Podophylin, and Mr Archer Terry presented a vigorous and well-conceived impersonation of Squire Norman Travers. Mr J. Meehan playing the part of Mat Mawley with realistic skill. John Malting was well represented by Mr W. H. Harlington, and Mr W. A. Stanton displayed ability as Joe Moppitt. Miss May Neilson was vivacious and pleasing as Sally Malting; Miss Eunice Udall presented a pathetic study of Willie; Miss Evelyn Clare was charmingly natural as Ella Gordon, Willie's sister; and Mr V. W. Carlyle enacted Arthur Egerton with dignity and manliness.

At the New Opera House, Kidderminster, Messrs Fred J. Webb and Wilson Benge's company has appeared in The Two Hussars this week. Messrs Wilson Benge as Harry Alford and Fred J. Webb as Paul Villiers ably portray those characters. Miss M. Danvers Smith as Ellen Maythorne, Miss Marie Helene as Mrs Giles, and Miss Lallah Price as Molly Cutts fill their parts with credit, and the play is well mounted.

"OUR FRIEND THE JEW."

A New Comedy-Drama, in Four Acts, by Alfred Paumier, Produced at the Theatre Royal and Opera House, Merthyr Tydfil, on Friday, Aug. 12.

Mr Mackintosh, J.P.	Mr W. S. Hardy
Lord Rallsmere	Mr S. H. Humber
Hon. Archibald Lestrange	Mr R. Calvert Haws
Major Bollington	Mr C. H. Williams
Joe Chivers	Mr Harwood Roberts
Lame Peter	Mr W. Parkins
P.C. Webster	Mr Harold Gardiner
Detective Nuttle	Mr Arthur Radford
Jacob Elijah	Mr Edwin Lever
Jack Aylmer	Mr Alfred Paumier
Madame De Ligny	Miss Beatrice Sinclair
Polly	Miss Violet Godfrey
Mrs Aylmer	Miss Marie Glynn
Servant	Miss Lambert
Miss Marsden	Miss Ruth Zillwell
Esther Mackintosh	Miss Annie Saker

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT).

Simple and effective in plot is Our Friend the Jew. Mr Mackintosh, a retired merchant, is desirous that his daughter, Esther, shall marry one of the nobility, and has set his heart on an alliance with Lord Rallsmere, a mean, despicable representative of the aristocracy. Esther has already given her heart to Jack Aylmer, who has been employed by Mr Mackintosh to paint several views of his estate. Esther and Aylmer, fearing that Mr Mackintosh will never consent to their union have contracted a secret marriage, and when this is made known to Mackintosh he disowns her, and casts her adrift penniless. At this juncture a certain Jacob Elijah appears as a good Samaritan and assures them that he will prove the truth of the old adage that a "friend in need is a friend indeed."

In the second act we find the young couple and Aylmer's mother on the verge of starvation. Aylmer has had the misfortune to break his arm, and is unable to practice his profession. They have struggled on, keeping their poverty a secret, but at last Elijah, who had lost sight of them, discovers their whereabouts, commissions Aylmer to copy some "old masters," and gives him £20 on account. Everything points to happiness and prosperity, but Rallsmere appears on the scene, and in the absence of Aylmer makes love to the wife, who, however, orders him out of the house. He goes, but quickly returns and places a cheque that he (Rallesmere) has forged in Esther's desk. Aylmer is arrested for the forgery and is on the point of striking Rallesmere when his mother rushes between the two men and falls dead at their feet; the sudden shock has killed her. Aylmer's one ambition now is to prove his innocence and avenge his mother's death, which he does, but has to endure great hardships in doing so. At the trial Aylmer is found guilty of forgery and sentenced to two years' imprisonment. During his incarceration Mackintosh, still believing Aylmer a scoundrel, offers his daughter a home for herself and child, which she accepts. Meanwhile Aylmer has been liberated, and makes for London, where he obtains an engagement under the name of James Bulwer, and sails for South Africa as artist for a London pictorial journal. On his return he has health and money to aid him in discovering the real culprit.

In the third act we find Madame De Ligny, who is really the legal wife of Rallesmere, affianced to Mackintosh, and she has persuaded him to make a will in her favour. The villains plot Mackintosh's death, not recognising Jack, and, thinking him a stranger, determine to put the blame on him, and succeed, but eventually all ends happily for the hero and heroine.

The company worked well together. Mr Alfred Paumier played the hero in his usual vigorous style; Miss Annie Saker made Esther a sweet heroine; Mr Edwin Lever succeeded admirably as Jacob Elijah; Mr W. S. Hardy was good as Mr. Mackintosh; and Mr Harwood Roberts kept the house in continual good humour as Joe Chivers. Mr S. Herbert Humber, as the villainous Lord Rallesmere, presented a clever study, and was rewarded with the usual compliments from the popular parts of the house; Messrs Calvert Haws and Chas H. Williams caused much amusement in their scenes with Miss Marsden, cleverly played by Miss Ruth Zillwood; Miss Violet Godfrey was very bright as Polly; Miss Marie Glynn gave a pathetic performance of Mrs Aylmer; and Miss Beatrice Sinclair did full justice to the part of Madame De Ligny. Other characters were well played by Messrs W. Parkins, H. Gardner, and Arthur Radford. The scenery was supplied by Mr Will Smithson, and the costumes by Messrs Morris Angel and Sons.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Musical Comedy, 'KITTY GREY."

Kitty Grey is an old favourite with Woolwich theatre-goers, and that her popularity is by no means on the wane was evidenced by the warm welcome extended to Mr C. St. John Denton's company on Monday evening. Kitty herself found a charming and competent exponent in Miss Hilda Guiver, whose clear acting and melodious singing at once placed her on a most friendly footing with her audience. Her full, rich, and well-trained voice was heard to great advantage in the several numbers allotted to her, and gained many well deserved encores. Miss Eily Helene was a fascinating Lady Binfield, a delightful demureness in the first act being subsequently replaced by a roguish abandon which won all hearts. Miss Emily Stevens contributed a bright and interesting performance as the dresser, and Miss Nancie Wood made the utmost of the small part of Sadie. Mr Robert Whyte, jun., was altogether excellent as the King of Illyria, and contrived to give an exquisitely humorous rendering of the part, while still retaining some shreds of the necessary kingly dignity. As was to be expected, Mr Robert Selby submitted a sterling performance as Sir John Binfield, and proved himself a most thorough actor as well as a vocalist of no mean order. As Lord Plantagenet Mr Leslie Harris gave a laughable travesty of the society fop, delivering each small quip with a most delightfully self-conscious air of having said something really funny at last. The principals were well seconded by a tuneful and hard-working chorus, and the genuineness of the applause at the fall of the final curtain proved that all in front of the house had spent a most enjoyable evening.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama entitled "THE MIDNIGHT MAIL."

Mr James Willard's company is paying a repeat visit here this week and providing local patrons alike with an object lesson in the drink question and the thrilling episode of the death struggle on the engine of the Midnight Mail. Mr George Harvard continues to represent with fine vigour the struggles of the manly engine driver, Harry Steyne, against the cravings of drink. Mr Fred G. Evison's sketch of the frenzied drink-sodden stoker, Billy Brewer, is a powerfully dramatic one. Mr Alec Alves is distinct as Leonard Royle. As the wily Turk, Hassan Padisha, Mr Arthur Gilroy is full of resource. Mr Charles M'Cann is excellent as Ronald Craig. Mr Warburton is good as Edward Barclay. Rugged sincerity marks Mr R Entwistle's assumption of the old signalman, Jasper Thornleigh. Mr M. O. Wills makes a capital Sergeant O'Lynn. Mr Clearbrook is emphatic as the magistrate. Mr Ritchie Bell is a capable doorkeeper. Miss Mildred Carr imparts great dash and spirit to the part of Nancy Brewer. Miss Ada Oakley plays pathetically as Mary Steyne. Miss Millie Stevenson is successful as Lady Phyllis Eustace. Several minor parts are in capable hands, and the mounting is excellent.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE GRAND.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, in Five Acts, by G. R. Sims and Henry Pettitt, entitled "IN THE RANKS."

This week Messrs Carlton and Armitage's company is paying Islington in the evergreen old Adelphi drama, In the Ranks—one of the great productions at that theatre in its old halcyon days. There is no need now to pass any further comments on this ever-popular play, it being received again with all its old heartiness. The company work hard for a general success, and deserve commendation for a very praiseworthy performance. Mr Bernard Copping as Ned Drayton has, of course, the burden of the play resting on him, and he acted with obvious earnestness. Mr Herbert Cecil as Gideon Blake acted with the necessary force, and made the rôle wicked enough to please the most exacting. Mr Leon Ainscliffe as Richard Beleon was very good, in the second scene of the fourth act particularly. Mr Walter Wilson was good in the small part of the sergeant, acting with distinct vigour. Mr Lionel Sullivan as Mr Herrick was commendable, and the same may be said of Messrs Chappell and Palling as Captain Holcroft and Colonel Wynter respectively. To Mr Cecil Clayton we have to extend congratulations for a fresh and thoroughly humorous performance as Joe Buzzard, Mr Eric Dane as Timmins also exciting some laughter in a praiseworthy performance. As for the ladies, Miss Edith Blair-Staples as Ruth Herrick made the distinct hit of the evening, her acting being natural and pleasing. Specially excellent were her efforts in act four, where she simulates a woman under the influence of morphia. Miss Etta Wilmer as Barbara, a very poor part, did everything possible. Miss Anna Beaumont is also entitled to warm praise for a clever character study as Mrs Buzzard, her acting causing much laughter, and Miss Maud Darley as Mrs O'Hannigan was acceptable in a small part, the rest of the characters coming in for good treatment at the hands of the rest of the company.

THE STANDARD.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, by Dion Boucicault, entitled "THE STREETS OF LONDON."

Considerable success is attending the performance of The Streets of London at the Standard this week. The piece is capitally mounted and staged, and the capable body of players engaged to give it representation do ample justice to their respective rôles, making the production one of great interest, and in every way a complete success. Mr George Wellmore is seen to advantage first as Captain Fairweather and later as his son Paul. Both of these characters he paints true to life, and plays with all the vigour that is necessary. Mr Ernest Munro makes himself sufficiently repulsive as the villainous Gideon Crawley, imbueing the part with the due amount of cruelty and hard-heartedness, but at the same time showing that even a heart of stone sometimes contains a soft spot in which rests the love for an only daughter. As Badger, a ne'er-do-well, Mr Ashley Page supplies a fine assumption of the rôle. His reading is particularly good, being at times highly amusing, but withal powerful and impressive. Mr Phil Harper submits a capable embodiment of Mark Livingstone, which meets with approval. As Puffy, the pieman, Mr Andrew Emm works with great energy, and succeeds in causing considerable mirth as a result of his efforts. Miss Marie Jones gives a bright and careful impersonation of Puffy's son, Dan. Miss K. Pitt Bright is a satisfactory Mrs Puffy, and as Alida Crawley Miss Rosemary Rees is everything that could be desired. Miss Marion Denvil contributes a praiseworthy delineation as Lucy Fairweather, playing with much sincerity and pathos, and winning in consequence some well-deserved applause.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Sensational Melodrama, in Four Acts, by John Denton, entitled "A MODERN JUDAS."

A Modern Judas is being presented here this week by Mr John Denton's company. The play made its first appearance under the title of The Serpent's Tooth at Kingston, where it created a favourable impression in April last, when we gave a full account of the plot. The dialogue contains some excellent writing, and is always natural and telling, while the author has been especially successful in investing a marked individuality to his characters. The drama upon the whole is bright and effective, and on Monday evening was received with enthusiastic applause. Miss Violet King vividly portrayed the sufferings and trials of the heroine, Claire Rivers, and her impersonation was full of power and pathos. Her bright and graceful acting in the first act was very successful. Mr Percy Rhodes depicted the malevolent and villainous Captain Melbourne with a graphic power which held the house in firm grip from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Mr Frank Beresford was a very trenchant and telling Jack Vavasour, and in the third act especially elicited rounds of ringing applause by his strenuous acting. Mr Harry Browne as James Rivers was convincing and dignified, and the part of Bennett was ably undertaken by Mr Trueman Towers. Mr Willie Scott was in his most genial and humorous vein as Tom Hopkins, and Mr John Denton simply revels in the opportunities afforded him by the rôle of the nervous Elkanah Pearce. Miss Ada Palmer as Agatha Pearce was equally entertaining, while Miss Dolly Harcourt portrayed Polly Hopkins with vivacity. Elise was acted with expression and intensity by Miss Kate Walbran, and Mr R. Courtney did good work as Inspector Goodheart. Mr Fred Bell was distinctly successful as Moucher, whilst Mr H. Higgins scored as Silas Grumble. The remaining parts were well sustained by Mr Worsfold, Mr R. Ripon, and Mr George Pallin. The piece is admirably staged-managed, and the scenic arrangements are all that can be desired.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, by Walter Howe, entitled "A VICTIM OF VILLAINY."

Thanks to the enterprising and energetic management of Mr Ernest E. Norris, capital companies have been appearing at this popular suburban theatre, and the attraction provided this week is no exception to the rule. Mr Howe's play is an interesting one, and the exciting situations with which it abounds produce telling effects. The principal character of the piece, Frank Manton, an engineer, is played by the author, who gives a careful and studied reading of the part, investing it with a virile and manly force that appeals strongly to the audience. Mr Frank Lister is responsible for the rôle of Stephen Cavanagh, and is excellent in the part. Tom Leckie is cleverly played by Mr Frank Staples, and an excellent impersonation of Dr. Arthur Lennox is given by Mr John Wybrett. Mr Edmund White makes a good Dick Carson, and a policeman is well represented by Mr Sam F. Pearce. Walter Lennox is delineated in a capable manner by Mr Leonard Howe. In the part of Mary Manton Miss Eileen Concanen's sympathetic acting gains warm appreciation. As Alice Cavanagh Miss Helena Walbran displays real talent. As Mrs Leckie Miss Sophie Shenton plays with commendable care, and Miss Nita Barton makes a vivacious Vera Diamond. Miss May Honing is pleasing as little Eric Manton, and Miss Marjorie Carrol is efficient as Jane. The general mounting is excellent, and the tour is under the personal direction of Messrs John A. Atkin and Walter Howe.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Musical Play, entitled "THE ORCHID."

The interior of the Alexandra Theatre has been most artistically and lavishly redecorated and refurnished, and the effect is admirable. The stalls have been reupholstered in crimson plush, and the beautiful architectural lines of the auditorium have been brought out by a scheme of colour, of which cream and gold are the principal ingredients. The ceiling, which is elaborately ornamented, now makes a striking impression, lighted, as it is, most radiantly, so that all its handsome decorations can be distinctly seen. Altogether, the effect is brilliant and artistic, and Mr F. W. Purcell, though he has evidently had to "put his hand into his pocket" pretty deeply, can congratulate himself upon having an excellent return for his heavy expenditure. A strong attraction is Mr George Edwardes's Orchid company, which has been playing at the Alexandra this week to highly delighted audiences. It is selected with Mr Edwardes's usual care and judgment, the leading lady, Miss Coralie Blythe, having quite an original style and personality. Miss Blythe's enunciation is crisp and clear, and she makes her points with great piquancy and zest. Every word in her songs comes out as sharp and clean as a newly-coined sovereign; and she gets encore after encore for her rendering of the "Little Mary" ditty, chiefly by the demure and dainty deliberation of her delivery. Miss Irene Verona's Caroline Vokins is an impersonation of genuine humour; and she makes the most of the droll songs allotted to the "lady of the matrimonial turn." Miss Ethel Griffies is thoroughly effective as Zellie Rumbert; and Miss Luna Love is delightfully active and alert as Thisbe. Miss Katie Leechman deserves warm praise for her very satisfactory and sound embodiment of the Countess Anstruther; and Miss Gertrude Gilliam, with her handsome appearance and winning and genial method, is an excellent representative of Josephine Zaccary. A tower of strength in the cast is Mr Lawrence Grossmith, who plays the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour with an aplomb and oddity which are irresistible. Mr Donald Hall may be praised for his neat performance as Dr. Ronald Fausset, and Mr Ellis Ogilvie is seen to advantage as Mr Aubrey Chesterton. Mr Sam Walsh is extremely comical as the Comte Raoul De Cassignat, and Mr Sidney Vincent, whose presence is striking and individual, is quite commendable as Zaccary. Mr George Gregory "simply revels" in the rôle of Meakin, which gives this clever comedian many opportunities of employing his abilities. He is comically vivacious throughout; and his reading of the character has many original touches. The full chorus and augmented orchestra, under the decisive bâton of Mr Ernée Woodville, do most valuable service; and the piece is mounted and dressed with Mr George Edwardes's usual disregard of expense.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, by William P. Sheen and Fred S. Jennings, entitled "WHY WOMAN SINS."

In this drama, which has formed the attraction at the Marlborough this week, the hero and heroine, Lieut. Harry Maxwell and Nell Desmond, have their full share of those misfortunes and persecutions which invariably are the lot of these two personages until the end of the last act, when the black clouds which have obscured the warm sunshine that should have brightened their lives are finally dispelled. Lieut. Maxwell has a deadly enemy in Captain Herbert Carlton. Of course, the last mentioned is desirous of making Nell Desmond his wife, and quite naturally she, being a sensible girl and a good judge of character as well, prefers Harry Maxwell. Thus it is that the unscrupulous Captain does all in his power to separate the lovers and make them as unhappy as possible. He finds a confederate in Ida Valette, "a woman with a past," a character that is quite familiar to the regular playgoer. Ida is a bad woman, who takes a cruel delight in witnessing the mental sufferings of the heroine, but that her nature is not wholly depraved is shown when she discovers that the ragged little half-starved lad who comes aboard Captain Carlton's yacht is none other than her own child. She clasps him passionately to her heart, the maternal instinct asserting itself even in her callous nature. Captain Carlton has Nell abducted, but she escapes and denounces the villain. However, he gets her into his power again, and makes her, together with her lover, Harry Maxwell, a prisoner in the Keldrum family vault. They, however, are rescued by means of an explosion, devised and successfully carried out by their friends. Mr Wallace Campbell is a manly Lieut. Harry Maxwell, and puts plenty of energy and force into his denunciation of Captain Carlton, a character that is carefully and consistently portrayed by Mr Fred Terriss. Miss Mildred Cottell is successful in her embodiment of Ida Valette, whose varying moods are admirably realised by this excellent actress. Miss Hilda Merilese deserves praise for her effective rendering of Nell Desmond, Mr George Harris is a capital exponent of Cecil Spencer, and Mr Lionel Ellis plays naturally and well as Jim Rainbird, a ne'er-do-well in the employ of the Captain. Miss Georgina Thomas quickly wins the sympathy of the audience as the poor little waif Jack Smith. A prominent character is Nancy Nibble, Miss Desmond's maid, who has rival aspirants for her favour in Sam Spavins, a groom; Bobby Beans, a gardener; and Orlando Whiffles, a waiter. These respectively become a soldier a sailor, and a policeman, all on account of Nancy, who eventually chooses the representative of the military. Miss Marie West is a sprightly and buxom Nancy, and her three lovers have capital exponents in Messrs Austin Lenton, F. Mewburn, and Forbes Harrison. Miss Winifred Preece is smart as Lily De Vere, a music hall star, and Miss Susan Kippaire does well as Nanette, Ida's maid. Minor parts are ably sustained by Messrs Charles Herberte, Tom Dale, Lionel Ellis, Edward Beace, Cecil Churton, D. Montgomerie, and Miss Amy Pierson.

THE CORONET.

On Monday, Aug 15, "THE TWO ORPHANS."

Mr Henry Neville, supported by an excellent cast, is appearing at the Coronet Theatre this week in the above drama. Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company is an admirable one. Mr Henry Neville gives a capital reading of the part of Pierre, and his efforts are heartily appreciated. Mr William Devereux is a courtly Amand De Vaudray, and Mr Cory Thomas a duly villainous Jacques. Miss Evelyn Weeden and Miss May Congdon as the two orphans are deserving of very high praise. Their performances are full of merit. Miss Lily Bertram is a charming Countess De Linière. Other parts are sustained satisfactorily by Messrs Mallalieu, Rawson, Thurstans, Walter, and Leighton; and Misses Victor, Cahill, Boyne, Gott, Wicks, and Doyle.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama entitled "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

After an absence of over two years, the evergreen Uncle Tom's Cabin is being played here by Mr Charles Harrington's company, and the large audience seemed to find it as interesting as ever. Mr John H. Rogers again appears as Legree, and gives a very fine delineation of the part. Uncle Tom is well played by Mr J. Carr, and Mr H. W. Hargreaves makes a good George Harris. Mr Charles Harrington himself undertakes the rôle of Phineas Fletcher, which he plays with his accustomed skill. Marks, the lawyer, is humorously depicted by Mr Fred Charles, who is most amusing. Topsy has a bright representative in Miss Sylvia Stella, who also scores with her song and dance. Miss Hero Hathaway appears as Mrs St. Clair, and Miss Ida Fane affords amusement as Aunt Ophelia. Little Minnie, a clever young lady, makes a good Eva. Miss Zerlina Zerbini, who appears as Cassy, does all that is required in the part. Among others who fill the long cast we may mention Miss Hettie Johnson, Miss Emma Stewart, and Mr B. Lenton. There is a plantation festival introduced into one scene, and some very pretty singing is given. Special mention should also be made of the banjo solos so delightfully rendered by Mr Will Pettitt. The play is capitally mounted, and the whole stage-management under Mr J. H. Renny's direction is to be commended.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, by G. R. Sims and Henry Pettitt, entitled "THE BELLS OF HASLEMERE."

The Bells of Haslemere has a story which is well told, and the plot is clear and consistent. It has been well received at the King's Theatre this week. Frank Beresford is impersonated by Mr Leonard Yorke in manly fashion. John Silkstone is skilfully impersonated by that experienced actor Mr Arthur Estcourt. Mr J. H. Chandler is a cool and incisive Captain Vere, and the rôle of Matthew Brookfield is commendably rendered by Mr Douglas Hamilton. Mr Hal Collier is highly amusing as Reuben Armstrong, and Mr Fred F. Allen in the character of Joseph Thorndyke is quite successful. Mr C. A. Clarke is capable as Patrick Desmond, and Mr Powell James as Captain Salem deserves praise. Miss Helen Bancroft infuses abundant intensity into her performance as Evelyn Brookfield, and pleases the audience greatly. A merry Dorothy Tremble is Miss Kate Brand, and Miss Mary Hardacre gains much sympathy for the unfortunate Mary Northcote. Miss Winifred Leeson wins approval by her delicate rendering of Norah Desmond. The scenery and appointments deserve honourable mention.

SHAKESPEARE, CLAPHAM-JUNCTION.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, in Three Acts, by Stephen Bond and B. Soane Roby, entitled "BOY BOB."

As was to be expected from the reputation of this play and company, large audiences have attended the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham-junction, this week. Miss Louie Freear, of course, is the centre of attraction, and it would be superfluous to pass at this stage encomiums on her interpretation of the part of Boy Bob, while the enthusiastic calls at the fall of each curtain testify to the popularity of this clever actress with the British public. Mr Stephen Bond in the part of Captain Winton is good, and Mr A. T. Hendon as the humorous Sergeant Field is deserving of great praise. Mr B. Soane Roby sustains the important part of Sergeant Daniels with a proper understanding of its possibilities. Mr Francis Hawley has a difficult part as Captain Fisher, with a number of long speeches that in less skilful hands could easily become wearisome, but he succeeds in sustaining interest and renders the character with feeling. Mr Slaine Mills as Colonel Vincent is all that could be wished, and Mr Brisco Owen makes a dashing figure as Lieutenant Rex Herrick. Miss Marie Rignold as the villainess, Lottie Brenton, is deserving of every praise for a masterly interpretation. Miss Dora Rignold proves herself an actress of power in the part of Edith Vincent, but the opportunities she has for the display of her ability are far fewer than one could wish. Miss Jessie Burgwitz makes the most of the part of Dora Herrick. Mrs H. A. Saintsbury as Mrs Caudraugh is remarkably good. Miss Constance Raymond as Sal and Miss Josephine Wakefield as Nurse Drayscott deserve notice, and Messrs Frank Brown, Edwin Sheppard, J. Russell Bogue, and Birmingham sustain minor parts in excellent fashion. This play is preceded by Mr J. B. Buckstone's comedietta Good for Nothing, in which Mr A. T. Hendon as Tom Dibbles and Miss Jessie Burgwitz as the uneducated romp Nan do very well. On the whole the company is a very strong one, has been carefully chosen, and plays well together.

GRAND THEATRE, FULHAM.

On Monday, Aug. 15, "THE SHAUGHRAUN."

The Shaughraun takes us back in memory to the old Adelphi days, with the late William Terriss as Captain Molyneux and Miss Millward as Claire Ffolliott. Mr John M. East's company is an exceptionally strong and well-chosen one, and gives a most enjoyable exposition of this celebrated melodrama. Mr F. Rawson Buckley acts with tact and feeling as Captain Molyneux; Mr Arthur Burne acts with verve and ability as Robert Ffolliott, and contributes a very pleasing performance; Mr Charles Langley makes a capital Father Dolan; Mr Tom Taylor is appropriately villainous as Corry Kinchela; and Mr D. Campbell is vastly entertaining as the scurvy rascal Harvey Duff. Mr Henry Wright is delightfully droll as the irrepressible Conn, and is the life and soul of every scene in which he takes part. Miss Marie Wright is an agreeable exponent of the character of Moya, which she enacts in natural and pleasing fashion. The parts of Claire Ffolliott and Arte O'Neal are capably and prettily rendered by Misses Rose Ralph (especially good) and Kitty Grattan. Miss Emily Dowton as Mrs O'Kelly is quite equal to all the requirements of her part, and is thoroughly Irish. Misses D. Marshall, L. Arthur, and others are satisfactory in smaller rôles.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, by Arthur Shirley, entitled "THE GRIP OF IRON."

The above drama has made its reappearance at the Lyric, Hammersmith, and is meeting, as usual, with success. To those who require strong dramatic fare The Grip of Iron must ever appeal, and it is no wonder that, even after so many years' touring, it still retains a strong hold upon the playgoing public. The company is under the control of Messrs E. H. Knight and Geo. Denham, and, fortunately, most of the artistes identified with the drama's success are still seen in their original parts. Mr Fred Powell is as realistically grim and gruesome as ever, and his delineation of Jagon, the strangler, is a huge success. Mr George Denham gives a painstaking rendering of Paul Blanchard, and Mr Charles Grant acts vigorously as Lorentz De Ribas. The difference between the old and new schools of detectives is well distinguished by Messrs Harry Agar-Lyons and John Brittain, who as Alphonse De Coucou and Dodot create roars of laughter, and keep the audience in very good humour. Mr J. E. Stevenson is a capable Robert De Belfort, and Mr John Coghlan renders good service as M. De Baudin, of the Secret Police. An excellent characterisation is that of Loustalot, "the Smiler," splendidly played by Mr Andrew Liston, and Mr Geo. Rothsay is a meritorious Capt. Guerin. Cora Simmonet, as depicted by Miss Georgie De Lara, is well worthy of appreciation. Miss Nellie Grant wins cordial sympathy by her earnest acting as Sophie Blanchard, and Miss Hilda Baynton is a pleasing Marie Guerin. The scenery is quite up to the standard of former productions.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Play entitled "THE SILVER KING."

The every-popular play, The Silver King, is being admirably presented this week at the Dalston Theatre by Mr G. M. Polini and Mr Austin Melford's company. The title-rôle (the good intentioned but easily led Wilfred Denver) is sustained by Mr Austin Melford in his best style. The audience follow intently the engrossing adventures of Denver, and are equally in sympathy with him whether he stands before them as the dissolute spendthrift, the supposed murderer, or the prosperous Silver King. Mr Melford is well supported in the interests of the play by Miss Emelie Polini, who sustains the trying part of Nellie Denver. Mr C. C. Grattan makes an admirable Daniel Jakes, representing the kindly and faithful old servant to the life; and Miss Amy Manfree is sweetly interesting as Cissy, Denver's little daughter. Master Jack Evan is Ned, Denver's very youthful son. Mr Charles Levey elicits admiration for his cynically cool portrayal of the part of Captain Herbert Skinner, alias "The Spider," and Mr Arthur H. Rooke is quaintly amusing as Elijah Coombe, also known as Father Christmas. The ill-fated Geoffrey Ware is represented by Mr Arnold E. Palmer, and Mr James L. Power relieves some of the most serious parts of the play with some decided touches of comedy. Mr Warriss Lindon makes a typical detective as Samuel Baxter, and Mr H. Laundy in his brief appearance before the audience as the tipsy passenger makes the most successful use of his one opportunity to convulse the audience with laughter. Miss Phyllis Dailley represents Olive Skinner, the "Spider's" wife, Miss Dolly Norton is quaintly humorous as Mrs Gammage, and Miss Margaret Rooke is sprightly as Susie, a waitress at the Chequers Inn, where the audience have the opportunity of studying such living reminders of country folk as Mr Parkyn, a parish clerk (Mr Eric Store); Tubbs, landlord of the Wheatsheaf (Mr George Jervis); and Gaffer Pottle (Mr L. Singer). The cast also includes Miss Amy Wood, Mr Phil Redmayne, Messrs C. P. Amalia, A. Bingham, S. Hathway, F. Norton, A. Emery, A. Shoesmith, C. Williams, and C. Grant.

PRINCESS OF WALES'S, KENNINGTON.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Melodrama, in Four Acts, entitled "WOMAN AND WINE."

Once again has the above drama visited Kennington, and once again crowded and enthusiastic audiences have assembled to witness it. The big scene—the fight between the two women—has had its usual effect, the audience's excitement finding its vent in vigorous applause. Miss Edith Blande is playing Marcel Rigadout and Miss Nellie Lauraine, La Colombe, and the energy these two ladies put into their work is responsible for a good deal of the success achieved. But the company is made up of good workers. Mr Frank R. Robertson does well as Dick Seymour, and wins sympathy for that misguided individual, while as Hugh Seymour Mr Fred Mace makes the most of the pathetic character of the blind father. Alphonse Beaudet is well realised by Mr Walter Thornton, and Mr Herbert Landeck puts in some clever work as Caliban. The comic element is safe in the hands of Mr Tom Tindall as Professor Sawter, Mr Percy Dawsone as Charles Sawter, and Miss Muriel Vox as Janet Marlow. Miss Ernestine Holker is an excellent Mary Andrews. Minor parts are well sustained by Messrs Eaglesfield, Beaumont, Compton, Lynn, Harcourt, Mitchell, Webster, Kent, Cooper, and Misses Rose Galloway and May Langley, while the Edene Troupe of lady dancers contribute active acrobatic dances.

EALING THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, by Arthur Shirley and Ben Landeck, entitled "TOMMY ATKINS."

The drama Tommy Atkins is being exceedingly well presented here by Mr Milton Bode's company. The play abounds with exciting incidents, from a forbidden wedding to a battle amid the sands of Egypt, while the humorous element is not wanting, and is of as good quality as the dramatic. Mr Frederick Ross is the embodiment of British pluck, and in the character of Harold Wilson shows us all a parson and a soldier should be. Miss Lola Patey as Ruth Raymond, the much-tried heroine, gains the sympathies of the audience with her clever acting. The villain, Captain Richard Maitland, is ably played by Mr G. C. Doughty. Mr John Nolan as Sergeant Paddy Molloy and Miss Ethel Tinsley as Kate Perkins are responsible for the comic scenes, and they could not be in safer hands. The Sergeant is indeed a "broth of a boy." Mr Reginald Holmes as Captain Sparrow and Miss Florrie Vickers as Elsie Wilson are both very good in their respective characters. Ebenezer Skindle, played by Mr Billy Harman, causes much merriment. Mr Charles Wenman as Private Mason and Miss Marie Fontaine as Margaret Maitland assist greatly in enhancing the dramatic interest of the play. The smaller parts are in capable hands.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, by William Gillette and Conan Doyle, entitled "SHERLOCK HOLMES."

The patrons of this charming theatre have been well catered for this week, for Mr Charles Frohman has been presenting that celebrated play Sherlock Holmes. Mr Saintsbury, who has played Sherlock Holmes over 650 times, gave a masterly conception of the distinguished detective and carried all before him. Mr W. F. Stirling as Professor Moriarty supplied a striking character sketch; Dr. Watson was capably portrayed by Mr Lawrence Leyton; Mr Marc Maodermott made the most of the part of John Forman; and Mr Leslie Carter gave a powerful rendering of that of James Larrabee, being well supported by Miss Maud Linden as the wife. Master Cedric Walter acted neatly as Billy; Mr Legal Robinson was responsible for a good deal of fun as Sidney Prince; good character sketches were given by Messrs Douglas Munro, Edward H. Fairburn, and Harold Boughton, and smaller parts were ably represented by James F. Anson, Gissing Walters, William Wilson, and M. Loomis. Miss Vera Longden as Alice Faulkner was charming. Misses Rosalie Notrelle and Rosamund Rokeby lent valuable aid as Thérèse and Mrs Smeedley. Mr Douglas Munro must be highly commended for his able stage-management.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, in Four Acts, by the late Wilson Barrett, entitled "THE NEVER-NEVER LAND."

Apart from the sympathetic interest which attaches to The Never-Never Land as being the last play written and produced by the late Wilson Barrett, the piece on its merits should achieve success wherever presented. This opinion was emphatically endorsed by the large audience present at the spacious Borough Theatre on Monday night, who followed with rapt attention the absorbing story, were interested in the characters so finely portrayed by Messrs John Hart and Harry Armitage's company, and found vent for their enthusiasm in frequent applause. Mr Edmund F. Kennedy as Jack Mowbray acts with a subdued force and incisiveness which, combined with an excellent stage appearance, render his performance one of considerable merit. Mr Benson North makes Raphael Moses Wolff duly smooth-tongued and plausible, his portraiture being very graphic. Tom Hewley has a buoyant representative in Mr Stanley Harrison, and Mr George M'Kenzie does well in the short part of Jack Landale. A delightful piece of character acting is contributed by Mr John Hart as the faithful old family servitor, Brudds, and Mr Henry Needham as Spurdy: Mr Sidney Bancroft as the Chinaman Wong, Mr Selby Burrell as Dan Murphy, Mr Cecil Elgar as Lord Thorland, and Mr Simon D. Ord, in a "melancholy poet" kind of part, all do excellent work; Mr Edward Rochelle scores heavily as the incorrigible but interesting vagabond Nat Rudder, playing the part with a dry humour and sly facetiousness which are highly acceptable. He receives capital support from Miss Julie Kennard as the vicious and vindictive Sal Berker; as Smudgee, a quaint mixture of mirth and pathos, Miss Margaret Parker becomes exceedingly popular; Miss Caroline Barrett is a graceful and pretty Sybil Landale, her delineation of the demure and naïve maiden being a notable success; Miss Marion Fawcett is a sympathetic and natural Lady Walgrove; and Lorna Mannerley is brightly played by Miss Blanchette Grand. Mrs Pochin is carefully enacted by Miss Kathleen Barrett and Miss Ruth Isaacson is a smart servant.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Joseph Arthur, entitled "THE STILL ALARM."

A large audience attended the Stratford Theatre Royal on the opening night of the week to renew acquaintance with The Still Alarm, it being some six years since the piece was last seen at this popular theatre. Under Messrs Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's management a high standard is maintained in mounting and appurtenances, and the company has been selected with care. The Central Fire Station scene, in which, at the signal of the Still Alarm, the Fire Brigade turns out—the horses being brought from their stables harnessed, and driven off with remarkable rapidity—proves as exciting and entrancing as ever, and the opportunity to introduce varieties by the Lyric Comedy Four in the third act is availed of with happy results. Mr Mathew H. Glenville makes a virile and earnest Jack Manley, and Mr Paul Lovett contributes a forcible delineation of the rascally John Bird. Mr Fred Osmond supplies a well-defined sketch as Doc Wilber, and Mr Tom Beasley is a capital William Manley. Mr Lewis Gordon does well as Franklyn Fordham; Mr Dan Mining is well placed as Joe Jones; and Mr Arthur Downs is entirely satisfactory as Jenkins. Miss Mary Lovett is a charming exponent of the rôle of Elinore Fordham; Mrs Manley is naturally embodied by Miss Mabel Veriton; and Miss Hettie Zillwood acts and sings with piquancy and vivacity as Carrie Wilber. Minor parts are all carefully handled.

OPERA HOUSE, CROUCH-END.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Play, entitled "THE FATAL WEDDING."

The American play known as The Fatal Wedding was presented here on Monday by Mr Bert Coote's company. The wealthy clubman, Howard Wilson, was played by Mr Ernest Owttrim with conscientious care and sound judgment. Mr Wallace Stranack as the man about town Robert Curtiss won golden opinions. The humorous scenes were well depicted by Mr Edward Morgan as the French butler, Toto, and by Mr John Wheatman as the German, Peter Schwartz. Mr Jack Waring as the policeman O'Reilly and Mr J. Graham as the Rev. Dr. Lanceford both deserve mention. Miss Helen Russell did excellent service as Mabel Wilson; Miss Doris Gilham as Cora Williams was praiseworthy; Miss Marie Hassell as Bridget, the lady cook, was amusing, and deserves special commendation. As the Little Mother, Jessie, Miss Maidie Andrews was well suited. Jessie's little brother Frank was cleverly impersonated by Master Gilbert Royce; the other characters were all ably represented, and the chorus of specially trained children were the recipients of well-earned applause.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, Aug. 15, the Comedy, entitled "SATURDAY TO MONDAY."

The attraction at the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, this week is Saturday to Monday, which has proved attractive enough to draw good business to the cosy little theatre. The audience have received the entertainment with marked favour; and have appeared to thoroughly enjoy it. Mr Fred Karno wins favour by his oddities and jokes; and considerable amusement is caused by Mr Fred Kitchen, who appears as the bridegroom. The ladies of the company are very attractive, Miss Cossie Noel, who appears as the bride, making a very favourable impression. The production is admirably mounted.

PROMENADE CONCERTS.

Wassilenko as the name of a composer is, we must confess, quite unknown to us, but it does not follow that a musician with such a name should be destitute of talent, and Mr Wood conducts the Promenade Concerts in such an enterprising spirit that we may safely take for granted anything we find in the Queen's Hall programmes, and it may be that Wassilenko, however strange the name sounds to lovers of Mozart, Beethoven, and other acknowledged great masters, represents some Sclavonic composer hitherto unable to make his uncouth name known to the musical world. But on Saturday last a composition called a "Poéme Epique," for orchestra, written somewhat after the manner of Liszt's Symphonic Poems, was produced at Queen's Hall with considerable success, owing to its bold and original character. The "Poéme Epique" opens with some powerful chords for the brass instruments, which appear to suggest a martial subject. These are followed by passages of a picturesque and descriptive character, not without interest and musical effect, although Wassilenko has evidently aimed at something he has not had the power to fully realise. But the sombre Sclavonic phrases were frequently impressive, and the piece, being admirably performed and brilliantly conducted, met with a favourable reception, and may probably lead to the name of Wassilenko becoming better known, though it "may be for years and it may be for ever" ere this ruggedly named musician acquires popularity. Another novelty was a concerto for violoncello, by Van Goens, a composer better known than Wassilenko, as we have heard pieces of his in the concert-room. As a writer for the 'cello Van Goens has decided merit, and ample justice was done to the concerto by M. Jacques Renard, who played the work finely, being especially successful in a graceful and expressive andante, founded on a particularly melodious theme. The finale also had some effective passages, and the talented performer was twice recalled to the platform. The overtures to Fra Diavolo, Der Freischutz, and Nicolai's Merry Wives of Windsor were included in the programme, and the vocalists, Miss Edith Kirkwood and Mr John Harrison, were very successful. Tschaikowsky is a great name in Russian music, and a work of his not previously heard in this country was certain to have an enthusiastic reception. On Tuesday evening at Queen's Hall this novelty was heard. It is called "A Symphonic Picture," and is in reality the introduction to the last act of the composer's opera Mazeppa. Some years ago a Moscow opera company played the work in a provincial town, but omitted this introduction, which in some portions reminds us of the famous "1812" overture, and like that exciting work this introduction is of an extremely boisterous character. Dr. Cowen's "Four Old English Dances," graceful and melodious pieces, were performed with great success, and the orchestra also played the fantastic "Danse Macabre," by M. Saint-Saëns, and the same composer's Concerto, for violoncello, in A minor, was beautifully rendered by M. Jacques Renard. Beethoven's Coriolan overture and the Academic Festival overture of Brahms were performed by the orchestra, and Mr Wood's newly constituted orchestra must certainly be pronounced a very admirable body of instrumentalists. Miss Sybil Sammis and Mr Robert Burnett sang, the latter vocalist being very successful in Dr. Elgar's "Pipes of Pan." The concerts are meeting with hearty appreciation, the merits of the performances being universally recognised, and Mr Wood's popularity as a conductor is constantly increasing.

AT the West London Theatre this week Why Men Love Women has been received with enthusiasm. As Gerald Fielding, Mr Alfred Paumier plays in a breezy and earnest manner which is quite effective. Mr T. Herbert Humber plays Captain Stanitoff with marked power and ability. As Tommy Fitzherbert Mr W. S. Hardy is excellent in every way. Mr Edwin Lever as the Maharajah of Bolore acts carefully and well. Mr Arthur Radford as the Rev. E. Grey is very satisfactory. Miss Annie Saker as Violet Livingstone is tender, feminine, and expressively emotional. As Muriel Zoluski Miss Beatrice Sinclair deserves commendation, and Mr Harwood Roberts as Orlando Figgins, Miss Ruth Zillwood as Birdie, Miss Violet Godfrey as Baby, and Miss Marie Glyrne as Matilda Figgins all do well and create laughter.

ON Wednesday, Aug 17, at the Crown Hotel Assembly Rooms, Cricklewood, was performed for copyright purposes a new and up-to-date version of the celebrated scena entitled On Guard, written by Harry Adams and composed by the late E. Jonghmans and Joseph Tabrar.

THE LONDON HIPPODROME.

THE STAGE AND RING STAFF FOURTH ANNUAL OUTING.

Mr Frank Parker, the stage and equestrian director of the London Hippodrome, has a reputation for doing things well at all times. Whether it be a gigantic production, a transportation of one to the other ends of the earth, or the organisation of a Brobdignagian excursion for the edification of his employees, one can always console oneself with the satisfactory knowledge that all will be in order. Last Sunday over 100 members of the stage and ring staff went for their annual holiday under his fatherly guidance to Clacton-on-Sea. Although the weather was slightly "gusty" at times, there were alternate intervals of brilliant sunshine, and joviality reigned supreme. Strange enough, everybody turned up to time to catch the 9 0 o'clock train from Liverpool-street, to which was attached special corridor saloons. This reservation was most thoughtful, as the demand for places by the general public on this particular train was enormous, and a whole host of folk had to be left behind. Punctually at 10 52 the train steamed into Clacton Station, where a small contingent of "delinquents" were waiting to greet "the crowd." These "delinquents" had stealthily made their way here on Saturday, and gained the advantage of an extra dose of the bracing ozone of England's Mentone, as it is called. Sixteen brakes and carriages conveyed the Clan M'Hippodrome away into the country to St. Osyth, where exists a very ancient Priory. Mr Frank Parker, who acted as guide and councillor, here expounded the glories of this once notable retreat and its marvellous architecture and lore, with which he is thoroughly acquainted. Afterwards, the drive was resumed by way of some glorious woods back to Riggs' Retreat, where, we are told, there is always catering and accommodation, if necessary, for some four thousand folk at a time. The above photograph having been taken our portly host, Mr Badger, provided—for the fourth year in succession—a real old-fashioned square meal.

The speeches, three in number, were brief, and included the "Royal" toasts, "Mr H. E. Moss," "Mr F. Allen and the Directors:" and the chairman, Mr Parker, dwelt very eloquently on the being entertained that the summer "outing" will become an annual institution. No trouble or expense was spared by the management to secure this happy result, and to the untiring energy and whole-hearted enthusiasm of Mr Arthur J. Barclay as president, Mr George F. Slatter as hon. treasurer, and Mr Albert E. Hill, hon. secretary of the outing committee, an unreserved tribute of praise must be accorded.

The company, numbering no fewer than sixty-three, assembled at the Palace at nine o'clock, and were forthwith picturesquely grouped for photographic purposes by Mr Wright, of Forest-gate and Walthamstow. Among those who faced the camera were Mr Arthur J. Barclay, manager, and Mrs Barclay, Mr Geo. F. Slatter (acting-manager) and Mrs Slatter, Mr H. Petersen (musical director) and Mrs Petersen, Mr John Grant (stage manager), and the entire staff of the theatre, from the heads of all departments down to the minutest programme-seller.

After being photographed, the party made their way to the Walthamstow station of the Midland Railway, and at 10·30 started for Southend-on-Sea, where the day was to be spent. The railway company had reserved a number of carriages for the use of the holiday-makers, and the journey was made easily and comfortably. Arriving at noon, there was a general dispersal of guests to follow their own inclinations for an hour, and indulge in a sniff of the briny to create an appetite. At one o'clock punctually dinner was served in the banqueting room of the palatial new Hotel Metropole. Mr Arthur J. Barclay occupied the chair, and his vice-chairmen were Mr George F. Slater and Mr H. Peterson. Ample justice having been done to an excellent bill-of-fare, the next "turn" was the toast list, but, as the chairman pointed out, the object of the outing being primarily to get as much fresh air as possible, speech-making was reduced to the smallest proportions.

The first toast, proposed from the chair, was "The King and the Members of the Royal Family," Mr Barclay reminding his hearers that the amusements of this country had no more regular—perhaps few more critical—supporter than His Gracious Majesty. The toast was received with loyal acclamation.

Mr George F. Slater then proposed "The Walthamstow Palace," and in the course of an excellent speech, full of telling "points," dwelt upon the perfect harmony which prevailed in every department of the establishment. It was a distinct pleasure to work with and among people who performed their duties with smiling faces and genial words. The whole staff, before and behind the curtain, might be likened unto a happy and united family, with Mr Barclay as a just but kind parent. He hoped that the result of that day's enjoyment would be to cement the kindly feeling already existing.

The concluding toast of the list was "The Visitors," proposed in generous terms by Mr Barclay, who coupled with it the names of three gentlemen of the Press, who were present as guests, and these representatives of the Fourth Estate having replied,

Mr H. Petersen proposed, as an "extra turn," point of unity among those who were present. The great majority were directly concerned in his particular departments, and he would ask them to always follow the excellent example set them by their respected and beloved employers. Without thorough and maintained unison the London Hippodrome would never have been the enormously successful enterprise it is. It was always his ambition to keep his flock together, so that at all times he could reflect and say, "I can rely on my regiment always being in the front, and ready to do or die, as it were, at the given signal." He thanked them warmly for the support and good work they had done during the year. They had been called upon many times, and had had to put aside many little items of sentimental value, but he was delighted to know that they had never been asked without willingly acquiescing.

Mr Philip Morton York had "a word to say to the Guv'nor." He said that in Siberia he had to be very unkind indeed, especially in sending prisoners to the convict mines. He didn't propose to do that in this instance, but he wished to express his bosom feeling of regard and loyalty to the General commanding the Hippodrome forces. He was quite sure that one and all could find no greater pleasure than to serve under that great banner, no work could be set hard enough, and no regiment could be more eager to help the good cause of success.

The sea being too rough, the yacht Sunbeam was unable to put out, although she was specially retained. A brilliant idea was struck. Ozone, ozone, ozone for all. Carriages were chartered and all afternoon ozone was gulped down all along the splendid sea front. Tea at 5·30 at the Retreat. Sports of a very enjoyable character, in which Mr A. Hughes and Mr York especially excelled. The committee consisted of Mr Frank Parker, chairman and hon. treasurer; Mr A. Hughes, Mr H. W. Hawkins, Mr F. Percival, Mr G. Bunyon, hon. sec. Train stewards—Madame Alluto, Messrs Archer, Robinson, Bannister, W. Turner, Ellis.

After a most enjoyable day the whole party returned to town by the 8·20 p.m. train, arriving in splendid spirits at Liverpool-street, all as happy as when the start took place in the early morning. The guests included Mr Wm. Armstrong (Moss Empires, Limited), Mr H. C. Wild (treasurer London Hippodrome), Messrs Alfred and Arthur Powell, Mr Clarence C. Corri (musical director), Mr Cecil Morton York, Marcelino, Mr Charles Parker (son of the worthy Frank of that ilk), Mr Henry W. Garrick (Press manager), Mr A. Flack (official photographer), and Mr G. Duffy (stud groom).

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE OUTING.

The first staff outing of the Walthamstow Palace took place on Sunday last, and proved so thoroughly pleasant and successful as to admit of little doubt that the summer "outing" will become an annual institution. No trouble or expense was spared by the management to secure this happy result, and to the untiring energy and whole-hearted enthusiasm of Mr Arthur J. Barclay as president, Mr George F. Slatter as hon. treasurer, and Mr Albert E. Hill, hon. secretary of the outing committee, an unreserved tribute of praise must be accorded.

The company, numbering no fewer than sixty-three, assembled at the Palace at nine o'clock, and were forthwith picturesquely grouped for photographic purposes by Mr Wright, of Forest-gate and Walthamstow. Ample justice having been done to an excellent bill-of-fare, the next "turn" was the toast list, but, as the chairman pointed out, the object of the outing being primarily to get as much fresh air as possible, speech-making was reduced to the smallest proportions.

He hoped that the result of that day's enjoyment would be to cement the kindly feeling already existing.

The concluding toast of the list was "The Visitors," proposed in generous terms by Mr Barclay, who coupled with it the names of three gentlemen of the Press, who were present as guests, and these representatives of the Fourth Estate having replied,

Mr H. Petersen proposed, as an "extra turn," "The Health of Mr and Mrs Barclay." Needless to say, the toast was received with great enthusiasm, for which Mr Barclay feelingly thanked the company on behalf of himself and Mrs Barclay.

A heavy rain storm rendering outdoor amusement impossible, the company adjourned to the glass-covered verandah of the hotel, and an hour was agreeably spent in listening to some delightful pianoforte selections by Mr Petersen. When the rain was over a general exodus was made, and the company indulged in driving, sailing, and other amusements "to taste." The return journey was made by the 8·45 train from Southend, and Walthamstow was reached shortly after 10·0 o'clock. It was admitted on all hands that a most enjoyable day had been spent, a result greatly due, not only to the three gentlemen already mentioned, but to the committee, consisting of Messrs H. Petersen, J. Grant, Geo. Parker, C. Woollard, and Mrs Barker; Mr Woollard also acting as wine-steward.

"CURING UNCLE."

A Sketch, in One Act, by Albert E. Hill,
First Produced at the Walthamstow Palace on Aug. 12.

Charlie..... Mr Charles Freeman
Samson Quick ..... Mr F. Howard
Gladys..... Miss Florence Tench.

As a literary effort Mr Albert E. Hill's sketch, Curing Uncle, is considerably above the average. The slight story is lucidly set forth; the situations arise naturally, and are never forced; the dialogue is throughout bright and vigorous, with occasional flashes of a pleasant wit. The plot of Curing Uncle—the title, by-the-way, is the only weak spot in the piece—is simple, but sufficient. A wealthy old gentleman, Samson Quick, tottering on the verge of senile decay, imagines himself violently in love with Miss Gladys Hilton. Unfortunately for him, however, the affections of the fair Gladys are fixed upon the old man's sprightly nephew, Charlie, who, being entirely dependent for the handsome allowance of £800 a-year upon his uncle, is driven to distraction, or, rather, finds himself awkwardly poised betwen two stools. The amorous octogenarian, getting wind of his nephew's designs on Gladys, imposes upon him a command that, at the risk of losing his income, he does not make a formal proposal for the next twenty-four hours, the idea being that he himself will, before the expiration of the time, propose to Gladys, and, of course, be accepted. The time limit is 7·0 o'clock in the evening, and up to 6·30 the uncle has not put in an appearance. The young people are beginning to hope that all will be well, when Simon appears. He orders Charlie out of the house, and proceeds to storm the citadel "on his own." The citadel, however, and her relieving army—Charlie—are equal to the occasion. They so play upon the fears of the old man that he is quickly reduced to a moral pulp, with the result that he is glad to avail himself of any means of escape from such a termagant as Gladys proves herself, and joyfully consents to the engagement of the lovers, adding an additional £200 to his nephew's already liberal allowance. "Uncle" is completely "cured."

The author has been fortunate in securing the services of three artistes who enter thoroughly into his conception, and play with a smoothness that shows no trace of the somewhat hurried rehearsals, which were all that circumstances permitted. Mr Charles Freeman acts with unflagging spirit as Charlie, and is sufficiently farcical while steering clear of the temptation to extravagance. As Samson Quick Mr F. Howard presents a finished picture of the doddering old idiot that would be hard to beat in any company of comedians. The suggestions of age and decrepitude are admirable, while the terror into which he is thrown by the doings of the young folk becomes positively pathetic as he sits in speechless horror, hardly conscious of the raillery to which he is subjected—only too relieved to escape at any price. Miss Florence Tench has never done anything better that Gladys Hilton. Charm and vivacity vie with each other in her clever impersonation, and it would be impossible to imagine the part more artistically rendered. Curing Uncle was received with every token of delight.

At Transfield's Hippodrome, Sheerness, the Bros. Lloyd in their daring rope-walking performance are applauded. The Royal Welsh Singers, operatic vocalists, have a hearty reception. Zidney, foot and hand equilibrist, is also well received. The Two Comos win loud applause, and praiseworthy turns are supplied by Mr Cliffe Dover, eccentric comedian; Miss Ada Krot, serio-comedienne; Miss Iris May, burlesque actress; and the ever-popular Little Bishop.

RADCLIFFE.

Grand Opera House.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr Jas. Boothman.—Mr Harry Eeden's company is this week playing Mr H. Michelson's drama Rogues and Vagabonds. Messrs John Cullen and E. Stanton are seen to advantage in the guise of escaped convicts, who do so many funny things as well as daring deeds. The part of Harry Stanford is well taken by Mr J. C. Carlyle, and Mr Ellerslie Pyne makes good use of his opportunities as Fernand Delair, a gentleman thief. Mr F. Denis is a capital policeman. As Ben, a homeless lad, Miss M. Armstrong plays well, and the other female characters are capably sustained by the Misses B. Doyle and K. Vere.

RAMSGATE.

Amphitheatre.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr Henry Bowman.—Delightful performances of A Country Mouse have been given here on the first three evenings of this week by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's clever company. Miss Dido Drake is a charming Angela Muir, Mr Arnold Lucy makes a capital Duke of St. Kitts, and Mr Sydney Stirling is thoroughly at home in the part of the Hon. Archibald Vyse. John Bowlby, M.P., is represented in excellent style by Mr Charles Harley, and Mr W. Lumley makes good use of the opportunities offered by the part of Lord Robert Wykeham. The Lady Sylvia Bowlby of Miss Dorothy Drake, the Violet Aynsley of Miss Eve Erskine, and the Mrs Cropper are all parts sustained in a manner with which no fault can be found. The one-act farce His Landlady has preceded each performance of A Country Mouse. On Thursday evening Mr Wentworth Croke's company commenced a three nights' engagement in The Christian, with Miss Grace Chalmers as Glory Quayle and Mr Harry Scott as John Storm.

Royal Victoria Theatre and Pavilion.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Herbert Jay; Acting-Manager, Mr N. Arthur Hornby.—The comic opera, The Island of Pharos, has been presented to big audiences at the "Pav." this week by Mr Glynn Osborne's company. All the artistes engaged work well. Miss Cissie Vaughan is a good Lady Lovering, and Mr Daly Cooper is an amusing William Sykes. Miss Nita Clavering scores as Antigone. The chorus and orchestra render admirable service. Miss Dora Kennedy dances smartly.

Granville Hall.—Proprietors, Messrs Spiers and Pond.—Miss Daphne De Rohan, the accomplished lady who, supported by a talented company, has been appearing here since Bank Holiday in a series of dramatic and musical recitals, sketches, &c., concludes her engagement this week. The programme has been constantly changed, and among the most popular features has been the musical interlude Le Rêve d'un Vieillard (An Old Man's Dream), invented and composed by Miss De Rohan, who is to be complimented upon the skill she has displayed in adapting so artistically an effective little incident. This is quite a new item, and has been produced here for the first time. Miss DeRohan's mandoline solos, Neapolitan songs, &c., have been warmly received, and the sketch Oh, My Wife! has pleased the audience greatly.

ROCHDALE.

New Theatre Royal, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr Charles Clucas.—The Broken Melody is here once more. Auguste Van Biene still sustains the part of Paul Borinski, and his playing on the 'cello remains one of the features of the performance. Mr Arthur Bawtree cleverly portrays the part of General Ivanoff, Mr T. P. Haynes as Dudley Mortimer, Mr Charles A. Morgan as Dixon, Mr John Cummings as Beaujour, Mr Henry Edwards as the Hon. Richard Spinnacher, and Mr J. Stewart as Dr. Magrath render valuable assistance. Miss Ida Chapman enacts with skill and effect the rôle of the Duchess de Verviers, and Miss Lena Burnleigh powerfully sustains the part of Mabel.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Hargreaves.—Two crowded houses assembled here on Monday, when a most enjoyable programme was presented. The Llewellyns, operatic artistes, rendered their songs with refinement and taste. Amy Donna is a pleasing comedienne. Alfred Almo performed some clever feats on the rings and bar. Cassie Walmer, the dusky princess, is a favourite, and maintained her reputation as a coon singer and dancer of exceptional ability. Bella Leaburn, comedienne and descriptive vocalist; Gus Balsiger, vocal comedian and trick instrumentalist; Two Duvanlos, contortionists; and Alfred Barker with Miss Rozsilla and their dogs, monkeys, &c., complete the list.

ROTHERHAM.

Theatre Royal, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr W. Manning.—Mr Edward Neville and company are here with The Anarchist Terror. Mr J. Nelson-Turner as Silas Washington Goldstraw is excellent, and Mr C. Clive is a manly Lieut. Armstrong. Mr Edward Neville gives a fine rendering of the leading part, and Mr Will White is a smart and humorous Mickey Doolan. Mr Gus Bowerman is a strikingly realistic Ishmael, and is ably seconded by Mr Ben Brewe as Nathan. Miss Annie Brunette is worthy of special mention as Marita, and Miss Lole Esmond is a sprightly Kitty Malone. Miss Frances Waring as Columbia Goldstraw gives a clever portrayal.

RUNCORN.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr H. W. Caddick.—Miss Ellen Cranston's company is here in Who is the Woman? Mr Clarence Burnette is a host in himself as Father Jean; Mr George Knight is forceful as Juan La Casales; Mr Gerald Byrne wins many encomiums as Lieutenant Julian; and Mr F. Stacey is admirably suited as the Duc De Cluny. Mr Frank Brunell is responsible for some entertaining comedy as Pollyput Jollyboy, and is ably assisted by Miss Daisy Cordett as Margot. Miss Ellen Cranston is capital as Zelia De La Sparre, and Miss Nellie Burnette does good work as Mistigris.

RYDE.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Bannister Howard; Business-Manager, Mr Herbert Leonard.—Mr Chas. Macdona's Country Girl company formed a strong attraction here on Wednesday and two following nights. Mr Richard Telford is an ideal Barry, and, with Miss Sadie Neville as Madame Sophie, is responsible for most of the fun. Miss Florence Burdett is a natural Nan, and a great favourite with the audience. Mr Guy Williams is a manly Geoffrey Challoner, and the Sir Joseph Verity of Mr W. O. Billington is a most amusing performance. Mr Bernard Vaughan is sufficiently dignified as the Marquis of Bhong; Miss Lucie Lever sings admirably and acts with finish as Princess Mehelanah of Bhong; and Miss Florence Hallam is a charming Marjorie Joy. Mr J. Slade is a good Lord Anchester, and the remaining characters are also satisfactorily filled.

SOUTHPORT.

Opera House, Winter Gardens.—General-Manager, Mr Alfred Hemming.—Mr George Dance's company opened here on Monday in the sparkling musical play, The Orchid, which met with a cordial reception, the charming scenic displays being much appreciated. Prominent in the cast were Miss Ethel Bryant as Lady Anstruther; Miss Madge Lucas, Caroline Vokins; Miss Eve Melville, Zelie Rumbert; Miss Poppy Wilkinson, Thisbe; Miss Ida Chichester, Countess Anstruther; Mr Edward Hollick, Dr Ronald Fausset; Mr Ernest Darrell, Mr Aubrey Chesterton; Mr Edmund Page, Comte Cassignet; Mr A. P. Hemsley, Zaccary; and Mr Wilfred Simpson, Mr Fontenbras.

SALFORD.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr Harold Goulden.—When the Lights are Low is this week meeting with success here as presented by Henry Eglinton's No. 1 company. In Roland Goldsworthy villainy is well portrayed by Mr Ryland Leigh, assisted by Mr Tom R. Seymour as Ikey Isaacson, representing avarice; Nancy Christie and Violet Christie are well played respectively by Miss Kate Froude and Miss Alicia Raleigh; Guy Goldsworthy is effectively given by Mr Horace Booth; Miss Maud Leonard, as Kathleen Kerry, Mr Dick Seddon, as Willie Wilkins, Mr Fred Carlton, as Tim Wilkins, and Mr Wm. J. Gardiner, as Donald Macpherson, form a quartette of laughter raisers.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford; Secretary and Manager, Mr O. Shayler.—Rudolf's Elephante head a very good bill this week; Miss Madge gives an amusing turn with her mimicry of children; a clever comedy sketch, Getting Even, is given by Sinclair and Whiteford. Among the other turns are Maude Vera, descriptive serio and coon artiste; H. Hughman, American mimic; James Devoye, with his highly educated pony "Bill;" Vansart, the man with a grip of iron; and Zanetto's Japanese jugglers.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead.—An amusing and up-to-date musical sketch, The Dandy Detective, in five scenes, is much appreciated, Mr Dan Agar as Mickey the moocher, Mr J. F. Firth as Artful Jim, and Mr C. Finch-Hatton as a private detective with several disguises being conspicuous. Good turns are also given by the Four Maizanos, eccentric musicians; Bonetti, assisted by Miss May Corrie, eccentric juggler and cartoonist; Chas. Coverdale, comedian and mimic; Rappo and Ella, acrobats; and the Hayward Sisters, comediennes. The programme also includes some good animated pictures.

L. AND N.W. PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietress, Mrs S. A. Higham; Manager, Mr Sam Higham.—An enjoyable programme is presented this week, including Mr Tom Lake, eccentric comedian; Miss Rose Dashwood, comedienne; Mr Harry Wilson, descriptive vocalist; and Mr Will Parker, a well comedian.

SCARBOROUGH.

SPA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Fras. Goodricke.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company is occupying the stage here with the sporting farce The Money-Makers. Mr Allen Thomas is especially good as Matthew M'Dougall; Mr Frank Lacy is well placed as Captain Archie Fitzgerald; Mr Edward Bonfield as Charles Clifton is pleasing; Miss Frances Davie as Bella works hard to win favours; Miss Lorna Lawrence does well as Mabel; Miss Muriel Ashwynne as Dot is charming; whilst Miss Mary Griffiths' portrayal of Mrs Bannerman leaves nothing to be desired.

LONDESBOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Waddington and Sons; Acting-Manager, Mr J. T. Carpenter.—Mr William Greet's company is here in the musical comedy The Earl and the Girl. Mr Percy Carr is good as Dick Wargrave; Mr J. C. Graves is a capital Mr Talk; Miss Annie Grey is a pleasing Elphin Haye; Miss Virginia Bliss finds a charming exponent in Miss Helen Langton; and Mr William Stephens as Jim Cheese succeeds in keeping the house in roars of laughter.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Henry Mayhew; Business-Manager, Mr F. P. Morgan.—Mrs H. Mayhew and Mr Charles Herrick's company is here with the drama The Triumph of Truth. Mr Edward E. Louis as Eversleigh acts with spirit; Mr T. Renard Lockwood is good as the Count; Mr John Clegg is amusing as Tommy Woodhead; Miss Rosabel Dodd acts smartly as Blanch Le Croix; and Miss Marie Auckland is well portrayed by Mrs Chas. Herrick.

PEOPLE'S PALACE AND AQUARIUM.—Managing Director, Mr W. Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr William Kitchingman.—The Cairo Orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Voorzanger, is exceedingly popular; and the same can be said of the troupe of lady swimmers and Prof. Dickinson. The vocalist for the week is Mr Dillon Shallard, whose singing is excellent. The Itrams, gymnasts, give a capital turn; A. C. Revel is a smart juggler; Mr Robert Grieve is a good ventriloquist; Fenton Cross, cartoonist, is a great favourite; Madame Haydee's Mannikins are amusing; Master Thomas Cullen, vocalist, does well; Judge's trained birds give a wonderful exhibition; and the Welmars and C. Gray in their respective turns are successful.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and General Manager, Mr George Zalva.—The appearance of a hundred local children in the old fairy spectacle Cinderella is a great attraction here. The Three Donals give a good turn on the electric silver chains, and the same can be said of the acrobatic act by the Three Novells. All Hassan and Mohamed put in good work as wire performers and tumblers; Les Belles Americaines as lady vocalists and acrobatic dancers win favour; plenty of eccentricities are provided by Messrs Rumbo Austin and Doodles, and illustrated songs are given by Miss L. Lovelace.

PROMENADE PIER AND PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Quinton Gibson.—Amongst those appearing here are Dr. Lynn, with his famous box trick; Miss Maggie Mowell, in her sketches at the piano; Mr Vivian Foster, ventriloquist; Mr Simms, humourist; Miss Ruby, soprano; Miss Du Gar, pianist; and Mr Quinton Gibson, who is so deservedly popular for his successful lady impersonations.

SOUTHAMPTON.

GRAND.—After a very short absence Mr George Dance's company is here again with that popular musical play The Girl from Kay's. Mr Johnnie Schofield causes endless merriment as the blatant millionaire, Hoggenheimer, and Mr T. Shelford, a new comer, scores as the dude, Percy Fitzthistle. Among the ladies Miss Lily Lingard as "the girl" makes a big hit with her spirited singing and dancing. Miss May Marton is successful as Norah, and Miss Polly Primm delightfully piquant as Ellen, the maid. Mr Chas. Gould gives a capital character sketch as Joseph, the hall porter; Mr Garnet Wilson is a breezy Harry Gordon; and Mr T. Reynolds makes the most of his opportunities as Mr Chalmers. The scenery and dresses are extremely bright and artistic, and the augmented orchestra does good work under Mr Harry Whittaker.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Mr Frederick Melville's drama, Between Two Women, is being played here with great success. The acting throughout is excellent, and the comic relief supplied by Mr Tubby Edlin proves highly enjoyable.

PALACE.—A couple of quaint comedians—Sam Mayo and Harry Bedford—are starring here, and both prosper well. Rose Elliott wins applause for her tastefully rendered songs, "Bluebell"—a ditty with an ear-haunting refrain—meeting with a triple encore. The Eight Hearts win golden opinions by their tasteful dancing, and Rosie Lloyd, a dainty comedienne, scores a big success. Other entertaining turns are given by Johnny Alexander's sketch company, in Our Lodgers; Harry Anderson, Ada Martine, Billy Hobbs, and the Mezzettis, who appear in a wonderful triple bar act.

PIER PAVILION.—That remarkably clever troupe, known as "The Gaieties," noted for their bright and humorous, yet always refined entertainment, have been giving excellent performances here during the week. Mr Wilson James, a delightfully droll comedian, and Mr Chas. Conyers, a versatile humorist, ventriloquist, &c., are responsible for the bulk of the fun, and are extremely amusing in their respective lines. Miss Edith Trew is a talented vocalist, and her fine rendering of "Il Bacio" has been one of the features of the engagement. Miss Ruby Wilson is a dainty comedienne, and Miss Maggie Godsmark an efficient accompanist. Mr Charlie Rogers has also been delighting Southamptonians with his expert banjo solos.

SHEFFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr F. W. Purcell; Acting-Manager, Mr T. S. Carter.—The present healthy taste for historical romance has revived the popularity of Harrison Ainsworth, whose famous "Tower of London," after an interval of thirty years, was again placed on the Royal boards on Monday night under the title of A Fatal Crown. The humours of Gog and Magog, Xit the dwarf, and Dame Placida are still productive of amusement, and the brief spell of queenly rule and unhappy death of Lady Jane Grey, with the plotting of the arch-villain, Simon Renard, constitute the dramatic elements of the play. The cast was as follows:—Lady Jane Grey, Miss Margaret Savill; Mary Tudor, Miss Maud Anderson; Dame Placida, Miss Maud Esmond; Barbara, Miss D. Mackenzie; Dorcas, Miss K. Mackenzie; Lord Guilford Dudley, Mr Ian Maclaren; Northumberland, Mr Max Jerome; Herne the Hunter, Mr Leonard Montgomery; Simon Renard, Mr H. Howard; Gardiner, Mr Rome; Gog and Magog, Messrs Hill and Scott; Izod, Mr C. Llewellyn; Adam, Mr J. M. Grant; Xit, Mr Atom; and Phil, Mr Richard Ralli. The costumes and armour were excellent.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager and Treasurer, Mr J. E. B. Beaumont.—The Houp-La Girl, an amusing musical farce by George Sheldon and Antonius Baker, was played on Monday, under the direction of Mr George Sheldon. Mr Thomas Barry was the principal laughter manufacturer as the Prince of Pilsenburg, and he kept the audience in the best of good spirits. Miss Margaret Wilson made a chic and vivacious circus belle as La Roslère; Mr Jack Durant was excellent as the conventional stage artist; and two other familiar musical comedy characters were Lieutenant Lambton and Major Davenport, represented by Mr Lancelot Usher and Mr Eric Dalvere respectively. Other praiseworthy people in the cast were Miss Belle Fossette, Miss Harland, Miss Maggie Fraser, Miss Edith Haley, Miss Hilda Greville, Miss Dora Carter, Mr St. Albans, Mr C. Burnell, Mr George Hart, Miss May Davis, Miss Jessie Kent, Miss Nellie Wyndham, and Miss Violet Conroy. The Rosie Rice Troupe of dancers were heartily applauded. Some good scenery was provided, and the costumes were bright and in good taste.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr C. W. Ramsay.—The King of Crime has long been a special favourite with local lovers of highly seasoned melodramatic fare, and a large audience on Monday again revelled in its sensational episodes, and watched with keenest interest the doings of Messrs Shirley and Landeck's broadly contrasted types of French criminal character. Mr William Clayton succeeds Mr Henry Bedford and Mr Livesey as the representative of the bold Ronjarre, who, thanks to certain sympathetic qualities of the character and the actor's manly personality, still wins the warm admiration of Alexandra audiences. Other parts are cleverly played by Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company, and the piece is effectively mounted.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. W. Young.—The celebrated comedian Mr Harry Randall is adding considerably to the gaiety of the Empire this week. The other artists are Foreman and Fannan, two mirth-provoking impersonators of quaint character and grotesque types; Ben Albert, a dryly humorous comedian; W. H. Liddy, an amusing Celtic entertainer; Amy Sullivan, serio; Nellie Wallace, eccentric comedienne; Wille Brothers, balancers; Arthur Reece, the favourite comic vocalist; Mr and Mrs Findon, sketch artistes; the Glenroy Troupe, and that great and deserved Sheffield favourite, the charming and talented vocalist Miss Lil Hawthorne.

GRAND PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr W. C. Burns.—The top-line artistes this week are Almer and Elber, two expert jugglers, &c. Others who contribute are Ryder Davis, comedian; Mdlle. Adelina, a clever facial entertainer; and Ada Ward, serio. A special item this week is a cake-walk competition.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.

PIER PAVILION. — Sole Lessee, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Messrs H. J. Callan and Wentworth Croke commenced a week's engagement on Monday with the well-known musical play entitled Florodora, which evoked the heartiest applause from start to finish. The piece is very prettily mounted, while some capital singing and dancing are rendered. Mr William Everard gives a capital impersonation of Frank Abercoed, whilst Mr C. Young Fixott was equally as successful as Cyrus W. Gilfain. Captain Arthur Donegal finds in Mr Frank Grans a clever artist, whose dancing is also clever; Mr Arthur Lenville, representing Professor Anthony Tweedlepunch, earns continual applause for his vivacity; Miss Dorothy Sephton is certainly well suited as Lady Holyrood; Miss May Yates sustains capitally the character of Angela Gilfain; and Miss Violet Bronson meets with a hearty reception as Dolores.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. Marlow; Manager, Mr W. Marlow, jun. —Mr George Dance's company is attracting crowded audiences with A Country Girl. Mr Francis Ludlow as Geoffrey Chaloner makes an ideal middy; Mr H. C. Morton is good as Sir Joseph Verity; Mr Harry Buss as Barry keeps the house convulsed with laughter; Mr Arthur Hayter as Granfer Mummery is excellent; Miss Kathryn Comber gives a pleasing impersonation of Marjory Joy; and Miss Ernestine Desborough as Princess Melaneh acts praiseworthily. Miss Nellie Cozens as Nan gains the appreciation of all. The scenery is pretty, and the songs well received, whilst the choruses are rendered with remarkable clearness and purity.

KURSAAL. — Manager, Mr J. Sydney Childs.—Another capital variety entertainment is being given here this week, and, in consequence, large and appreciative audiences find plenty of amusement. Rozelle has been retained, and his rapid descent from the roof of the building is marvellous; Chas. Milton earns favour as a comic vocalist; Daisy Bell is a pleasing soubrette; John Macauley gives some excellent renderings of sentimental songs; and the Twelve Cotton Coons, under Uncle Sam, still meet with well-merited success. The Bioscope is eagerly looked for. The Circus has some good turns, among them being the boxing horses and the clever Powell Family. The Kursaal Pierrots still maintain their reputation in the Café Chantant.

SOUTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs J. and S. Coulson.—A London Actress is paying a return visit here. Miss Emma Litchfield and company, under the direction of Mr Stuart Cleveland, are responsible for its interpretation. Miss Litchfield still acts Hilda Mannering, and her portrayal is quite in keeping with the character. Mr Cleveland strongly depicts Sergt.-Major Clive Crawford. A charming delineation of Phyllis is given by Miss Elsie Roberts. Messrs Charles E. Leicester, John Worth, Sam Wilford, Fred Tenaur, and the Misses Louise Millward, Adele Wilford, and Maud Saxby also appear prominently in the cast.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident Manager, Mr Geo. F. Thompson.—The charming Three Sisters Sprightley head the bill, and their animated turn scores a decided success. Miss Lilian Lea is a charming ballad vocalist. An attractive musical and dancing scena is submitted by Dinah Morris and her troupe of Southern State artistes. The pleasing Lilliputian act of the Mayvilles is well received. The American Bioscope returns after a short absence. Carlotta Lunn, Gus Garrick, Harry Bent, and the Venola Brothers have met with success.

AT the Public Hall, Arbroath, Mr Harry Lauder and his concert company appeared on Monday night. The famous comedian was seen at his best in his character representations. He was assisted by a company of capital artistes, including Royal Corrie, Miss M. C. Gilmour, soprano; Miss M. Fenton, coon songstress and dancer; Mr C. Tyres, tenor, whose efforts merited the approbation they evoked; and clever juggling was shown by Ko-ko, a Jap.

PRESENTATION.—Mr Albert Dean, for seventeen years bill inspector and office clerk at the Darlington Theatre Royal, has received a purse of gold and several other presents from the management of the theatre and numerous friends, on the occasion of his recent marriage to Mrs Lowis, of the Bay Horse Hotel in that town.

PROSPECTUS.

This Company has been formed to acquire the Hippodromes at Great Yarmouth and Lowestoft, built and opened by the well-known public entertainer, Mr George Gilbert.
Mr Gilbert has carried on business at the new Yarmouth Hippodrome since July 20, 1903, with such success that he decided to erect a somewhat similar building at Lowestoft, and this was opened on July 18, 1904.
The property to be taken over by the Company has been jointly valued by Messrs Maddison, Miles, and Maddison and Mr T. W. Warren, of Great Yarmouth, valuers, the following being a copy of their certificate:—

"Great Yarmouth,
"July 22, 1904.

"To the Directors of the Great Yarmouth and Lowestoft Hippodromes, Limited.
"In compliance with your instructions we have inspected the Great Yarmouth and Lowestoft Hippodromes.
"The former includes two shops and is Freehold, subject to a perpetual annual rent-charge of £42 7s. 3d.
"There are also two Freehold Dwelling-houses, Nos. 43 and 45, St. George's-road, and in front of the Hippodrome property is a valuable site, having a frontage of eighty-six feet to the Marine-parade, which is Leasehold of the Corporation for a term of which more than 500 years are unexpired subject to an annual Corporation rent of £10 6s. 6d.
"We estimate the value of the foregoing with the fixtures, furniture, and effects, electric lighting plant, engines, water tank, pump, &c., for sinking ring at £28,000 (Twenty-eight thousand pounds). We estimate the value of the Lowestoft Hippodrome, with electric light fittings, hot water apparatus, furniture, scenery, &c., at £12,000 (Twelve thousand pounds)
"With regard to the furniture, properties, horses, scenic effects, &c., used in connection with the Yarmouth Hippodrome as per inventory, we are of opinion that the value thereof is £1,000 (One thousand pounds).
"The total amount of our valuation is therefore £41,000 (Forty-one thousand pounds)
"MADDISON, MILES, and MADDISON.
"THOS. W. WARREN."

The amount payable to Mr Gilbert for goodwill has been fixed at £5,000, in respect of the Yarmouth Hippodrome, so that the total purchase money will be £46,000. The preliminary expenses up to the first allotment of shares, including the cost in connection with the conveyances to the Company, the debenture trust deed and issue of debentures, Registration fees, and Stamp Duty, are estimated at £2,000 and will be paid by the Vendor.
The directors have considered it advisable to make provision for a sum of not less than £2,000 for working capital, and the public are now invited to apply for £15,000 debentures and £23,000 ordinary share capital, the last-mentioned amount being arrived at as follows:—

Purchase price Yarmouth and Lowestoft Hippodromes and effects as per valuation		£41 000
Goodwill of Yarmouth business		5 000
		46 000
Working capital		2 000
		48,000
Less Debentures	£15,000
" Ordinary Shares to be taken by Mr Gilbert	10 000
		25,000
		£23,000

The nominal capital of the Company has been fixed at £40,000, of which £7,000 will not be called up, but be held in reserve in order to allow for the extension of the business, should circumstances warrant a further development.
The accounts relating to the Yarmouth Hippodrome have been kept under the supervision of Mr H. Harper Smith, Incorporated Accountant, of Norwich, and have for the period from July 20, 1903, to May 31, 1904, been audited by Messrs Lovewell Blake and Co., of Great Yarmouth, F.C.A. The following is a copy of Mr Harper Smith and Messrs Blake's joint certificate:—

PROSPECTUS (CONTINUED).

"Old Bank of England Court,
"Queen-street, Norwich;
"and Hall Quay Chambers,
"Great Yarmouth.
"July 19, 1904.

"To the Directors of the Great Yarmouth and Lowestoft Hippodromes, Limited.
"Gentlemen,—
"We have carefully examined the books of the Great Yarmouth Hippodrome, and prepared accounts for the period from July 20, 1903 (the date of opening) until May 31, 1904, and certify that the profit is Three thousand six hundred and eighty-four pounds thirteen shillings and twopence (£3,684 13s. 2d.). To this must be added the proportion of rents received, after deducting outgoings amounting to Two hundred and thirty-six pounds nine shillings (£236 9s.), making a total of Three thousand nine hundred and twenty-one pounds two shillings and twopence (£3 921 2s. 2d.).
"This result is arrived at after providing for all charges and expenses, except interest on capital, depreciation, management by Mr Gilbert, and income tax.
"We understand that the purchase price of the Yarmouth undertaking and effects, including goodwill, is £34,000. Considering the working capital at £7,000, a total is arrived at of £36,000.
"The above profit of £3 921 2s. 2d., after allowing a sum of £1,200 for management, directors' fees, and depreciation, as well as interest at 5 per cent. on £10,000 of debentures (a fair proportion to allocate to the Yarmouth undertaking), is sufficient to pay a dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum on the remaining capital, represented by ordinary shares of £26,000, and leave a sum to carry forward of £121 2s. 2d.
"It must be borne in mind that the period of earning covered by this certificate is only eleven days in excess of ten months, whereas the dividend and interest calculations are for a period of one year.
"We are, Gentlemen, yours faithfully,
"H. HARPER SMITH,
"Incorporated Accountant.
"LOVEWELL BLAKE and Co.,
"Chartered Accountants."

The properties and business will be taken over by the Company as from June 1 last, and Mr Gilbert is to be treated from that date as carrying on the business on behalf of the Company.
The following contracts have been entered into:—
1.—A contract dated Aug. 10, 1904, between George Gilbert, of the Old Hall, Reedham, Hippodrome Proprietor (hereinafter called "the Vendor") of the one part, and the Yarmouth and Lowestoft Hippodromes, Limited (thereinafter called "the Company") of the other part, whereby, inter alia, the Vendor agrees to sell and the Company agrees to purchase a freehold Hippodrome, with the shops, buildings, and yards to the same belonging at Great Yarmouth, also the Hippodrome at Lowestoft, and the goodwill of the businesses carried on or to be carried on at the said Hippodromes for the sum of £46,000 payable as to £36,000 in cash, and as to £10,000 by the allotment and issue to the Vendor or his nominees of 10,000 fully paid up shares of £1 each in the capital of the Company.
2.—A contract dated Aug. 10, 1904, between the Company of the one part and the said George Gilbert and Jane Gilbert, his wife, of the other part. Whereby it is agreed inter alia that the said George Gilbert should be the Managing Director of the Company for the term of seven years from the date of the incorporation of the Company, and that the said George Gilbert and Jane Gilbert should during the said term be the managers of the Company, in consideration of the remuneration of each of them, the said George Gilbert and Jane Gilbert, in the said agreement, and in Article 96 of the Articles of Association of the Company mentioned.
The Articles of Association provide as follows:—
83. The qualification of every Director shall be the holding of shares of the Company of the nominal value of £250.
84. The Directors, other than the Managing Director, shall be paid out of the funds of the Company, by way of remuneration for their services, an aggregate sum at the rate of £150 per annum, and such further sums (if any) as shall from time to time be determined by the Company in General Meeting
96. The remuneration of the said George Gilbert and Jane Gilbert, or the surviving or continuing one of them (as the case may be), for their, his, or her services as Managing Director and Managers or Manager aforesaid, including the remuneration of the said George Gilbert as an Ordinary Director, shall be, as regards the said George Gilbert, at the rate of £300 per annum, and as regards the said Jane Gilbert, at the rate of £200 per annum.
Copies of the Memorandum and Articles of Association, of the Certificate of Mr H. Harper Smith and Messrs Lovewell Blake and Co., of the Valuation of Messrs Maddison, Miles, and Maddison, and Mr Warren, of the above-mentioned contracts, and of the debenture trust deed may be seen at the office of Mr H. Chamberlin, Solicitor, 13, Queen-street, Great Yarmouth, at any time during business hours before the list of subscribers is closed. A copy of the company's Memorandum of Association is printed in the fold of the Prospectus, and forms part of it.
The Directors will not proceed to allotment unless at least 10,000 shares of £1 each are subscribed for, in addition to the whole of the debenture issue of £15,000 and the 10,000 shares to be taken by Mr Gilbert in part payment of the purchase money.
No commission has been paid, nor have the Directors agreed to pay any commission in respect of the subscribing for any shares in the Company.
Applications for the shares or debentures should be made on the forms accompanying the Prospectus, or in the case of ordinary shares on the form following this abridged Prospectus, and sent to the National Provincial Bank of England at Great Yarmouth, Lowestoft, or Norwich; to the Head Office of the said Bank, Bishopsgate-street, London; or to any of the branches, together with cheque for the amount of the deposit payable on application. If allotment is not made the application money will be returned in full, and, where the number of shares or debentures allotted is less than that applied for, the surplus will be applied towards payment of the amount due on allotment, and any excess will be returned to the applicant. Prospectuses and application forms may be obtained at the office of the Company, or from the Bankers or Solicitors.
Dated Aug. 12, 1904.

MISS ETHEL ARDEN.

AN APOLOGY AND EXPLANATION.

It is with the greatest regret that we ("The Umpire") find that in our issue of July 31—owing to an error in the transcription of a name—a report of certain proceedings (in the action of Methofer v. Methofer) in the Divorce Court turns out to be a serious libel on Miss Ethel Arden, the popular artiste.

We offer our sincerest apologies to Miss Ethel Arden, and express our deep regret that her name should have received so disgraceful an imputation in our newspaper. We feel sure that Miss Arden's many friends and admirers will understand that her reputation stands absolutely unsullied by the mistake we have made, and that her future career will continue unaffected by what has been published. We need hardly say that there was no intention to refer to her in the report. The name of the respondent in the divorce proceedings was Harben, which by mistake appeared in our issue as Arden. We trust that Miss Ethel Arden will receive this apology in the spirit in which it is tendered, and that it will help to remove the pain and suffering of which we have been the unintentional cause.

THE PAST THEATRICAL SEASON.

The theatrical season which began last September and practically ended with July has been, on the whole, an exceedingly encouraging one, if only for one reason—i.e, the almost total non-appearance in the list of entertainments of unsavoury adaptations from French farces. The fun which has been created for the British playgoer in 1903-4 has been clean fun. It was inevitable that there should be a certain diminution in the number of remarkable serious plays. Mr A. W. PINERO and Mr HENRY ARTHUR JONES cannot "last for ever;" and the small output of those gentlemen is a creditable testimony to their scrupulousness, and to their resolve not to present to the public any work of which they are not entirely proud. As yet, the coming men who are to replace our two leading dramatists when they "retire from business" are not easily discernible; but the large number of pieces by "outsiders" which have achieved some success this year is a hopeful sign for the future.

The season of 1903-1904 has been chiefly remarkable for the introduction to London of a very adequate version, under the title of The Arm of the Law, of M. BRIEUX'S Robe Rouge. Mr ARTHUR BOURCHIER was bold enough to try the experiment of submitting to the Philistine playgoer, in the English tongue, a sample of the modern Gallic "tendency" drama. The satisfactory result and the interest created by Mrs PATRICK CAMPBELL'S dressmaking play, Warp and Woof, shows that we are fairly ripe for such fare, if cleverly cooked. It was a pity that Mrs ALFRED LYTTLETON'S play was not more effectively constructed; but M. BRIEUX'S was not open to criticism on that score, and the satire on the methods of the French juge d'instruction was keenly relished by British hearers, whose withers were unwrung. Failing many "strong" dramas of native growth, we may congratulate ourselves that the gap has been filled by harmless and amusing comedies. The success of Mr GILBERT'S Fairy's Dilemma, at the Garrick, has been an "object lesson" on the tastes of the public, which evidently have essentially altered since the early days of that gifted author's career. The long run of The Duke of Killicrankie also proves that kindly humour and bright, lively characterisation are still passports to favour; and the hearty reception and sustained support which Mr "Thomas Raceward's" Sunday, with its frank and bold appeal to primitive instincts, met with at the Comedy is a significant commentary on the conditions under which the business of producing plays has to be carried on. We see, indeed, no signs of any change in the attitude of the British patron towards the drama. We can detect no yearnings for morbid anatomy in stage fiction; nor do we discern any "new departure" for the realms of grewsome analysis, or any genuine desire for the establishment of a National Theatre. The only discouraging symptom is the secondrate-ness of most of the "outsiders'" plays which have been produced in 1903-1904. What success they have obtained may be attributed to the excellence of the manner in which they have been acted and mounted, and to the popularity of their leading exponents. Indeed, outside the acting, the great mass of the lighter productions of the year has left no impression at all on the memory. This cannot be said of Mr A. W. PINERO'S Letty, a piece quite worthy of our leading dramatist, or of Mr E. S. WILLARD'S production of Mr PARKER'S Cardinal, which was notable, both for the fine acting of Mr WILLARD himself and for the magnificent spectacle of Renaissance life which was given on the stage of the St. James's Theatre. To our mind, the notoriety achieved by Mr J. M. BARRIE'S Little Mary at Wyndham's was due to the general acceptance of the title as a synonym for "stomach," the piece being far too thin in itself to merit the importance which was attached to it. It is in Mr BARRIE, however, that our hopes of the coming dramatist are centred; and the social satire of his Admirable Crichton in 1902 showed of what he is capable on occasions.

We have long since come to look upon American authors as our own flesh and blood; and the success of Messrs DAVID BELASCO and JOHN LUTHER LONG'S Darling of the Gods at His Majesty's is therefore a matter for congratulation. The attempts to pick holes in the details of the production were absurd; the merit of the play was that it reflected truly the curious mixture of pretty childishness and virile fatalism in the Japanese character. So far from being a merely spectacular piece, it had a weird poetry, which appealed to all except the most case-hardened critics. Mr LEWIS WALLER made an acceptable contribution to this year's dramatic work in Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner, and there was some really good stuff in many of the matinée productions.

In the department of Shakespearian revivals Mr BEERBOHM TREE'S picturesque and very interesting Richard II. production must be noted with complacency; and his repetitions of The Merry Wives of Windsor, Julius Cæsar, and Twelfth Night were very acceptable. Mr LEIGH at the Court gave playgoers a chance of seeing how Timon of Athens would bear the "test of actual production." As the author was not in the house, the opinion of the audience on the piece of which he was part-author was necessarily unexpressed. Those who grumble at the "commercial character" of our drama should note the number of enterprises this year for which monetary reward could not possibly have been expected. There were the performances of Mr BERNARD SHAW'S Candida at the Court; there was the revival of Venice Preserved by the Otway Society; there was the Stage Society's productions of versions of M. BRIEUX'S Philanthropists and GORKI'S Lower Depths; and there was the revival of The Way of the World by the Mermaid Society. As if to emphasise the cosmopolitanism of English taste we had, besides the usual "star" companies headed by French actresses, some very charming all-round representations by a company with M. TARRIDE at the Avenue. Whatever may have been the financial results of the year, it has been a capital one for the intelligent playgoer, and one very favourable to "rising" authors and artists. The excellent impressions created by Miss VIOLA TREE in Twelfth Night and by such earnest actresses as Miss MURIEL WYLFORD Miss DARRAGH, Miss NANCY PRICE, and Miss ETHEL IRVING are instances in point. From an actor's and an author's point of view the 1903-1904 season has been entirely satisfactory. Its financial results are a secret between our entrepreneurs and their "backers," and attempts to estimate them are necessarily absurd.

THE new Opera House, Kidderminster, was reopened for the season on August Bank Holiday, after entire renovation. The townspeople are very proud of the new theatre, which is acknowledged to be one of the prettiest in the Midland counties, and is doing remarkably good business.

THE following has been received from an ardent patron of the Grand Theatre, Islington, N.:—

There's a theatre in North London that can rival with the West,
Where they cater for the public and produce the very best,
Where the management is splendid and the sentiments are clean,
And the dramas are the finest that the stage has ever seen.
There is nothing infra dig that one could wish to have effaced,
Nothing common or ignoble in the house that Bernhardt graced,
But success and satisfaction go together hand in hand,
And the public get good value when they patronise the "Grand."
We congratulate the manager and also the lessee,
For they give their patrons comfort in unlimited degree;
And politeness is their motto, and how well they understand

SPENNYMOOR.

CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Harding Thomas; Resident Manager, Mr Herbert Vere.—Miss Rose Faith's company is appearing this week in the romantic Georgian costume play No Cross, No Crown. Miss Rose Faith contributes a capital portrayal of Lady Clare Luttrell, and Miss Jenny Lodge is excellent as Lady Margaret Luttrell. Little May Warden is charming in the rôle of Doris Luttrell, and Miss Maude Elliot is a characteristic Dame Priscilla. Mr Ernest Lodge is applauded for his able rendering of Sir Francis Luttrell, Mr Harrison Chapman gives a creditable account of Professor Nebb and Rawson Haines, Mr Herbert Clifton is exceedingly droll in the rôle of Dr. Ashby, and Mr Logan Darra is all that can be desired as the villainous Austin Blake.

ST. HELENS.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr M'Leod Loader.—The Female Swindler, played by Mr Tom H. Taylor's capable company, is here this week. Miss Violet Ellicott gives an intelligent interpretation of the part of Lu Valroy; Mr W. S. Hartford is capital as the detective, Jack Coulson; Mr Weldon Athertone acts with power as Geoffrey Warden; and Harold Travers has an able representative in Mr George Unwin. Mr Rule Pyott does well as Abraham Mikestein, as also does Mr A. Kenyon Gray as James Oliver. Mr Luke Forster makes the most of the humorous character, Billy Binks. Miss Florrie Kelsey impersonates the character of May Andrews with much feeling, whilst Mary Ann Mee is capitally sustained by Miss Ada Maud. Other parts are in good hands. The mounting and staging are all that could be desired.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr A. V. Carnell.—Heading the bill here we have Dandy George, with his performing dog Rosie, whose performance is much appreciated. Brothers Artois give a wonderful performance on the triple horizontal bars. The Brontes, in their smart and amusing sketch, Saucy Maud, are cordially received. Other good turns include the Bollingers, "the Rag-pickers of Paris;" Miss Lily Sharpe, serio; the Waffatangs, coloured comedians; Merton and Rydon, vocalists; and T. B. Fayme, comedian.

SWANSEA.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons; Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Boyce.—The Fatal Wedding is the attraction at this house, presented by Mr Bert Coote's company. Mr Wilfrid Payne is decidedly good as Howard Wilson, and the rôle of Mabel is in the excellent hands of Miss Marie Housley. Mr Leyton Cancellor gives a clever rendering of Robert Curtis, and is capably supported by Miss Beatrice De Burgh as Cora Williams. Miss Ida Valli as Jessie is remarkably good and wins much applause. The remaining members afford capable support.

NEW EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Albert Mitchell.—The good programme here contains the names of Harry Tate, mimic, who causes roars of laughter with his comic sketch, Motoring; Miss May Evans, a capital character singer; Charles Vincent, a droll comedian; the Leonard Barry company, with their sketch, The Moochers' Walk, which takes as well as ever; Peggy Pryde, who is in great favour and wins immense applause; the Wartenburg Brothers, smart and clever double-foot jugglers; Jules Keller, the "human enigma," in a marvellous performance; and Miss Millie Hylton, a refined and charming comedienne.

SWINDON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Responsible Manager, Mr Alfred Manners; Acting-Manager, Mr W. B. Astin.—Although that remarkable play Zaza has now been on the road for some considerable time, it has remained for the new management of this house to bring about its initial introduction to a Swindon audience. On Monday last, excellently staged and remarkably well acted by Mrs Lewis Waller's company, under the personal direction of Mr Haldane Crichton, the play was accorded a favourable reception from a crowded audience. The name-part, one that requires careful handling, is admirably undertaken by Miss Ethel Warwick, and she receives valuable assistance from Mr Eric Mayne, whose fine study of Dufresne is endowed with the required nobleness and dignity. As depicted by Mr Edmund Lea, the part of Cascart stands out prominently, while Miss K. Kearney successfully brings out many touches of humour contained in the part of Zaza's aunt. Miss Nina Heathe as Little Toto plays very cleverly and gracefully.

MACHANICS' INSTITUTE.—Secretary, Mr H. J. Southwell.—Professor E. K. Crocker is paying another visit to this town with his highly trained horses, ponies, mules, and donkeys. The many items of this popular show were followed with intense interest, while among the animated pictures a large number of entirely new films figured prominently.

STOCKPORT.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Wm. Revill.—A Girl's Cross Roads, capably presented by Mr Douglas Bruce's combination, has been a capital attraction for the wakes week. Miss Lily Hammersley as Barbara Wade is admirable, and as John Meadows Mr W. E. Griffiths acts excellently. A pleasing character is Jack Livingstone in the hands of Mr Geo. Gaisford. Mr Will Corrie is amusing as Toby Turner, and Mr Wm. Fraser-Brunner impersonates the character of Cuthbert Lumley with power and effect.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Weldon Watts; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr R. G. Elder.—The race-week attraction here is Mr J. Gar Kiddle's company in A Little Coquette, which pays a return visit. As Gabriel Grabbe Mr Forsyth Bruce plays with considerable power. Owing to the illness of Mr J. W. Groves (Ann Teeke) Mr Geo. Hestor, who usually appears as Simon Scrapps, undertakes that part with great success, whilst Mr Kiddle assumes the rôle of the village constable in a humorous style. Mr E. H. Bertram's Captain Nevermind is good, and his singing well received. As Peter Pipeclay and Tommy Sharpshoot Messrs Clarence and Bell score as knockabouts. Miss Lizzie Payne's Celia is full of life, and Miss Flo Warner's Robin Adair has lost none of its original vivacity. Special dancing is introduced by the Milstead Quartet of acrobatic dancers.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. Batty; Manager, Mr W. Batty.—This week we have the following excellent bill:—Annie Laurie, a pretty comedienne; Elly and Edgar, in their novel wire act; George Adams, a fine baritone; Du Gros Trio, very clever and funny in their gymnastic act; Leslie Brothers, musicians and humourists of a high order; the Salettos, speciality gymnasts; Shawlene, the tramp whistler, whose show is one of the week's successes; and new pictures on Payne's Bioscope.

WALSALL.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Mr Gerald Alexander is presenting Facing the Music here to delighted audiences. Mr Tim Ryley is droll as John Smith. The other Mr Smith is well acted by Mr Coningsby Brierley. Mr Patrick Evans contributes largely to the fun as Dick Desmond. Mr Cecil Newton scores as the Colonel; Mr G. N. Wallace is good as the Sargeant; Miss Mavis Hope is charming as Mabel; and Miss Bertha Grahame excellent as Nora. Miss Ethel Hope as Miss Fotheringay is amusing, and Miss Rose Carew is clever as Mrs Pouling. The company is under the personal supervision of Mr Alexander.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Miss Blanche St. Alban and Mr J. L. Jackson's company is here in Dishonoured. Captain Cunningham has an excellent representative in Mr Percy Ballard. Mr Frank Stuart gives an effective rendering of Sir Wm. Cunningham, and as Captain Peyntland Mr Wm. Bradford could not be better placed. Mr Horace Custins is a favourite as Captain Cholmondley, and the comedy parts of Stokes and Jem Stokes as played by Messrs A. W. Thompson and Jack Bigwood cause much merriment. Mr Cecil Morand does exceedingly well as Mike Farthing. Miss Winifred Stewart is graceful and pleasing as Leslie Maynard. Miss Violet Crauford is a charming Sybil, and Miss Bell Russell merits praise for her embodiment of Lady Cunningham. Miss Marion Mayne as Ann Maria, Mrs Thompson as Mrs Stubbs, and Miss Allen as Katie give a creditable performance.

WALTHAMSTOW.

PALACE.—Managing Director, Mr G. Adney Payne; Manager, Mr Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Slatter.—Among the chief features of the bright and merry programme submitted to the patrons of the Palace this week a prominent place is occupied by the Six Brothers Luck, who appear with their wonted success in the popular sketch The Demon of the Cellar. All the members of the family—Messrs O., P., F., A., H., and B., Luck—work in true pantomimic spirit, the result being one roar of laughter from start to finish. The Musical Palmers receive the hearty plaudits of the audience for their clever playing on various instruments and bells. Mr Harry Maxam is a funny comedian. An astonishing performance is that given by the Donatos, one-legged acrobats who are as expert at jumping as those of their brethren possessed of the usual complement of limbs. Mr Ernie Mayne is very funny in an unctuous manner. Mdlle. Victoria Dagmar and her Clown are highly successful on the horizontal bar and the gymnastic ropes. Mdlle. is charming to look upon, graceful in every movement, and evidently possessed of a fine set of muscles. The Clown is amusing. A very pretty turn, and one quite out of the usual run, is supplied by the Morton Comedy Trio in a new operetta, The Dandy Bandits. These three gentleman, in handsome costumes, are all possessed of fine voices well trained, and their contributions of solo, duet, and trio are rapturously received. Great interest is created by the appearance of Professor Duncan's royal Scotch collies, a company of beautiful animals educated to a high degree. Their performance of the fire-brigade scene, with escape, ambulance and all complete, fairly brings down the house. The orchestra, under the skilful direction of Mr H. Petersen, gives a fine rendering of Adams' overture, "Si te j'etais roi."

KING'S THEATRE.—This house makes another bold bid for popularity as a temple of the drama on the two-houses-a-night system. Very good audiences assembled at both "diets" on Monday night to witness the performance of Miss Bonwin Carlton's company in The Plucky Nipper, a musical comedy-drama, by Edward Surrey. Miss Carlton makes quite a hit in the double characters of Polly Hithard and the "Nipper" himself. Her acting as the ragged urchin is an exceptionally clever piece of work. Mr Edward Surrey gives a good account of the ne'er-do-well, Bill Burgess. Miss Fanny Morse is a handsome Ina Fenwick, and Miss Esther Lamonte quite pathetic as the blind girl, Daisy Paget. Mr Douglas Campbell is a breezy and amusing Tommy Atkins. The other parts are carefully filled by Messrs Ernest Regent, Claud Kingston, A. F. Dudley, W. Anderson, Edward Fryer, Harry Marks, Philip Esmond, Albert Carlton, and William Joyce.

WARRINGTON.

ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter.—Messrs Cerson and Granville's company is paying a return visit here this week in the domestic play The Drama of Life. Mr Jerrold Ord acts with natural force the part of Harry Beech, whilst as the remorseless Walter Beech Mr J. J. Hooker is well placed. Mr Owen Remonde is excellent as Sir Dolson Wilde. Miss Cissie Bellamy as the much-injured Sylvia Beech impresses all with her realistic acting; and a clever character sketch of Betty Black is submitted by Miss Nellie Daly. Miss Muriel Inglis is amusing as Lady Jane Wilde, and a clever juvenile is Miss Marie Murray, who plays the part of Martin Robert Beech.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Pottor; Director of Amusements, Mr F. Willmot.—Kioto, the Japanese equilibrist, astonishes all with a wonderful performance of hand-balancing; Harry Leybourne is a popular comedian; and Flo Hilton, male impersonator, again scores a big success. Mr Frank Whiteley, vocalist; the Ottawa Trio of musical cowboys; and T. W. Barrett, comedian, are all capital turns. The Royal Bioscope depicts a charming set of views.

WEDNESBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Harry Battersby; Acting-Manager, Mr W. J. Cranston.—Mr C. H. Finch Hatton's company, in the realistic play When London Sleeps, is occupying the boards here this week. The important rôle of Captain Rodney Haynes is realistically portrayed by Mr R. S. Trelawney, and Mr Tom Ronald is responsible for the part of David Engleheart, an athlete. Mr Louis Sylveston as Furnaby Fuller makes the most of the character. The part of Bob Jones is well played by Mr Paul Graydon. Mr D'Arcy Kelway makes a humorous Sammy Blyth, and Mr Charles Digby does well as the Hon. Bertie Broomhead. Queenie Carruthers, the White Queen, is capitally acted by Miss Mildred Clay. Miss Grace Baring is excellently suited to the rôle of Hilda Carode. Carrie Jones, the circus rider, is entrusted to the capable hands of Miss Hilda Young. Miss Daisy Clifford is warmly appreciated for her able impersonation of Maudie De Friere.

WEST BROMWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr J. P. Moore.—His Majesty's Guests proves as entertaining as ever. Mr Wm. Rokeby as the Sergeant, Mr G. Hudson, and Mr Hooper are all good; Miss Marie Campbell plays capitally; and there is a goodly array of support in the shape of Misses Madge Campbell, Katie Brunton, and others. Miss Effie Northern is a pleasing danseuse.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.

GRAND.—General Manager (for Mrs Weldon Watts), Mr Fred Conneaux.—The drama called The Traitor is attracting large audiences here this week. The work is full of intensely dramatic situations, which the capable company touring with Messrs E. Hill-Mitchelson and Harris Fineberg is not slow to take advantage of. Mr Wellesley Draper gives a realistic interpretation of the character of Prince Rudolph, whilst in the rôle of the Chief of Police Mr Stephen E. Scanlon is an undoubted success. Nothing could be more true to life than Miss Georgette Thierry's impersonation of Zula, the avenger, nor could a more accomplished artiste be found for the sympathetic part of Lieut. Nicholas than Miss Isabel Hunt. Miss Amelia Walton is vivacious and charming as Cen-Cen, and Miss Hettie Senior is a spirited exponent of Elsie Dupree. Miss Lily Roselle's interpretation of the rôle of Countess Zicks is a masterly and artistic one. Mr Bernard Lieli, Mr Ed. Duff, Mr Ed. Jenner, Mr Cyril J. Maitland, Mr Frank Day, Mr Ed. Lowrie, and Mr Frank Sutherland are all good, and the scenery is particularly effective.

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—The star turn for the week is John Marx, whose wonderful exhibition of feats of strength is creating quite a sensation. Dorothy L. Clark, descriptive comedienne, in addition to being the possessor of a sweet soprano voice and pretty dress, has a charming style. Pallister's American Bioscope is an attraction. Harry Conlin has a flattering reception, and his comicalities provoke unbounded laughter. Atroy, a clever juggler and hoop roller; Violi, instrumentalist; and Dale and O'Malley, comedians, complete the list.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.

GRAND PIER PAVILION.—The Roman Singers opened here on Monday, and with their exceptional talent and picturesque costumes their show can safely be described as one of the smartest seen here this season. Miss Amy Clifford, with her excellent voice, was received with the utmost enthusiasm for her singing of the "Jewel Song." Miss Riversdale proved equally successful with her rendering of "The Moorish Maid," Mr Linwood sang admirably, Mr Roland Henry gave an extremely clever musical sketch, which was greatly appreciated; Mr Broughton Black sang "What a beautiful world," and deserves the highest praise. The hit of the evening was indubitably made by Mr Lindon Wyatt, his yarns and imitations were given with a broad humour that proved irresistible. To conclude the entertainment an original burlesque scena was given, in which all the artists excelled.

KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr W. Payne.—Poole's Myriorama is paying its annual visit here. The new pictures and entire change of programme are very welcome. Mr Harry Raymond, dancer; Henny, song and dance artist; the Almos, gymnasts; Mr Allan Hanbury, comedian; and the Royal Comedy Quartet are all clever artists and render pleasing items.

VICTORIA HALL.—Manager, Mr E. W. Sully.—Miss Emma and Percy Hutchison's company is here this week in that charming comedy, Cousin Kate. Miss E. Walker does excellent work in the title-rôle. Heath Desmond has a capable exponent in Mr C. Standing, Mrs Spencer is ably portrayed by Miss Coleman, Master Edward scores as Bobby, and praiseworthy is the Jane of Miss Enid Wilde. A good interpretation of the Parson is given by Mr Herbert Young.

WHITEHAVEN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Clark.—Mr Gus C. Livesey's company is engaged here in the drama, The Crimson Club. Mr G. Livesey is satisfactory as Richard Fenton, and Mr Lionel Thompson makes a capital villain. Mr Percy Shaw as Reginald Garside is very amusing, and Mr H. C. Gilpin is well cast as Silas Craddock. Miss Elsie Mesnerd makes a pleasing heroine, and Miss Alice N. Livesey is clever as Julia Marsden.

WIGAN.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr John Worswick.—Mr E. St. Alban's comic opera company has presented the popular opera Les Cloches de Corneville. The strong cast includes Mr Geo. A. Fox as the Marquis; Mr Geo. Delaforce as the Baillie; Mr F. Thatcher, Gobo; Mr Lawrence Wensley, Grenicheaux; and Mr E. St. Alban as the Miser. Miss Delrita gives a very acceptable performance of the part of Germaine, and Miss Lucy Fitzroy as Serpolette is admirable.

GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr J. Worswick.—A great attraction this week is Miss Lydia Yeamans, a versatile and accomplished vaudeville artist. Clarke's Nippers, who introduce club manipulation, ball punching, and boxing, are popular; Los Granados give a fine, novel gymnastic comedy act; Charley Dixon, a "crazy comedian;" the Sisters Charnley, duettists and dancers, and Carlo and Maie, in their comedy acrobatic and wire act, are clever; Callie and Walker are mirth-provoking; and the Freans, comedians, dancers, &c.; Kate Lynd, vocalist; and Leslie H. Murray, magician, complete a list of capable artistes.

WORCESTER.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; General Manager, Mr Louis Karpe; Assistant-Manager, Mr Albert J. Lewis.—That powerful play, Sunday, is being performed here this week by Mr Louis Calvert's principal London company. No more suitable actress could have been chosen for the title-rôle than Miss Nita Faydon, whose impersonation is in every way impressive, alike by its archness, its pathos, and its vivid portraiture of the impulsive girl from the Wild West, whose devotion to the "boys" and sense of right conduct impel admiration. Miss Elizabeth Watson proved a good foil as Mrs Naresby. Mr J. Edward Pearce gave a natural and impressive rendering of the part of the lover, Colonel Brinthorpe, and Mr Charles B. Vaughan was sufficiently insistent and brutal in the part of Arthur Brinthorpe, a victim of the stern justice of the Wild West. Mr Ernest A. Douglas was excellent as the Colonel's friend; and "the boys" were adequately represented in force of character and humour by Messrs Fredk. Powell (Towzer), John H. Manley (Davy), T. Norman Walter (Lively), and Whitford Kane (Jacky). Miss Olive Adair appeared as the nun, and Mr F. Harrison as the manservant.

WORKINGTON.

QUEEN'S OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr Coates F. Porter.—There was a good house on Monday to witness the heavy-weight feats of the Arthur Saxon Trio, and the exponents were heartily applauded. Arthur Saxon himself, at the termination of his best efforts, was accorded an ovation. The entertainment was good throughout, and included Mint and Mart, Mdlle. Lucrece, Charles Bradford, Flemene, Miss Winnie Wentworth, the Bradleys, Walter Levalle, Leo Selwyn, &c.

WORTHING.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. B. Dixon.—Messrs Murray King and Clark's company is here with Sweet and Twenty, preceded by a musical farce, You and I. Mr George Miller as the Hon. and Rev. Jas. Floyd is excellent. The Eustace of Mr Robert Milstead is a fine performance, as is that of Mr Lionel Glenister in the part of Douglas. Mr Murray King is exceptionally good as Prynne; Mr Walter Cranch and Master Willie King deserve praise in their respective parts of Treherne and Chris. Special commendation is due to Miss Lilias Waldegrave as Ellen, Miss Edith M'Clure and Miss Rosall Jacobi are well placed as Mrs and Joan Trevalyan. On Thursday Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company appeared in Saturday to Monday.

YORK.

ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr T. H. Barrow.—My Lady Molly was welcomed on Monday by a large audience, who were most liberal in their applause, the principal items being heartily redemanded. In the title-rôle Miss Beatrice Edwards was at once a distinct success; she has a voice of great purity, and uses it with excellent effect. Miss Rita Everard is always heartily welcomed here, and on the present occasion finds in Alice Coverdale a congenial rôle to which she does the fullest justice. Miss Kitty Upton played prettily as Hester, and Miss Amy Cooper made a diverting Madeline Mirabeau. Mr Ernest Royal sang well as Lionel Bland, and Mr Harry T. Davies made a picturesque Harry Romney, rendering his various numbers most artistically. Mr Stephen Fitzgerald was particularly amusing and clever as Mickey O'Dowd, and Mr Augustus Cramer's Sir Miles Coverdale could not well be improved upon.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr Sidney Brooke.—The O'Learys, gymnasts, fully earn the applause which greets them; Billy Farrell's funny business is heartily enjoyed; the Three Gladenbecks do well; and Maude Beaumont is a burlesque artiste of more than average merit. Morny Cash, the Brothers Lavelle, and Hill, Barry, and Lang complete a strong company.

MUSIC HALL GOSSIP.

MR CHARLES MORTON, manager of the Palace Theatre, whose eighty-fifth birthday was celebrated on Monday evening, has to endure one of the penalties attaching to fame, and that is the frequent attentions of the newspaper interviewer, who wants to know all about the veteran's career and how he explains his good health and wonderful activity at an age when most men who have lived as long are decrepit and quite unable to bear the strain of hard work. Mr Morton was born in Pimlico on Aug. 15, 1819, and started his career as manager of a tavern in St. George's-road, the owner of which, a widow, he subsequently married. Harmonic meetings were held in these establishments at that time, and such a gathering took place regularly in this house, the vocalists generally being volunteers who were asked to assist. On one occasion an acrobat was among the visitors, and he remarked that he would like to add to the harmony of the evening by putting his arms and legs out of joint!

WHEN Mr Morton left the St. George's-road he took, in 1848, the Canterbury Arms, in the Lowermarsh, and started there a free and easy at the rear of the premises, the meetings being held every Saturday. These became so popular that eventually, in 1850, he built a proper hall, the foundation stone of which was laid by one of his daughters.

HIS venture proved remarkably successful, and over this hall he erected another, and to this was added a picture gallery, which George Augustus Sala christened "The Royal Academy over the Water." Mr Morton engaged well-known professional vocalists to vary the efforts of the amateurs. He remained at the Canterbury until 1867, but six years previously he had opened the Oxford. This building was erected on the site of the Boar and Castle Inn, an old coaching tavern. In March, 1861, when Mr Morton opened this hall, the vocalists who appeared were Miss Russell, Mdlle. Parepa, afterwards Mrs Carl Rosa, and Santley.

AT the age of eighty-five Mr Morton rises at eight o'clock every morning, works over thirteen hours a-day, and then goes home from the Palace by the midnight 'bus. He recommends the strenuous life to the man who would live long. Very sound is the veteran's advice to young men:—"Be methodical in all things. Never put off till to-morrow what you could have done yesterday. The evidence of the value of this principle is before me every day. At the Palace Theatre everything is done without a hitch. I am always here, and my staff know that I want things done methodically, promptly, and well. They know that I go about with my eyes open. Yet there is never any friction; everything goes smoothly, and everybody works harmoniously. That shows what can be done by method—and work."

MR MORTON left London on Friday for Westgate-on-Sea, where he intends to take a fortnight's rest and gentle recreation.

THE stage of the New Grand Music Hall, Clapham-junction, was on Saturday evening last the scene of a most interesting gathering. Mr Arthur Yates, who had for so long held the post of manager, was severing his connection with the hall, and the staff met to present him with tokens of their appreciation of his work. Mr James Sale (musical director), in making the presentations, paid a striking tribute to Mr Yates's management. Mr Yates, he said, was a most popular manager both with his staff and artists generally, and all would regret the departure from the hall of one who had proved himself a good master and a sincere friend. Mr Sale then asked Mr Yates' acceptance of a set of mother-of-pearl buttons inlaid with turquoise, a smoker's cabinet, a box of cigars, a set of fish carvers, and an opal stud and pin. Other presents were received from Mr Evans, Mr Macfarlane, Mr Williams, Mr Robinson, and Mr Gooden.

MR YATES, in replying, sincerely thanked all for their very kind appreciation of his efforts. He had done his best for the directors, the hall, and the staff, and it was a real pleasure for him to find that his work was looked upon with favour. The four years he had been associated with them as manager would, he said, ever be with him as the happiest time he had spent, and the excellent way in which the staff had co-operated with him in his work had made his task all the lighter. He also wished to thank the other gentlemen who had shown their practical appreciation of his work, especially Mr Williams, who had been connected with him for many years at various places of amusement. In conclusion Mr Yates said that although he was going to the Tivoli he would often think of the New Grand, and he sincerely wished them the best of success in the future. With cheers and the singing of "He a jolly good fellow," the proceedings then terminated.

MISS YOLANDE NOBLE, who is the daughter of Mr Thos. J. Noble, late manager of the Britannia, Hoxton, and at present engaged in the box-office of the Alhambra, opened at that house on Monday with her speciality business. Her two songs, entitled "She reads the London papers every day" and "Nanette," proved immediately successful, and Mr George Scott engaged her to reappear next week as well as at a later date. Miss Noble has created an exceedingly favourable impression It may be mentioned that this is her first engagement since last pantomime, the young lady having been seriously ill for some time. She is now, however, we are glad to say, entirely recovered, and brings to her work all her old charm of manner, freshness, and vivacity. On Monday next she will introduce at the Alhambra a new song, which goes by the name of "Why can't we back our opinion?" It is a smart and taking ditty which will undoubtedly interest the sporting fraternity.

MISS NOBLE made her reappearance in a very smart and effective frock. It is pale pink chiffon over a silk foundation of the same colour, with a quantity of filmy flounces, small, full-blown roses of a deeper shade being fastened carelessly on the skirt and arranged in clusters on the full bodice and shirt sleeves.

APROPOS of pretty dresses, Miss Marie Dainton at the Alhambra wears a little costume of singular simplicity, and in excellent taste. It is thick white satin, fitting closely to the figure, but with a "flare" skirt, with a bold design of true-lovers' knots in silver above the hem. In her dark hair she wears two white roses, fastened together by a band of silver sequins.

AFTER more than two years' absence from the variety boards Miss Marie Dainton made a successful reappearance at the Alhambra on Monday evening. Her imitations of a number of theatrical and music hall stars were, as of yore, greatly appreciated and loudly applauded.

THE confirmatory meetings of the shareholders of the Euston, Limited; New South London, Limited; Chelsea Palace Syndicate, Limited; and Walthamstow Palace, Limited, were held on Tuesday, at 37, Walbrook (Mr Henry Tozer in the chair), when the necessary resolutions were unanimously passed. The business of these music halls will in future be conducted under the title of the Variety Theatres Consolidated, Limited, the directors being Messrs Henry Tozer, Joseph Davis, Henri Gros, and G. Adney Payne, the two last-named becoming joint managing directors The qualification is £2,500, and remuneration £400 each per annum, £200 extra for the chairman, a further £100 each for each music hall or theatre of varieties acquired by the company, and a share in the profits.

AN increasing yearly deficit on the Brighton Aquarium, amounting in the year ended March 31 last to £4,571, has induced the Town Council to seriously consider the future of the institution, and with the object of talking the matter over a private meeting of the Town Council was held on the 12th inst., with Mr Marx, the Mayor, in the chair. It was decided, by nineteen votes to nine, to recommend the Council to carry on the institution as an Aquarium, to close it at dusk in December, and discontinue the band and entertainments.

AMONGST the artistes engaged at the Royal Hippodrome, Liverpool, this week was Miss May Yohe. A large audience assembled on Monday evening, the chief attraction doubtless being, from a popular point of view, the appearance of Miss Yohe, whose romantic career is well known, and her ability as a comedienne much appreciated. She was to appear in a selection of her old-time favourite songs. When the curtain was raised Miss Yohe was evidently greatly agitated for some reason, and her voice appeared to have lost its former power.

THE spectators nearest the stage at first imagined that Miss Yohe's nervous trepidation was assumed, but it soon became painfully evident that she was in a very over-strung condition, and after a futile attempt to sing she exclaimed, "Oh, I can't do it," and with some difficulty left the stage. The curtain immediately fell. Miss Yohe was subsequently removed to the Adelphi Hotel, where she was placed under the care of a medical man. She was said to be suffering from a temporary nervous collapse. On Tuesday Miss Yohe made another attempt, but broke down again. However, she was able to appear on Thursday, and was well received.

A SENSATIONAL incident caused considerable excitement at the Empress Theatre, Hartlepool, during the first performance on Monday night. The Howards, instrumentalists and comedy artistes, had just commenced their business, and Mr Howard was swinging a fixed bayonet round, when the weapon accidentally pierced his right leg, just above the ankle. Mr Howard walked to the front of the stage and continued his patter, but was obliged, owing to profuse bleeding, to discontinue. The curtain was rung down, and Mr Burns, the manager, explained to the audience that the bayonet had gone right through the leg, but had just missed the main artery. Dr. Coombes was soon in attendance, and first aid was also rendered by Police-constable Potter. At the second house Mr Howard was able to go through a modified performance.

ONE of the most amusing of the functions of the Scarborough season took place on the beach on the morning of the 12th inst., when Mr Tom Carrick, of the original Scarborough and London Pierrots, took his tenth annual benefit. There was a large and enthusiastic attendance, and in the course of the proceedings Mr Carrick was presented with a large and tastefully arranged "shower bouquet," composed of carrots, turnips, and delicate sprays of parsley. The "front of the house" was under the management of genial Mr Jack Bangs, who also contributed several items to the programme, which met with great appreciation.

MR CARRICK'S own contribution consisted of a "dame" song, rendered with this talented comedian's usual verve. As an encore he gave an amusing item in the shape of a mock oratorio. Other items were rendered by Mr Squire Day (mechanical doll song and dance) Mr Evan Roberts, who was complimented by a double encore; and Mr Chadwick, always stately as a Chinese emperor. The troupe had donned for the occasion the tasteful and becoming "White Musketeer costume" recently designed by the bénéficiaire.

THE annual outing of Mr James Chappell's Yarmouth beach promenade concerts company took place on Sunday, and proved most successful. The journey by coach and break to Horning Ferry on the Norfolk Broads was greatly enjoyed. The party numbered thirty-eight, and included Mr F. Riley and his two daughters, Nora and Blanche, Mr and Mrs Leslie Reed, Mr and Mrs Ernest Dalmaine, Mr and Mrs J. Dipple, the Three Sisters Le Graham, Mr J. A Lowe, pianist; Daley and Collins, Dan Conroy and Alie Dora, Maud Marlow, J. H. Crewe, Lottie Mellor, Millie Howell, Mr and Mrs Fred Bernard, Jess Vale, Marie Braham, Mr and Mrs Walter Cooke and son, of Canonbury; Mr Harry Bartlett, Mr G. Baxter, Arthur Denvil Bracy, Victor Venney, Queenie Snow, Charlie Reed, Bert Hutchins, Patsy Lloyd, and Pat Carey.

A VERY happy day was spent, and the merry party were capitally catered for by host Crow, of the Horning Ferry Hotel. The chair was taken by Mr Fred Riley, and the vice by Mr Leslie Reed. The usual patriotic toasts were given and responded to with great enthusiasm, also the toast of "The Old Governor and Family," which was received with loud cheers. It was very pleasant to note that Mr Harry Bartlett had been twenty-two years with Mr Chappell, and the other members of a loyal and staunch company who had never missed the annual outing were Mr Fred Riley, Mr Leslie Reed, Mr Ernest Dalmaine, and Mr J. Dipple. Altogether a most enjoyable time was spent by everyone concerned.

ON Sunday afternoon last, just as a heavy shower of rain had ceased, Westmoreland-street, Dublin, was the scene of a rather peculiar accident. Three ladies, Miss Kitty Kirwan, Miss Leslie Warner, and Miss Tina Mücklow, engaged in Mr A. C. Lilly's Drummed Out company at the Empire last week, were proceeding in a cab in the direction of the Great Northern Railway. Just opposite the Ballast Office one of the back wheels of the vehicle came off suddenly and the cab was overturned, the driver having been thrown over the horse's head. The occupants, though they escaped without any serious injury, were not a little alarmed.

ONE of them, Miss Kirwan, was cut about the face as the result of the smashing of the cab window, and they all received serious bruises. With a good deal of difficulty they were relieved from their awkward position by a couple of gentlemen who were passing on a car, who happened to belong to the New Barmaid company. The ladies were brought into a house in Westmoreland-street, and after a delay of about a quarter of an hour another cab was procured, and they proceeded to catch the train at Amiens-street Station en route with the company, which is this week performing at the Empire, Belfast.

ON the previous afternoon Miss Kirwan and Miss Warner were in a cab with Mr and Mrs Chas. T. W. Frecar (Miss Bessie Lesta), proceeding along Dame-street from the matinée to Sandymount, when the traces of the horse attached to the cab broke, and the horse became restive, but a gentleman near seized the animal's head and the parties were able to proceed in another vehicle, fortunately without having sustained any injuries.

MR G. H. CHIRGWIN writes that he and Mrs Chirgwin had on Sunday a most delightful run from Portsmouth to Plymouth on his motor, the scenery being charming. They left Portsmouth at 10·0 a.m., and arrived at Plymouth at 10·0 p.m., and on the journey Mrs Chirgwin took several snapshots. The distance is 180 miles, and they averaged twenty-four miles an hour, with a strong wind against them. Next Sunday they travel by motor to Bristol.

MR GEORGE RUBEY'S new song, "As a friend," has been published by Charles Sheard and Co. Mr Frank Lynne is the author and composer of this successful ditty.

DR. WALFORD BODIE made another great hit in London last week. The London and Collins's were packed to the doors nightly, and owing to his great success at the Palace, Camberwell, this week, Mr Sparrow has rebooked him for other three dates, two weeks each visit. He has also settled to go back next week to Collins's, and the week after he returns to the London, and will also appear at the Canterbury and Paragon. The Doctor has undoubtedly proved again his title to "Record Breaker and Money Magnet." He has had to refuse many excellent offers, owing to his provincial engagements.

AT the Camberwell hall on Wednesday evening, Dr. Bodie confined his attention to children's cases. He said he had often been asked the reason he treated so many children, and his reply was that the youngsters had their lives before them, while their elders had already passed many milestones on the journey to the grave. Some of the children, he added, had never known an hour's real happiness, and he was prepared to do his best to secure for them happiness for the rest of their lives. He estimated that the cases he treated successfully in the Camberwell and Hammersmith districts had already amounted to about three hundred. He also read a letter from a grateful father living at Edmonton, who asked that he might be allowed to bring his boy, who had been cured by the doctor, and exhibit him to the public.

SAVERAL local cases were then successfully treated, the first being that of a little girl of five who had been paralysed over three years and had been discharged from a hospital as incurable. The second patient was a boy aged nine. He had suffered from paralysis eight years, and had a withered arm. He had been discharged as incurable from two hospitals. The third case was a Camberwell girl of nine, who had suffered three years from paralysis, and had been discharged from St. Thomas's Hospital as a hopeless case. The fourth was a boy of three who had been paralysed six months and discharged as incurable from King's College Hospital. After treatment by the doctor the child was able to walk off the stage. The doctor has been received with much enthusiasm both at the Camberwell and Hammersmith halls; and his wonderful cures are the theme of much discussion in the respective districts.

A WRITER in a North London journal remarks:—"We must 'give the de'il his due,' as the auld Scotch wifie would say, and consequently I must tell my readers who declared that Dr. Bodie, the miracle worker at Collins's the other day, had dealings with the old chap, that he is not the fraud or unnatural person they inferred. Mr Thomas West, of Southgate-road, once a vestryman of St. Luke's, has a tenant in Finsbury who has personally benefited by the arts of Dr. Bodie. The subject was a girl aged fifteen, who had a paralysed arm and leg for years, and was practically helpless. When Dr. Bodie was at the Britannia Theatre a while ago she was taken there, with the result that she could partially use the withered limbs. On his return visit she went again, with still greater benefit. Now she can use both hands in doing up her back hair. And she goes to work, too!"

MR BRANSBY WILLIAMS, who has been taking a well-earned rest, is back at work again. He has just purchased the rights of two new monologues. One is exceedingly powerful, and he has great hopes of its making at least a mild sensation. It is by quite a new author, who is unknown to the halls. Mr Williams and his family have taken a great fancy to the neighbourhood of Selsey Bill, so he is purchasing a plot of land there on which to erect a charming summer residence.

MR FRANK WEEKS has been busily engaged making the special arrangements for the celebration of the fifth anniversary of the opening of the South London Palace. The event took place on Friday night, and the house was picturesquely decorated both inside and outside, flags and bunting being prettily arranged in suitable positions.

VISITORS to the Palace this week should not miss the new Bioscope pictures of the motor-boat race across the Channel, and also of a series of motor races at Bexhill. Ella continues to give her sensational performance in a den of lions. Her engagement does not terminate until the end of next week.

MR FRANK GERALD, who has been holidaying on the Thames for several weeks past, is now back again at work, and intends to produce Claude Duval in London shortly as a sketch.

WIAPERA, the mare which Dick Turpin uses in Mr Frank Gerald's sketch The King's Highway, may be said to possess quite histrionic abilities, and is looked upon as a great stage favourite. It may be remembered that her services were requisitioned in connection with the run of Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner at the Imperial Theatre, and Wiapera is to be seen before the footlights at the house when Mr Lewis Waller re-opens with the same piece on Sept. 1.

MR CHARLES R. SWEET opens at the Empire, Leicester-square, on the 29th inst. for eight weeks. He is an American, and is known as "the Musical Burglar." His art is on quite novel lines. The supposed housebreaker enters a darkened room, with burglarious intentions, when his attention is attracted by a piano. Being extremely fond of music, he is diverted from his original purpose, and sitting down to the piano he proceeds to give imitations of other musical instruments. He also diversifies his performance by relating some funny stories. Mr Sweet made a decided hit when he appeared at the Oxford in the early part of the year.

THE Metropole, at Camberwell, will open as the "Metropole Theatre of Varieties" on Sept. 5. An advertisement on another page invites artistes of every description to communicate with the general-manager, Mr Jack De Frece.

MR PHILIP SEFTON has specially commissioned Mr Joseph Tabrar, the well-known composer, to compose for him two songs and all the incidental music for his forthcoming production of On Guard. When this revival goes on tour three elaborate scenes will be carried, and a competent company of actors and actresses will support Mr Sefton.

MESSRS G. AND F. PEEL have arranged that the first production of the new version of On Guard shall take place at the Oxford, Middlesbrough, on the 29th inst. Mr Fred Le Maistre, of Manchester, will be responsible for the three scenes.

ON Tuesday there was a big programme and a "bumper" house at the benefit matinée given to Mr P. A. Lennon, the genial and courteous resident-manager of the Empire, Bradford, whose departure "for fresh fields and pastures new" is regretted by all with whom he has come in contact during his residence in the city. In the course of the proceedings Mr Lennon was made the recipient of a purse of gold, and a richly illuminated address from the subscribers, Mrs Lennon being also presented with a beautiful flower-stand and fruit epergne, in solid silver, by the lady members of the establishment; the male members also handing to Mr Lennon a combined hat-case as a parting gift. The principal presentations to Mr Lennon were made by Councillor John Arnold, who, on behalf of the subscribers to the testimonial, wished Mr Lennon every success in his new venture. Mr E. S. Swain, a Leeds accountant, has been appointed as the acting-manager of the Empire in place of Mr Lennon.

A COMPANY has been formed to acquire the Hippodromes at Great Yarmouth and Lowestoft, built and opened by the well-known public entertainer, Mr George Gilbert. Mr Gilbert has carried on business at the new Yarmouth Hippodrome since July 20, 1903, with such success that he decided to erect a somewhat similar building at Lowestoft, and this was opened on July 18, 1904. The property to be taken over by the company has been jointly valued by Messrs Maddison, Miles, and Maddison, and Mr T. W. Warren, of Great Yarmouth, valuers. The amount payable to Mr Gilbert for goodwill has been fixed at £5,000, in respect of the Yarmouth Hippodrome, so that the total purchase money will be £46,000. The directors have considered it advisable to make provision for a sum of not less than £2,000 for working capital, and the public are now invited to apply for £15,000 debentures and £23,000 ordinary share capital. The nominal capital of the company has been fixed at £40,000, of which £7,000 will not be called up, but will be held in reserve in order to allow for the extension of the business, should circumstances warrant a further development. The subscription list will close on or before Sept. 6. The number of directors is not to be less than two nor more than five. The first are Colonel W. Diver, J.P. (chairman), G. Gilbert, W. H. Palmer, J.P., and F. Spashett. Qualification, £250; remuneration (except managing-directors), £150 per annum, divided.

MISS MAUD FORRESTER, who years ago acquired considerable fame as the female Mazeppa, is dead. When the late Mr William Holland revived Babil and Bijou at the Alhambra, Miss Forrester appeared in the part of Princess Fortinbrasse, which was originally played at Covent Garden by Miss Helen Barry.

MISS DAPHNE DE ROHAN, who has been giving a series of musical and dramatic entertainments at the Granville Hall, Ramsgate, during the past three weeks, has, at the instance of Baron L. De Santa Maria, the senior delegate for the United Kingdom of the French and Belgian Life-saving Societies, been awarded, as a "14th July Honour," and on account of certain meritorious services rendered by her, the Diploma of Honour and Badge of the First Class of the French Marine Ambulance Society. This honour was also accorded Mr Norman Bennett (Miss De Rohan's acting-manager) last year, together with the title of Chevalier of the "Ordre de Devoir," which is one of some distinction among our neighbours across the Channel, where both Miss De Rohan and Mr Bennett are well known.

THE 368th meeting of the executive committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon, Mr Fred Neiman presiding. Mr C. Kimber, of the Pembrook Hotel, Southampton; Mr C. H. Whittell, of the Posada, Brook-street, Ipswich; and Mr J. H. Mouflet, of the London Hotel, Bournemouth, were appointed as agents of the association. The hon. treasurer's financial statement for July was submitted, and on the proposition of Mr Bob Hutt, seconded by Mr Joe Burnell, was passed as read. The secretary reported that thirteen new members had joined during the past week, making the total number enrolled since the commencement 10,422.

THE Executive Committee of the Music Hall Artistes Railway Association have for some time past been engaged in carefully revising the existing rules, with the assistance of Mr Eugene Judge, the hon. solicitor of the Association. They have now completed their work, and copies of the new book of rules, which will be in force until the next general meeting, to be held in October, can be obtained by members forwarding a stamped addressed envelope to the secretary.

THE annual meeting of shareholders in the Grand Opera House (York) Company was held on Monday. Mr J. H. Wilson, the chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said that was the second annual meeting of the Opera House, and he had to congratulate the company on a very successful year's working. The adoption of the report and balance sheet, and payment of a dividend of 7½ per cent. on the ordinary shares, was carried unanimously.

THE open-air theatres of Paris are feeling the effects of the high winds, as are also their patrons, who are not gathering in their accustomed numbers at their usual summer places of amusements. At the Alcazar D'Eté among the nineteen numbers those worthy of notice are Paulo, a smart dancer; Elise Puget, who sings agreeably; and Charlotte Martens, who is very amusing. The Wolkowsky Troupe sing, dance, and perform on a curious triangular musical instrument. Fragson is very popular at the piano. He is an Englishman by birth, Brighton being his birthplace, and is equally good in French or English parts. He is also a performer on the piano à la George Grossmith.

THE revue at the Alcazar has some funny scenes, the best being that showing "The Tuileries" with a burlesque dinner of the French Proctocol. The burlesqeues of the Senators were "too funny," Chavat-Glrier distinguished himself as a political marionette; Dranem was good as the everlasting Lebaudy, dressed as a jockey with crowns and coronets all over his person. The house is three parts empty and rather cold and sad, but the sturdy claque gives forth well regulated applause between its drinks.

AT the Ambassadeurs the revue is by MM. Nanteuil and Gorsee. M. Max Dearly, from the Variétés Theatre, has studied English types in England, and has made a great success with his delineations. There is a talk of his having a theatre of his own, and he is not yet thirty. Mdlle. Grace Rothert has introduced a new style. She wears exquisitely embroidered socks on her bare legs. Miss Rothert's costumes are celebrated, and her diamonds are marvellous. She tumbles and throws herself all about the stage with the value of a "king's ransom" attached to her figure.

AT the Moulin Rouge the next production will be an adaptation of The Orchid. At the Folies Bergeres there is to be an adaptation of The Country Girl by M. Victor Cottens and Mr Fordyce.

MISS LILY BURNAND has purchased a novel society song from the pen of Mr Alfred Saker, entitled "The kind of thing she wants she doesn't state." She intends to produce it shortly in the West-end. Her "Dick! Dick!! Dick!!!" by the same author, is becoming exceedingly popular.

THE M'Kays commence a twenty-two weeks' tour on Monday, returning to town Jan. 23, 1905.

MISS MARIE KENDALL, who has been absent from the Metropolis since the end of March, returns to town on Monday next, opening at the Hackney Empire.

HERR PAUL VALADON, of Egyptian Hall fame, left England on Saturday morning to join Kellar, the well-known American manager. A pair horse omnibus contained Mr and Mrs Paul Valadon, Miss Marie Gautier, two gentlemen representing Mr Kellar, and several private friends. Upon the platform to receive them were Lieut. Albini, Melini, Mr Leslie, Nelson Downs, Chevalier Thorn, Mr Teaque (Egyptian Hall), Mr Wade, and numerous others. Mr Valadon had a grand send-off, but he naturally felt keenly the parting from his many friends. Perhaps no one ever was such a favourite among his brother professionals as Paul Valadon, and his musical Sunday evenings at his charming little house at Fulham were looked upon as a great treat. Those who should know say that his success in America will prove a record in illusion business.

ENTERTAINMENT-GOERS, not only in Glasgow, but all over the West of Scotland, will learn with regret of Mr E. H. Bostock's retirement from the part-proprietorship of the Zoo and Hippodrome. It is now nearly eight years since Mr Bostock came to Glasgow, and during that time he has won the respect of a very large section of citizens. When the Zoo and Hippodrome was opened three years ago, under its present ownership, it at once sprang into prominence as the most popular place of its kind in the city. Mr Bostock has as yet formed no plans for the future, but Glaswegians will await announcements in this respect with great interest. In the meantime an influential committee of gentlemen, consisting of several town councillors and others, are having a suitable address prepared for presentation to Mr Bostock and his family at an early date.

MR JAMES HOWELL, of the Tivoli, starts on Monday for a fortnight's holiday, which, we understand, he will spend at various seaside places. Mr Howell has been extremely busy for several months past, and the rest and recreation he is about to enjoy are well earned.

THE different places of entertainment in the neighbourhood of Islington suffered some inconvenience on Wednesday night owing to the sudden stoppage at the electric current, which occurred about nine o'clock. At Collins's Music Hall one of the artists was interrupted in the middle of his song by the strange disappearance of light, but he calmly struck a match and lit the gas jets at the footlights.

THE many friends of Mr and Mrs Frank Halter (Marie Ray) will be sorry to hear of the death of the mother of Mrs Halter on Saturday last. The deceased was well-known by many members of the profession. The funeral took place on Wednesday at Tooting Cemetery, and was attended by a number of relatives and friends. Conspicuous among the many floral offerings were those sent by the Grand Order of Water Rats, Booker and Narbis, Howard and St. Clair, Alice Maydue, Harry and Edie Missouri, and many others.

MR WILL OLIVER, of Oliver and Holmes's Agency, has secured another great speciality act in the Four Arizonas, tumblers, benders, jugglers, and staircase walkers, who will appear in London shortly. They returned a few months ago from a four years' successful tour through Germany, Denmark, Norway, Austria, France, and South America.

THE name of Serpentello on the bill of the Granville Theatre of Varieties this week led many of his friends to suppose that he had returned to his old line—namely, that of a contortionist. As an artist Serpentello was facile princeps in his business. His anatomy has often filled medical men with wonder. He has an extraordinary powerful neck, capable of bearing the weight of his body when poised in the air. The appearance of his name upon the bill was due to a long-standing engagement, from which, by the courtesy of the management, he was released. His agency business is increasing by leaps and bounds, and this prevents him accepting many tempting offers to perform from managers.

THE late Mr Walter Pallant, formerly chairman of the Gaiety Theatre Company, besides leaving £100 to each of the theatrical charities, has left a similar sum to the Music Hall Benevolent Fund.

MR W. SELKIRK, of Juvenile Spectacles fame, concludes to-night a successful fifteen weeks' provincial tour. He is booked in London for a number of weeks, commencing at Collins's.

MR GEO. SAPHRINI, music hall manager, late of the Britannia, Glasgow, Empire, Cleethorpes, &c., is recouping at Scarborough after an illness of seventeen weeks, the result of an accident.

MISS BESSIE LEE, known as the "coloured Patti" underwent an operation on the 10th inst., which proved successful, but she died on Saturday from an affection of the heart. The deceased was the wife of Mr F. Cumminger, sand dancer. She was born in Philadelphia, U.S.A., and was thirty-one years of age. The funeral took place on Tuesday at Manchester.

AMONGST the many letters received by Hackenschmidt from admiring members of the fair sex the following may be quoted as specially flattering to the renowned wrestler:—"Dear Sir,—I think you are the only perfect specimen of manhood I have seen. Any woman would be proud to look up to you as a husband. I know I should. There would be no fear of burglars.—Yours sincerely, A Spinster of Sixty."

AT the Camberwell Palace this week Dr. Walford Bodie has been treating Mr Frank Folloy for paralysis, and hopes to be able to effect a cure.

THE Tivoli Music Hall, High Shields, will reopen on Sept. 12, under the old proprietors, Councillor J. K. Hall and Jos. Sweeney, and they have placed their business management in the hands of Mr Harry Burns, together with the sole bookings. This young and hard-working agent is building up a big business, including Continental bookings.

MISS EDNA CRAGGE, has, through Mr Fred Durham's Agency, accepted engagements at Sandgate and Dover for Aug. 22 and 29 respectively, thus combining business with pleasure. This will be her first visit to these seaside towns.

MESSRS FRANCIS, DAY, AND HUNTER have purchased Mr George Brooks's dame song, "You Can't Beat the Old-time Girls," by Fred Leigh and H. E. Pether. It will be sung in the pantomime of Aladdin at the Marlborough Theatre, Holloway.

DURING Mrs John Lawson's well-earned rest her parts in Humanity, &c., will be played by Miss Lillian Herries, whose portrayal of the Second Mrs Tanqueray and the Notorious Mrs Ebbsmith was very highly commended at the time.

MISS VIOLET WILTON (Mrs Frank Coyle) resumes business again for a few months from Monday next to work out old contracts that were made some time ago, after which she will again resume her millinery business at Leeds.

"TWO RUNAWAY GIRLS," by Brien M'Cullough, proved a great hit at the Grand, Clapham-junction, and will be seen this week at the Bedford, Camden-town, where the bold Brien may confidently anticipate another laughing success.

THE song "They haven't made me Lord Mayor yet!" which Mr Harry Bedford will shortly produce, is from the versatile pen of William Hargreaves. The same writer has also supplied Miss Victoria Monks with a new number, which she will produce during her engagement at the Palace Theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue.—Ray and Calden return to town on the 29th inst. after three months' successful tour, with an entirely new and original comedy act.

A TRAVELLER named William Bruce Williams, of Barnsbury-street, Islington, was fined £10 at Marlborough-street on Monday, the charge against him being one of embezzling £5 8s. belonging to his employer, Mr C. B. Hood, St. Martin's-lane. It was said that in the course of business Williams obtained orders from Miss Vesta Victoria, the well-known music hall artiste, for photos and posters, the account being £13 8s. It was alleged that he only paid over two sums of £5 and £3. As he was not paid a salary, Williams contended that it was no offence.

THE LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

THE CANTERBURY.

High records of laughter have been attained this week at the Canterbury, where Mr Fred Miller's generously constituted programme bristles with turns that act principally in the interests of merriment. Chief among the instigators of mirth is Mr Will Evans, who has produced a new whimsicality written by himself, in collaboration with Mr George Arthurs, entitled Building the Chicken House. Every suburban householder has yearnings for horticulture or farming, but the hero of Mr Evans' skit has an inclination for both, and is so enthusiastic over the possession of some poultry that he devotes his Bank Holiday to building a shed for their accommodation. He is faced by a mathematical problem with regard to the position of the uprights, which is solved in the most ludicrous way; but it is when the builder and his assistant, after struggling manfully with the materials, become entangled in a maze of timber, wire-netting, and corrugated iron, that the hilarity becomes uproarious, until the amateur architect conceives the idea of building the house round the chickens, and releases the birds for that purpose. The fowls escape, resulting in the wreckage of the garden and the extinction of an inquisitive next-door neighbour, whose persistent gazing over the garden wall has been a source of irritation to the builder throughout. The laughter induced by the popular droll is continuous and hearty, reaching at times to perfect shouts of delight. Other humorous sketches are found in the performance by the Six Brothers Luck of The Demon of the Cellar, which has aroused the spirit of mirth in the house, and by the Brothers Horn, whose boxing sketch evokes similar manifestations of gaiety. At an early period of the evening Miss Katie Lawrence renews her popularity by two characteristic contributions which include a song of homely sentiment about "My Old Man," which has a touch of humour that is appreciated. Another lady who stands high in the estimation of Canterbury patrons is Miss Vesta Victoria, whose quaint carol as a country lass on a visit to London town asserts its usual droll influence. Still further effect is obtained out of a "romp" song, to which is added a dance in which quaintness and skill are so happily combined that recalls innumerable are lavished upon her, only to be cut short by the curtain. Miss Queenie Leighton is happy in the depiction of phases of "London Life," while in the refrain of "Health, wealth, women, and wine" she exercises an irresistible charm. Remarkable evolutions are accomplished by Frobel and Ruge on a pole fixed horizontally across a trapeze bar, the pole afterwards revolving rapidly with the performers at each end—a feat which causes a sensation and a demonstration of applause among the audience. Miss Lillie Soutter, who will be remembered as the original Fifi, in A Chinese Honeymoon, sings of a "Nice little pub at Kew" which is in prospect for an equally nice little couple who contemplate matrimony, but a more potent vehicle for her humour is provided by her song "A Perfect Lady," the patter for which is delivered with a rich expression. Miss Ray Wallace introduces her refined impersonations in which the mannerisms of Misses Marie Lloyd, Vesta Tilley, and Marie Kendall are faithfully presented, a "slight idea" of Mr Harry Lauder testifying to the versatility of her talent. Mr James Fawn makes his appearance as a "sympathetic bobby," whose treatment of misdemeanants is most liberal, the favourite comedian also giving his dissertation of "The Girl and the Curl," the humours of which appeal with such force to the audience that they are left clamouring for more. The Sisters Oswald sing and dance blithely in their duet "Giving the boys a treat;" and the long programme, which includes the dancing feats of My Fancy, the droll comedian Mr Dan Conroy, Miss Hetty King, and Mr Ernest Ball, is concluded by the musical extravaganza The Dandy Thieves, represented by Mr Dan Rolyat, Mr Andrew Higginson, and Miss Leonora Castell. The musical arrangements are carried out adequately under the direction of Mr Harold March.

THE GRANVILLE.

The pretty little Granville Theatre of Varieties was crowded to its fullest capacity on Wednesday evening, when the popular and experienced Mr Jesse Sparrow, who has been reappointed general manager of that hall, was "at home" to a large gathering of professional and private friends. In the course of the evening Mr Sparrow, accompanied by his assistant-manager, Mr Ernest A. Bridgen, appeared behind the footlights, his appearance on the stage being greeted with prolonged applause. He remarked that the first time he spoke to an audience from those boards was on the occasion of the opening of the Granville some six years since, and referred to his four years' connection with the hall. It was well-known that business there of late had not given satisfaction to the directors, and he had been invited by them to again take over the general management. He had accepted their offer, and, whilst fully aware of the difficult task before him, would do all that mortal man was capable of for the prosperity of the hall, hoping that at the next annual meeting the directors would be entirely satisfied with his work. He thanked the many managers, agents, and professional and private friends, including a large contingent of the Terriers, of which society he was a member, for their presence there that night, and expressed the gratification it gave him to be once more associated with Mr Bridgen, who had worked with him for a number of years. Before retiring to the strains of "For he's a jolly good fellow," he further remarked on the great pleasure it gave him to see Mr W. S. Bassett still in the conductor's chair. Mr Bridgen also spoke a few words of thanks for the kind manner in which his name had been received. In the varied programme presented were many amusing and interesting items, a dainty and much-appreciated contribution being the pretty scena given by Miss May Belfort entitled "Missie Daisy." A quartet of darkies ably assist her in this tuneful and well-rendered item, and also win loud applause for their song and skilfully executed dance, "When Mr Shakespeare comes to town." The concluding number of the scena is Miss Belfort's song "Little Baby Brighteyes," and loud applause greeted her at the conclusion of her refined and novel turn. A comedian who hugely amused his auditors was Mr Austin Rudd, who had a funny parody on "Pansy Faces," and also a humorous ditty in which he proclaims the welcome news that "Bill Bailey" has returned at last to the domestic hearth. Another "comic" who kept the house in roars of laughter was Mr Walter Wallis, who gave a ludicrous impersonation of a whipper-in in his song "We'll all go hunting to-day," the patter in which was always funny and frequently original. "He's got it to come" was also a mirth-provoking effusion, and the reception accorded the comedian was most cordial. Ross and Grayson, a clever and versatile couple, contributed their amusing comedy musical act, to which reference is made in the notice of another hall; and Percy Hannan, boy baritone, employed a decidedly good voice in "Daddy" and "That was the Soldier's Song," both of which were rendered in a finished style and loudly applauded. Miss Nora Kebble, programmed as "the lazy Nigger," gave an amusing coon song, and exhibited decided skill as a sand dancer; and the low comedy selection of Miss Amy Allnutt, "If ever it comes to a blooming scrap," created abundant merriment, her more serious selection, "I don't want to part, Bill," also pleasing. Admiration was frequently and loudly expressed for the wonderful lighting effects shown during the serpentine dancing of Mdlle. Jenny Mills, in her grand electric act, "La Rêve Mystique;" and those popular entertainers Miss Constance Moxon and Mr Arthur Lennard were acclaimed with the heartiness that is reserved only for favourites. Others in the bill were Mr Ben Nevis, comedian and dancer; Miss Fanny Robina, burlesque actress; Mr Fred Dice, patter comedian and dancer; the Four Jumels, in a musical act; Princess Pauline, the "gipsy comedienne;" and the Bioscope, with some interesting animated pictures. The excellent orchestra here, under the careful bâton of Mr W. S. Bassett, was heard with pleasure in The Belle of New York selection.

EMPRESS, BRIXTON.

The high-class character of the entertainment which has distinguished the Empress since its opening is well maintained by Mr Nelson Francis, the new manager, with the result that the accommodation of the handsome temple of varieties is fully tested in all parts. A potent source of attraction in the present week's programme is the sketch My Wife, to which the pantomimic talents of Mr Paul Martinetti and his clever company are devoted. In the part of the Parisian husband who so energetically puts his house in order, from the man-servant to the mistress, Mr Paul Martinetti finds abundant opportunity for the exercise of his rare gifts of miming, and the audience give themselves up to uncontrollable mirth at the drollery which is inseparable from his presence on the stage. The interlude with the subjugated valet is made especially amusing with the aid of Mr Alfred Martinetti, whose assistance as Auguste is invaluable. Miss Clara Martinetti artistically elaborates the character of the imperious wife; Miss May's grace and delicacy are very becoming in the part of the daughter; and Mr Emile Josset lends the weight of his droll personality to a performance which is admirably sustained all round. Laughter abounds throughout the evening, responsibility for which rests in a large measure with Mr Walter King, who as a "Cat's-meat Man" delivers himself of an infinite variety of "patter" that has a homely flavour, a tremulous ring in the comedian's voice adding to its quaintness. Similar embellishments are made to his song as a clerical individual who fervently sounds the praises of the "Do you good Society" in the regulation tones of the stage clergyman. Lustre is, however, shed upon "the cloth" by Mr Ernest Ball, who extols the gallantry of "A Parson and a Man," whose noble deeds at home and on the battlefield form the burden of a tuneful song. Mr Ball, dressed as a member of the brigade, has also to sing in praise of "The Fireman's Daughter," his descriptive talents being effectively employed in both ballads and winning sympathetic cheers. A large contribution to the gaiety of the evening is made by the Three Prestons, whose devices for obtaining merriment are many and various. The trio includes a clever comedian, with original methods, who acts as servant to a music hall agent. It is to his antics towards his master and towards a lively lady artiste that most of the laughter is due, quaint snatches of song and a dance in which neatness and novelty are combined completing a turn that scores chiefly by reason of its refined fun. A hotch-potch of nonsense is served up in piquant flavouring by Lee and Kingston in their skit entitled "Practical Joking," in which a country yokel plays a few pranks upon his town-bred cousin. That young lady takes a terrible revenge upon him by inducing him to play at soldiers, the unsophisticated youth being bombarded by an avalanche of shot and shell while doing sentry-go. The diversions of the talented pair are productive of great merriment, their acrobatic feats also being appreciated. Travestie in its most extravagant features appears in the turn subscribed by the Sivronis in the scena "Opera Gone Mad," in which a lady vocalist trills excerpts from grand opera while her masculine partner goes through most eccentric antics, which, aided by a number of funny disguises, gain a large share of merriment. Bernar's marionettes form a brilliant feature of the programme, the neatness with which the puppets go through their performance, including a realistic manége act by a lady rider and a ballet, with a premiere danseuse, illuminated by electric lights, being a tribute to the skill of Professor Bernar, who is solely responsible for their working. Miss Alma Jones gains the appreciative ear of the audience for her melodious rendering of "Eyes of Blue" and of a coon song, in the former of which the audience are very assertive in the refrain. Ruffell's Bioscope is a popular item in the programme, which also embraces Clemart, ventriloquist; Mr Walter Emerson and Mr Will Musgrave, comedians; the Four Jumels, Miss Cissie Dryden, and Zasma, assisted by Mdlle. De Louie, in a gymnastic act. Mr F. W. Venton controls the musical forces with ability, and duties at the front of the house are courteously discharged by Mr Cooke Frankish.

IN the Court of Bankruptcy, on Thursday, the first meeting of creditors was held under the failure of Percy Harold Boggis, described as a music hall artist's manager. The debtor acted as electrician to his wife, who is a serpentine dancer, and attributes his present position to liabilities in connection with a business of variety agents, in which he became a sleeping partner in January, 1903, and into which he put £600. The case was left in the hands of the Official Receiver.

MISS MINNIE MANSFIELD AND MONSIEUR GORDON, two professional aëronauts, were engaged for a simultaneous balloon ascent and parachute descent at the Municipal Park Fête at Ramsgate on Thursday. A fresh breeze was blowing, and the balloon bearing the two aëronauts was carried towards the sea. Miss Mansfield and Monsieur Gordon at once released themselves, and descended under their parachutes, which were blown out to sea, and dropped close together a mile from shore. Some boatmen rowed out and rescued the lady and gentleman, who shortly afterwards appeared most successfully at the local park.

AT West London Police-court, on Monday, Mr Dobson, manager of the Shepherd's Bush Empire, attended with two children—a boy and a girl—for whom he sought a certificate to give an acrobatic performance at the music hall this week. Inspector Flavel reported that the police did not raise any objection to the application, but Mr Kennedy, at Westminster Police-court, had refused to grant a similar certificate on the ground that children of tender years should not be allowed to make money for the benefit of their parents in that way. Since then the children had given performances under licences at Manchester and Blackpool, and one part of the performance which had been considered rather dangerous had been discontinued. The children's mother—a German—assured the magistrate that the performance was quite safe, and there was always a net stretched beneath the children during the display. Mr Rose—Well, it is their livelihood now and in after life, I suppose, and I see no objection to it. The certificate was granted.

The District Court of Colombo has been hearing a case in which Mr John Hagenbeck is suing Mr D. J. R. Gunwardene for the price of an elephant. Mr Hagenbeck bought the elephant on the representation that it was tame, and he asserts that it has turned out to be the reverse, and furious. The judge has ordered that the elephant shall be brought into court, so that its behaviour may decide the question.

AT the Empire, on Monday next, Mdlle. Genee, who has been enjoying a well-deserved holiday abroad, will resume her part in the popular divertissement High Jinks, and once more charm Londoners with her delightful dancing. The rest of the attractive programme remains the same as last week.

MR. CHARLES MORTON'S BIRTHDAY.

One of the principal events of the year at the Palace Theatre is the celebration of the birthday of Mr Charles Morton, probably the oldest manager of any place of entertainment in the kingdom. On Monday he attained his eighty-fifth year, and by every post arrived letters of congratulation and kindly greeting, the same feeling being also conveyed by a large number of telegrams. Mr J. L. Toole wired from Margate:—"Best wishes for happy returns of birthday." Datas, who has just returned from America, Miss Constance Loseby, Miss Lydia Thompson, Mr William Clarkson, Mr Alfred Butt (the assistant and business manager, who was away on his holidays), Mr Ernest Polden, Mr E. W. Mackney, Mr Robert Soutar, the Rev. Stewart Headham, Mr J. M. Coward, Mr Clifton Bingham, and Mr Justin Huntly M'Carthy also sent telegrams. From a friend at Margate Mr Morton received the following:—"All hail, great master of the halls; eighty-five not out, well played. Hearty congratulations and hope you will make a century."

In the grand saloon the birthday presents, consisting chiefly of baskets of flowers and fruit, were on view. These came from the musical director (Mr Herman Finck) and the gentlemen of the orchestra, the front of the house staff (whose card bore the inscription "Heartiest good wishes and congratulations on your eighty-fifth birthday"), and the Refreshment Department. Mr Ernest Sheart gave a pretty seascape painted by himself, and Miss Vesta Victoria a handsome diamond pin "with best wishes for a happy birthday." Other gifts were from Miss May Gurney, La Petite Superbe (a basket of fruit), Messrs Sydney Hyman and Charles Wilson and Nathan and Somers; and from Mr Edgar Lee an ode, beautifully illuminated by Mr Albert Warren. The last verse was as follows:—

> And pleasure's courtiers, ye, too, halt to think
> How honest aim—duty effacing self—
> Can render age magnificent, and stay
> The flight of Time, for e'en that blanching foe,
> Whose chastening hand all mortals mote endure,
> Forgets the veteran in his Palace gates,
> As if to grant him yet a wealth of years.

Just previous to the opening of the house the presentations to Mr Morton were made in the saloon, which was crowded by the staff, those present including Mr Thomas Miller (treasurer, and one of the acting managers), Mr Herman Finck, Mr Frank Damer, the stage manager, and Mr Tremaine, box-office keeper.

Mr Miller, in a few appropriate words, asked Mr Morton's acceptance of the baskets of fruit and flowers, as a birthday present from the staff. There was also an illuminated address in verse from the pen of Mr Eustace Baynes, who read the lines, which were as follows:—

> Presented to Charles Morton, Esq., by the Staff of the Palace Theatre, on the occasion of his eighty-fifth birthday.
> Once more we tender you a hearty greeting,
> On this, to us, a day of happy thought;
> That though the years must need be swift and fleeting,
> Time stays its hand, and counts for you as nought;

MR. CHARLES MORTON.

> Still kind, still strong, and best of all still leading,
> You stand alone, and we who know the truth
> Of your success, all watch you still succeeding,
> Envy your years and envy more your youth.
> Your memories are of work, your pride and pleasure,
> A splendid tale must be your life's review;
> In our poor lives the memory we shall treasure,
> Will be of days we served and honoured you.
> So from our hearts with real and honest meaning,
> We wish you health again and yet again;
> You eighty-five! And we on you are leaning
> Our hope and strength—long may you so remain.
>
> Greeting! Once more then
> Here by your side!
> This is our pleasure,
> This is our pride!
> EUSTACE BAYNES.

Aug. 15, 1904.

MR MORTON in reply said:—Ladies and Gentlemen, I cannot say all I feel on receiving these kind tokens of good-will from you all. I do, however, hope that we may meet again at least next year. One cannot anticipate, for eighty-five is more than the allotted time. But I am thankful to have been allotted so long, and to have been associated with so many kind friends and willing helpers here. And when we do separate I hope to have the same good-will from you all as now.

Mr Morton retained one basket only, all the rest being, in accordance with his usual custom, sent to the Charing Cross Hospital and the Children's Hospital, Great Ormond-street, of which he is a governor. The veteran manager afterwards occupied his accustomed seat at the back of the stalls, and the special occasion was graced by the presence of his wife and daughter. During the evening he received the hearty congratulations of many well-known people; and when the Bioscope portrayed him stepping forward with active step to bow his acknowledgments there was a loud outburst of applause from all parts of the house. In the programme the extra turns were Mdlle. De Nohry, who sang a French song, and Miss Margaret Cornille. Miss May Gurney's new song, "The Trap that Cupid Laid," written by Keble Howard, with music by Herman Finck, was well received.

AT the Hippodrome, Stoke, a good first house on Monday welcomed Mr Jack Collinson's company in that sensational sketch The Club Raid, which was enthusiastically received. The Patty Brothers as head balancers have no rivals, several of their feats being quite astounding. Keen and Walad contributed a turn of much excellence, their tumbling and acrobatic business being exceedingly smart. Muir and Bartlett appeared in one of the funniest sketches yet seen here, and were a huge success. Mdlle. Fredrica with her cleverly trained dogs and pony contributed a most interesting turn; Edie Endon, in her song and dance, was deserving of praise; Master George, the boy soprano, sang well; and Sadie Simpson was seen in a good coon song and dance.

"ON AND OFF THE STAGE."

That popular and prepossessing artist, Miss Queenie Leighton, has been appearing at the Tivoli this week in a new scena with the above title. The stage is divided by a partition, in which there is a door. On the O.P. side is a simply-furnished apartment; on the other cloths are lowered successively to represent a circus, &c. The idea of the scena is to contrast the mimic and the real life of the public performers. Miss Leighton, walking before the circus ring scene, sings about the prowess of a female lion-tamer; and then, going into the O.P. apartment, depicts the dismay and consternation of the heroine of the arena at the sight of a mouse. The contrast between the strong man in public and his weakness in private, extending even to inability to hold a baby for his wife, is earnestly dwelt upon; and the same method is pursued with the representative of the "villainess" of melodrama, who, after stabbing her children to death on the stage à la Medea, returns home to await, in an agony of suspense, the doctor's verdict on her own ailing infant. To one verse in the scena, however, we beg to offer a friendly protest. It describes the actor who plays the hero in a drama as an arrant coward, getting under the bed in his lodgings because he fancies that a conscription law has been passed, and that he is being called upon to "serve his country." The many rescues from death from drowning and fire by actors are sufficient to prove—if proof were needed—that the depletion of courage on the boards does not necessarily imply poltroonery off them. In the interests of the profession and of the fair singer herself, we suggest that this verse should be eliminated, and replaced by another. Miss Leighton wears a "ravishing toilette" of brown, trimmed with scarlet flowers; and, by her intensely dramatic delivery of the author's lines, makes a strong and favourable impression. Mr R. G. Knowles's hurried patter is as amusing as ever, and his song about the "girl, the woman, and the widow" goes extremely well, rendered as it is with all Mr Knowles's accustomed cleverness. His second selection, which relates to the humours of Saturday night in London, is neatly written and well deserves the hearty reception it gets from the delighted audience. Little Tich is an immense favourite at the Tivoli, and his droll antics and genuinely funny treatment of the "wanted somewhere else" ditty bring down the house. Immensely comic, too, is his entry as a burlesque toreador, who is, of course, the "idol of the ladies." He describes his conquests and his victories in a manner that sends the audience into roars of laughter; and his appearance in a bullfighter's showy costume is most ludicrous. Mr Wilkie Bard is still at the Tivoli, where his dry and original style has made him generally popular. He has a solemn way of intoning the most absurd lines which proves utterly irresistible; and he makes his points in an effortless manner which is entirely artistic. Credit is due to the clever assistant, who, when Mr Bard is burlesquing an "extempore" singer, attacks the comedian verbally from a seat in the auditorium. So well is the trick done that many of the audience are deluded into the belief that the interruption is genuine. For this part of his performance Mr Bard is, of course, costumed in accordance with the character; but he delivers his impassive utterances in a plain convict-like garb, with trousers cut very close to the lower part of the leg. His success is entirely due to his talent, which is undeniable. With the addition of the Sisters Oswald, whose contribution is a novel dancing act, the programme at the Tivoli remains unaltered since our last notice of this very popular and well-appointed establishment. Mr Maurice Jacobi conducts the orchestra with great judgment; and with Mr James Howell and Mr Arthur Yates as acting-managers, the comfort of the audience is completely assured.

GATTI'S (ROAD).

In the current week's bill at this popular hall a start is made by Miss Bella Bright, a pleasing serio-comic and dancer, who makes a favourable impression with a pretty coon song, "I'll be your honey in the spring time," her more serious contribution, "You told me you loved me," also giving pleasure. Mr Eric Graham, an earnest and popular character comedian, wins loud applause for "The Lambeth-walk Brigade," a set of lively boys who enjoy life in a manner peculiarly their own; and he has a humourously pathetic ditty in "Silly Billy." Another coster impersonation that unmistakably amuses his auditors is that of the "Italian from the New Cut Boulevards," and Mr Graham is loudly acclaimed at its conclusion. "The tale of a passion flower" is the first item of Miss Florrie St. Roy, but that dainty vocalist is heard to greater advantage in "Sambo is my beau," a wonderfully clever and exhausting acrobatic dance winning some of the loudest applause heard during the evening. Elvo and Evelyn have an amusing trifle in "The Slavey and the Burglar," in which the lady impersonates a domestic with aspirations towards the stage and her partner a housebreaker who turns out to be her old lover. The pair indulge in topical repartee and song and dance, in which the lady exhibits much tasteful underwear and decided ability for the profession of her choice, and the gentleman indulges in many humorous antics and remarks, the couple altogether giving a very entertaining little show. Miss Amy Elcock, comedienne, first contributes a low comedy impersonation of a "slavey" who is accused by her mistress of entertaining a policeman in the kitchen. She declares that the lady of the house is "making a big mistake," but eventually the "copper" is found in the copper, and "Jane" is speedily given notice to quit. Miss Elcock's next song is descriptive of a fascinating little damsel, "Sweet Little Rosie—who?" for which she dons a particularly becoming boy's dress; and her concluding song and dance, "Lulu," is a pleasing termination to a varied and decidedly smart turn. Mr Tom Lloyd, a comedian who has a really funny style and make-up, has a humorous parody on "Just like the ivy I'll cling to you;" but his most mirth-provoking impersonation is that of an individual who has just come away from the funeral of the notorious "Bill Bailey." Bill, it appears, has gone to a place usually indicated by a bang on the big drum in quest of "Dolly Grey" and other more or less famous individuals, and the song altogether creates the greatest hilarity. A parody on the "good old Summer Time" is also a laughable item, and Mr Lloyd retires to the music of loud applause. Miss Millie Harris, vocal comedienne, has a couple of interesting and well-rendered songs in "Don't rake up the past" and "The Story of Life," and her reception is most cordial; and Ross and Grayson contribute their clever and amusing musical interlude "The Professor and the Pupil." The male of the duo impersonates a music master who is a decided wag as well as an admirable musician; and he also exhibits cleverness as a sand dancer, accompanying himself at the piano at the same time. The pair give a fine rendering of a Sousa march, and indulge in many really humorous devices for the creation of mirth, in which they are always successful. Also in the programme are that popular Irish comedian, Mr Pat Rafferty; Les Sprays (Marie and Minnie), Continental artistes; Mabel Nelson, comedienne and dancer; and that favourite combination of juvenile vocalists, Park's Eton Boys, billed as "the champion boy singers of the world." The sketch, The Little Colonel, is supplied by Mr Ernest Montefiore and company, including the clever child actress, vocalist, and dancer, Little Angela Hope; and the Mutograph, with a series of new and interesting animated pictures, remains one of the most appreciated items on the varied programme. The capable little band of musicians is under the skilful direction of Mr I. W. Baker.

MR. SAM MAYO'S WEDDING.

Mr Sam Mayo, the popular "immobile comedian," and Miss Stella Stanley were united in the bonds of holy matrimony at the registry office, Prince's-street, Brighton, on Saturday last in the presence of some thirty witnesses, principally consisting of relatives of the contracting parties and professional friends. The bridegroom was supported by his brother, Mr Ted Cowan, and Mr Ernest Lepard, the genial manager of the Alhambra, Brighton, while Miss Rose Elliott performed the same kindly office for the pretty young bride.

Ample testimony to the genuine esteem in which Mr Sam Mayo and his newly-wedded bride are held in Brighton was afforded by the gathering of a huge concourse of townspeople outside the registry office, and it was amid a perfect fusillade of confetti, rice, and good wishes that the wedding cortège drove away to Christie's hotel in West-street, where a sumptuous wedding repast awaited the happy couple and their guests, the latter numbering over fifty, including the following:—Mrs Cowan, Misses Julia and Celia Cowan, Mr and Mrs Ted Cowan (mother, sisters, and brother of the bridegroom), Mr Joe Elvin, Mr and Mrs Tom Leamore, Mr and Mrs More Bentley (Miss Rose Elliott), Mr and Mrs Bennett Scott, Mr and Mrs John P. Harrington, Mr and Mrs Ernest Lepard, Mr and Mrs Felice Napoli, Mr and Mrs Barnard, Mr and Mrs John Hart, Mr and Mrs Tom Mezzetti, Mrs and Miss Lena Verdi, Miss Gladys Mavius, Mrs Edward Hart, Miss Alice Warner, Miss Elsie Bentley, Mrs Mavius, Messrs Dave Cohen, Leggett, "Erick" Carmona, Vernabon, Maxwell Blair, R. W. Bentley, Tom Pacey, Harry Burnell, &c.

Many felicitous speeches were made during the afternoon, and particularly happy was that volunteered by Mr Maxwell Blair, a local celebrity, whose oratory is only excelled by his vocal and hypnotic powers, and after both Mr and Mrs Mayo had made brief but suitable responses, Mr Ernest Lepard called upon Mr John P. Harrington for a speech. The well-known song-writer, who is taking a few week's holiday in Brighton, bashfully replied that his forte (if any) lay more in writing than speechmaking, and then delivered himself of a smartly written impromptu, the concluding lines of which ran:—

> The only star in Sammy's sky shall be that one star—
> Stella!
> 'Cause she's a jolly good girl—that's why! and he's a > jolly good fellow!

An amusing incident among the many pleasing episodes of a truly delightful afternoon was afforded by the fact that Mr Sam Mayo (who dearly loves his little "bet") had informed all his friends that Major Edwardes was running a horse at Windsor called Wedding Day, and the male guests were "on" it to a man. Mr Joe Elvin very kindly "worked all the commissions" for the wedding party, incidentally putting a "tenner" on for himself; and when the news arrived that "Wedding Day" had won at three to one against, the shout of jubilation from Mr and Mrs Mayo's guests was distinctly heard at Hove!

Among the many costly presents received by the happy pair were the following:—Miss Rose Elliott, the bride's trousseau; bridegroom's father, bronze clock and bronze ornaments; bride to bridegroom, single stone diamond ring; bridegroom to bride, pair of diamond earrings and diamond cluster ring; and other presents and congratulatory telegrams were received from the following:—"Papa" Brown ("May the contract you have signed to-day never be cancelled"), Tom Leamore, Pacey and Reeves, Mr and Mrs R. W. Bentley, Dave Cohen, M. Carmona, Miss Gladys Mavius, F. Napoli, Tom Mezzetti, Joe Elvin, Maxwell Blair, Mr and Mrs Ted Cowan, Mr and Mrs J. Hart, J. L. Graydon, W. H. Downes, G. H. Elliott, Mr and Mrs E. Lepard, E. Budden, Mr and Mrs G. H. Chirgwin, Datas, Walter Stanley, Frazer and Mac, Terry and Bentley, Walter Boyce, Milner Verren, Walter Hast and Peggie Lennie, L. Barnard, Ernie Mayne, Tom Stuart, Miss Ivy Floradora, H. S. Hart, Horace Sheldon, Miss Lottie Lennox, Arthur Day, George Newburn, Mr and Mrs Harry Ford, Cliff Ryland, Arthur Stacey, Bob Brown, Charlie Deane, Rich and Rich, Arthur Gilbert, Mr and Mrs Barnard, Chas. Rembges, Lina Verdi, Lawrie Graydon, and numerous others.

MUSIC HALL CRICKET.

PAVILION CRICKET CLUB v. CANTERBURY CRICKET CLUB.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The Press representative of the Pavilion has at least shown his ability to make much out of little in regard to the matches played by the above teams.

It is to be feared that the rude (very rude) shock received by the Pavilion team at the hands of the Canterbury Cricket Club "rankles," and if they were sportsmen their practical defeat on the first match should have been taken in good part. However, for the Pavilion representative to infer that the heinous action of the "Canterbury lambs," by introducing outside assistance, is unknown to them is amusing in the extreme, knowing, as everyone must and does know, that to try conclusions with the redoubtable Pavilion Club at its "full strength" nothing short of a county team would stand the ghost of a chance with them.

On behalf of the Canterbury Cricket Club I beg to tender its most abject apologies for having dared to solicit several warm professionals from the Oval, and in the future a proper certificate of legitimacy to play shall be submitted to the secretary of the Pavilion Cricket Club for his approval.

Yours faithfully,
THE SECRETARY OF THE CANTERBURY CRICKET CLUB.

MISS HELEN LAMBERT AND MR FRED C. GLOVER are playing their new farcical duologue, The Wrong Room, at the Middlesex this week. The plot, business, and situations are irresistibly funny, and are made the most of by these accomplished artists, who, by-the-way, are the authors of the sketch. Mr Fred C. Glover, it may be mentioned, comes of a distinguished theatrical family, being a descendant of Mrs Glover, the famous actress.

MR SYD MAY opened at the Empire, Leicester-square, on Monday, with his Hackenschmidt skit, and met with immediate success, being recalled three times. Owing to this exclusive engagement he will have to forego his annual holiday.

MR JOHN P. BEARDMORE has been appointed acting-manager of the Palace of Varieties, Belfast, in place of Mr R. G. Harte, who has resigned,

AN important clog-dancing contest is announced to take place in Manchester on Monday, the 29th inst. Minnie Ray, daughter of the once famous clog dancer, Ben Ray, has received challenges from several ladies, including Bertha Winder, Tina Royal, of Shields, and Cissie Arris.

"ANOMA," a new musical scena, in which the Two D's, Dorothy and Dora, will appear, is to be produced at the Granville on Monday. The special scenery is from the brush of Francis H. Bull, and the costumes are by Harrison and Company.

AT the Corn Exchange, Wellingborough, Poole's Myriorama is well patronised, and the variety entertainment and Cinématograph views are of exceptional merit. The equilibristic turn of the Two Mitsutas is a great success. Other items that also have a most hearty reception include the Snow Family of skaters, George French's bicyclists, Houston, the Chinese magician; and Takergero and Commie.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

(FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

There was good weather but only moderate business at the Paisley Races and Fair Holidays, which extended from the 6th to the 15th inst. There were present some of the first shows of North Britain. These included Sedgwick's great hippodrome, Geo. Biddall and Son's ghost illusion, M'Indoe's cinématograph, under the management of Mr Arthur Henderson; and George Green's local pictures, under Mr George Monte's management; Sahib Leo's hall of mystery, Cyclops and May's athletic show, Professor W. Wood's fistiana, Henry Chapman's feathered artists, and Professor D. Tomkinson's abnormals. The machines at this meeting were John Wilmot's Caledonian hunters, Geo. Green's coronation cockerells, James Wilmot's Venetian realisations, Mr Peter Swallow's prize bantams, Mr Geo. Wilmot's three-abreast horses, Mrs Howard's twin tugs, Mrs Stevenson's Highland Mary, Lawrence, Swallow, and Smillie's manual swings; photographic booths by F. Walton and Jas. Eden, J. Maley and W. Royle; shooting booths by R. Stevenson, E. Sheeran, J. M'Indoe, T. Newton, H. Smith, A. Lawrence, J. Day; and the minor fair ground novelties of Galloway, Price, M'Indoe, Clayton, Fox, Towers, Brockley, Matchett, Blake, Hiscoe, Ross, Newton, Dumont, Hunter, Smith, Macintosh, Wilson, Moore, Hearl, Steen Family, Irving Family, Kelly Family, and Graham Bros. completed the list of attractions.

The British Women's Temperance Association held their annual concert after business on Friday evening at Paisley. The entertainment, which resulted in a most enjoyable evening, was under the superintendence of Miss Jane Bell and Miss Jeanie Coats. More than £7 was collected by the organisers, Messrs Wilmot, and forwarded to Miss Millington.

Ladybarn is a new district of Manchester. Two years ago Green-lane was bordered by fields on either side. To-day it scarcely affords space for the shows which are gathered there. For Ladybarn already boasts an annual wakes. Mr Walker's combination of novelties are catering for the amusement of the district; and as a pleasing supplement to the usual fairground fixtures it is announced that there will be "dancing each evening" to the music of "a military organ." Those who will may also essay to climb the greasy pole free of charge.

The Cheetham Hill wakes, right the other side of Cottonopolis, can boast a greater antiquity and a larger following. Mr Whiting again controls this ground, and his manager, Mr Jones, has again the felicity of giving his patrons a choice of the choicest the Manchester round supplies. Whiting's gondolas, Collins's electrical jumping horses, Green's wild beasts, Mitchell's ostriches and whirling tubs, I. Richard's steam-yachts, and J. Collins's self-propelled tandems were the machines massed in the centre of the ground. At the far end were the shows, a most imposing line of attractions—Col. Clarke's cinématograph, Norman's exhibition, Bailey's ghost, and the Hippodrome, with Hughes's athletic contests—and the ground was flanked with the usual extraordinary number of coker-shies and kindred money-takers.

On Monday the circus of Lord John Sanger and Sons, Limited, gave performances at the Recreation Ground, Hastings, and attracted large audiences. A most attractive entertainment was provided. The equine game of football was very interesting. An intrepid act was the flying bicycle feat of Annettos; the clowns Ping-Pong and Sammy were novel and entertaining; Toga submitted a skilful juggling act; the Crotchet Troupe amused by their agile violin trick-playing; the Norways in La Perche proved remarkably clever, as also did the De Burstows, wire walkers; Elton and Olrac pleased greatly in their horizontal-bar performance; Miss Hoffmann charmed her audience by her graceful equestrian act; and Mr Herbert Horley pleased with his jockey act. The performing dogs, ponies, and elephants gave astonishing evidence of animal sagacity.

On Friday Mr Hy. Studt, the well-known Welsh amusement caterer, gave his annual fete and gala at Stradey Park, Llanelly, in aid of the Llanelly Hospital.

Within earshot and near to the crumbling walls and masonry of that once famous edifice, Kirkstall Abbey, Kirkstall Feast is held, and right well do the lads and lassies of the district disport themselves. Foremost in the Feast field this year stood "ye merrie-go-rounde," or rather its modern day representation, Mr William Murphy's "golden Venice," blazing, glittering with numerous electrical arc and incandescent lamps. Close by were the gigantic cockerells of Mr Tuby, of Doncaster, the miniature hobby horses, so dear to the juveniles, of Messrs Doubtfire, Bottomley, and swings of many sizes, shooting ranges for marksmen, woolly-headed dolls ticketed to be knocked down, cocoanut shies, billiards with rubber balls, darts and rubber quoits, machines for testing weight, height, and strength. The electric theatre of Messrs Relph and Pedley was well worked, with the assistance of their splendid traction engine Independent, the magnificent orchestrion discoursing some good selections of music. Bliss with his tanks of crocodiles, alligators enabled the visitors to view the reptiles admirably, Birch's midgets gave exhibitions to large numbers, and "Rancher" Relph with his midget horse was well patronised.

At Elmley Castle we have had Mr R. Arrowsmith's roundabouts, park swings, shooting saloons, &c.; Priest's freak show, Yates' bazaars, Kemp's toy stalls, and other amusements by Messrs Kimberley, Churchley, Harding, Sorrell, and Yates.

At Evesham we have Mr T. Clarke's switchback railway, park swings, shooting saloons, cokernut sheets, &c.; F. Wilson's African jungle, Seaton and Taylor's varieties, and R. Chipperfield's fisheries.

At Alcester we have had Mr Jones' roundabouts, Arrowsmith's park swings, Stanley's cokernut sheets, and Taylor's varieties.

At the Alexandra Theatre, Evesham, this week, the following pieces have been played:—My Sweetheart, Simon Lee, The Female Detective, Leah, The Woman from Prison, and The Old Toll House.

At Pershore this week, at Mrs Sinclair's Victoria Theatre, Joan of Arc, Evesham Abbey in 1730, East Lynne, My Sweetheart, A French Terror, and Firematch the Trooper have been given.

Dates of shows:—Sept. 7, Flower Show at Dumbleton, Evesham; Oct. 4, Horse Show at Moreton-in-Marsh; Sept. 16, Horse Show at Kineton.

At Crowle we have had Mr Thomas Scott's steam roundabouts, swing boats, bottle shooters, cokernut sheets, and other attractions.

On Monday Buffalo Bill and his gigantic Wild West Show visited Falkirk and gave two performances, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening. Over 20,000 people patronised the show, and in the evening hundreds had to be turned away owing to want of accommodation in the cheaper parts of the huge tents.

Mr Henry Studt, the well-known South Wales amusement caterer, gave his promised fête and gala for the benefit of the Carmarthen Infirmary (of which he is this year's president) this week, at Carmarthen-park, which was placed at his disposal by the Town Council. Besides Messrs Studt and Son's electric Venetian gondolas, Haggar's electric Bioscope, and other side shows, Mr Studt had engaged a number of sensational and amusing turns. Mons Martino, the tramp cyclist, in his comic evolutions; the Etherdo Sisters, in their graceful performances on unsupported rocking ladders; Mons. and Madame Balzens and Pei-Ho, Japanese jugglers, balancers, top spinners, and hoop manipulators; the clever Cee-Mee Family of flying trapeze artistes, in their sensational performances; the Balmours, triple horizontal bar artists; and Mirzalli, in his daring bicycle ride up and down a spiral column 50ft. high, contributed to the enjoyment and pleasure of the large crowd present. In the evening a grand display of fireworks, including the bombardment of Port Arthur and the destruction of the Russian fortresses, was given by Messrs Joseph Wells and Co., of London. North's shooting saloons and cocoanut shies and the usual concomitants of a fair were also present, and altogether the proceedings were most enjoyable. Willing help was given by the Infirmary Committee and a large number of townspeople, the object being a most deserving one. Mr Studt is to be complimented for arranging the fête, the net proceeds of which will doubtless amount to a goodly sum.

Carmarthen August Fair was held on the 19th inst., and the pleasure fair ground was visited by Haggar's electric Bioscope, North's shooting saloons and cocoanut shies, &c. Mr Studt did not take his Venetian gondolas to the fairground, but left the town about mid-day without reopening after attending the infirmary fête, the Town Council having refused him permission to open in the park on the 12th, as by so doing he would divert the business of the market, all the stall-holders interested having petitioned against permission being granted. Good business was done by those who decided to go to the fairground. Mr Haggar stopped the week successfully at Carmarthen. His show is exceedingly good, a complete change of pictures being made each evening.

BUTLER v. BRAMMALL.

The above case, of considerable interest to circus proprietors and variety agents, was heard before His Honour, Arthur Russell, last week at the Croydon County Court. The plaintiff was Pierce Butler, Hotel Provence, Leicester-square, a circus owner; and the defendant, Humphrey E. Brammall, variety agent, of the Crystal Palace. The claim was for £50, damages for breach of contract. Mr F. O. Robinson (instructed by William Hood) was counsel for the plaintiff, and Mr Herman Cohen appeared for the defendant.

Mr Robinson said the plaintiff owned a number of performing dogs and ponies, and ran a miniature circus. Being desirous of "showing" at the Crystal Palace he approached a Mr Simmons, who acted as his agent during the earlier portion of the negotiations. Eventually plaintiff went to Crystal Palace, and on May 12 he had an interview with the defendant, Mr Brammall, a provider of public entertainments. On that day the defendant engaged the plaintiff to produce his circus at the Crystal Palace for two weeks certain at £25 per week. Plaintiff was requested to bring his animals to the Palace, and did so on the following Monday. Then a question arose as to whether Mr Brammall should not first send the plaintiff with his circus to the Kursaal at Southend, in which he (the defendant) had acquired an interest. Plaintiff said he was indifferent as to where he performed so long as he was paid the stipulated amount per week, and expressed his willingness to take his animals to Southend. Defendant then suggested a different arrangement—a profit-sharing arrangement—but this plaintiff refused to entertain, saying he would perform either at the Crystal Palace or at Southend on the terms agreed upon. Mr Brammall was nettled by this refusal, and refused to allow plaintiff to perform at all.

Plaintiff, residing at Lowestoft, described himself as a variety entertainer. He was the proprietor of a troupe of performing dogs and ponies and also "carried" a number of men and women performers. He was anxious to obtain an engagement at the Crystal Palace, and saw Mr Simmons on the matter. Simmons saw the defendant, and then witness saw Mr Brammall. Defendant asked him if he would produce his circus for less than £25 per week, but he said he could not, and then the defendant agreed to engage witness to give his performance for two weeks certain at £25 per week. Accordingly he brought his animals to the Palace, some from Ipswich and some from York, on the Monday following. On the Thursday or Friday before Whit Week it was suggested by the defendant that witness should go to Southend. He did not say he would not go, but asked defendant if he would pay the railway charges for the transference of the animals from Sydenham to Southend. Defendant said he must pay himself, and witness agreed to do so. He was prepared to go to Southend, and, finding that his circus was not included in the Crystal Palace advertisements, he personally caused to be inserted in The Era newspaper an announcement to the effect that he would be at Southend. He conducted "a sort of rehearsal" with his circus at the Crystal Palace, but it took place in a very unsuitable place. Witness was paid nothing, and was considerably out of pocket, the expense of his show being about £16 a week.

In cross-examination plaintiff said Mr Brammall was annoyed because witness approached him through Mr Simmons, who owned a number of side-shows at the Palace, but he scouted the idea that it was Simmons who engaged him and not Brammall. He approached Brammall on the suggestion of Simmons, and made his own terms with Brammall.

Arthur Simmons stated that Mr Butler asked him to get an engagement for his circus at the Crystal Palace. He called on Mr Brammall, with whom he agreed to send the ponies and dogs to the Palace, and that they should perform for £25 per week for the season. Mr Brammall told him to send on the animals immediately, adding "Come to me to-morrow night and I will give you a contract." He saw Mr Brammall afterwards, and the latter said that he had got a new idea, which was to send the circus down to the Kursaal at Southend on sharing terms. Witness declined to entertain the idea, and still asked for the promised contract for the Palace. He asked for it several times, but Mr Brammall equivocated, and he never succeeded in getting anything satisfactory in the way of an answer. He never got the contract, and denied that Mr Brammall refused to engage a troupe which he had never seen. On the contrary Mr Brammall said—"I know the ponies; they are Tudor's."

Mr Brammall went into the box, and said that his contract with the Crystal Palace Company gave him the sole right to supply dramatic and operatic performances, pantomimes, circuses, &c., in the Palace, and the Company undertook to run no side-show to the detriment of his rights. Mr Cousins, the general manager, asked him if he had any objection to these ponies performing, and he replied, "Certainly." Witness asked whose they were, but Mr Cousins did not answer, merely saying that it was a very small affair. Some time afterwards Mr Cousins asked him again if he objected, and, when he replied that he did, Mr Cousins said, "You know whose they are. They are Simmons's." Witness went on to say Simmons knew nothing about circuses further than that he had financed a show about the country. When witness saw Simmons he said to him, "What ponies are these?" Mr Simmons replied that they were Pierce Butler's, and that he was acting as his agent. Witness said that he would not engage them. He had never while at the Palace engaged a horse turn without first seeing it. Witness refused to give Mr Simmons a contract, but suggested that the ponies should be sent to the Kursaal at Southend on sharing terms. Mr Simmons did not ask for a contract, and he was annoyed at not getting what he said Mr Cousins had led him to expect. He never had any dealings with Butler. He dealt with Simmons only.

His Honour—Do you really mean to tell me that you did not know these ponies were in the Palace? Witness—I was not aware that they were. I am not always in the Palace.

His Honour said that in view of the conflict of testimony he could only go by the probabilities of the case, and he should give judgment for the plaintiff for the amount claimed with costs.

Many thanks to Albany Ward, Esq., for following:—
Empire Theatre, Oxford.

Dear Mr Stuart,—I am very pleased with your show of "Dishonoured," which has been playing here during the past week. The piece is excellently mounted, and you have a really good all-round company. It is certainly one of the best-going shows I have had here for some time, and the fact that the returns have risen each evening speaks for itself, and proves the universal satisfaction the show has given. I shall be very pleased to give you a return date at any time you wish, and shall also be pleased to arrange with you for your other companies.
Yours faithfully,
Albany Ward.

WANTED, Sept. 12, 19, 26, for the Great Modern success, "A Wrecker of Men," by C. Watson Mill, Author of "The Seal of Silence," "A Society Woman," &c. To Managers in doubt, refer Percival Craig, Esq., C. E. Machin, Esq., Otto Culling, Esq., W. Bennett, Esq., E. H. Page, Esq., W. Forsdike, Esq., &c Extract from the Sunderland Post—a long and laudatory notice opens:—In spite of a fine evening there was a packed house at the Royal to witness, for the first time in Sunderland, the melodrama, "A Wrecker of Men." It is a long time since so excellent a play and as good a company have been seen at the Royal, and it is therefore no wonder that attention was concentrated and enthusiasm great at its performance. Then follows a description of the plot, and ends up with:—The scenery and appointments are first-class, and the play is well worth a visit. The Sunderland Echo says:—Last night the house was filled to overflowing with a crowd which enjoyed to the full Mr Watson Mill's fine melodrama, "A Wrecker of Men." One hardly knows what to admire most in it—the ingenious plot, the rapid and coherent motion, or the clever drawing of the characters. Here follow the plot and praise of the cast. Away from the Beaten Track and a Success. C. Watson Mill, Theatre Royal, Hanley, Staffs.

NEW CLARENDON FILM.

THE BURGLAR & THE GIRLS.

THRILLS OF EXCITEMENT AND SHOUTS OF LAUGHTER. REAL SCENERY AND CLEVER TRICKS.

Scene 1.—STORIES BY FIRELIGHT. A pretty scene—three girls brushing their hair en deshabille. (The light from the fire shines on their faces.)
Scene 2.—THE YOUNG LADY'S ROOM. Good-night! She is left alone.
Scene 3.—AT MIDNIGHT (with black sky and shining moon). The burglar mounts the ladder and breaks open her window.
Scene 4.—INSIDE THE ROOM. The girl in bed—the burglar at the window—the revolver—"Hands up"—the girl's terror—the burglar enters—binds and gags her. Intensely exciting and well played.
Scene 5.—IN THE GARDEN BELOW. Two policemen over the wall—they spot the ladder and come in—searching round—the rays from the lantern (a cleverly arranged trick, the policeman shines his lantern around and the rays show up brightly and in contrast to the rest of the picture). The constables think it over, and, taking a drink, they fall asleep.
Scene 6.—THE BEDROOM AGAIN. The burglar returning from below stairs, drunk—he drinks the lady's health—the sisters to the rescue—snatching the revolver—losing the captive—the intruder forced from the window with his own weapon—the girls throwing water from a bath. Full of life.
Scene 7.—AT THE FOOT OF THE LADDER. The bobbies asleep—down comes the water—the bedclothes—the burglar, and they just manage to recover in time to secure the villain—all are drenched.
Scene 8.—THE GIRLS AT THE WINDOW. Laughing and waving.

STRIKING NEW FILMS.

HOLBEIN SWIMMING IN THE CHANNEL.

A beautiful portrait of this celebrated swimmer, taken from a tug in mid-Channel, showing the method of feeding, the various strokes used by him when swimming, also the curious mask with which his face is covered to prevent the beating of the waves.

Length, 150ft. Price, £3 15s.

Our Operator is at the present moment following Haggerty in his attempt to emulate the feat of Captain Webb, and directly we know what results have been obtained we will advise our customers by special circular.

NO. 182. THE OFFICE BOY'S REVENGE.

No.	Code Word.	Title and Description.
182.	GALLING.	THE OFFICE BOY'S REVENGE.

SCENE.—THE OFFICE OF STOCK, BROKE, & CO., IN "THE CITY."

James, the office boy, is "doing the dusting;" when his work is done he stretches himself in the guv'nor's chair, and then turns his attention to the typewriter at the other side of the office. He is engaged in thumping it vigorously, and fails to notice the arrival of the guv'nor, who, enraged at this desecration of his property, approaches from behind, seizes James by the collar of his coat, and gives him a good shaking, then ordering him out. The guv'nor, a strenuous man, then settles down to peruse his morning's letters without waste of time. While he is thus occupied the lady typist enters. She is a bewitching damsel—but—business is business—and the guv'nor merely grunts "Morning!" The typist, after having taken a weight from her mind by removing her hat, sits down at her table. James re-enters, bearing a card announcing that the guv'nor's wife is waiting to see him. The guv'nor says, "Show her up!" and James is about to depart when an idea strikes him. Still smarting from his recent chastisement, and being "more than seven," and having heard the word "intrigue," and looked it up in the dictionary, he thinks that the time for his revenge on the guv'nor is the present. Hastily picking up a pair of scissors, he sneaks behind the typist's chair, and stealthily cuts two golden hairs from off her head; then he creeps behind the guv'nor, and manages to place the said golden hairs on his shoulder without detection. He then leaves the office, and returns immediately after to show in the "Missis." This worthy lady is not welcomed in a boisterous manner by her spouse, who, without turning his head asks her to be seated. She is, however, impatient and rather taken back at the frosty greeting, and walks up to her husband, putting her arms round his neck. The rest is plain sailing—for the office boy. The two golden hairs are discovered, the typist is accused of tampering with affections, &c., and the husband and wife are left to fight it out by themselves. Needless to say, the lady gets the best of it, and the guv'nor makes his escape closely followed out of the office by his enraged wife. The office boy then returns and dances a "highland fling," and all ends happily—for him.

A Roaring Comic. Length, 165ft. Price £4 2s. 6d.

NO. 199. THE LOST SHUTTLECOCK.

The scene opens with a view of a country back yard, where two little girls are playing at shuttlecock. In their eagernsss to outdo each other, one, the taller of the two, gives her shuttlecock an extra hard bang, which deposits it on the roof of the wash-house. The poor little girl starts crying, and her companion tries to console her, and they both try to jump up, but cannot even see it. Presently an old gouty gent comes along and asks the little girl what ails her. "My shuttlecock's up there," she sobs. The poor old gent vainly endeavours to reach it with his stick. Failing to do so, he bids them fetch him a pair of steps, by which he may rescue the lost article. These forthcoming, he puts his stick against the wall, and mounts the steps as fast as his gouty legs will let him. With many groans he reaches the top, but leans too heavily on the gutter, and down he comes, pulling with him the roof, gutter, the rain-pipe, and a line full of nice white clothes, which descend to the dirty ground. Little miss, whose shuttlecock he has so bravely tried to rescue, then turns traitor, and, rushing to the door, calls "Mother," who instantly appears, fresh from the washtub; seeing the clothes on the ground and the general state of affairs, goes for the old gent "hammer and tongs;" while, to add to his discomfort, up comes her burly, brawny-armed son, who has also heard the shouts. After some more pummelling, during which the old gent is felled to the ground, they proceed to drag him out of the yard into which he has so good-heartedly trespassed. We leave them so doing.

This subject would make a splendid addition to any programme, being short and pithy.

THE SPOILT CHILD.

The hero of this delightful little subject is apparently an only child who has been considerably spoilt. The part is acted with wonderful naturalness, and indeed it is so thoroughly well done that it is very difficult to believe that the young scapegrace could possibly have been conscious of the presence of a camera. Reproved for some naughty trick the little boy scratches his nurse, and is promptly "put in the corner" by her while she goes to get tea ready. The moment she is out of the room, the youngster darts out, removes the middle leaf from the table, and spreads the cloth again so as to hide the gap. When the nurse returns she puts the things on the treacherous place, and they are all smashed in the fall which results. The naughty child gets well spanked, but one supposes that he considers the game well worth the candle.

Length, 100ft. Price, £2 1s. 8d.

No. 642.
A PHANTOM RIDE ON THE CAMBRIAN COAST.

The coast of Wales has always been famous for its scenic beauty, and some of the most beautiful parts are embraced in this ride on an engine-front around the numerous curves and indentations of the coast line. The railway line of the Cambrian Railways runs around most of the promontories, and in many places is actually cut on the side of the cliff. It could hardly do otherwise, in fact, without tunnelling nearly the whole distance, for the hills are of a great height and very close together. In numerous places where the hills jut right out into the sea, they are pierced by a tunnel for a short distance; but, nevertheless, the curves on the line are sharp and numerous, and an ever-changing variety of scenery is presented to the eye. On the one hand tower the high hills, on the other is the open sea broken by vast stretches of smooth sand; the curves are like double s's, following one another in quick succession, and some beautiful stereoscopic effects are obtained as the engine dashes round them. Every now and again we plunge into a black tunnel and emerge into the sunlight on the other side almost immediately afterwards. Crossing the famous Viaduct over the Barmouth Estuary, we get a hurried view of Barmouth town before diving again into another tunnel. Short cuttings through the solid rock are interspersed with beautiful views of open scenery, and the thickly growing foliage, past which we dash in places, stands out in bold and brilliant relief against the more distant scenery. Later on we get a fine view of the famous castle of Harlech, which is built on a bold rock, around the foot of which the line runs. The scenery is of a wild and extremely picturesque character, and the constant changes of sea-scape, copse, villages, stations, and tunnels make this one of the most exciting and beautiful railroad pictures ever produced.

Length, 250ft. Price, £5 4s. 2d.

No. 647.
THE FIGHTING 5TH AT BAYONET EXERCISE.

This is a picture of very fine quality, showing the famous crack regiment on the drill ground. The men march up from the distance headed by the regimental band. They then separate out at the word of command to the necessary distances for bayonet exercise, and fixing their bayonets into position, they go through the various evolutions with creditable precision and exactitude. After going through the various lunges and thrusts which constitute the drill they close up again and march away. Length, 75ft. Price, £1 11s. 3d.

No. 648.
A CHEAP BOOT STORE.

This picture represents the interior of a boot shop where the prices are very low and the quality is in accordance therewith. One of the customers who is being fitted with boots experiences some difficulty in drawing the boot upon his foot. Perhaps, being rather a dandy, he likes the fit to be a shade too small. While he struggles with the boot the shop assistant kneels before him and expatiates on the wonderful quality for 4s. 11d. Suddenly the foot goes in, but the boot is not equal to the strain. The sole of it flies off, and the customer's foot goes right through into the face of the assistant beyond. That is the worst of those cheap boots.

THE URBAN "JUNIOR" BIOSCOPE CAMERA.

Marvellous Value. Every Exhibitor should possess his own Animated Picture Camera.

The Complete "Junior" Outfit.

Every Traveller should bioscopically record incidents of his visits to Foreign Countries.

Every Explorer's Photographic Outfit is incomplete without the Urban "JUNIOR" Bioscope Camera.

Every Educational Institution should be equipped with the Urban "Junior" Camera.

Every Missionary should photographically record the progress of his work by means of the Urban Bioscope Camera.

Every Amateur Photographer would experience tenfold pleasure by embodying motion into his pictures by means of the Urban "JUNIOR" Camera.

Every Low-priced Motion Picture Camera heretofore offered to the public is more or less a toy. The Urban "Junior" Camera is a high-class scientific instrument, producing photographic results equal to the best high-priced Bioscopic Cameras on the market.

The lightness of the URBAN "JUNIOR" CAMERA thus enables you to always have the instrument at hand and ready to procure pictures which are usually missed owing to the heavier cameras not always being available. Even then you expend your energies, lugging the bulky outfit around.

You make no mistake in the focus of objects to be photographed with the Urban "JUNIOR" Camera.

The Lens is at set focus—you simply find the view and turn the handle at an even speed of 2½ revolutions per second and THE CAMERA DOES THE REST—unless you want us to develop your negatives and make prints therefrom. None can possibly give you equal results. We employ experts and best film only.

Each "JUNIOR" Camera is equipped with a combined "reflex" and "direct sight" View Finder. By thus looking down into your instrument (so to speak) while taking your picture, you are not attracting attention, and therefore the subjects you are photographing will be more naturally reproduced than if they are aware of being bioscoped.

The Mechanism of the Camera is wonderfully simple and reliable—registration between Pictures being PERFECT—upon this depends the steadiness of the reproduction of the film.

The Camera Case is beautifully finished in well-seasoned mahogany, highly polished. Everything pertaining to the Outfit is of the highest class workmanship.

Price, Outfit complete, TEN GUINEAS only.

All Cameras are thoroughly tested before Shipping. No Instruments sent on Approval.

AUTUMN TOURS.

WE ARE NOW VERY BUSY CLEANING DRESSES FOR AUTUMN TOURS, but have plenty of room, and, like Oliver Twist, WE ASK FOR MORE.

We are also very busy Cleaning and Renovating Tableaux Curtains and Draperies from London and Country Theatres and Music Halls.

We still hold the field as Cleaners and Dyers to the Theatrical and Music Hall Professions. This fact is clearly proved by the unsolicited testimonials we are continually receiving.

Professional Work takes Precedence over all other orders.

By Special Arrangement,

TOURING MANAGERS

can have their Wardrobes Cleaned between Shows, when in or near London.

Yarmouth, Aug. 10.

My Dear Mr Harris,—

Very many thanks for your wire. I would have replied only was, as you can imagine, very busy. We managed to open all right, as you are, no doubt, aware, and everything went off splendidly.

I cannot thank you enough for all the trouble you took on our behalf, and but for your prompt action I am certain we could not have opened on Monday.

With kindest regards and again many thanks,

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) HORACE COLE,

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

SYDNEY, July 12.—Tapu; or, Sacred, is the title of a new opera written by Arthur Adams and J. C. Williamson and composed by Alfred Hill, lately the conductor of the Sydney Liedertafel. Mr Hill had already produced a cantata, Hine Moa, and an opera, Lady Dolly, with fair success. But this work aims higher, and has an absolutely Maori tone throughout. The music is founded on the melodies of the natives of New Zealand, and the plot concerns their doings. A troupe of Maoris have been imported to exhibit their national dances, festive and belicose, and these added genuine interest to the production. The scenery by Mr John Brunton includes faithful reproductions of Maoriland localities, amongst them a view of the now extinct Pink Terraces. These pictures, enlivened by the moving forms of Maoris waving pampas grasses and coloured rush at the end of flaxen cords, won much applause; in fact, the whole production was realistic and creditable, even for a Williamson staging, ever the best and most lavish. The supernumeraries and ballet (the latter trained by Miss Minnie Everett) were appropriately dressed and made up, and tutored in the methodical rhythm of Maori song and dance. The plot concerns one Makutu, a prototype of Katisha. If a man happens to touch her he must marry her or die, the latter alternative being generally cheerfully chosen. This leads to many complications and no little fun. The book is decidedly good; its only weak point is some rather commonplace comedy. The singing was the best part of the performance. Miss Florence Young was Mara, a Maori malden, and in her songs and duets with Mr Reginald Roberts (Tonga), she scored with her grand opera voice and stately action. Mr Roberts was better than usual, and, be it remembered, Mr Alfred Hill gave all the singers good music to work upon. Miss Nellie D. Wilson made the prophetess, Makutu, a graceful character, her excellent contralto voice and admirable eccentric dancing being much appreciated. Miss Evelyn Scott was Fay Chrysolis, a touring prima donna; and Mr John Ralston, a new baritone, gave a good account of himself as John Smith, an operatic baritone who tours with Chrysolis. Mr Haigh Jackson proved a dignified chief Ika, and sang the music well. Mr W. B. Beattie, baritone, who has a refined style, was the Hon. Claude, and Mr Watts played the part of a slave. The principal comedian was Mr George Lauri, whose travelling member of Parliament was very humorous. Miss Maud Chetwynd as Tavera, the Maori girl, was attractive and careful. Modern progress was exemplified by a posse of ladies from the Women's League; these were very funny. The Maoris were headed by Wi Duncan; they were the same that performed before the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York when they were in New Zealand, and are known as "The Duke's Own." They gave the war dance "Ha Ka" in spirited style, and a "Poi" by Miss Everett's corps de ballet was loudly and deservedly applauded. Mons. Leon Caron conducted and controlled his well-trained chorus in capital style, and all the dresses were correct. Mr J. C. Williamson, Mr Henry Bracy, Mr Alfred Hill, and Miss Minnie Everett were called, and Mr Williamson made a speech. He said he felt exceedingly gratified that such a house, on such a stormy night, should have assembled to welcome what was from start to finish an Australian opera. The enthusiasm was most gratifying, and he would cable the news of the successful production to his collaborateur, Mr Adams, who was then in London.

"The Union Jack" was revived by Mr Bland Holt after a most successful run of The Price of Peace at the Theatre Royal. This picturesque play was performed with a large degree of freshness, and, although a fierce storm raged on Saturday night, a large audience welcomed the revival most heartily. Anything which introduces Jack Tars is favourably received in Sydney. Messrs Walter Baker, Albert Norman, Arthur Styan, Marx Maxwell, Charles Brown and Misses Frances Ross, Harrie Ireland, and Ethel Arden, with Mr and Mrs Bland Holt as Peter Fly and Polly Pippin, all did well.

"The Marriage of Kitty" will remove Cousin Kate from the Criterion on Wednesday, the 13th, and the comedy will be preceded by The Widow Woos. This week will conclude Mr J. C. Williamson's occupation of the Criterion. During this brief season, managed by Mr H. H. Vincent, Miss Florence Hamer has established herself as a prime favourite, and Miss Rose Musgrove has made rapid forward strides in the histrionic art.

"The Power of Gold" still keeps Mr Sanford's American players fully engaged at the Lyceum, and no note of change has yet been sounded.

Mr George Stephenson's English musical comedy company, headed by Miss May Beatty, Miss Garstang, and Mr Edward Lauri, did good business at Newcastle, and is now in Queensland.

The Tivoli had another addition on Saturday in the person of Mr Tom Bass, who made a favourable impression. Miss Ella Wellington, the popular young contralto, returned, and was warmly welcomed. The Diamond Duo, the Eussems, Miss Maud Beatty, the talented Levinos, Burke, Moller, and Teller, Miss Clara Keating, Mr Blutch Jones, Mr Ernest Sullivan, and Irving Sayles are Mr Harry Rickards's chief performers.

Chevalier Wiegand's death at Oswego, N.Y., on May 20, has caused a feeling of profound regret, for the renowned organist was much liked by all who knew him privately.

Paderewski is in Melbourne. His second concert had to be postponed on account of the great pianist injuring his little finger at the first recital.

Mr Herbert Flemming recently underwent a serious operation in New Zealand, but he is now recovered and has rejoined Mr Mel B. Spurr, who is doing good business in Maoriland.

Mr George Tallis, for many years managing ventures for Mr J. C. Williamson, and Mr Ramaciotti, proprietor of the Theatre Royal, have conjointly bought one half of Mr Williamson's business. The actor-manager found it very hard work travelling so much with so many companies in hand, and he thought it wise to be relieved of some of the responsibility which it involved. The new triumvirate will still be known as "J. C. Williamson."

At the Jubilee Hall, Weymouth, Mr Charles Macdona's Chinese Honeymoon company has been appearing this week. Soo-Soo is attractively played by Miss Adah Lacroft, and her song "Egypt" is repeatedly encored. Mrs Pineapple is in the excellent hands of Miss Mabel Carlton, and praise is due to Miss Gertrude Le Sage for her impersonation of the official mother-in-law. Roars of laughter greet the witticisms of Miss Ettie Cinders as Fi-Fi; her skit on Sousa is very funny. Hang-Chow is adequately rendered by Mr Steane Louch, and Hi-Lung is neatly played by Mr Lindsay Harman. Mr Sidney Burt makes the most of the part of Mr Pineapple, and the acting of Mr A. Foote as Tom Hatherton leaves little to be desired. The chorus is good, and the able orchestra is well conducted by Mr Jean Desormes.

Mr W. B. Purefoy, who is a large shareholder in the Gaiety Theatre Company, has been elected a director of the company.

Brown's Bronchial Troches.—All suffering from irritation of the throat and hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of Brown's Bronchial Troches. People troubled with a hacking cough, a slight cold, or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious pulmonary and asthmatic affections. See that the words "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are on the Government stamp around each box. Sold by Chemists everywhere, 1s. 1½d. per Box.—[Advt.]

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.

Her Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; General Manager, Mr Eade Montefiore; Acting-Manager, Mr H. C. Cavanah.—The attraction here this week is A Girl's Cross Roads. Miss Beatrice Homer enacts Barbara Wade with intense power, and John Meadows is finely impersonated by Mr Edwin J. Wilde. Jack Livingstone and Dr. Weston are capably played by Messrs Wingold Lawrence and Charles Terry, and Cuthbert Lumley has a capable exponent in Mr H. K. Ayliff. Miss Kitty Symons makes Constance Cornell sweet and lovable; Miss Octavia Noel plays Nellie Meadows with the requisite dash; and Toby Turvey and Tilly Vayne are successfully embodied by Mr John Hutchins and Miss Emily Custance.

Palace Theatre, Limited.—General Manager, Mr Ernest Sheldon.—The M'Connell Trio play cleverly in their amusing comedietta The Airship, and delightful entertainment is provided by the Zenary Brothers in their acrobatic sketch A Meeting at the Club. The Two Macs repeat their success of last week; a very graceful display of acrobatism is given by the Eltons; the Dorrells are superior duettists and dancers; Miss Elly Adair proves herself a charming comedienne and dancer; and other artists who appear are Miss Cora Grey, a burlesque actress of decided ability; Mr George Reeves, a clever comedian; and the Marblesque Troupe of living statuary.

ABERTILLERY.

Theatre Metropole.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. W. Ventom.—Melodrama again holds the boards here this week, the attraction being Miss Adria Hill and Mr Robert Ayrton's No. 1 company in The Price of Pleasure. Mr Ayrton is a fine manly hero, and plays the part of Gilbert D'Armand for all it is worth. Mr Oswald Douglas is a vindictive Sir James Featherstone; Mr W. Brooks as Charles Mordaunt is exceptionally good. Very prominent is the rôle of John Hawksley, detective, as played by Mr Ian Lloyd-Mackenzie; Miss Adria Hall as Alice Rivers, alias Madame La Reine, is very powerful; and Miss Edith Tempest as Claire is well suited to the part. Miss Mary Ainslie as Lillian Mordaunt evokes unstinted applause.

ACCRINGTON.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr J. E. Barnes.—On Monday evening Messrs Fred Moule and E. D. Nicholls's company opened with The Life that Kills. Mr E. D. Nicholls must be complimented on his performance of the Rev. Theodore Rodney, Mr Herbert Sidney gave a good rendering of Kendal Croat, Hector Rodney was well presented by Mr Hugh Metcalf, and Valentine Telford was capably depicted by Mr Morris Maud. Miss Mabel Kessler's performances as Tom Dicks and Johanna Dicks were varied by musical selections, and Miss Vyvyan Montgomery was good as Laura Linden.

ALDERSHOT.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Williams.—The Midnight Mail is being performed here by Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company. Mr G. Harvard gives a clever portrayal of the wayward engine-driver Harry Steyne, and Mr Fred Evison's is a fine conception of the drunken, loafing villain's tool, Billy Brewer. Mr Alec Alve's is a meritorious enactment of Leonard Royle; Mr A. Gilroy is good as Hassan; and capability is shown in the impersonation of Donald Craig by Mr Chas. M'Cann. Miss Ada Oakley's is a cleverly played Mary Steyne; Miss Mildred Carr is good as Nancy; and Miss Millie Stevenson as Lady Phyllis does well. Messrs R. Entwistle, Fred Morley, and Ritchie Bell also add a share to the success in smaller rôles.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Fairbairn.—For the Wakes holiday week the Theatre Royal was reopened on Monday evening. The play produced was The Scarlet Woman, by Miss Rosalind Scott-Watson's company. Miss Rosalind Scott-Watson gives a striking portrayal of a thoroughly bold and fearless bad woman. The shameless creature, who is outwardly prepossessing, is nothing less than a fiend in the form of an angel, and she fascinates but to destroy. The suffering heroine is a type of all that is virtuous and noble in woman, and this part is sustained with all the grace and sweetness required by Miss Muriel Alleyne. The villain is extremely fertile in treachery. His varied phases of character are skilfully depicted by Mr Harold B. Lewis. The mining hero is made prominent by the admirable acting of Mr Ernest J. Fare. There are a number of other characters, more or less important, which are necessary in the development of the story, and as character impersonations are not a whit less cleverly outlined by Messrs Edward K. Burke, Mat Melrose, the latter a comedian of humour and resource. A good deal of fun is created by Miss Ruby Hamilton as Charlotte and Miss Lalla Cowell as Fanchette. Miss Gracie Walker makes a pleasing child artiste as Jeanne, and Miss Kate Preston as a motherly matron is well cast. Mrs Scott-Watson plays the part of an elderly lady housekeeper, one of the kind and considerate sort, and does so with great truth to nature.

New Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Revill; Director of Entertainments, Mr F. Willmot.—The "bill-of-fare" at this popular pleasure resort is of the usual mixed order. The Moxons, speciality artistes, show their skill in neat acts of tumbling and somersault exercises. They are remarkably supple and expert. Vandinoff excites wonder and admiration as a lightning sketch artiste; Frew and Frow, a couple of clever eccentrics, create great fun in their up-to-date act, "The Contest;" the Bros. Lavelle are quaint comedy acrobats. One of the attractive turns is that of Henrietta, a charming lady vocalist and instrumentalist. The Waffatangs are prominent in song and dance, and J. P. Dane, a funny comedian, does the "Cake Walk Round the Workhouse Door." New pictures are shown by the Hippodrome Bioscope.

BACUP.

New Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr Richard Nightingale.—Miss Dorothy Oswald's company in the ever-popular play East Lynne is here this week. Miss Oswald displays great emotional ability in her impersonation of Lady Isabel Carlyle; Cornelia is fittingly played by Miss E. Herries; and Barbara Hare has a charming and most acceptable impersonator in Miss Tilly Stewart; Miss Maggie Stewart is good as Joyce; Mr George Harvie is an amusing P.C. Jorkins; and Archibald Carlyle is powerfully portrayed by Mr Herbert Barrs. Willie, the dying child, is played most creditably by Little Ruby; Richard Hare is capitally sustained by Mr H. Wallace Curnock; Mr Harry Kennedy is well placed as Dill; and Mr George Beel is a satisfactory Earl Mount Severn. A careful and excellent delineation of Captain Francis Levison is given by Mr Pasco Bioletti.

BILSTON.

New Royal.—Lessee, Mr Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—The Silver Cross, admirably staged and played by Messrs Marston and Buckstone's company, is here. Mr F. A. Marston gives an energetic portrayal of Ben Adams, Mr Harry Glenney is very successful as Philip Frewin, the Little Sunshine of Miss Maud Western is a captivating performance. Some capital songs are introduced, and the Sisters Veli and Rose Walmsley's Yankee Trio contribute some smart dances.

BARNSLEY.

Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr A. C. Mitchell.—Messrs Gordyn and Gelling's company in The Temptress is paying a second visit here. Owing to the indisposition of Miss Grace Leslie, Miss Elaine Verner fills the title character, and does so very ably. Lucas Denbigh is smartly played by Mr F. D. Dariss, and the rôle of Philip is capably enacted by Mr George Dalpers.

Public Hall.—Manager, Mr Jasper Redfern.—Mdlle. Florence in a sensational globe act is an attraction here. The Albano Troupe in their musical speciality are a good turn; Hess and Lisbon are clever roller skaters; and the Sisters Hula, duettists and dancers; Florrie Claribell, vocalist; the Comedy Sketch Trio; Miss Eileen Moore; Herbert Biggins; and the animated photos. are other attractions of the bill.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

Royalty Theatre and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr George Stone.—Mr James Stillwell's company is here in The Queen of the Night. As Paulina Miss V. St. Lawrence gives a fine impersonation; Mr James Stillwell in the part of Phillip Stoneleigh does some powerful acting; Mr A. E. Campbell as Frank Featherstone is an admirable and manly hero. Miss Evelyn Chester is very pleasing as Muriel Walford; the impersonations of Old Briskett by Mr Thorpe Tracey and David Pentreath by Mr R. Webb are particularly clever. Mr Edgar Morgan as Adolphus Briskett and Miss Lizzie Lennon as Kitty White are exceedingly humorous.

Tivoli.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi, Stage-Manager, Mr Tom Whiting.—Bonnie Goodwin and her Apollo piccaninnies have a hearty welcome on their return visit here, and have proved more popular and entertaining than ever. La Tostia does an excellent turn, her playing on the piano and mandoline are marvellous; T. B. Fayme is exceedingly funny, his songs and patter cause roars of laughter; Onda and Leon are very smart in their comedy bar performance; the Abadaras do some striking acrobatic feats; Fred Harrison is an excellent comedian; and Miss Nora Gordon sings some good descriptive songs.

BATH.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr Lewis A. Long. After a short season of melodrama, welcome indeed comes another visit from the ever-popular farce, Charley's Aunt. The members of Mr W. S. Penley's present company are new locally in the piece, but they rattle through their parts with great success. Mr Edwin H. Wynn creates immense hilarity as Lord Fancourt Babberley. One of the best impersonations of Jack Chesney we have witnessed is that of Mr Aubrey Maltalleu, who has an able companion in Mr Mark Walton as Charley Wykeham. Mr Walter Pemberton plays well as Stephen Spettigue, Col. Sir Francis Chesney is satisfactorily enacted by Mr E. Savery, Mr Fred Epitaux makes much of the college scout Brassett, being also responsible for the stage-management. Miss Mary Morison is well placed as Donna Lucia, and the trio of young ladies have charming representatives in Miss B. Fitzgerald (Kitty), Miss Maria Grogan (Amy), and Miss Mary Mallalieu (Ela). A Barmecide Feast forms an agreeable curtain raiser, the two principal characters being smartly portrayed by Mr Aubrey Mallalieu and Miss Fitzgerald as Mr and Mrs Marshall.

Palace Theatre.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Trussell.—Crowds flock here twice nightly to see Johnnie Trundley, the notorious fat boy from Peckham. The Australian comedian Bee Williams quickly gets upon good terms with the audience, and he has scored a big success. Lennie and Hast, in their fantasy The Heirloom, have a well-thought-out turn that wins them applause. Rose Elliott, comedienne, whether singing light or grave songs, is sure of a good reception. Grey and Welford in their boxing act go well. Edie Grey and her white coons harmonise together acceptably. Gracie Vernon, serio, shines best with her smart step-dancing. J. P. Devine, a Negro comedian, completes the bill.

BELFAST.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr James M'Cann.—Mr Stanley Cooke and company opened here on Monday, under the direction of Mr Herbert Greville, in the farcical comedy The New Clown. Chief honours must be accorded Mr Stanley Cooke for his unexaggerated impersonation of Lord Cyril Garston. Mr Herbert Greville skilfully portrays the rôle of Mr Dixon, and much praise is due the charming actress Miss Katie Yates, whose artistic and clever interpretation of the rôle of Rosie Platt has not a little to do with the success. Mr Fred Paul acts the part of Captain the Hon. Jack Trent cleverly, his impersonation pleasing immensely; and Mr Fred Lake's impersonation of Thomas Baker is all that can possibly be desired. The eccentricities of Mr Pennyquick are excellently portrayed by Mr David Beattie, and the part of Billy, the strong man, is made thoroughly effective by Mr James Benwell. The rôles of Winnie Chesterton and Maude Chesterton are well presented by Miss Violet Greville and Miss Evelyn Maxwell. A capital curtain-raiser is provided in The Test.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Managing Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr John P. Beardmore.—Another good company at this beautiful theatre is headed by the charming society entertainer Miss Fanny Wentworth. Leon Morris and his educated and wrestling ponies (ten in number) are also a leading feature of the performance. A startling gymnastic display is furnished by the Four Estrellas, and Mr Dave Meier and Miss Belle Mora, speciality artistes, appear in their novel and exceedingly attractive act, Mr Meier's ball punching performance being very smart indeed. The Four Andys amaze all with their acrobatic act, one of their number, Miss Lena, having a strong claim to the title of "the finest lady tumbler in Europe." The Three Sisters Selwyn are charming vocalists and dancers, and also appearing are Ernesto, juggler; Allis and Cassati; and Harry Maxam, comedian.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Limited.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Brock.—The programme at this popular hall, so ably managed by courteous Mr Charles Brock, is well up to the average, the chief attraction being supplied by Florence and Lillian, who appear with undeniable success in their refined musical entertainment. Mr Harry Sheldon, the popular tenor, sings several songs very sweetly, and Mr Wilson Hallett in his realistic imitations has been loudly and deservedly applauded. The St. James's Quintet, who possess capital voices, delight with their selections, and Mr Fred Poplar has been accorded a good reception. The Kreegers appear in a novel musical act; and Miss Odeyne Spark, a dashing comedienne and fine dancer, and Miss Kitty Wager, a capital comedienne, also entertain.

New Alhambra Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr Henry T. Downs.—Tom White's Arabs, including the famous Pimple, head the bill, and their clever vocalism and smart performances have been hailed with enthusiasm. The renowned Billy Richardson is as good as ever in his stump oration. The baritone singing of Mr Walter Barrett gains universal admiration, and Martine and Son, American song illustrators, furnish an attractive entertainment. The acrobatic feats of the Sylvesters are nothing short of marvellous, and the Sisters Neilson, expert dancers, completely captivate the house. Vere and Royal are an entertaining duo, their funny act being quite a feature, and also here are Vera Mayne, burlesque actress; and Adams and Ward, whose acrobatic act is enthusiastically received.

BEDFORD.

Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter R. Wilson.—The programme for the first three nights of this week was of an extra special character. Mons and Madame Balzens and Pei-ho, Japanese jugglers, opened with a clever exhibition; Miss Winifred Eyre, comedienne, sings three songs in good style; Jean Seul's Indian mysteries were loudly applauded; Miss Minnie Moran, comedienne and dancer, did well; and Harry Maynard, vocal comedian, was heartily welcomed. The Four Magnets, described as buck dancers, were attractive; the Sivronis, burlesque artistes, sent the house into roars of laughter; Lily Black proved to be a pretty song and dance artiste; Mdlle. Luba De Sarema introduced a group of trained animals; and there were some excellent pictures on the Bioscope.

BIRKENHEAD.

Theatre Metropole.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—John F. Preston and Patrick E. Doherty's répertoire company opened here on Monday in Lady Godiva. Miss Hilda Shirley is well suited in the title part, which she enacts with grace and effect. Mr Alf. D. Adams gives a fine rendering of Tom o' Coventry. Mr Lionel D'Aragon plays Algar with commendable skill, and Mr J. Monkhouse makes the most of his opportunities as Leofric. Unwolf is well impersonated by Mr Ernest Hamilton, and Mr Dan F. Roe is a humorous Robin Shaklebolt. The character of Elfreda is well sustained by Miss Georgie Walton.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Mr Jarman's company is appearing here in In Dark Siberia. Mr Fred W. Mussett gives an excellent performance as Captain Victor Gordon; the villainy of Major Waroff is vividly portrayed by Mr Charles Osborne, and Mr H. Ramsay is an efficient Colonel Nevski. Princess Orloff is admirably played by Miss Helen M'Culloch; Mr Harry Seymour is a good Sergeant Petrovich, and Miss Cecilia Ransome and Miss Katie Osborne are agreeably conspicuous. The piece is liberally staged.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—Mason, Keeler, and company, in the amusing sketch Hooked by Crook, head the company here and have made a decided hit. Mr Fred Howard, Scotch ventriloquist and instrumentalist, does an attractive turn, and Mr Will Musgrave, character comedian, scores heavily. The good all round company also includes Miss Jessie Albini, an accomplished comedienne; the Brothers Lang, knockabouts; Jack and Evelyn, variety artistes of ability; the Sisters Davona, lady gymnasts, and Miss Grace Merton, a pleasing and clever vocalist. Mr Ernest Denney is the musical director.

BIRMINGHAM.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry Johnston.—The New Clown is here again, and satisfaction is rife. For Mr James Welch, who would, of course, be welcome in any part whatsoever, is really irresistible as Lord Cyril Garston, otherwise "the new clown," his amazing comicalities causing the well-filled house to positively ring with laughter. Mr G. H. Snazelle once more adds to the general joy with his admirable presentment of the showman, Mr Dixon. Mesdames Estelle Winwood and Alexandra Carlisle act charmingly as the two Misses Chesterton, Maud and Winnie respectively; and there is pathos as well as coquetry in the Rosie Platt of Miss Audrey Ford. Mr Cyril Harcourt realises the quizzing captain, and Messrs H. J. Crane, Leopold Profeit, and others take good parts. Angelina's Lovers and The Man in the Street, in which has appeared Mr Jas. Welch (by request), have preceded the farce on various nights.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr V. Turner.—Thoroughbred on Monday at once secured a place in the affections of the Grand clientèle, in spite of the inclement weather that prevailed. Mr Percy Bell gave a richly diverting impersonation of the Mayor of Upcomb, and Mr George Elliston showed much ability as Jebb Tosh. Mr Edward A. Coventry as the Hon. Blenkinsopp Carlingham acted with his accustomed success, and Mr Richard Boleyn as Lord Landacre, Mr Allan Cunard as A. M. Decker, and Mr John R. Collins as Claude Nizril were favourably regarded. Miss Hilda Stewart was most charming as the Hon. Wilhelmina; Miss Katherine Parry scored as Delia Rimple; and Miss Mary Smith as Mrs Rimple and Miss Beatrice Egerton as Miss Pallington were highly appreciated. Cutting Out a Prize, in which appeared Messrs Edward A. Coventry, Geo. Elliston, R. Boleyn, and Miss Beatrice Egerton, preceded the comedy.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Lester Collingwood.—An English Bulle, which this week concludes its successful tour, smacks of pantomime, and is relished with infinite gusto. Miss Daisy De Roy appears as the English belle, Alice, with charming naïveté, singing several successful songs, including the now familiar "Sammy," to the delight of the entire audience. Mdlle. Lucretia appears with great success as the hero, Jolly Jack, and Miss Gerty Wasley as Dolly; Mr Will Letters, in the highly diverting rôle of Sunny Jim; Mr Fred Marte, in the companion part of Consul; Mr Fred Alberto as the bold, bad Squire; and Mr Edward Streamer as Captain Barnacle do well. Mr Bert Albert Rutley, Miss Hilda De Grey, Miss Violet Eplett, and a bevy of beauty and talent support this elegant and amusing production.

Metropole Theatre.—Manager, Mr Walter Melville; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Hindle Taylor.—The Rich and Poor of London has attracted the most marked attention, its exciting situations and really humorous interpolations of comedy being obviously to the public taste. Mr John F. Preston and Patrick Doherty's company includes Miss Dora Dench, whose work as May Braithwaite is highly eulogised. Mr Sidney C. Cranston as Gussy Lamb, a "masher Johnny," contributes to the fun of the piece in a most satisfactory manner, and Mr Jay Laurier as Spider Jack, Mr Harry Tilbury as the Lawyer, and Miss Sybil Viner as Polly Philpot are meritorious. Mr Andrew Money as Mark Stanley does a villain's part with perfect aplomb; Miss Belle Tilbury as his fair but unscrupulous accomplice, Ruby Redgrave, is most efficient; and Mr Harry Hiller is in favour as Dr. Leonard Morton.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Owner and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr Ben Sydney.—The Duke's Motto is here, and Mr Arthur St. John in the hero's part has won the warmest praise and much substantial patronage. Miss Patey Trounsell has again met with enthusiastic plaudits and unlimited sympathy for her brilliant acting as the heroine, Blanche De Nevers. Mr E. Fergusson as Duc Gonzague creates that aversion which is a tribute to his powers, and Mr Marmaduke Langdale as his agent, Peyrolles, is likewise hated for his stage villainy. Miss Vivian Hamilton gains many marks of approbation as Blanche De Caylus, and Miss Mainwaring is successful as Pepita. Messrs James Dunlop and Archie Grant supply the comic relief in an able manner. The Spectre Bridegroom precedes.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr Charles Barnard; Manager, Mr Dan Barnard.—Why Men Love Women has been told in telling situations by Messrs Paumier and Walter Howard's company. As the hero, Gerald Fielding, Mr Alfred Paumier plays with considerable power and feeling, and the villain, Sergt. Stanloff, is cleverly portrayed by Mr S. Herbert Humber. Miss Annie Saker, by her clever acting as the heroine, Violet Livington, arouses the sympathies of the house in a marked degree. The comic rôles are well sustained, and Mr Harwood Roberts as Orlando Figgins is the cause of much merriment. Miss Marie Glynne as Matilda Figgins, Miss Ruth Zillwood as Birdie, and Miss Violet Godfrey as Baby add to the comedy of the piece. Miss Beatrice Sinclair and Messrs W. S.

Hardy, Edwin Lever, Arthur Radford, and R. Calvert Haws fill other parts.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr A. W. Matcham.—Goldin, the renowned illusionist, is at the head of an excellent programme here. He is assisted by Miss Jean Fransiola, and is well received. Lil Hawthorne sings with her usual success; some smart dancing is presented by the Sisters Grace; Lilian Lea, who is in excellent voice, renders her ballads with fine effect; and other popular turns are Dinah Morris and her coons, Lew Wells, Orpheus, the Max Welson Troupe of gymnasts, Brothers Obo, and the Findons in their sketch A Desperate Remedy.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Albert Bushell.—The principal item this week is the musical entertainment presented by Binns and Binns, who are both amusing and entertaining. George Leyton remains another week. Amy Anderson is well received for her characteristic singing, as also is Elsie Robey, who is decidedly clever. Muir and Bartlett, Charles Gardener, Alcide Capitaine, Beattie Bloom, Whisper, and Ergotti and Luis are also in the programme.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford.—Capt. Woodward is paying a return visit with his performing seals, who give a remarkable performance; Yukio Tani, the Japanese wrestler, remains another week. A clever juggling display is that of Zarmo; the New York Comedy Four are loudly applauded; Nyanza is the title of the comedy illusion presented by C. A Frazer and H. Athol's company; and Geo. Schindler, Madge Grey, Baker Belphor, Simms and Simms, Larry Lewis, and Smith and Johnson add to the success of the programme.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident Manager, Mr Edw. Foster.—Charles R. Sweet is presenting a novel turn this week, and his eccentricities and funny impersonations of musicians are well applauded. Florence Gwynne, in her "Stage-struck Servant" scena, comes in for applause. A clever acrobatic turn is given by the Bros. Damm; the Glenroy Troupe, in The Lads of the New Brigade, are well received; Harry Bent presents some clever impersonations; and the Holmes, Juno Salmo, the Brontes, Ormonde Penstone, and Carlotta Lunn are also in the bill.

BLACKBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr Harry Yorke; Manager, Mr Reginald Yorke.—The return visit of The Dandy Doctor constitutes the attraction here this week. The scenery and dresses are all that can be desired, and the saltatory efforts of the Dandy Belles are one of the principal items of the evening's enjoyment. The company again includes Miss Florence Smithers, who repeats her admirable character sketch as Jane; Miss Lizzie Primmer as Ivy Pendred is also successful, her clever dancing being heartily applauded; Mr James Salter's active and mercurial nature finds ample scope in the part of Melchisadek Brown; Mr James Danvers is most diverting in his assumption of the rôle of Colonel Pendred; and Mr Walter Nugent submits a natural representation of Arthur Vandyke, Mr Fred Reid as Bertie Bolingbroke being very good. Miss Maisie Ivie is a pleasing Miss Vandyke, and Mr Owen Dacroy deserves favourable mention as Mr Drycoff. Specialities are introduced by Mr Ben Rowe and Miss Holden, society cake walkers, and Miss Phyllis Otto, whose charming vocalism is deservedly encored.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. H. Page.—Mr Henry Eglington's company is presenting here this week the sensational drama, When the Lights are Low.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Will Murray; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Drury.—Packed houses are being attracted here this week by Mr Fred Karno's company in The Jail Birds. Other artists contributing to this week's programme are Harry Wright, comedian; the Leotards, hat throwers; Nellie Gannon, comedienne; Musical Silvo, instrumentalist; J. P. Boston, comedian; and the Two Stars, comediennes and dancers.

BLACKPOOL.

HIS MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr E. S. Willard commenced his provincial tour here on Monday last under the happiest auspices. The theatre was closely crowded with an appreciative audience, who thoroughly recognised the actor's well-known ability. The Middleman was the play presented, and Mr Willard's portrayal of Cyrus Blenkarn was a masterly performance. Miss Maud Hoffman made a very sympathetic Mary Blenkarn, and Mrs Russ Whytal contributed a pleasing embodiment of Nancy Blenkarn. Batty Todd had a capital exponent in Mr H. Cane, and Mr Walter Edmunds was in every way successful as Jesse Pegg. A clever study of Joseph Chandler was supplied by Mr A. S. Homewood, whilst Mr William Sauter gave every satisfaction in the thankless part of Captain Chandler. Various other parts found suitable exponents in Messrs Ulick Burke, C. H. Fenton, J. W. Laurence, Joseph Farjeon, and Misses Ethel Tombes, Mabel Dubois, Eileen Warren, and Violet Furnivall. The Professor's Love Story and The Cardinal have also been played during the week with complete success.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr T. Sergenson.—Mr George Dance's company is paying still another visit here this week with The Girl from Kay's. The cast, as far as the principal parts are concerned, has undergone no change since the last visit of the company, and it may be said that none was advisable. Mr H. C. Barry as Max Hoggenheimer is admirable. Mr Leslie Roy Catbie as Percy Fitzthistle, Mr Charles Hanbury as Harry Gordon, and Mr Fred Ralph as Joseph are great favourites, and the title-part is still in the excellent hands of Miss Simeta Marsden. Miss Alice Russon (Norah Chalmers) and Miss Maisie North (Ellen) sing and dance most gracefully.

BLYTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Good.—After a week's vacation the above theatre reopened on Monday with Mr Ernest E. Abbott's company, in The Mariners of England. Mr Abbott gave a powerful impersonation of Lord Nelson, and was ably supported by a good all-round company. Thursday and Friday were set apart for performances of the well-known comedy-drama The Unknown.

BOSCOMBE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—It would be difficult, almost impossible, to speak too highly of the artistic treat which is offered here this week in the representation of The Darling of the Gods by Mr Tree's company. The beautiful scenery, gorgeous dresses, and good acting combine in an ensemble which compels unstinted praise. In his skilful interpretation of the rôle of Zakkuri, Mr G. W. Anson confines to give full expression to the unscrupulous minister's characteristics without undue exaggeration. Mr Gerald Kay Souper's fine presence and excellent acting invest the figure of Kara with the air of romance so essential to its true conception. Mr A. P. Kaye gives point to the dignity of the Prince of Tozan in an admirable manner; and Mr P. R. Goodyer's impersonation of the foppish Tanda-Tanji is in excellent contrast. Of the minor rôles Mr Cecil Trestlian's rendering of Inu, Mr Ernest Stalland's Kato (the fisher of carp), Miss Augusta Havilard's Rosy Sky, and Miss Irma Foldi's Setsu are all capital, but the measure of efficiency throughout the long cast is so great that it is difficult to particularise. Miss Lillian Stafford admirably portrays the sweet waywardness of Yo-San, and at the same time shows considerable dramatic force in her more emotional scenes. The front of the house is under the able management of Mr W. D. Nicoll at one time very popular here as resident manager.

BOLTON.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Hermann.—This week Miss Netta Ware and company are here with When Woman Hates. The company is a good one. Mr John B. Shinton fills with much credit the part of Lieutenant Fred Rokeby, R.N., and the parts of Godfrey Lawton and Colonel Hiram R. Vancutson are admirably sustained by Messrs Oscar Adye and Bensley Evans. The scenery and dresses are good.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry Kenyon.—The Francois Family, who perform some smart acrobatic feats, are here, and the Hoopers, jugglers, &c.; Payne's Little Vagabonds; Dan Thomas, comedian and dancer; Baker and Rose, comedians, in their comedy act The Waif's Ambition; Flo Elvin, comedienne; the Two Duvanlos, contortionists; Great Learto, musical comedian, with his clever dog Bobs; Phil Herman, vocalist, &c.; and the New York Quartet of vocalists and acrobatic dancers complete the company.

BOURNEMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons; Lessee, Mr Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Mr George Dance's company is here this week in The Girl from Kay's. Gorgeously dressed, with new songs and "business," and elaborately staged, the play is drawing crowded and delighted houses nightly. Mr Johnnie Schofield simply revels in the part of Max Hoggenheimer, infusing into the character a humour particularly his own. Miss Lily Lingard is both demure and exhilarating in her impersonation of the title-rôle, and deservedly earns high honours. Miss May Morton is charming and natural as Norah Chalmers; Miss Polly Prim enacts Ellen with vivacity and light-hearted gaiety; Harry Gordon has a capital representative in Mr Garnet Wilson; Mr Tom Shetford hits off the inanities of the Hon. Percy Fitzthistle in excellent style; Mr Sam Lysons amusingly portrays the eccentricities of Theodore Quench, Q.C.; Mr T. Reynolds is well suited as Mr Chalmers; and Mr Charles Goold is immensely amusing as Joseph, being ably supported by Mr Louis Du Cane as Pepper. Miss May Wiltshire earns distinction for her highly finished vocalisation in the third act. The full chorus and augmented orchestra reflect credit on Mr Harry L. Whittaker.

BRADFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Richardson.—The Houp-la Girl, the latest of the musical comedies which are so popular with audiences here, was presented by Mr Henry Johnston's company to an appreciative audience on Monday. There are some very amusing situations and complications arising out of the plot, and an abundance of fun is provided in the three acts of which the piece consists. The incidental songs are smartly written and diverting, and the whole production is distinctly bright and lively. Mr Launcelot-Usher and Mr Eric Dalvere in the parts of Lieutenant Archibald Lambton and Major Daffney Davenport are clever in providing a fund of humour as officers attached to the suite of Prince Falsenberg (Mr T. Wyndham), and Miss Margaret Wilson as the queen of the ring, La Belle Rosiere, is very bright and vivacious. Mr Jack Durant plays Frank Saville, the artist, well, and the other parts are in the hands of competent exponents. The staging of the comedy is exceedingly well done.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr F. Laidler.—Mr T. Morton Powell's company, in the familiar drama Honour Thy Father, is the present attraction here, and the return visit is evidently welcome to Mr Laidler's patrons, who greeted the play heartily on Monday. It is well staged, and Mr J. W. Evelyn scores a success in the part of the sorely tried and suffering Gabriel Garth, whose wayward daughter, Lilian, is a very able effort on the part of Miss Mabel Coleman. Mr D. B. Watson is capital as the hero, Jack Halyard; Mercy Merry, the heiress, is sympathetically played by Miss Flora Leslie; and the objectionable Sir Duncan Bly is effective in Mr A. Guyon's hands. The humour of the piece is well brought out by Mr F. W. Grahame, Mr F. Richards, and Miss Fanny Wallace.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Limited; Resident Manager, Mr E. S. Swaine.—Alec Hurley, the smart coster comedian, tops a good bill here this week with his entertainment, The Coster's Friendly Lead, in which a large company supports him very acceptably; Maud Ross, comedienne and dancer, pays a welcome return visit; and Will Mitcham gives a pleasing entertainment on a variety of musical instruments. A novelty distinctly clever in its way is provided by Les Brunins, billiardistes modernes; Charles F. Johnson, the black diamond, is a capital Negro exponent of the cake walk; Kahn and Kahn's necromancy is highly entertaining; the Sisters Chester, vocalists and dancers, provide a very acceptable turn, in which instrumentalism is agreeably blended; Ben Albert is a quaint comic vocalist; Woodhouse and Wells are eccentric and entertaining comedian and dancers; and Walter Groves and company, who are paying a return visit in their familiar sketch Artful Jim keep the audience in roars of laughter with the frequent allusions to "Poor Pink," the departed bow-wow.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr F. Macnaghten.—A very welcome return visit is being paid here this week by Starr and Leslie, in their clever speciality turn, which is as amusing as ever, and the Watson Family are again received with favour in their enjoyable musical entertainment. Daisy Martell and Florence Schuberth are a pair of vocalists whose contributions are received with great favour. There is much originality and energy in Will Johnson's comic vocalism, and Morny Cash, too, is a funny and original comedian. Atroy is a dexterous and entertaining juggler; Violi, an accomplished contributor on a series of novel instruments; and the Remingtons, lady and gentleman acrobats, are applauded deservedly for an agile and daring performance.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—Manager, Mr S. H. Carter—The New Century Company's animated and up-to-date pictures continue to draw and highly entertain large audiences here, and Mr E. Edwards' vocalism is an acceptable addition to the evening's entertainment.

BROUGHTON.

VICTORIA THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr C. Smith-Wilkes; Musical Director, Mr H. M. Summers.—May Yohe heads this week's bill here. Brown and Nevarri, eccentric change artists, with Chinese Courtship, are in great request, as also is Fred Earle with his amusing songs. Fred Carr and Ada Rose, in their vocal comedy act, Their First Quarrel; Alice Ormonde, comedienne; Sisters Brenton, duettists and expert dancers; Peter Kelly, character comedian; Five Royal Zerbinis, Continental musical speciality artists; and Harry Mansfield, comedian, give acceptable turns.

BUXTON.

OPERA HOUSE.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Arthur Willoughby.—On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday Little Mary was played here by Messrs Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's company. Mr Arthur Holmes Gore is admirably suited as the Earl of Carlton; Mr Arthur Kightley plays excellently as Lord Rolfe; and Mr A. W. Bascomb doubles the rôles of Terence Reilly and the Earl of Plumleigh—a remarkably clever accomplishment; Mr George Mudie supplies an interesting study of Sir Jennings Pyke; and Mr Ean Macdonald is well suited as Dr. Topping. Miss Elspeth Dudgeon plays consistently as the Countess of Plumleigh; and Miss Evelyn Neilida acts very nicely as Milly. As Eleanor Gray Miss Beatrice Kelston is happily cast, and Miss Christine Silver as Moira charms all by her piquant rendering.

BRIDLINGTON.

SPA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Henry Hague.—The Ben Greet company opened here on Monday in The Belle of New York. Mr Edward Chester gave a fine presentation of Ichabod Bronson; Mr Edward Crosland was well placed in the part of Harry Bronson; and Mr Joseph R. Tate as the polite lunatic kept the house in roars. Mr Collin Johnson as Snifkins and Mr Gus Danby as Mugg were very good. Mr S. Clayton and Mr Cyril Evans did well as the twins; Mr Morrice Holmes's Blinkey Bill was a clever bit of acting, and he had a capital partner in Miss Louie Sands, the Mamie Clancy. Miss Cicely O'Nolan was a charming Violet Grey; Miss Daisy Baldry as Cora Angelique showed excellent talent, and the Fifi of Miss Adele Roze enabled that lady to show her talent to advantage. On Wednesday, the same company appeared in Florodora. To-night Mr George Edwardes's company will be seen in the popular San Toy. Mr Hague has augmented the theatre orchestra for these engagements.

ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE.—Manager, Mr Charles Palmer.—The promenade concerts are still drawing large crowds to this fashionable rendezvous. This week Mr Charles Macgrath, the eminent basso of the Moody-Manners opera company, is gaining great praise for his singing, and the musical trios of Herr Winternitz (violin), M. Grilliere ('cello), and Isodore Maurice (piano) are always redemanded. The Flockton-Foster entertainers, both afternoon and evening, secure large audiences, who are always amused by the various songs, duets, and banjo solos.

NEW SPA AND GARDENS.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Henry Hague.—The enterprising manager is always striving to keep the Spa up to date. This week's vocalist is Miss Emily Foxcroft, a contralto who possesses a very sweet voice.

PEOPLE'S PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Morgan.—An excellent turn at the Palace this week is that of Mdlle. Haydee and her clever mannikins. Mr G. W. Nicholson, the favourite Yorkshire comedian, is sure of a welcome here, and gains three-fold encores for his amusing songs and imitations. Robert Grieve is a smart ventriloquist; C. Gray gives a good pedestal act; Charles Rodin is an eccentric cyclist; the Weimars, with "Sloper on the wire," take immensely; and the Chadwick Brothers, funny tumblers, and Les Valdos, acrobatic clowns, are retained for another week. Miss Kate Kildare's orchestra and concert party give some capital programmes, the songs of Mr E. Vincent, Mr F. Cecil, Mr C. Johnson, and Miss Violet Nye being a great feature. Henderson's Bio-Scena shows some entertaining moving pictures.

SUMMER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs Beanland, Bath, and Danton.—Good audiences continue to attend the performances of the popular Waterloo Pierrots, and this week there are extra attractions provided, including a juvenile cake-walk competition, for which the lessees offer valuable prizes. The varied programmes give each member of the company opportunities of showing their all-round talent, and the sketches and farces are always enjoyable.

BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr George Edwardes's company opened here on Monday with The Orchid, which was superbly dressed and staged. Miss Coralie Blythe gave a delightful impersonation of Lady Violet Anstruther, Miss Irene Verona as Caroline Vokins proved very amusing, Miss Gertrude Gilliam made a very winsome Josephine Zaccary, and Miss Katie Leechman was highly successful as the Countess Anstruther. Mr Lawrence Grossmith achieved distinct success by his droll representation of the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour, Mr George Gregory merits unstinted praise for his humorous and clever portrayal of Meakin. Mr Donald Hall's Dr. Ronald Faussett and Mr Sam Walsh's Comte Raoul De Cassignat were well played. The remaining characters were in able hands, and the augmented orchestra and full chorus rendered excellent service under the conductorship of Mr Ernée Woodville.

AQUARIUM.—Manager, Mr W. J. Hardy; Secretary, Mr S. H. Andrews.—Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope exhibition still proves very attractive here. Selections are also given by the Aquarium orchestra.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr Ernest Lepard.—The following are here this week:—George Gray and company, in the sketch The Fighting Parson; Maud Wilton, juvenile prodigy; Billy Hobbs, American coon comedian and dancer; Cruikshank, "a fellow of infinite jest and most excellent variety;" Harry Anderson, vocal comedian; Athas and Collins (Albert and Lizzie), in a new musical comedy act; Harry Bedford, eccentric comedian; Signor and Madame Borelli, in their latest musical tit-bits; Marie Wilton, comedienne; Winnie Derson, comedienne; and Charles Morritt, illusionist.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—The following are here this week:—Diana, in her latest creation, Dreamland; Edmunda, singing ventriloquist; Edna Mastin, siffleuse; Henri Bekker, conjuror, assisted by Mdlle. Maie; Polk and Kollins, banjoists; the Durvals, horizontal bar artistes; Charles R. Whittle, comedian; Amy Russell, vocalist; Steele and Laing, in their eccentric acrobatic singing and dancing speciality; Little Barney, comedian; Chas. Prelle, with his talking dogs; and animated pictures.

NEW PALACE PIER THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr C. Thompson Ford; Entertainment Manager, Mr Drew Mackintosh.—Under the direction of Mr C. St. John Denton, variety entertainments are given here this week, the programmes being sustained by Miss Rose Dearing, Miss Maud Holland, Miss Ethel Newman, and Miss Kitty Tims, charming vocalists; Mr John Le Hay, in a clever ventriloquial sketch; Mr Archie Croft, comedian and dancer; and Mr Harry Phydora, comedian.

WEST PIER PAVILION.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr A. D. Norman.—Messrs Silvanus Dauncey and Charles V. France's company is here this week with Whitewashing Julia. Mr H. Asheton Tonge gives an excellent enactment of Mr William Stillingfleet; Mr H. Carter Bligh makes an admirable Hon. Bevis Pinkney; Miss Kate Bishop's Lady Pinkney merits warm commendation; Miss Ruth Maitland is a charming Julia Wren; Miss Marie Lohrs Trixie Blenkinsop is delightfully played; and Mr Archibald M'Lean is a capital Mr Samways.

BRISTOL.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Macready Chute.—A treat is provided here by the engagement of Miss Louie Freear and company in Boy Bob. The play proved interesting to a large audience on Monday evening. Miss Freear acted excellently as Boy Bob; she is equally effective in the serious and comic situations, and her song "The soldier didn't care" went splendidly. Miss Marie Rignold played with marked ability as Lottie Brenton; Mrs H. A. Saintsbury was vivacious as Mrs Caudraugh; Mr Stephen Bond presented a fine exposition of Capt. Winton; Mr B. Soane Roby was powerfully impressive as Sergt. Daniels; Mr J. Russell Bogue did admirably as Colonel Vincent; Mr Francis Hawley was decidedly good as Captain Fisher; Mr A. T. Hendon was well placed as Sergeant Field; Mr Briscoe Owen was effective as Lieut. Herrick; Mr Frank Brown was successful as Corporal Ball; and the Misses Dora Rignold and Jessie Burgwitz were winsome and graceful in the parts of Edith Vincent and Dora Herrick. The performance commenced with Good for Nothing, which was capitally played by Miss Jessie Burgwitz, Mr Harry Collier, Mr A. T. Hendon, and Mr J. R. Bogue.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Ernest Carpenter.—Rogues of the Turf is the attraction here. The play is excellently staged, several racehorses adding much to the attraction, and the final scene is very effective. Miss Gertrude Godart presents a fine, powerful exposition of Lady Heathcote; Mr G. R. Montford acts cleverly as Captain Dudley Clinton; Mr H. H. Rignold is successful as Moses Solomons; Mr Harry Benson is amusing as Sam Flaxman; Miss Mabel F. Barlow is vivacious as Phyllis Warzell; Mr John F. Preston is well placed as Joe Flaxman; Miss Susie Fradelle is sympathetic and interesting as Nellie Flaxman; and Mr Ernest R. Allen is manly and convincing as Arthur Somerton.

PALACE.—Managing Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Resident Manager, Mr Horace Livermore; Secretary, Mr Welchman.—G. H. Chirgwin is attracting good houses here. His patter is as amusing as ever, his singing of "The Blind Boy" meets with the usual success, and his instrumental solos obtain the utmost appreciation. A. W. Asra does some good juggling in his billiard-room act; the Jackley Wonders do some smart acrobatics, &c.; Virto does a good musical turn, being assisted by his daughter Irene; J. H. Hurst's novelty, "Melodies and faces to suit them," obtains applause; Gertie Gitana is a pleasing comedienne; the Four Trees are smart comediennes and dancers; Ted Cowan, comedian, obtains applause; O'Connor and Brady please as eccentric comedians; and the entertainment concludes with an interesting series of animated pictures.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Here we have a good entertainment by the Harmony Four, who amuse with some good singing and comic business; Selma Braatz performs some remarkable feats of juggling, which interest and obtain appreciation; Neil Kenyon amuses as a Scottish comedian; Reed and Glenny have a farcical duologue, "Married or Photographed;" the Bohemians are capable musical and comedy artistes; Ray and Calden have a good dancing and tumbling comedy act; George Foyle pleases as a descriptive vocalist; Great Scott does some good equilibristic juggling, &c., from the top rung of a ladder; and the Gargani Troupe are very smart as comic acrobats. The performance concludes with some good animated pictures.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs Bennett; Manager, Mr John Waller.—Mr Howard Hinton's company, with Honour Bright, is the attraction here this week. To Miss Nellie Marler is assigned the rôle of the American journalist, a part to which she is admirably suited; Miss Grace Oliva is a good exponent of the persecuted heroine. An energetic performance is given by Mr Gilbert Ainslie as the hero; Mr Wm. Carriden is a sufficiently repulsive villain. Other characters are well represented by Mr Richard Courtland; Mr Tom Robertson; Mr Fred Yarnold, Mr R. Hamilton, and Miss Violet Welch.

BURY (LANCS.)

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Mr Auguste Van Biene and his company are appearing here in The Broken Melody. Mr Van Biene is well known here, and his 'cello playing is thoroughly appreciated. Miss Lena Burnleigh as Mabel is charming; Miss Ida Chapman acts well as the Duchess De Verviers, and is ably assisted by Mr Arthur Bawtree as General Ivanoff. The rest of the characters are in good hands.

CARDIFF.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Robert Redford.—Mr Milton Bode's company, under the direction of Mr Stanley Rogers, is here this week with Gentleman Joe. It is many years since this successful musical comedy has been to Cardiff, and patrons of the Royal are consequently making the most of the visit. Mr Kennedy Allen appears in the title-rôle, and achieves a distinct success. He is extremely amusing as the hansom cabby, and does some very smart work. Miss Maud Marriott makes a pert and attractive Emma. Miss Hebe Bliss as Mrs Ralli-Carr is a host in herself, and a lively and vivacious representative of the U.S.A. is found in Miss Eida Burman. Maud Cavanagh has a charming and graceful exponent in Miss Mabel Kerridge, Mr Harry A. Gribben makes a capital Pilkington Jones, Mr Robert Vincent (Lord Donnybrook) possesses an unusually good voice, and Miss Edith Benson as William, the page boy, deserves praise.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Bateman; General-Manager, Mr Robert Sawin.—This week the attraction is The Fatal Wedding, produced by Mr Bert Coote's company. The piece is capitally played and excellently mounted. There is a big cast, comprising over thirty children, the latter doing much—by the clever way in which they take their parts—to make the play a success.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Lea.—Cardiffians have the pleasure this week of again hearing the popular coon, Eugene Stratton, who, of course, is drawing crammed houses at both performances nightly. The most nimble and sparkling of all comediennes, Lily Langtry, is conspicuously successful with her coster songs; Fred Russell is exceptionally entertaining for a ventriloquist; the Three Ramoniers are very smart in a combined bar-balancing and trapeze act; and other turns are Heeley and Meeley, comedy acrobats; Peppo's Monkeys, in an original Risley act; Massena, a clever young juggler; the Fleury Trio of graceful Parisian dancers; Elsie Clare, a soprano vocalist; and J. E. Coyle, in song and patter.

CARLISLE.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, the Trustees of Mr R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr Stanley Rogers.—The Money Makers has paid its first visit here this week, and we question whether a more genuinely funny and enjoyable farcical comedy has been seen on these boards. Miss Emma and Mr Percy Hutchison, who are responsible for the production, are to be congratulated on the excellent company they have brought. Mr Frank Lacy, a clever and polished comedian, plays the happy-go-lucky Captain Archie with a freedom which is quite refreshing, and the amount of humour he introduces into the rôle makes it irresistibly funny. Mr Edward Bonfield is excellent as Sir Charles Clifton. Mr Allen Thomas contributes a clever character sketch of the old Scotchman, the many bits of comedy in which he was the prime mover being most amusingly depicted. Bella, the sporting slavey, has a clever representative in Miss Frances Davie, who plays throughout with smartness, agility, and humour. Miss Muriel Ashwynne is altogether delightful as Dot, her merry vivacity making her a great favourite. Mabel has a charming exponent in Miss Lorna Lawrence, and Miss Mary Griffiths as Mrs Bannerman and Miss Violet Ley as Baby Berkeley are seen to advantage in capital parts. The curtain-raiser is an attractive and amusing little comedietta by Mr A. E. Drinkwater entitled Two in a Trap, which receives every justice at the hands of Mr Frank Lacy and Miss Lorna Lawrence, who are repeatedly applauded.

CHESTERFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr Holbery Hardy.—Messrs Beaudyn and Livesey's company is appearing here with A Beautiful Friend. Miss Sidney Crowe well sustains the title-rôle; Mr Montague Beaudyn in the part of Ivan Paulovitch shows a manly bearing; Mr A. G. Polson-Turner strongly portrays the villain Karateff; Mr A. F. Dudley enacts the part of Sergius Strogoff with excellent results; Mr Charles Kean in the character of the drunken Crackles is true to nature; Miss Irene Munroe gives an artistic and pathetic rendering of the heroine, Nadine Karateff; and Miss Annie Clunn is responsible for much of the merriment by her amusing portraiture of Patty Woodlands.

CARMARTHEN.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Proprietors, Public Rooms Company; Secretary, Mr Edward Baldwin.—This week Mr Arthur Roberts, the famous comedian, and his company from the Palace Theatre paid Carmarthen a visit, and were rewarded with a crowded house. That most amusing skit, Where's the Count? was produced, and the principal parts, Joe Muggins and Mary, were taken by Mr Roberts and Miss Ruby Celeste respectively. They were ably supported by Miss Barry Eldon, Mr Ainslie Burton, Mr Stanley Damerell, Mr Charles Pond, Mr H. Huddleston, and Mr F. Holgate. In Packing Up Mr Roberts and Miss Ruby Celeste were again irresistible, and shouts of laughter greeted the absurd positions and amusing sayings of the comedian. The dumb-show pantomime sketch, Courtship and Marriage, by Mr Roberts and Miss Celeste was also keenly enjoyed. Mr Charles Pond gave three sketches from life—"Beaulieu," "Greifenstein," and "The 'Bus Driver"—with power and much acceptance, being repeatedly encored; Miss Ruby Celeste "brought down the house" with her songs, "The Gate Creaked" and "Woman;" Mr Ainslie Burton delighted with his imitations of well-known artists, and with his song, "I've Brought the Coal;" while Mr Roberts gave in his inimitable style, "Topsy-Turvy" and "Viens Poupoule."

CHATHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr George G. Ridley.—Sunday is here, played by Messrs Louis Calvert and Herbert Ross's company, under the management of the latter gentleman, who appears successfully as Colonel Brinthorpe. Miss Dorothea Desmond sustains the title-part, and is freely applauded throughout for her interesting interpretation. Mr Arthur Willoughby makes a natural Tom Oxley, and Mr Henry Stephenson, Mr David Curtis, Mr Alfred Philips, and Mr Arthur Somers give excellent representations of "the boys."

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr L. B. Barnard.—The Two Bostons top the bill here, and amuse all with their burlesque weight-lifting, conjuring, and bull fight; Lacey's Erascope has some new local views; Marriott's company are producing The Highwayman; Johnny Worman's "Not" is a sure hit; and Madge Daly looks well in principal boy's costume. The Sisters Edwardes, duettists and dancers; Fate and Fate, comedy acrobats; and Sam Lee, comedian, complete the company.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr F. J. Donne.—Here we have Rosie Archer, mimic; T. W. Barrett, the original; the Sisters Desmond, character duettists; Charles Deane, of "Strolling round the town" fame; Lenard and White, lively sand dancers; Kitty Beresford, comedienne; Franco Piper, who delights all with his skilful banjo playing; Edward Ranier and company, in Monsieur Gremonde; while much interest is created by the turn given by the Hilberts, handcuff experts.

CHORLEY (LANCS).

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr G. T. Santé; Secretary, Mr J. Clay.—This week we have a welcome change, provided by Messrs Ediscope and Barnum's capital animated pictures and excellent vaudeville company, including Musical Corlettis, in a taking turn; Miss Jessie Harper, the singing mill hand; Three Funniosities, sketch artistes; Clown Ohmy, with his clever dog, Toby; Will Ivor, high-stilt performer; the Barrows, comedy merchants; and Miss Florrie Brooklyn, a capital top-boot dancer, all of whom do excellent work.

COATBRIDGE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Mary Watson; Manager, Mr C. B. Fountaine.—This now commodious and elegantly designed house opened on Monday with the Milton-Rays company, in A Hot Night, which had an excellent reception from a crowded house. Mr Arthur Milton delineates Frank Frith with good effect; Mr Francis is amusing as Fontenoy Flutterwig; Mr Harry T. Butler makes a good Mark Maybury; Mr Maxwell Stewart is clever as Professor Sheerman; and Capt. Drake has an able representative in Mr James Sherwin. Miss Susie Bevan artistically renders Polly Drake; Miss Adeline Montagu is all that can be desired as Mrs Fontenoy Flutterwig; Miss Madge Wrae successfully enacts Fanny Frith; and Miss Jessie Wrae is a capable Mary Maybury. The Eldorado Quartet execute some graceful dances.

CORK.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr John Horgan.—Miss Blanche St. Alban's and Mr J. Leicester Jackson's company opened a week's engagement here on Monday in Her One Great Sin, which was well staged. Mr Wright as the Solicitor sustained the part well; Mr F. Morton Wright was good as Ben Barkley; Mr Gerald Smythe as Tom Green was capital; the rôle of Arthur Arnold was capably sustained by Mr Fred Lloyd; and that of Police-constable Jackson was ably undertaken by Mr C. Dale. Charlie was well impersonated by Miss Phyllis Damian; Bet Hundle was cleverly enacted by Miss Louie Walton; and the other parts were neatly performed by Miss Nellie Lambert and Miss Maudie Lambert.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Manager, Mr A. M'Ewan.—Mr Hilton St. Just's grand opera company has been here, in Lucia di Lammermoor. Miss Louise Van Dalle as Lucy acted well and sang beautifully. Mr Frank Land as Sir Henry Ashton was in splendid voice. Mr St. Just was in fine form in the part of Lord Edgar; and Mr Kneale Campbell filled the part of Bide-the-Bent with distinction.

COVENTRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr Wm. Bennett.—The Days of Cromwell is being presented at this place of amusement this week. The chief interest is centred round Ironhand, a soldier-servant to the House of Avondale, a part that is ably represented by Mr F. H. De Quincey. Ruby Avondale is taken in a charming manner by Miss Sime Seruya; as Oliver Cromwell Mr Francis C. Coates shows undoubted ability; and Miss Violet Howard makes a good Mistress Judith. The staging and effects are very good. On Friday night Richelieu was announced to be given.

CROYDON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr H. D. Lyle.—At War with Women occupies the boards here this week. Miss Lizzie Montague makes the most of her many opportunities for powerful acting in the rôle of Auriel Romanoff, and is ably seconded by Mr Clinton Baddeley in a thrilling impersonation of Antolski. Mr Edward Ouston does himself credit in the dual-rôle of Alex. Romanoff and Lieutenant Alexis; Mr Fred Vaughan, capitally made up, is a commanding General Malakoff; Mr Steer Flinders grasps the idea of the rôle of Ivan Clovitch; Miss Marion Warren is a charming Frida Malakoff; Miss Harriet Ellis Russell is well placed as Dame Miska; and the comic element is supplied by Mr Shaun Glenville as Jerry Blake, Mr Fred J. Lennox as Hans Phocas, and Miss Mabel Leigh as Katinka.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Resident General Manager, Mr Eustace H. Jay.—The amusements here are up to the usual high standard. Mabel Nelson, serio, comes in for a large measure of applause; De Vere and Kenwick bring down the house with their singing, dancing, talking, and trick violin playing; Charles Collette is an accomplished vocalist; the Three Laurels again delight patrons in their speciality, "The Ping-Pong Table;" Zeta Grey and company are heard to advantage in operatic scena, The Gipsy Girl; George Newburn, mimic, gives a most acceptable turn; and a good word is also due to the Brothers Ralston, duettists; George Bendon, white coon; the Sisters Terry (Bella and Minnie), duettists; Nelly Farrell, glittering star of Erin; and Arthur Rigby and company in the burlesque sketch, Mrs Miggs' Teapot.

DARLINGTON.

Royal.—Manageress, Mrs T. W. S. Jennings.—The Priest of the Temple is being played here by Mr Charles March's company. Mr Charles March, the author, makes a capital Valerius, and is nightly encored. The part of the chief priest is sustained with marked success by Mr Henry Moxon. Miss Marie North as Præstantia and Miss Evelyn Hope as Pollia give highly creditable impersonations.

DERBY.

New Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr T. Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr Charles Denley.—Mr Fred Karno's company is paying a return visit here this week with His Majesty's Guests. The part of Sergeant Lightning is in the capable hands of Mr Harry Roxbury, who acquits himself admirably all through; the Lord Easem of Mr Frank Morton is a creditable assumption, while Miss Newcombe makes an acceptable Maud Easem. Bunker, the flunkey, has a clever exponent in Mr V. Thomas; Mr E. De Vere as Mr Miffin and Miss Edith Ager as Dolly Miffin are equally successful; Mr Gus Le Clerc is commendable as Mr Minks, and Mr Harry Evans as Fritz is praiseworthy. The remaining characters are all in capable hands. The Grand Empire Quintet of part singers also contribute in no small way to the success of the piece.

Palace.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. Edwards.—Tom Davis's Trio head the bill here this week, and submit some extraordinary cycle-riding on a sloping track, but the chief feature of the performance is "Whirling the Whirl," which is the most sensational turn that has been presented before a local audience for some time. Mephisto, society contortionist, assisted by Mdlle. Marie, is exceptionally clever, and well worthy of special mention; Miss Fredrica's performing dogs and cake-walking pony reflect great credit on their trainer; Howard and Collinson are very diverting in their absurdity The Porter and the Parcel; George Antil is an amusing comedian; the Rameses submit a series of living statue pictures, which are warmly applauded; and Edie Endon is a praiseworthy comedienne and dancer. Walter Purvis, comedian and raconteur, is also included in the programme, but did not appear on Monday night owing to indisposition.

DEWSBURY.

Theatre Royal.—Resident-Manager, Mr J. Herbert Asquith.—Proof has been played here by Mr and Mrs W. Maclaren's capable company. Mr Maclaren gives a careful and energetic delineation of Pierre Lorance. Miss Lily C. Bandmann as Valentine reaches a high standard, and Miss Gertrude Evans makes a sympathetic Adrienne. As Chamboran Mr Ardene Linden supplies the necessary comedy touches, and Mr Richard Fulton performs Lazare with much power. Other artistes in the cast are Mr K. Pearse as D'Aubeterre, Mr W. Wareing as Victor, and Miss S. Hay as Madame Deprets.

Hippodrome and Varieties.—General Manager, Mr Geo. Weldon.—Engaged here are Baroni and Kemp, clever quick-change artistes; Lily Lonsdale, soprano; Howe and Ardle, comic gymnasts, who cause much amusement; Paddy, who still amuses with his versatile comedy; Kavados, an excellent juggler and cannon ball manipulator; and Nancy Lee, a dainty soubrette. The Vernon Bioscope has some good pictures.

DONCASTER.

New Grand Theatre and Opera House, Limited.—Managing-Director, Councillor J. W. Chapman.—Mr Henry Johnston's company opened here on Monday with The Bank of England. Mr George Henry is exceptionally smart and alert as Sherlock Holmes; Mr Edwin Walton as Sir Sidney Barraclough does well; and Mr Juan De Alberti as Stephen Hartley is effective. Mr F. Ernstone's representation of Godfrey Dane is a capable effort; Gordon Isaacs is depicted carefully by Mr Charles Ninian; Mr Charles Goff gives an admirable rendition of Tommy Sprouts; and Mr W. Woodhouse in the rôle of Jeames, a flunkey, is well placed. Miss Amy Ellam's Margaret Dane is successful, and Miss Dorothy Normandale makes a vivacious Lucy Lockett. Miss Ada Collins is charming as Sylvia Barraclough.

DOUGLAS.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr Alfred Hemming; Acting-Manager, Mr T. R. Wood.—The astute and enterprising managing-director of the Grand Theatre has this week given visitors and residents a surprise. The boards of his playhouse have been trodden for the first time by Mrs Patrick Campbell. She appeared on Monday evening as Paula in Mr Pinero's drama The Second Mrs Tanqueray. The house was filled with an intellectual and appreciative audience, and Mrs Campbell was received with immense enthusiasm. She was well supported by her company. Mr Dawson Milward played Aubrey Tanqueray with manly earnestness. Mr Granville Barker as Cayley Drummle displayed the aplomb which is associated with a level-headed man of the world. Mr Charles Bryant as Hugh Ardale was praiseworthy; Mr Caleb Porter as Gordon Jayne and Mr Percy Foster as Frank Misquith, Q.C., added much to the success of the first act; the Sir George Orreyed of Mr George Beale was well considered; Miss Lula Repton made Mrs Cortelyon quite possible; Miss Ada Webster was a winsome and unsophisticated Ellean; and Lady Orreyed was most cleverly portrayed by Miss Elizabeth Delaporte. The play was suitably mounted, and no production for many years has excited so much interest in Douglas.

Gaiety Theatre.—Proprietors, The Palace and Derby Castle, Limited; Secretary, and Manager, Mr Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Brittain.—In the production of Zaza at the Gaiety Theatre Mrs Lewis Waller creates from the adaptor's sketch a flesh-and-blood woman, and audiences have shown their appreciation of her fine effort. Her realisation of Zaza shows insight into character study, and a sincere desire to do that which her limitations allow. The Bernard Dufresne, as presented by Mr Eric Mayne, is a possible personage. This is a high compliment to the art of this actor. Miss Kate Kearney causes laughter by her picture of Rosa Bonne, Miss Minnie Rayner makes Zaza's maid an amusing personage, and Mr Edmund Lea is successful as Cascart. The piece is brilliantly staged, and the audiences have been large.

Palace, Limited.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Chas. Fox, jun.—The houses at this place of amusement have been quite phenomenal. In one evening 7,000 persons paid for admission. The programme which the management presents to its patrons is more than excellent. It displays the catholic desire to cater for all tastes, to consider diverse temperaments. The floor of the Great Hall, where dancing to the strains of Mr Harry Wood's band is nightly in full swing, is in perfect condition; and the variety performance which is presented in the Opera House and the Great Hall is an exceptionally interesting one. Mr R. A. Roberts is giving his clever "one-man show" Lucinda's Elopement and the dramatic sketch Dick Turpin. These are received with immense applause. Shang-Hai, the Chinese mystifier, still continues to puzzle the public and prevent any plausible explanation of his extraordinary performance. Mr Harry Weldon is entertaining; Miss Godwynne Earle sings and dances with spirit and skill; the Brothers Artois submit a triple horizontal bar act which is daringly clever and screamingly funny; and Mr Tom Edwards, on whom the mantle of Valentine Vox has appropriately fallen, does extremely well, his efforts receiving adequate recognition. In addition to these strong attractions, the Bio-Motograph reproduces the startling events of the passing moment; and every afternoon at 3 0 o'clock, weather permitting, Mr George Burton's Bohemian Serenaders present a most fascinating entertainment.

Derby Castle, Limited.—Manager, Mr Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr A. C. Kelly.—To Derby Castle does the tripper trip. He has a fixed idea of the calibre of the entertainment he requires. At the back of his head is a permanent notion that the powers who control this place provide it for him. And his idea from his point of view is quite correct. Miss Florrie Forde is there this week with her very latest vocal successes, including "Down at the Old Bull and Bush," "Always in the way," "Baa, Baa, Baa," and "What is the use of a man?" The Douglas visitor is not Meredithian; he has no pretence to culture; he desires broad comedy, and Miss Florrie Forde understands the mental evolutions of her constituents, and, understanding, secures from them enthusiastic applause. Alexandra and Bertie astonish and please all and sundry in a graceful aerial speciality "Après le Bal." Messrs Sandford and Lyons are quaint and resourceful comedians, and they can dance. The turn which also interests and amuses is that of Vasco, the mad musician. Miss Alexandra Edwin is a singer of drawing-room ballads and an excellent vocalist. The Matweef Hugostons, vocalists, dancers, and acrobats, and animated pictures are also attractions. To punctuate the obvious is usually futile, but it may be as well to note that those who dance are afforded every facility by the orchestra under the control of Mr A. J. Graham.

Hippodrome.—Directors, Mr C. H. Powell and F. J. Connor.—These clever and up-to-date showmen can have no cause to complain of the support extended to them in Manxland. They present a most pleasing and diversified performance. Every evening Messrs Eugene and Willie, acrobatic musicians, secure applause, and the cake-walking horse continues his successful career, cheered on by the plaudits of the multitude. Mdlle. Ernestine's living statuary gives an air of classic culture to a popular turn. Minnie and Harry, gymnasts, continue their popularity in a comic sketch. The Grovinis spring fresh acrobatic surprises on a pleased public. Leicester Cook shows how the old equestrian trick can be draped with the garment of inventiveness and appear new. The other turns include Marti and Julietta, sensational gymnasts; W. F. Cattle, ladderist; Ada Marjutti; and animated pictures—all excellent. The attendances at this place of amusement have been large.

The Empire Theatre with two houses each night continues its popular career. The principal artists are Sleath and Aldin in their new musical success Under the Shamrock; Katie Moore, a serio comedienne with catchy songs; Ediscope and Blake's Bioscope with the latest pictures; Miss Helena Stewart, a fascinating vocalist; Mr John Matthews in his dramatic songs; Mr Arthur Robertson, comedian; Capita, the up-to-date living marionettes, and the Musical Keiths.

DOVER.

Theatre Royal.—Mr Henry Hare's company in the musical farcical comedy The Girl from Chicago has proved a big success here. The title-rôle is admirably undertaken by Miss Lily Beverley, who is to be complimented on a vivacious portrayal. Mr Buckstone Clair evokes roars of laughter as Ananias Hussel, and Mr Edwin Dodds amusingly interprets the part of Billy M'Guffin. A prominent performance is that of Mr Henry Hare, who adds materially to the success as General Boomer. The dude has a capital exponent in Mr Douglas Vigors. Mr Clarence Ibbotson as Obadiah Caccles is original and effective, and Sam Slappit is well played by Mr James Quinn. Mrs Sweetlove finds a capable impersonator in Miss Lucy Beaumont; Miss Nellie Vicott is undoubtedly droll as Lucretia Flatfoot; and mention must be made of the many pretty musical numbers and dances introduced, the Daffodil speciality dancers in particular being responsible for several graceful and most acceptable items.

DUBLIN.

Gaiety Theatre.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Limited; General Manager, Mr C. Hyland.—A large and appreciative audience was present here on Monday to witness the production by Mr George Edwardes's company of The Cingalee, which met with an enthusiastic reception. Mr Frank Danby creates no end of laughter by his clever performance of Chambhuddy Ram; Miss Florence Smithson is most effective as Nanoya, her singing being much admired; Mr Harold Thorley gives a fine rendition of the part of Harry Vereker, and Miss Eva Sandford is most praiseworthy as Peggy Sabine. Mr Fred Kaye achieves success as Sir Peter Loftus; Miss May Gould makes an acceptable Signorina Tass; Mr Leedham Bantock submits a good conception of the part of Boobhama; and as Lady Patricia Vane Miss Lydia Nervil is all that can be desired. The scenery and dresses are magnificent, and the chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr Harold Vickers, are most efficient.

Theatre Royal.—Managing Director, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr Arthur Armstrong.—Mr Mouillot's company is paying a return visit here with My Lady Molly. The rôle of Mickey O'Dowd is most amusingly played by Mr J. T. M'Callum; Miss Beatrice Edwards gives a charming impersonation of Lady Molly; Captain Harry Romney is excellently presented by Mr Harry T. Davies; and Mr Ernest Mozar makes a capital Lionel Bland. As Sir Miles Coverdale Mr Augustus Cramer is admirable; Miss Decima Moore in the rôle of Alice Coverdale is particularly good; and Miss Kitty Upton does well as Hester.

Queen's Royal Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. W. Whitbread; General Manager, Mr Kennedy Miller.—Arrah-na-Pogue is being played here this week by Mr Kennedy Miller's company, and drawing good houses. Mr James O'Brien is as humorous as ever in the part of Shaun-the-Post; Mr Dane Clarke genially sustains the rôle of Colonel O'Grady; Mr Ion Ireland plays the part of Michael Feeney in an able manner; and Miss Monica Kelly is creditable as Arrah. Beamish M'Coul is capitally presented by Mr Fred Lloyd; Miss Ada Arnott is successful as Kitty Walsh; Mr Albert Sinclair makes a capable Major Coffin; and the rôle of the Sergeant has a good exponent in Mr Harry Richardson. Miss Annie Hylton is most effective as Fanny Power, and W. J. Byrne as Oiny Farrell. Mr F. Newland as Secretary of State and Mr James Daly as Mr Winterbottom sustain their respective parts admirably. The farce A Prince for a Day precedes.

Empire.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. S. Figgis.—The programme presented here this week for the patrons of this establishment is an excellent one. Foremost amongst the attractions is Alexandra Dagmar, who meets with a hearty reception. Cullen and Carthy, comedians and vocalists, assisted by Cluly, miniature comedian, are highly amusing, and Marie Reeve is a pleasing comedienne and dancer. The efforts of Edwin Boyde, eccentric comedian, are well rewarded, and Howard and St. Clair are clever comedy artists. Mr and Mrs Prosper Benn in their musical speciality act meet with approval; Lilian Bishop, male impersonator, renders her songs with good effect; Bard and O'Brien in their comedy wire act meet with success; and Dan Crawley, who remains from last week, is going as strong as ever. The Empire pictures showing recent events are much appreciated.

Tivoli.—General Manager, Mr Chas. M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—Here we have an old Dublin favourite in the person of Miss Lydia Yeamans, whose charming vocalism meets with unstinted applause. Another exceedingly good turn is Kioto, Japanese equilibrist, and Flo Chevalier is a chic comedienne. George French is an energetic comedian, and the Three Sisters Leigh are a refined and interesting turn. The Padleys, smart comedy acrobats; Post Mason, baritone vocalist; Gus Harris, Hebrew delineator; Onda and Artell, gymnasts; and the Bioscope with some capital pictures are also among the attractions.

Hippodrome (Rotunda Grounds).—The undernoted artistes are in the programme at the above establishment, which opened on Monday last:—Mons. Alvantee, king of the slanting wire; Cyrus and Maude, comic sketch artistes; Lynton, tight wire; Clown Valdo; Ella Zuila, high rope; Bill Bailey, juggling clown; Charlie Jones, cyclist; the Escaladors, in a ladder act; Clown Cyrus and donkey, Black Bess; and the Imperial Bioscope. As no names appear on bills or programmes, we are unable to say who is proprietor or manager.

World's Fair and Music Hall.—Proprietor, Mr C. A. James.—The company engaged here includes:—Van Gelder, conjuror; Lizzie Hayden, male impersonator; Tom Kelly, comedian; Marion Nicholls, vocalist; Tony Merrit, actor-vocalist; Castell and Leslie, sketch artistes; and Marcella, midget queen.

DUDLEY.

Opera House.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr J. W. Tilley.—Mr E. Hill-Mitchelson's celebrated drama Rogues and Vagabonds is being presented here by Mr Harry Esden's company. The principal characters, which are all in very good hands, are Harry Stanford, Mr John C. Carlyle; Fernand Delair, Mr Ellerslie Pyne; Nathan Baxter, Mr John Cullen; John Lamb, Mr Edward Swinton; Ben (a waif), Miss Marjory Armstrong; Hilda Jeffries, Miss Lizzie Webb; and Vera Laverne, Miss Billie Doyle.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr Tom Prichard; Acting-Manager, Mr Robt. A. Brown.—Mr Prichard continues to supply his patrons with "the very best." Included in the bill this week are Daisy James, the "frivolity star," who takes the house by storm; Permane's Siberian bears; Frank Coyle, comedian, an old favourite; Pueblo Brothers, sand dancers; Johnny Driscoll, comedian; Flo Banks, burlesque artiste; Violet Wilton, comedienne; and Harry Wenburn, character comedian. The Empire Bioscope still proves a big attraction.

DUNDEE.

Her Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; General Manager, Mr Eade Montefiore.—The Private Secretary is being presented here this week by Mr Eugene C. Stafford's company. Mr Donald Price Evans as the Rev. Robert Spalding gives a capital representation, and Mr Raymond Chester makes a good Mr Marsland. Mr Vivian Gilbert does well as Harry Marsland; Mr Fred Inwood is effective as Douglas Cattermole; Mr W. Hargreaves is amusing as the Indian uncle; and Miss Dora Grey and Miss Mary E. Deverell are seen to advantage. Good for Nothing precedes the principal play. Miss Grey shows to much advantage as Nan.

Gaiety Theatre.—My Sweetheart is the attraction here this week. The Tony of Mr Wilfrid G. Brandon is a very enjoyable performance; and Miss Celestine Brandon as Tina is most interesting. Mr George Ogden gives a capital study of Dudley Harcourt.

Empire Theatre.—Proprietors, the Dundee Empire Company, Limited.—The New Muldoon's Picnic is being given here by Mr John Cassidy's company. Mr Edwin Firth and Mr W. G. Wesley are deserving of special mention; and Mr R. Kloff gives a musical interlude which is greatly enjoyed.

People's Palace.—Manager, Mr Will Parker.—Mr Horace Wheatley, Irish comedian, on his first visit here, has met with unbounded success. A very laughable sketch, entitled A Quiet Night, is produced by W. Onda and company. Miss Lillie Sharplin gives a good display of mimicry; the Paragon Trio of vocalists are well received; and the company also includes the M'Kinnon Family, Lue Lord, the Bros. Onda, the Sisters Charnley, and Will Candlish, Negro comedian.

EASTBOURNE.

Devonshire-park Theatre.—Managing Director, Mr A. Standen Triggs.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company is appearing here in Saturday to Monday. The cast has been admirably selected, and the production generally is very complete and successful. The natural and polished work of Mr Stuart Champion and his distinct individuality make him an eminently satisfactory Lord Culvert. Mr Dallas Melford finds good scope for his special abilities as a comedian, and is a most amusing Stanley Pidding. Mr Thomas A. Braidon is an earnest and energetic Probyn Dyke, and Mr Thomas Sydney is a particularly appropriate Lemuel Toop. Miss Moyra Creegan has a charming and refined manner, and as Mrs Wendover she contributes a fine performance. Miss Nancy Beresford is a bright, attractive Angela, Miss Madeline L'Estrange is an effective Lady Diana, and the eccentricities of Miss Toop and Miss Skeet are capitally depicted by Miss Josephine Raye and Miss Ida Laurie. Miss Olive Loftus Leyton is a pretty, bright Tompson, and Mr A. Davenport as Jarvis completes the cast. Judged by Appearances is the curtain raiser.

Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr George Hayes.—There is a second week of variety entertainment here. Charlene and Charlene do an excellent turn in which the gentleman proves himself a smart juggler, and the lady plays the xylophone very skilfully. Mr R. H. Douglas contributes clever monologues, and is extremely popular; the Five Sisters Warwick are graceful cyclists and tumblers; Helene and Emillon are expert gymnasts, and do a novel turn; the Jackson Family appear in a pleasing musical act; Drew and Alders are a pair of comedians who combine fun, dancing, and acrobatism; Miss Clarice Netta sings ballads sweetly; Lee and Kingston appear in a sketch which evokes much laughter; Miss Dulcie Relgate is a pleasing singer and dancer; and Mahatma remains from last week. Exhibitions of Cinématographic pictures are given here on three mornings of the week.

Devonshire Park.—Managing-Director, Mr A. Standen Triggs.—Under the conductorship of Mr Norfolk Megone, the Grand Orchestra is again here for the high season. On Saturday evening last a concert was given in the grounds. Miss Maud Stanley as a vocalist was enthusiastically received, and Mr Nelson Jackson, a capital humourist, amused his audience greatly.

EBBW VALE.

King's.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. S. King.—Messrs Alf. Paumier and Walter Howard's company is here in Under the Russian Flag, and draws large audiences. Messrs Charles Rayne, George Arthur, F. W. Freeman, Walter Howard, and Alfred Bennett are particularly good in their respective parts. Miss Ellen Snow as Luke Marischka, Miss Agnes Howard (Ogarita), and Miss Ada Champion (Vera Vassiloff) are frequently applauded for their realistic impersonations. The staging and general effects are excellent.

ECCLES.

Lyceum Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Hague; Acting-Manager and Treasurer, Mr P. Ryan-Smith.—Miss Olga Audre's company is here this week in The Mockery of Marriage. Messrs Arthur Winpenny and Harry Stebbing are good in their respective parts of villain and hero, and the comedy element is in the capable hands of Mrs Sydney Halling and Mr Will Skelton. The Four Aces are included in the cast and perform sensational acrobatic feats. Misses Florence Zillwood and Lydia Audrey should also be mentioned.

EDINBURGH.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Hollister.—The attraction here this week has been Mr George Edwardes's company in The Toreador. By his amusing representation of Pettifer Mr W. H. Powell showed himself to be an actor of infinite resourse and versatility, and his dancing, singing, and character impersonations were worthy of high praise; Mr T. W. Volt took full advantage of his opportunities as Sir Archibald Slaskett, singing with effect and dancing with agility; the part of Sammy Gigg was in the efficient hands of Mr Lionel Victor, whose exceedingly droll acting caused great hilarity; Mr Fred Allandale made a debonair Augustus Trailli, and Mr John Donald was in every way excellent as Carajola his artistic singing being much enjoyed. Mr Fred Fowler appeared with comic effect as the Governor of Villaya, and Messrs E. Nainby and A. W. Ashdowne were excellent as Rinaldo and Moreno. Miss Daisie Wallace sang and acted charmingly as Dora Selby, and Miss Nancy Langtyre was a graceful and talented Nancy Staunton, her refined vocalisation being warmly applauded. Miss Alice Oppitz was unfortunately suffering from loss of voice, but the rôle of Donna Teresa was undertaken with remarkable success by Miss Cissie Bevington, and Miss Daisy Stratton made a brightly vivacious Susan. The audiences took a keen interest in the sprightly acting of Miss Nellie Bouverie who made a brilliant Mrs Malton Hoppings, and some graceful dancing was introduced by Miss Bessie Maddox as la belle Bolero. The beautifully dressed chorus sang with spirit and effect, and scenery and mounting were capital. Mr Edwin Thornton conducted.

Lyceum Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; General-Manager, Mr G. T. Minshull.—Florodora was presented here on Monday by Mr Tom B. Davis's company. Mr Edward Lewis as Anthony Tweedlepunch was the very essence of fun. He worked with a will and evoked hearty and spontaneous laughter. Mr Leonard Russell as Frank Abercoed was extremely effective. As Cyrus W. Gilfain Mr Fred Wynn was dryly humorous, and Mr J. Paul Callan employed abundance of life and action as Captain Arthur Donegal. As Dolores Miss Lina Maitland was picturesque and dramatic, her singing being most agreeable. Miss Isabelle Dillon as Lady Holyrood acted with daintiness and grace, and Miss Hilda Dugdale's Angela Gilfain was neat and sweet. The beauties of the orchestral score were fully brought out by the augmented band, under the able direction of Mr Ashley Richards.

Empire Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss.—Miss Harriet Vernon has had a hearty reception here, being very warmly appreciated. Her handsome costumes were much admired. Drummed Out showed Mr A. C. Lilly and company to advantage; and those popular gymnastic knockabouts, Rezene and Robini, repeated their screamingly funny performance. Silent Tait secured attention as an eccentric wizard, and Mr Garrick imitated various comic singers in a highly amusing manner. An attractive item was supplied by the Kaufmanns, eight in number, who maintained their reputation as lady trick cyclists. The Stella Troupe of vocalists and dancers also gave a first-class entertainment. The Trentanovi Sisters, in their gymnastic performance, remain from last week, Frank Lynne and C. F. Best comp'eting the company.

Pavilion Theatre.—Manager, Mr Tom Ellis.—Saved from the Sea has occupied the boards here. There was an excellent audience on Monday, and the acting of Mr Leslie Vyner's company was first-rate, applause being frequent and hearty. Mr Leonard Robson gave a good account of the fisherman-hero Dan Ellington, and Mr William Attfield played effectively as the villainous Richard Fenton. Mr Sydney C. Kearns was eminently successful as Peter Scaicher, and Mr Harry M. Vernon caused exuberant merriment in the diverting rôle of Billy Snooks. Miss F. Russell Spiers acquitted herself ably as Nancy Ellington, and Miss Dora Condor was a delightfully vivacious Polly Blake, the comedy scenes being most enjoyable.

EXETER.

Theatre Royal.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Fred Pollard; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy M. Dunsford.—The New Commander is being produced here this week by Miss Grace Warner and company. Miss Warner acquits herself with distinction as Violet Flintheart, her efforts being admirably backed up by Mr George Gordon as Lieut. Harding. Jack Tremmingway finds an able representative in Mr B. Couch-Johns; Mr J. P. Marsden does well as Matthew Flintheart; and Mr St. Bernard Wyntour is an amusing Sultan. Mr M. Anderson is extremely droll as Tittums; a charming and vivacious Vivette is found in Miss May Dallas; and Miss Maud Warburton is quite successful as Freddie Bunce. The scenery and dresses are extremely effective, and a notable feature of the programme is the smart dances contributed by the Primrose Quartet.

FALKIRK.

Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace W. Ebbutt.—This week the bill is filled by Mr Edmund Tearle. On Monday evening the week's engagement opened with a very fine presentation of the dramatised version of Dumas's celebrated story of "The Three Musketeers," in which the chief part of the daring and adventurous D'Artagnan was taken by Mr Tearle, whose gifts were displayed to much advantage. As Miladi, Richelieu's spy, Miss Kate Clinton (Mrs Tearle) acted with great power. The other members of the company acquitted themselves creditably. The abandon and daring of the three musketeers were exceedingly well reflected in the acting of Messrs Richard Melton, Neal Fitzwilliam, and Vernon O. Crabtree. The piece was repeated on Wednesday evening. On Tuesday the well-known Scottish drama of Jeanie Deans was given before a crowded house, and in the title-rôle Mrs Tearle impressed the audience with her extraordinary skill; while the elocutionary powers of Mr Tearle as Counsel for the Defence was such as to create enthusiastic applause. The other parts were well filled. The other pieces making up the bill were Virginius and Julius Cæsar.

FARNWORTH.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell.—To a crowded house Mr Ian Maclaren and company opened here on Monday with A Fatal Crown. Mr Ian Maclaren evoked applause by his study of Lord Guilford Dudley; Mr Leonard R. Montgomery was effective as Herne; Mr Henry Howard and Mr M. Rome did exceedingly well as Simon Reynard and the Earl of Northumberland respectively; and Mr Willie Atom as Zit, the dwarf, caused much laughter. Miss Margaret Savill was warmly appreciated for her clever portraiture of Lady Jane Grey.

FOLKESTONE.

Pleasure Gardens Theatre.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland.—Mr George Dance's company in The School Girl is drawing large houses here this week. Miss Ethel Beech in the title-rôle sings and dances charmingly; Miss Gracie Sinclair as Cicely Marchmont leaves nothing to be desired; Miss Molly Walbran is clever as Mamie Rockfeller; Miss Grace Wixon gives a good portrayal of Mrs Marchmont; Mr Leslie Holland as Sir Ormesby St. Leger is most amusing, his songs being much applauded; Mr Alfred Leslie and Mr Charles Adeson, in their respective parts of Tubby Bedford and General Marchmont, cause much laughter; Mr Lister Morrah as Edgar Verney is the possessor of a good voice; and minor rôles are smartly played.

Victoria Pier.—Lessees, Messrs Keith Prowse and Co., Limited; General Manager, Mr H. De Manche.—A specially good programme is submitted here this week. Miss Nellie Ganthony, entertainer, deserves special praise; Miss Eleanor Felix, dramatic soprano, and Mr Edgar Coyle, baritone, are well received; Mr Willis Crisford gives some clever sketches; and Mr Charles Conyers, humourist, is excellent.

Leas Pavilion.—Manager, Mr A. Sitter.—Miss Winifred Saunders, soprano, is the vocalist here this week. Mr Fred Daniels, comedian, is very popular. The Ladies' Blue Salon Band renders an excellent programme of music, and the animated pictures conclude the entertainment.

Town Hall.—Lessee, Mr E. J. Chadwick.—Messrs Maskelyne and Cooke's company is here this week. Mr David Devant is as great a favourite as ever. The mystical sketch, Will, the Witch, and the Watchman, wins great applause.

GATESHEAD.

Metropole Theatre, Limited.—General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Straughan.—The conversion of this theatre into a variety hall of the two houses nightly system has already proved a wise policy, for the house has been crowded at every performance. The Barra Troupe of musical experts have been applauded; and Radford and Valentine, eccentric juggiers, have created great laughter. Joe Humphreys, character vocalist, proves a big attraction; and Texas Hattie gives an exceptionally clever display on the tight-rope. A wireless telegraphy demonstration by the Marconis creates much interest; and good turns are given by Carlile and Walker, the Danbys, Fred Clarke's Nippers, and the Sisters Llewellyn.

GLASGOW.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Humphrys.—Messrs G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company is here with The Silver King. Mr Lauderdale Maitland as Wilfred Denver, Miss Lillian Bethell as Nellie Denver, and Mr Edward J. George as Jaikes all contribute to an excellent performance, and are repeatedly recalled. Miss Violet St. Clair as Cissy is charming, and Mr Jack Evan is excellent as Ned. As the Spider and Henry Corket Mr W. V. Garrod and Mr Philip Renouf win warm favour. Mr John Hood plays Geoffrey Ware in fitting style, and as Samuel Baxter Mr Byron Pedley is admirable. Mr Phil Redmayne as Frank Selwyn, Mr William Thompson as Tubbs, and Messrs F. Norton and A. Emeny as Bilcher and Teddy are good in their respective rôles. Much humour is displayed by Mr Eric Store, Mr A. Bingham, and Mr S. Hathway in minor parts, and much merriment is created by Mr W. Linton as a tipsy traveller. The Mrs Gammage of Miss S. Wenden and the Susie of Miss Bessie Wright are noticeable performances. The drama is capitally mounted.

Royalty Theatre, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Hugh Macfarlane.—Mr W. S. Gilbert's quaint domestic pantomime The Fairy's Dilemma was given here on Monday for the first time out of London, and as presented by Messrs Silvanus Dauncey and M. V. Leveaux's company had a hearty and appreciative reception. Mr Charles V. France is well suited as Sir Trevor, and either as the military swell or as the unfortunate "clown" his acting brings out the topsy-turvy humour of the part with excellent effect. Equally happy is the Rev. Aloysius Parfitt of Mr Frank Stanmore, and the odd figure he makes as a harlequin is provocative of hearty laughter. Miss Ada Homer as the Lady Angela and Miss Gertrude Hope as Clarissa give clever renderings of those parts. Miss Elsie Cooke speaks her lines with fine effect, and dances well as the Fairy Rosebud. A demon of oddly contrasted moods is the Alcohol of Mr C. Herbert Hewetson. Mr Frank Collins hits off the peevish vanity and judicial humour of Mr Justice Whortle equally well. Miss Frances Wood is duly solemn as the Vicar's housekeeper, Mrs Crumble. An attractive chorus and ballet give animation to the pantomimic scenes. As a first piece, The Conversion of Nat Sturge is given, and in this Mr Charles V. France as the Bishop, Mr Frank Collins as the Burglar, and Miss Eva Turnour as Julia are all extremely good.

Royal Princess's.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr Hugh Murdoch.—Mr. W. H. Hallatt and his company are drawing crowded houses here with Two Little Sailor Boys. As Commander Noel Tregarthen, Mr Hallatt's acting is vigorous and polished throughout, and Miss Marie Daventry is a graceful representative of Mildred Grey. Miss Blanche Steele is cast for the part of Lady Grey, and plays it with conspicuous success, Mr Leonard Booker's Lieut. Redstone being a study of considerable force. The appearance and manner of Mr Oscar Power are admirably suited to the embodiment of Jack Jolly; Cyril Grey and Tom Yorke are portrayed with much intelligence by Miss May Day and Miss Ethel Frances; Mr George Cecil Murray is excellent as Admiral Grey; and the Captain Yorke of Mr Edward Warden is good; other praiseworthy performances being the Baxter of Mr Sid Cotterell and the Royston of Mr Ambrose Horton. Miss D. Lennox is particularly smart as Mary Primrose, and Lucy Wilson is well represented by Miss Hilda Taylor.

Grand, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr A. Mascard.—Mr and Mrs Chalmers Mackey and their company are here in The Shaughraun. Mr Mackey as Conn is the life of the performance, and is seen to much advantage. The other characters are all well filled, notably that of Captain Molyneux by Mr Reginald Garland, and praise is due to Mr Henry Danson, Miss Bessie Carlisle, and Mrs Chalmers Mackey for the ability they display in their respective rôles. Miss Kathleen Russell is an attractive Moya. The scenery and effects are excellent.

Metropole, Limited.—Managing Director, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr John Dunbar.—Here this week are Mr Frank Stephens and his company in Because I Love You. Mr Frank Stephens gives a good account of himself in the rôle of Nemo. Miss Madge North acts with much earnestness, and ably portrays Norina Chandos, and Mr Richard A. Greene displays ability as Captain Stirling. Miss Florence Trevoir successfully sustains the part of Lady Ursula. Mr Walter Raynham supplies a powerful study of Christopher Chandos, and Mr Alfred Sefton does good work as Professor Predate. Miss Agnes Stinton acquits herself well as Mrs Puplett, and Mr Guy Ramsden as Eddie Puplett is commendable. The humorous element is well provided by Miss Minnie Leslie as Cleopatra Cotton, and Mr Herbert Boyle makes good use of his opportunities as Nebuchadnezzar Moke.

Lyceum.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. H. Oakden.—Mr William Bourne's company is here with When Darkness Falls, in which Mr Charles Boult gives an excellent rendering of Capt. Harold Montrevor. Mr Ellis J. Preston supplies a strong impersonation of James Woodruffe, and Miss Amy Vennimore is impressive as Mrs Woodruffe. Miss Maud Buchanan as Helen Montrevor presents an extremely touching picture. Miss Lydia Hart and Miss Alys Eden are charming as two street waifs. Fun is contributed by Miss Emmeline Glover as Jenny and Mr Will Clement as Mike Kavanagh. Mr. F Liston as the Rev. Arthur Graham acts with quiet dignity. Mr Dan Osborne as a Police Inspector, Mr Henry Heyes as a Pawnbroker, and Mr Tom Roydan as a Spy complete a strong cast.

Empire, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Aldin; Assistant Manager, Mr G. Anthony.—Chung Ling Soo is mystifying the audiences here more than ever. The Pantzer Brothers do a marvellous balancing turn. George Formby is a ripe humourist, and a big favourite. Phillips and Terry's sketch, The Revolt of Man, is intensely funny. Very smart are Edwin Brett and Emmeline Orford, who are always popular in Glasgow. Albert Christian and Katie Cohen again provide first class vocal items. Josh Dixon's funniments and neat dancing take well. Rafayette's dogs are well trained. Lalla Selbini does a skilful cycling turn, and Dot Hardy and James Grant contribute good items.

Tivoli, Limited.—Managing Director, Mr Barney Armstrong; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred C. Ewing.—Miss Belle Davis and her "Pic-Chicks" head the bill here and do an exceptionally clever turn. Mr Jack Lorimer, versatile comedian, remains a great favourite, his Scotch character songs going well. The weight-lifting feats of Willie Turnbull are admired, and he also introduces a physical culture exhibition. The Sisters Aindow contribute a musical speciality show which is well received. Others in the company are Rose and Calvert, comedy artistes; Edgar Budden, bone soloist and roller skater; Essman, juggler; and the Ashers, comedy artistes. Prince Bendon's Bioscope is interesting.

PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs Rich. Waldon and Thos. Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr David Douglas.—Hardeen's clever handcuff business is exciting wonder here. J. G. Grahame, jun., and Zerlina Harrington make a decided hit in A Daughter of Pleasure. Rosina Casselli's pretty Mexican dogs are wonderfully well trained. Bertha Winder, clog and big boot dancer, is a marvel. Rudolf's elephants, dogs, and pony are highly popular. The Kimberley Boys are amusing comedians and smart dancers, and the Three Rickards do a neat and daring acrobatic turn. Nelson Hardy, ventriloquist; Alfred Hardy, tenor; and the animated pictures complete a good company.

QUEEN'S, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr T. J. Colquhoun; Acting-Manager, Mr B. M. Armstrong, jun.—This week the company here includes Bennett and Martell, in a quaint and mirthful comedy turn, which is well received. The Princess Quartet repeat their success of last week. Fred Dunstone is a good vocal comedian, who takes well. Mezetti and Mora are favourites; their horizontal bar performance has some clever features. Miss Esmé Gordon is a pleasing comedienne and a neat dancer. Prince Bendon's Bioscope interests and amuses. Mr Harry Clifford is a popular comedian, and Miss Beattie Rennie is a pleasing comedienne. In lieu of Mr Harry Tate's Motoring sketch, omitted through an accident, the Wheelers give an entertaining cycle performance.

GLOUCESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr W. H. Weller.—Messrs Hollister and Dew's company is playing the celebrated drama, The Lights of London, here this week. Mr Cecil G. Calvert gives a clever rendition of Harold Armytage; Mr Herbert Hollister is equally successful as Clifford Armytage; and Miss Jeanne Burgoyne is warmly received for her sympathetic interpretation of Bess. As Jarvis Mr Percy Compton is excellent; the warm-hearted Mrs Jarvis has a commendable representative in Miss Emilie Dawson; Miss Gladys Murray is a lively Shakespeare Jarvis; Mr F. V. Lloyd is an able exponent of Squire Armytage; and Philosopher Jack is played in a diverting manner by Mr Ernest K. Nelson. Mr Benson Cleve is good as Seth Preene and Mr Skeffington is prominent in the hands of Mr H. W. Forster. Mr Harold Wallace makes a capital Marks, and this remark also applies to Mr Reginald Gear as Percy De Vere. Miss Kate Randolph deserves praise for her study of Hetty Preene; Little Ida Murray is noticeable as Joey; and the various minor characters are safely placed.

GOOLE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John E. Tomlinson.—Miss Ellen Cranston and company commenced a six nights' engagement here on Monday with Who is the Woman? Miss Ellen Cranston scored another success for a powerful representation of Zelie De La Sparre; Mr Gerald Byrne was a good exponent of Juan La Casales; Mr George Harvey was seen to advantage in the dual-rôle of Captain Julian De La Sparre and Lieut. Julian; Mr Clarence Burnette won enthusiastic applause as Corporal John; Mr Frank Brunell was an amusing Pollput Jollyboy; Mr H. R Lynn a clever Duc De Cluny; Miss N. Burnette a pleasing Julie; and Miss Eleanor Glover a winsome Margot.

GRAVESEND.

GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Captain H. E. Davis; General Manager, Mr David Hart.—At the top of this week's bill here are Ara, Zebra, and Vora, in "Indian Pastimes," which is well received. Mdlle. Rozo's wonderful dog circus and hippodrome is admired, and there are also engaged Nellie Adams, bright comedienne; Dan Kirton, dancer; Agnes and Arthur Lynch, with American songs; Harry Lawson, a droll and eccentric comedian; Kittie Bell, speciality dancer; and Will Pinchin, a good comedian.

GREAT GRIMSBY.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE. — After an absence of twelve years the Turner opera company has this week revisited this theatre, opening on Monday with the ever-popular Maritana. Mr J. W. Turner, who appeared as Don Cæsar, frequently aroused the large audience to enthusiasm; Miss Ethel Locker sang very sweetly as Maritana, and Miss Jessie Denniss was heard to advantage as Lazarillo. Mr Tom Griffiths did ample justice to the beautiful ballads allotted to Don Jose, and Mr Sydney Clifford accomplished admirable work as the King of Spain. The choral and orchestral portions were also excellently performed. On Tuesday The Lily of Killarney was given, and the remaining operas presented during the week have been Faust, Fra Diavolo, The Puritan's Daughter, and The Bohemian Girl.

HIPPODROME. — Miss Billie Barlow, burlesque actress, has made her first appearance in Grimsby this week at the Hippodrome. Her songs have proved decidedly popular, whilst her smart patter has greatly amused the audiences. Arthur Albert, actor-vocalist, has also won considerable applause for his descriptive songs. The Jansons introduce a novel gymnastic act, the lady artist holding by her teeth a wire upon which her partner performs various feats. Johnny Holland and company have presented a laughable farcical sketch, The Looking Glass, whilst another turn productive of much humour is that given by Johnson and Bert. Other artistes are Geo. Montague, comedian and dancer, and Bertha Norwood, comedienne and dancer. The programme is completed by a series of up-to-date animated pictures.

EMPIRE, CLEETHORPES.—There have been large audiences at the Cleethorpes house this week to witness the exhibition of the English and French styles of boxing as presented by Mr Joe Barrett and Louis Anastasie respectively. Miss Victoria Milbank, a soprano vocalist of considerable ability, has greatly delighted the audiences. Another pleasing musical turn is that given by the De Robertis, Italian operatic duettists. Other artists who have appeared are Grace Compton, vocalist; Bert Lytton, comedian; Florence Yaymen, comedienne; Selby and Myers, comedians and dancers; and the Black Apollo, in a musical act.

GREAT YARMOUTH.

ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor, Mr J. W. Nightingale; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Scott Phipp.—A welcome return visit is being paid here by Mr George Edwardes's company with San Toy. In the title-rôle Miss Fanny Dango is excellent, acting delightfully and singing charmingly; Captain Bobby Preston is capitally played by Mr Reginald Kenneth; Mr John Humphries is unctuous and amusing as Yen How; Sir Bingo Preston finds a peppery representative in Mr Statton Mills; Sing Hi is admirably portrayed by Mr Jocelyn Hope; Mr Colin Coop is a humorous Emperor; Lieut. Tucker is well enacted by Mr Arthur Soames; Mr E. Statham Staples provokes roars of laughter as Li; Miss May Francis sings and acts effectively as Poppy; Miss Maud Darling is a vivacious Dudley; Miss Alice Lethbridge dances gracefully; Miss Lillian Bell as Yun Shi is very successful; Chu San is cleverly represented by Miss Louie Collier.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. W. Nightingale.—Mr Henry Arthur Jones's successful comedy, Joseph Entangled, played by Mr Sylvanus Dauncey and Mr H. V. Leveaux's company, is delighting large houses this week. Lady Verona Mayne is played cleverly and tastefully by Miss Mona K. Oram; Mr H. B. Warner gives a finished rendition of the rôle of Sir Joseph Lacey; Mr Stanley W. Ashworth gives a powerful performance as Hardolph Mayne; Mr Horace Lane is admirable as the imbecile Harry Tavender; Mr Arthur Bell is good as Gerald Fanmere; Mr Lawrence Grant's clear enunciation and cool imperturbability are most effective as Jermyn Pyecroft; Mr Cecil Brooking submits a clever character study as Professor Tofield; Mr Everard Digby is excellent as Knapton; Miss Rosamund Bury as Lady Joyce Fanmere, Miss Shelly Calton as Mrs Harry Tavender, and Miss Claire Cavendish as Mrs Knapman render admirable service.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr George Gilbert.—The stars for the week are Caban, with his wonderfully trained lilliputian ponies, and Vermette and Diene, in a marvellously clever triple bar act. Other artists appearing are Miss Rubini, on the tight wire; Sisters Warner, speciality dancers; Baby Culeen, the child rider; Talberto and Douglas, in a comic entrée; Michel and Volo, equilibrists; Dubois, the man monkey; and the Yoricks, in funny nick-nacks. The hunting spectacle "Tally Ho!" continues to win loud applause, and fresh pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

BRITANNIA PIER PAVILION.—Managing-Director, Mr J. W. Nightingale; Acting-Manager, Mr Edward Gray.—The favourite comedian Charles Coborn is nightly received with enthusiastic applause; Freda Spry and B. S. Monti entertain with their wit and humour; Fred Neiman gives an excellent ventriloquial turn; the Three Delaires contribute a clever trapeze act; Miss Ella Dean sings charmingly; Miss Maud Marlow pleases as a burlesque artiste; the Great Little Uno gains favour as a comedian; and Madame Angless' Ladies' Pompadour Band wins high favour.

WELLINGTON PIER PAVILION.—Proprietors, Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr Harry Tunbridge.—A capital programme is provided this week. Walton and Lester give a clever turn as wizards; Francisco proves himself a first-rate juggler and equilibrist; James Fawn amuses with his songs and patter; Professor Buer introduces his educated Arabian donkey; George Rapley gives a humorous turn; Herbert Le Martine excels as a bâton-swinger and dancer; Florence Somers sings and dances well; May Moodie plays piccolo solos with ability; the Five Bon-Bons win loud applause and laughter in their speciality act, "A Hot Time for One."

GUERNSEY.

ST. JULIAN'S HALL.—Lessee, Mr C. Robert Perkins.—Delighted audiences have welcomed Mr Q. Ashlyn and the Puritan Maidens here. These clever artists give a charming entertainment, and are repeatedly encored.

CANDIE GROUNDS.—Secretary, Mr W. Austin.—This week Ye Merrie Peasants are here, doing good business nightly.

INTERNATIONAL CIRCUS.—Director, Mr T. Sloan.—This popular place of amusement still remains open, and is crowded nightly. The Sloans add to their laurels by new and sensational trick riding. On Tuesday there was a grand gala performance, under distinguished patronage, the net proceeds of which Mr Sloan handed to the Victoria Hospital.

HALIFAX.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—A laughable musical sketch entitled The Little Charwoman is very well done, and Miss Nannie Goldman is conspicuously successful in it. The Geretti Sisters are graceful, daring, and clever trapezists; Baker and Balfe are exceptionally accomplished xylophone players; Frank Leon, clog dancer, is one of the best in his line; Solo and Mayo are a couple of clever dancers; Lizzie Kirke is a good comedienne and dancer; Tom Yorke a taking and entertaining comedian; and Fred Ginnett's company is paying a return visit with their laughable equine sketch.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Steuart Cecil.—The Adonis Trio, in a farcical comedy musical sketch, give an entertainment here which affords great enjoyment. Gwennie Hasto excels as a dancer; Frank Coyne sings his comical ditties with spirit; O'Neil and Torp in a comedy juggling and acrobatic mélange are very amusing; Mdlle Flora Lumiere does some dances with beautiful coloured light effects; Barney Stuart gives some capital impersonations; the Picques do an acrobatic turn which meets with the decided approval of the audience; and Fred Herbert sings topical songs with heartiness and force.

HANLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Elphinstone.—Mr C. Watson Mills's company opened here on Monday in A Wrecker of Men. The piece abounds in sensationalism, and is well received. Risca Mallinson as the wrecker finds a praiseworthy exponent in Miss Rosalind Tate; Mr Mill is a powerful and effective Jim Murley, his impersonation being excellent; Mr Chas. Yorke as Pharosaphus is most successful, Mr J. W. Ryder as Isaacs is well placed, Vavasole in the hands of Miss Kitty Melville is a vivacious lady, Miss Muriel Dean as Doris Melville plays with much skill and grace, Mr S. Fiennes does well as Ralton, and Guise Strange finds a good representative in Mr A. Maurice.

GRAND, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Elphinstone.—A fine programme is submitted here this week, the premier position being held by Melot Hermann in his truly wonderful conjuring entertainment which delights his audiences. The Trapnell Family of lady acrobats are indeed brilliant; Blake and Granby are seen in a funny sketch, which is admirably acted; Mabel Hind, in her scena, The Land of the Rising Sun, is a clever artist; Harry Tate and company are presenting a most amusing sketch, entitled Motoring, one of the funniest sketches yet seen here; Tom Stewart as a character actor and mimic is exceedingly good; the Three Sisters Slater are banjoists, singers, and dancers, whose contributions are well received; Snakella and Travella are smart in a humorous acrobatic turn; and the Biograph shows up-to-date pictures.

HARROGATE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr R. Hullah.—Mr George Dance's Duchess of Dantzic company opened here on Monday. The title-rôle was charmingly played by Miss Rita Presano. Mr F. Moyes as Napoleon and Mr Albert Chapman as Lefebvre interpreted their respective parts with great ability. Mr T. C. Maxwell acted gracefully as the Vicomte De Bathune, and Mr Colin Mackay was extremely amusing as Papillion. The chorus was especially good.

KURSAAL.—Manager, Mr H. J. Dacre.—The promenade concerts have been well attended during the week. On Monday evening Sir Alexander Mackenzie conducted several of his own works. Messrs Lowell and Lowell have provided the variety turns.

HARTLEPOOL.

EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Messrs Councillor Everton and J. W. Craggs.—This week's programme contains the names of some old favourites. The Chas. Vandyke Troupe of Pantomimists are well received in their sketch Sensations. James Brady goes as well as ever, and is responsible for uncontrollable merriment. The M'Kays, ever welcome, have a flattering reception, and W. H. Morgan, society vocalist, is here again. The Du Gros Trio of acrobats make a conspicuous hit. Emmie Ames pleases greatly in her rendering of "Under the Shadow of Great Big Ben," and acceptable numbers are supplied by Florence Hill, burlesque actress; Harry Bancroft, actor vocalist; the Sisters Adelaide, vocalists and dancers; and Burns's Bioscope.

HASTINGS.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Geo. H. Gaze.—The management this week has afforded Hastingers the opportunity for the first time to see the renowned actress, Miss Ellen Terry, in a selection of her celebrated impersonations, and the hearty welcome she has received must be greatly gratifying. Record houses have assembled nightly, and crowds have greeted her arrival and departure from the theatre. Miss Terry is supported by a most able company of artistes. The Merchant of Venice was performed on Monday, to be repeated on Friday and at to-day's matinée. Much Ado About Nothing was played on Tuesday and Wednesday, and The Good Hope, followed by Nance Oldfield, was staged on Thursday.

HASTINGS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master, Mr R. Turner; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles H. Hawker.—Under the direction of Signor Cav. Bocchi, Ashton's Italian Orchestra, conducted by Signor Comuni, continues an attractive feature here. The artistes augmenting the musical programme are Miss Margaret Lewys, contralto; Mr Walter Tilbury, society entertainer; and Mr Henry A. Moore, impersonator of famous actors and comedians.

ST. LEONARDS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master, Mr Elvey Thomas; Entertainment Manager, Mr Drew Mackintosh.—On Friday, the 19th, Mr Elvey Thomas, the popular local manager and pier-master, took his annual benefit. Messrs Murray King and Clark were fulfilling a week's-end engagement in Basil Hood's play, Sweet and Twenty, consequently the pier pavilion was crowded. The company is a very talented one, and the play was listened to with great interest. Very characteristic was the acting of Mr Murray King in the part of Prynne, who has such a proclivity for breaking things. A fine example of dignity and subdued force was shown by Mr George Miller as the Rev. James Floyd. The student, Eustace, was well taken by Mr R. Milstead; the manly part of Douglas, his brother, was finely exemplified by Mr Lionel Glenister. The juvenile Chris had an excellent exponent in Master Willie King. Miss Rosalie Jacobi gave a charming rendering of Joan Trevelyan, her scenes with the two brothers being very tenderly portrayed. This week Mr Frank Wilson's company is appearing in the interesting play The Marriage of Kitty. The cast is admirably selected. Mr Wilson portrays effectively the Baronet, Sir Reginald Belsize. Mr Sydney Orton finely impersonates the lawyer, John Travers. Miss Kate Harwood is an ideal representative of Madame De Semiano, showing conspicuous dramatic ability. Miss Vera Fordyce is a charming Katherine Silverton—sweet of voice, bright, fresh, and girlish. Mr J. F. Leighton and Miss Averil May play into each other's hands as the servants in an amusing manner. The mounting of the piece is praiseworthy, and the whole performance gains well-merited approval.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Harold Penny; Musical Director, Mr W. Denton.—Mr W. H. Downs, coloured vocalist, opens a good programme with droll sayings and a droll manner; Miss Jessica Grace is an attractive burlesque comedienne; a highly amusing little farce is gone through by the Three Prestons; Esmond and Evelyn appear in a capital comedy sketch entitled Her Ladyship; Miss Florrie Moore as the comedy girl is accorded a hearty reception; Yamamoto and Koyoshi are remarkably smart equilibrists; a ripple of merriment accompanies the comedian and raconteur, Mr Joe O'Gorman; the Kings (Charlie and Jennie) introduce an interesting comedy mélange; and the entertainment concludes with some up-to-date Bioscope films.

BEACH CONCERT PAVILION.—Manager, Mr George Blackmore.—Mr Wallace Arthur and his company of talented vocalists and comedians continue to attract large audiences, and meet with appreciative applause at the al fresco concerts given by the Corporation at the White Rock band-stand and the Alexandra Park.

CORPORATION FETES.—These fêtes have been much appreciated by the holiday folk. On Saturday a great brass band contest was held in the Alexandra Park. Mr Harvey Du Cros presented the silver competitive cup, value £50, which was won by the Rushton band. Seven bands competed. On Monday this band performed in the grounds of the St. Leonard's Gardens, which were illuminated at night. The selection of music gave much pleasure to a large crowd both inside and outside the grounds. On Wednesday, in the Alexandra Park, living whist was played by a troupe of seventy performers. Two bands enlivened the proceedings with music, and the weather was very favourable, a display of fireworks terminating the entertainment.

HEBBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr W. A. Jackson.—A strong variety company is this week presented here by the management. The bill is headed by the American Quintet, who are excellent dancers and vocalists. Alvens and Cleo contribute a smart equilibristic acrobatic performance; J. H. Kavanagh is a clever impersonator and mimic; Martin Henderson, the blind English concertina soloist, renders various selections with success; and an excellent turn is also presented by Scatter and Lon as comedians and dancers. The Three Adriennes meet with approval as vocalists, dancers, and whistlers; and Nellie Ward, ballad vocalist; Tom M'Cabe, comedian; Reed and Wright, patterers and top-boot dancers; and Downing's animated pictures are the other attractions.

HUDDERSFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy G. Arthur.—As Midnight Chimes is here. Mr Melville Bickford as Luke Dezzard plays with a grim cynicism almost blood-curdling. Mr Frank E. Petley is a fine manly Dave Stannard. Mr Henry Beaufort is sound as Ezra Gamble. As Tat Spavvin Witty Wattie Walton is a host in himself. His irresistible humour and happy smile carry the house with him in fine style, and as the merry-hearted faithful railway porter he wins great success. Miss Annie Megson as Suzette is clever; Miss Gertrude Price plays with pathos as Mary Stannard; Miss Ethel M. Ward does excellent work in the trying part of Zamora; and Miss Minnie Ethel is natural and bright as little Davy Stannard.

HORWICH.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Arthur Sandiford; Acting-Manager, Mr Alfred Holles.—Mr Gus C. Livesey opened here on Monday evening in The Crimson Club. The piece is very elaborately staged, the dresses and scenery being very effective. Mr Livesey's rendering of Richard Fenton is a fine manly performance; Mr Lionel Thompson makes Sir Philip Garside a most interesting villain; Mr Herbert Belmore's Bertie Selby is excellent; Mr H. C. Gilpin as Silas Craddock and Mr J. E. Reed as Sir Chas. Lockwood, K.C., play their parts ably; Mr Percy Shaw as Reginald Adolphus Garside is very droll, and his whistling solos win unstinted applause; Soponisba is admirably portrayed by Miss Lily Day, her song and eccentric dance being vociferously encored; Miss Nora Temple's impersonation of Esther Craddock is pleasing and sympathetic; Miss Elsie Mesnerd plays Muriel Lockwood with much feeling; Miss Bertha Cousin's interpretation of Julia Marsden is artistic; and the minor characters are in capable hands.

HULL.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr W. F. Morton.—Mr William Greet's Sign of the Cross company is once again in our midst. The mounting and scenic effects are as fine as ever, and the incidental music as well sung. On this occasion we have both a new Marcus, Mr F. B. Woulfe; and a new Mercia, Miss Evelyn D'Alroy, who both justify their selection for such important parts. An exceptionly good performance is that of Nero by Mr A. Bernhardt Turner, who fills a difficult rôle with much ability. The Glabrio of Mr Frank Wood has also much merit.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; Resident Manager, Mr Wyn Miller.—On Monday evening Mr Wyn Miller entered on his managerial duties under the happiest of auspices, the house being crowded in every part. Mr H. Esden, his immediate predecessor, carries with him in his new sphere the good wishes of his many local friends. Mr Louis Calvert's clever company made its first appearance here in Sunday. There is a charm about the play few of its immediate forerunners possess. Its theme is new, and its dialogue is as breezy as the winds that blow in the backwoods. It tells its tale in a straightforward fashion, a tale that is so human that it appeals to all classes of the audience alike. It brings across the footlights the happiest memories of Bret Harte's mining camps. In the name rôle Miss Nita Faydon has a part to which she renders complete justice. She catches the quaint style of the miners without losing any of her feminine qualities. Miss Olive Adair is a pleasing representative of the Nun. Tom Oxley finds a capable exponent in Mr Ernest H. Douglas. The quartette, Towser, Davy, Lively, and Jacky are in the excellent hands of Messrs Fred Powell, John H. Manley, T. Norman Walter, and Whitford Kane. There is true dignity of style in Mr J. Edward Pearce's Col. Brinthorpe.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Sole Owner, Mr W. Morton; Local Manager, Mr George Morton.—That very popular drama, The 10·30 Down Express, is meeting with much approval at the Alexandra this week. It is one of those plays that are just to the taste of audiences frequenting this popular home.

PALACE THEATRE. — Moss Empires, Limited; Local Director, Mr A. Graham.—The bill this week is to the public taste, being crowded with good items. Bella and Bijou, prime favourites here, are a big success. The Sisters Caselli dance themselves into public favour, and Nellie Wallace is a comedienne with a true sense of humour.

ALHAMBRA.—Resident-Manager, Mr C. J. Bartleet-Perry.—George D'Albert, the principal turn here, has some good songs. Other turns include Lily Jackson, Mark Lane, Levarno, Vansart, Tray and Rich, James Devoye, and George Rennie.

HYDE.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Joseph W. Maloney.—Mr W. W. Kelly's A Royal Divorce company is attracting crowded houses here this week. Mr George W. Cockburn as Napoleon makes this dominant and masterful central figure real and interesting. Miss Amy M'Neill give a highly-finished representation of Josephine, and her scenes are all truly effective. Mr W. Dexter submits a clever study of Talleyrand; Mr Frank Stone is forcible and intense as the Marquis De Beaumont; Mr Walter T. Clifford is an entertaining General Augereau, and Mr James Willoughby a dignified and soldierly Marshal Murat. A striking portrayal of the haughty Marie Louise is given by Miss Lilla Wilde. The sombre colour of the play is relieved in a lively and acceptable manner by Miss Beatrice Webb in the rôle of Stephanie De Beauharnais and Mr Alfred Wellesley as the bibulous Grimaud.

ILKESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr L. F. A. Rogers.—Mr Chas. Harrington's Uncle Tom's Cabin company is here. Uncle Tom is played very effectively by Mr J. Carr; the rôle of St. Clair is admirably undertaken by Mr B. Lenton; and the Phineas Fletcher of Mr Chas. Harrington calls for high praise. Mr H. W. Hargreaves is good as George Harris; Mr Fred Charles is very funny as Marks; and Mr John Henry Rogers gives a praiseworthy performance as Legree. Eva is pathetically portrayed by Little Minnie; Miss Sylvia Stella is a very lively Topsy; and Miss Zerlina Zerbini is dramatic as Cassy. Miss Hettie Johnson (Eliza), Miss Emma Stewart (Emmeline), Miss Hero Hathaway (Mrs St. Clair), and Miss Ida Fane (Aunt Ophelia) are excellent in their respective parts. The drama is lightened by some very attractive dancing and singing, and Mr Will Pettitt, banjoist, contributes some well-executed solos.

IPSWICH.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. G. Fisk.—La Poupée has been played here by Mr E. Lockwood's company. Miss Midge Clark repeated her representation of Alesia, singing and acting with great charm; Mr Arthur Reynolds was intensely droll and diverting; and Mr T. A. Shale's impersonation of Lancelot was all that could be desired. Messrs Charles M'Lagan and Walter H. Page as Loremo's and Balthazar were effective; and Mr Elliot Skinner rendered valuable assistance. The chorus, scenery, and appointments were in every respect satisfactory.

JARROW.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Secretary, Mr William J. Oakes.—Miss Rose Faith's company is here with No Cross, No Crown. Mr Ernest Lodge gives a good rendering of the part of Sir Francis Luttrell; Mr Harrison Chapman is well placed as Professor Nebb; Mr Logan Darra supplies a powerful portrayal of Austin Blake; Mr Herbert Clifton suits the character of Dr. Ashby; Mr C. George is excellent as Rawson Haines; little May Warden plays well as Doris Luttrell; Miss Rose Faith is praiseworthy in the part of Clare; and Miss Jennie Lodge as Lady Margaret Luttrell and Mistress Gray acts with great care.

KETTERING.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Payne.—This week we are enjoying a visit from the American actress, Go-won-go Mohawk, and her company in Wep-to-no-mah. Mr C. W. Charles is a dignified Colonel Stockton; Mr George Courtney is successful as Captain Franklin; Mr George Thorne displays to the full the evil character of Spanish Joe; Mr Guy D. Hackney is very entertaining as Sam White; and the comicalities of Mr Dan Ryan as Garry Cullen meet with hearty approval. Miss Jessie Hart infuses plenty of "go" into the character of Matilda; Miss Minnie Goepel is a charming Nellie Stockton; and Go-won-go Mohawk sustains the title-rôle most effectively, the trained ponies and dog assisting considerably in the production. The minor characters are in capable hands.

KIDDERMINSTER.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr Jas. P. Moore.—On Monday Mr Fred Karno's company commenced a week's engagement in His Majesty's Guests. The play causes great amusement. Mr William Rokeby as Sergeant Lightning is very clever; Miss Campbell acts in capital style; and the piece is well mounted.

LEEDS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr Fredk. Vincent.—We are this week favoured with a first visit of Mr J. M. Barrie's entertaining comedy Quality Street, and the audiences throughout the week have been large and enthusiastic. The company is Messrs Gatti and Frohman's, and is a capable one all round. Miss Grace Armytage Noble as Phœbe Throssell is most charming and sympathetic, and deserves high praise. Mr David Glasstord is a dashing and effective Valentine Brown. Miss May Whitty capitally portrays the elder sister, Susan, and the efforts of Mr A. Carlaw Grand and Mr Gordon Tomkins are also prominent features of the production. The maid, Patty, is a most promising effort by Miss Lizzie Scoble, and other leading members of the cast are Miss Rollo Deas, Miss Bertha Woolcote, and Miss Eveleen Mills.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr R. Ernest Liston.—The King of Thieves, an exciting drama of many moving incidents, is ably played here this week by Messrs Haddon and Loader's company, and is a big attraction. Mr Jack Haddon is the central figure of the robber chief, and effectively fills the part. An intense and thrilling portrayal of the villain goes to the credit of Mr Norman Overton. Some welcome comic relief is infused into the part of Jack Ricketts by Mr Harry Liddle, and the leading feminine parts are capably undertaken by Miss Nellie Thorne-Hallam and Miss Marie Rayner.

QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs Dottridge and Longden; General Manager, Mr C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr Chas. Bush.—A welcome visit, indeed, is that of Miss Emma and Mr Percy Hutchison's company with the bright and amusing comedy A Country Mouse, and generous patronage is to be recorded. Angela, the country mouse, is this time played by Miss Dido Drake, who is to be complimented on a pleasing and successful effort. Mr Sydney Stirling is happy in his study of the Hon. Archie Vyse. Miss Dorothy Drake ably fills the rôle of Lady Sylvia, and a clever portrayal of the Duke of St. Kitts goes to the credit of Mr Arnold Lucy. Mr Chas. Harley and Miss Eva Erskine are also noticeable for good work. Mr George Mudie's laughable curtain-raiser His Landlady precedes.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr Gerald Morton.—Carrie Laurie's clever juveniles submit the usual entertainment here, and their vocal efforts evoke considerable applause. Those remarkably expert acrobats, the Barowsky Trio, are on an early return visit, and again arouse great enthusiasm. The Onllaw Trio are also seen to advantage in acrobatic and slack wire business. A musical turn by the Miles-Stavordale Quintette is a big feature. The comedy element is in the hands of Ganty, a diminutive sprightly artiste, and J. W. Rickaby, also a smart comedian. Clown Ferreros submits his clever animal show with good success; the navvy-vocalist, Harry Coates, once again warbles in popular style; a comic jugglery act by the Petrams also pleases; and successful appearances are made by Rosie Bartlett and Alice Maple, lady comedy artistes.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Managers, Messrs Edgar O. Waller and Chas. Weldon.—Clever jugglery and acrobatics, combined with funny business by the inevitable comic assistant, are the features of Joe Almasio's turn, who tops the bill at this popular hall. Other gymnastic and acrobatic turns of merit are also done by Felton and Manley, the Brothers Pim, and an expert coloured contortionist Mdlle. Nadji. Mdlle. De Rose renders vocal items in accomplished style, and a second enjoyable vocal turn is done by Edward Clode. J. H. Hawtrey, the popular actor-vocalist, and the Woodfords, in a smart speciality act, complete the programme.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr F. W. Wood; General Manager, Mr J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Jones.—The Leslie Brothers are scoring a huge success here with their diverting musical speciality, Music Mad, a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment; Salva and Manza figure at the other end of the bill with clever equilibristic and gymnastic business; Ike Scott and Son please greatly with new comedy business; Fyne and Hurley are seen in a novel coster act; and a favourite vocalist, Flo Deighton, proves an exceedingly popular contributor. Other capital turns are contributed by Jack Charman, vocalist; Nancy Charman, comedienne; George Prince, eccentric comedian; and the Jagos, comedy entertainers.

LYTHAM.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr J. H. Harrison.—A crowded house on Monday gave an enthusiastic reception to Mr Chas. Macdona's company, with A Country Girl. A spirited representation of the comedy was given by a well-balanced company, the principal characters being undertaken by Mr Percy Davison, a mellow-voiced Geoffrey Challoner; Mr Harry Emerie, bubbling over with humour as the ubiquitous Barry; Mr Jack Fortescue, an eccentric and fussy Sir Joseph Verity; and Mr Jack Parsons, a sufficiently dignified Rajah. Miss Lilly Shaw's acting and singing as the wayward Nan were delightful; Miss Marjory Moore made a pretty and chic Sophie; Miss Winifred Croft as the Eastern Princess played carefully; and Miss Clara Judge was a captivating Marjorie. A tuneful chorus assisted materially in the success under the direction of Mr C. W. Nightingale.

LANCASTER.

Athenæum.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Hy. Wilkinson.—Called Back was played here by Mr T. Arthur Jones's company on Monday. Mr T. Arthur Jones appeared with success in the rôle of Capt. Harold Marston; Mr A. Bartlett Garth gave a capital representation of Dr. Colbrooke; and Miss Madge Morley was highly successful as Doreen Rivers. Able support was given by the remaining members of the company, and the staging was effective.

LEICESTER.

Royal Opera House.—Sole Proprietor, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr C. D. Leigh.—Miss Julia Neilson, Mr Fred Terry and their company, are presenting for the first time in Leicester the charming play Sunday. Miss Julia Neilson captivates the house with her impersonation of the name part. Mr Fred Terry as Colonel Brinthorpe, too, makes a hit as Sunday's lover; Miss Bella Pateman as Mrs Naseby is in every way excellent; and Miss Adeline Bourne as the Nun is capital. Mr J. D. Beveridge makes a fine impression as Tom Oxley, acting the part in clever style; Mr Malcolm Cherry as Arthur Brinthorpe carefully handles the rôle. "The Boys" are well represented by Mr Rothbury Evans (Towzer), Mr J. Carter-Edwards (Davy), Mr Horace Hodges (Lively), and Mr Alfred Kendrick (Jacky). Mr Ernest E. Imeson appears as the man servant Abbot. Mr Arthur Garrett is general manager for the company, and Mr H. P. Brookes assistant manager.

Theatre Royal. — Sole Lessee, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General Manager, Mr John H. Clarke.—An attraction well suited to the tastes of the patrons of this theatre is provided this week in the first appearance here of Mr Tom H. Taylor's company in Walter Melville's successful play The Female Swindler. Miss Violet Ellicott as Lu Valroy is responsible for a clever and realistic embodiment; as the criminal investigator, Jack Coulson, Mr W. S. Hartford displays his histrionic powers to considerable advantage; Mr Rule Pyott is good as Abraham Mikestein; and Mr Weldon Atherstone as Geoffrey Warden, Mr George Urwin as Harold Travers, and Mr A. Kenyon Gray as James Oliver submit portrayals of merit. Miss Florrie Kelsey is to be complimented on her impersonation of Mary Andrews; Mr Luke Forster creates much amusement as Billy Binks; and Miss Ada Maud is capital as Mary Ann Mee. The staging of the drama is a feature.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Leonard Vidal.—The usual excellent programme is submitted here this week. Kelly and Gillette, the bounding boys of the billiard table, are as great a success as on their first visit. Harry Ford is at the other end, and the funny manner in which he gives his songs keeps the audience in continual laughter. Conway and Leland, the merry monopedes, well deserve the applause bestowed on their clever turn. Carlotta Levey is a popular comedian, her song, "Bill Bailey," being particularly well given. Hume, Ross, and Lewis display their versatility in their American comedy sketch The Bogus Duke and American Heiress. The Herald Comedy Four are good in their speciality The Indians and the Sailor. Cliff Ryland is well described as a quaint comedian, his funny patter evoking great merriment. The Tally-Ho Trio (Erne Chester, Wm Doust, and Eric Farr), as "The Three Buttercups," score with a turn which has the merit of mirth and harmony. J. C. Jimson introduces some clever dogs and a "talking pig." Helen Charles sings exceedingly well; James Kurry, comedian, also entertains capitally.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Lapworth.—The following artistes contribute to a capital entertainment here this week. John Grun Marx, the modern Hercules, whose remarkable feats of strength astound the audience; Amber and Alber, comedy jugglers, in their sketch The Waiter and the Tramp; Cassie Walmer, the dusky princess, who always receives a hearty welcome here; Clara Victor, a good ballad vocalist; the Brothers Sweet, entertaining knockabout comedians; the Carpenter Trio, who cause much laughter in their sketch The Agent's Office; the Three American Idols, Continental speciality song and dance artistes; and George Mayes, comedian.

LIMERICK.

Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr Robert Fogerty.—Mr Charles W. Poole's Myriorama is attracting crowded houses here this week, and the beautiful impressive tableaux illustrating the exterior and interior of the new Catholic Cathedral at Westminster are very attractive. Besides the grand scenic effects produced nightly, we have a first-class variety entertainment. A most attractive feature in the carefully arranged programme is pretty little Doretta, who sings well and dances with taste and ability. Miss Daisy Graham has a rare collection of trained birds, and with the performances of these and her little dog Nap she delights a most appreciative audience. The Musical Schaffers are very clever in their novel and refined turns, and the two low comedians Leonard and Mac are funny without being vulgar, and Mr Harry Stewart is a clever change artiste. Perhaps the hit of the evening is made by that charming little vocalist Miss Kitty Woodford, whose canine circus wins rounds of applause. Mr William Stewart is a capital guide, and Mr J. Heale is the popular musical-director.

LINCOLN.

Royal.—Sole Manager, Mr Frank King.—Mr Roy Jackson's répertoire company is here this week. Quasimodo, the Hunchback of Notre Dame, was staged on Monday and Tuesday, Trilby on Wednesday and Thursday, and The Hand of Iron will complete the week.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr Sydney Arthur.—The Three Sisters Jonghmans pay a welcome return visit, and score with "Hiawatha," "The cosy corner girl," and "Somebody's sailor boy." Dorothy L. Clark gives three songs with great charm, hitting the popular taste particularly with "Come down, ma evening star." Abel and Welsh, Bros. Redmond, Marion Scott, Harry Conlin, Harry Drew, and the Sisters Wingrove also meet with approval.

LLANDUDNO.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr R. Bellis; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Payne.—For the first three nights of the week Messrs Elworthy and Buckley's company was here in A Pair of Spectacles. Mr A. E. Wyn Weaver in the part of the philanthropist Benjamin Goldfinch scored a success; Mr Elworthy gave a characteristic impersonation of Gregory Goldfinch; Mr Harold Standing as Percy Goldfinch was good; Mr Escott Robson did well as Dick Goldfinch; Mr Norman Aveling as the snivelling bootmaker Bartholomew was amusing; Miss Kathleen Maitland made an attractive Lucy Lorimer; and Miss Bell Elliott an excellent Mrs Goldfinch. Little Mary is announced for the remainder of the week.

Grand Theatre.—Acting-Manager, Mr C. A. Hutton.—The success of the season has been scored here by the production of The Orchid by Mr George Dance's company, under the direction of Mr Austin Hurgon. Miss Ethel Bryant as Lady Violet Anstruther is excellent; Miss Madge Lucas delineates the part of Caroline Vokins in fine style; and Miss Ida Chichester does well as the Countess Anstruther. Mr G. Davy Burnaby enacts the part of the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour effectively; Mr Edmund Hollick is well placed as Dr. Ronald Faussett; Mr Edmund Page as the fiery Comte De Cassignat is also capable; Mr Arthur P. Hemsley as Zaccary is very good, his dancing being excellent; and Mr Bertie Wright's impersonation of Meakin hugely delights everybody.

LIVERPOOL.

Royal Court Theatre and Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Lawrence.—Continuing the policy of providing their patrons with the best of the London successes, the management of the favourite theatre in Liverpool has this week been honoured with the presence of large audiences to witness that delightful musical play, A Chinese Honeymoon, which has been given by Mr George Dance's capital company. Needless to say, the sprightly work has been thoroughly enjoyed, and the artistes have received hearty greetings. Miss Vera Vere was Fi-Fi, a neat piece of whimsicality, and came in for several encores; Miss Madge Temple presented a charming Soo-Soo, acting with grace and utilising a sweet voice with advantage; Miss Eva Bevington was a favourite as Mrs Pineapple; the imposing official mother-in-law was in the hands of Miss Holford Beringer; Mr Martin Adeson, well known in Liverpool, created great laughter as the amorous Pineapple; Mr Philip Hayden was good as the Emperor; Mr Frank Crimp did well as Tom Atherton; and Mr F. Payne was an effective Lord High Admiral. The scenic effects were brilliant.

Shakespeare Theatre, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr J. M. Hardie; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Gaffney.—Are You a Mason? has been the attraction here this week, and all the points of that particularly funny comedy have been keenly appreciated by good audiences. The company responsible for the production is that of Messrs George Edwardes and Charles Frohman, and well did they perform their work. Although the piece has been here before, the public never seem to tire of it. Included in the cast were Mr Harry Ashford, Bloodgood; Mr Stephen Wentworth, Frank Perry; Mr Anthony Fawcett, George Fisher; Mr Tom Mowbray, Mr Frank Ridley, Mr Valentine O'Connor; Miss Harriet Trench, Mrs Bloodgood; Miss Violet Graham, Mrs Perry; Miss Isla Glynn, and Miss Lucy Edwin. Hushed Up was the curtain-raiser.

Rotunda Theatre.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Licensee, Mr J. G. Howard; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Montgomery, jun.—Mr Charles Darrell's widely popular play, When London Sleeps, has been a big attraction here this week. The company, which is that of Mr Lester Collingwood, is an all-round good one, while the scenery is all that need be desired. The honours of the production were enjoyed by Mr Franklin Graham as the villain, Captain Rodney Hayes, who played exceptionally well; Mr W. H. Sams as David Engleheart; Mr Frank Eden as the Hon. Bertie Broomhead, seeing life; Mr Frank E. Thomas, the proprietor of a small circus; Miss Maud Hastings as the queen of the slack wire, an accomplished actress; Miss Mary Brammer; and Mr Victor Mason, who caused much laughter.

Star Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Harris Fineberg; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Simmons.—Crowded houses have been the rule here during the week to witness I Defy the World, which has been given by an excellent company controlled by Mr Julian Malvern. The work, which is from the joint pens of Mr Arthur Shirley and Mr E. Hill-Mitchelson, is full of smart dialogue and exciting situations. It deals with life in Paris, and the many remarkable escapes of the hero, Leon Darville, who assumes disguises in order to evade the police, who are on his heels, were watched with surprise. Mr Lewis Gilbert showed himself an actor of exceptional ability in the rôle of Darville; Mr Joseph W. Worley gave a powerful rendering of the schemer, Beaulieu; Miss Lina Nazeby proved an object of pity as the outcast woman; Mr Charles M. Julian created much fun as the Cockney tourist; and Miss Maud Lillian acquitted herself with credit as his wife. A particular feature of the production was the effective and complete scenery and dresses.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Manager, Mr Fred Granville.—For the first time in Liverpool the melodrama The Triumph of Truth has been given here this week before large audiences. The work is by Mr A. Armand, and deals with modern French life. There are several good situations in it, and the company responsible for the production, that of Mrs Henry Mayhew and Mr C. Herrick, is a fairly good all-round one. Miss Mary Auckland undertook two somewhat difficult rôles with credit; Mr Edward E. Louis was a capital Captain Jack Eversleigh; Mr T. Renaud Lockwood ably portrayed the French swell mobsman, Count Raoul D'Orville; and others in the cast were Little Nellie Kenneth, Mr Joseph E. Keogh, and Miss Rosabel Dodd, an accomplished actress. The scenic effects were excellent.

Empire Theatre, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss; Acting-Manager, Mr T. A. Cook.—Harry Randall, who is well known in Liverpool, had a good reception here, and his songs and "business" were keenly appreciated. Paul Conchas, the juggler and "armed" Hercules, puts in another week with his surprising feats of strength; the Poluski Bros. likewise continue their stay and convulse the house with laughter; Newhouse and Ward are two especially clever comedy trick cyclists; as operatic soloists and duettists the Two Romers acquit themselves with credit; and other turns are provided by Miss Beatrice Willey, Lady Mansel's juveniles; with their speciality A Concert Rehearsal; Frank Seeley, comedian; Miss Vi Holmes, comedienne and dancer; the Lannons, duettists and pedestal dancers; Max Millian, equilibrist; and the Sisters Govell, duettists and dancers and character impersonators.

Royal Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—A very special attraction is here this week in the form of John Tiller's company of sixty performers with the pretty Harvest Home. The production was exquisitely placed upon the vast stage of the Hippodrome, and crowded audiences have during the week enjoyed the dancing and music with which the ballet is replete. Another capital turn was that given by the Motogirl, a mystic marvel from the Palace Theatre, London, whose identity was a source of conjecture. The illusion was complete. The Three Brothers Huxter gave an able exhibition as acrobats and tumblers; H. Hughman proved himself an excellent mimic; the Zanettos were marvellous jugglers; the Brothers Donar provided a clever acrobatic equilibristic act; and the Cullane Trio submitted a humorous sketch, The Dude's Dilemma.

Royal Palace of Varieties. — Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr F. O'Toole.—An exceptionally good programme is presented here this week. At the head of it are the Steens, with their clever entertainment of mystery. In addition we have the Five Trix, with their pantomimic act "The Honeymoon," which provokes great laughter; Kitty Marion, comedienne and vocalist; the Bodina Trio, vocalists and musicians; Harry Barclay, comedian, with his latest song, "Fighting for Freedom;" and Cavern and Cave, in their comedy act "An Early Morning Dip." Interest is also aroused with the Bioscope and a humorous competition.

New Parthenon.—Proprietor, Mr Edwin W. Smith.—This bijou vaudeville theatre continues to enjoy hearty public support. The principal attraction here this week is the sketch A New Atmosphere, produced by Mountford and Walsh, a pair of clever speciality artistes; the favourite Will Hebden puts in another week with some new songs; Lanton and Lane are a couple of smart comedians; George Bernard has a budget of new songs; Edna Barrett is a dainty vocalist; and a good turn is given by Alexandra Royal, burlesque actress.

Paddington Palace, Limited.—General Manager, Mr J. Kiernan.—Mark Anthony is at the top of the bill here this week, and gives a neat entertainment; his humorous songs and patter are greatly enjoyed. The Riviera Duettists (Miss May Weatherley and Mr H. Francis Ellis) put in another week with their clever drawing-room entertainment; Daisy Silcott is a comedienne with several good songs; and others in the programme are R. C. Note, swell comedian; Turner and De Gray, with their comedy episode, Down on His Luck; the Bros. Allison, comedians and dancers; Baroux and Bion, with their comedy act, "Navvies in the Navy;" and Jack Heath, eccentric comedian.

Westminster.—Proprietor, Mr M. Montgomery.—An acceptable bill-of-fare is provided here this week. Foremost we have the Scottish Meisters, the Highland comedy quartet, whose harmonious singing is very sweet. They meet with a good reception. Messrs Dale and O'Malley are a capable pair of comedians; Mr Syd Herman as a Hebrew comedian causes great laughter; Beatie Foster is a descriptive vocalist of ability; Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic, gives an interesting turn; the Wiltons are expert gymnasts; and Wallace Whitney is a comedian of ability.

Park Palace.—Director, Mr James Kiernan.—Mr Howell Webb and his company are here this week with the sketch, Spoils of Paris, which is well rendered and warmly applauded. Leslie's Bioscope produces some excellent pictures of the King's recent visit to Liverpool, and the remainder of the bill is occupied by Harry Wilbury, actor-vocalist; Henry Howard; Emily Huby, elocutionist; Jack M'Kenzie, comedian; Bella Tilbury; Lewis Thompson, swell comique; Oliver Birrell, comedian and vocalist; and Ella Sennett, burlesque actress.

LLANELLY.

Royalty Theatre.—Proprietor and Sole Manager, Mr John Tully.—Mr Alfred B. Cross and company are appearing here this week, in The Manxman, with success, Mr Cross himself taking the part of Pete in a most excellent manner. Mr Richard Vane is an admirable Philip Christian; as Cæsar Cregeen Mr Sidney Rennef is very good; Miss Minnie Watersford gives a pleasing and pathetic rendering of the part of Katie Cregeen; and Miss Muriel Clay (Miss Christian) and Miss Rosie Kearns (Nancy) are both very good. The piece is well mounted.

LOWESTOFT.

Marina.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Ernest Smith.—The attraction this week is the return visit of A Chinese Honeymoon, for which Mr George Dance's able company is responsible. The chorus is powerful, and the various concerted numbers are given with taste and expression. The acting and singing generally are above the average, and the whole performance is decidedly the event of the season. Hang Chow finds a capable representative in Mr Helier Le Maistre, and Messrs Allerton Turner (Chippie Chop) and Leonard May (Hi Lung) are both suitably placed. A manly Tom Hatherton is found in Mr Percy Yorke, who does full justice to the various vocal numbers allotted to him. Mr Harry Brayne is immensely funny as Mr Pineapple, and keeps the fun rolling fast and furious without any exaggeration. The ladies are exceptionally good. Miss Jose Collins stands out prominently for a graceful rendering of Mrs Pineapple, her bridesmaids having charming representatives in the Misses Ruby Garman, M. Kersey, Lucia Collins, and F. Maxwell. Miss Alice Drummond makes a dignified Official Mother-in-law, and Miss Marie Adair is exceedingly clever as Soo-Soo. A feature of the whole show is the remarkably clever exposition of Miss Marion Sadie, who is vociferously applauded as Fi-Fi. The scenery and mounting are far above the average.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr Geo. Gilbert.—The bill this week is headed by Captain Woodward's sea lions. Others appearing are Mr Sam Mayo, Miss Stella Stanley, Ulrick, the barrel king; Barton and Franklin, musical act; Cyril E. Cooke, lightning jockey act; Frank Hemming and Marie Free, sketch artistes, &c. Mr Pearce Butler ably manages the front of the house.

MACCLESFIELD.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr W. K. Gatley.—This week Miss Emma Litchfield and company occupy the boards here with A London Actress. The play is well staged. Mr C. A. Leicester in the part of Lieutenant Kingston gives a powerful portrayal; Mr S. Cleveland does well as Clive Crawford; Mr F. Tenaur's Moses Mendoza is a good character sketch; Mr S. Wilford as the Irishman, Pat Maloney, is creditable; and Mr J. Worth as Captain Mannering portrays the part with dignity. Miss Emma Litchfield as Hilda Mannering is a great success; Miss Elsie Roberts makes a charming Phyllis Crawford; Miss Louise Millward as Biddy Maloney does very well indeed; and Miss Adele Wilford is graceful as Rosie Blythe.

MIDDLESBROUGH.

Theatre Royal. — Proprietors, the Middlesbrough Theatres, Limited; Managing-Directors, Messrs Geo. and Chas. Imeson.—Messrs Carson and Granville's company in the successful play, Defending His Honour, is fulfilling a week's engagement here. Mr John Davidson and Miss F. Melrose-Millet in the principal rôles create a good impression by their sympathetic delineations. The callous Stephen Graid is in the capable hands of Mr Clifton Boyne, and as Graid's accomplice, George Duncan, Mr. Chas. Herbert acts well. Mr Kenneth Black, Mr John Hignett, Mrs Edmond Lyons, and Miss Lillian Matthews in their respective parts keep the audience amused. Mr Thompson Carruthers as David Peller is funny.

Opera House.—Proprietors, the Middlesbrough Grand Opera House Company, Limited; Licensee and Manager, Mr T. Hopcutt.—Mr C. Lubbock's company, in the musical play, The Cherry Girl, is here, and is drawing large and appreciative audiences. Mr Frank Lincoln as Moonshine is good; and Mr W. H. Walker gives a fine impersonation of Starlight. Miss Rita Ravensberg and Miss Hart in their delineations are charming. One of the most pleasing features of the play is the unaccompanied singing of the Steinway Quartet. The other rôles are ably sustained, and the scenery is beautiful.

Empire. — Managing-Director, Mr John Brill; Manager, Mr J. W. Thornborrow. — At the Empire this week Bernar is occupying the top of the bill with his marionette show, and he meets with great success. Verno and Voyce, singing comedians, are great favourites with the audiences, and they display their well-known vocal powers effectively in a little dramatic scena entitled Father and Son; Duncan and Godfrey, in an amusing and pathetic sketch, Me and 'Er, please all; the Marvellous Gladenbecks do some extraordinary hand balancing; Mdlle. Florence, mimic, gives some capital impersonations; Prof. Thornbury, ventriloquist, is entertaining; the Two Rubies are smart dancers; Dan Dee, comedy juggler, creates much laughter by his antics; Miss Mabelle May sings nicely; and some picturesque films are shown on the "Bio."

Oxford.—Lessee, Mr Wm. Robinson; Manager, Mr Wm. Ainsworth.—Schicklay's bears supply the principal turn here, with an interesting show. M'Phee, M.P., presented by the Driscoll and Beattie company, is as amusing as ever; Andreassen Bros., acrobats, do some smart feats; and the other turns are Miss Ivy Lorene, singer and dancer; Tom Collins, comedian; Bromley and Fontein, comedy artistes; and Miss Beattie Kent, dancer. The films shown on the "Bio" complete a good all-round programme.

MIDDLETON.

Pardoe's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr William Pardoe.—This theatre opened on Monday for the autumn and winter season, having been renovated and redecorated, and every comfort provided for the patrons. That stirring drama A Fight for Life has been staged nightly, and a very effective interpretation thereof given by Mr and Mrs Kimberley's company. There is an intense human interest running right through the piece. Amongst the capable people appearing are Miss Gracie Jones and Mr Parker Royston in prominent parts.

MANCHESTER.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr Edmondstone Shirra.—This theatre reopened on Monday, after an interval in which some structural alterations have taken place, with a visit of the D'Oyly Carte principal répertoire company in a series of popular pieces by Gilbert and Sullivan. The company, which includes several who have made themselves agreeably well known to Manchester playgoers, is a thoroughly capable one, rendering each opera with all the necessary tact and grace; while the scenery, dresses, and orchestral accompaniment leave nothing to be desired. Principal parts are in the hands of Mr Fred Billington, Mr C. H. Workman, Mr Albert Kavanagh, Mr Pacie Ripple, Miss Jessie Rose, Miss Nora Maguire, and Miss Theresa Rassam; and the week's programme includes The Mikado, The Gondoliers, The Yeomen of the Guard, Iolanthe, and a revival of Princess Ida.

Prince's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr George Lee.—It is seldom so good a musical piece is presented to provincial audiences as The Duchess of Dantzic, which occupies the stage here this week. The company engaged in its interpretation is Mr George Edwardes's original one from the Lyric Theatre, and so highly pleased was Monday's audience that its reception of the piece was the most enthusiastic of any yet experienced on the tour. Scenery, chorus, and orchestra combine to body forth the ample outlines of this excellent story, which is at once dramatic, amusing, and full of human interest. Miss Evie Greene fills the title-rôle of "Sans Gêne," in which her well-known comedy gifts find plenty of scope, and her ability as an emotional actress—a line she is not often called upon to exploit—is evidenced frequently with irresistible effect. Another striking figure in the opera is Napoleon Bonaparte, whom we see as a lieutenant of artillery before his accession to the crown, and though his early ambitions are rather too precisely anticipatory of events to come, each phase of his life is depicted with masterly voice and reserve by Mr Holbrook Blinn, who shared with Miss Evie Greene the prime honours on Monday evening. An excellent delineation of Lefebvre is given by Mr Herbert Clayton, whose fine qualities as an actor are no less applauded than the rendering of his various songs, while a really admirable depiction of the Vicomte De Béthune, more especially in the scene of his dramatic defiance of Bonaparte, is given by Mr Leonard Mackay. Mr Courtice Pounds as Papillon has little chance to show the quality of his voice, but he helps forward the comedy interest with great success; and a dainty and clever performance is given by Miss Adrienne Augarde as Renée, the Emperor's ward. Others who distinguish themselves in this excellent cast are Miss Billie Burke, Miss Elizabeth Firth, Miss Doris La Tour, and Mr Ford Hamilton. Many capital songs and scenas are sung during the evening, and the piece is rich in dramatic and emotional scenes convincingly presented.

Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr H. M. Thorburn.—Mr C. P. Levilly's company is here once more, in Amorelle, the successful comic opera, which was revived at this theatre in December last. Recollection of its many attractive features drew a large house on Monday, which extended the fullest appreciation to the inimitable comicalities of Mr E. Thorne as Dr. Crow, and to Miss Stella Gastelle's charming impersonation of Amorelle; Mr Gerald Clifford also retains his part of Lupin, the inventor of the balloon; Mr Fred Seymour still figures in the cast as old Father Dotard (a most amusing impersonation); Miss Madge Avery remains in the part of Marina, in which she could hardly be surpassed; and Miss Kitty Cavendish is seen once more to great advantage as Lesbia. The rôles of Jules and François are very ably filled by Mr Phil Carlton and Mr Newton Ide, while other prominent parts are in the capable hands of Mr Robert Fairbanks, Mr William Griffin, and Miss May Bradbury.

Royal Osborne Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr W. H. Broadhead; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead's Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Messrs Carson and Granville's latest success, A Modern Adventuress, by Lingford Carson, is presented here this week. Like other plays by the same hand, the story is full of interesting and dramatic situations, and it was capitally played by an all-round clever company on Monday evening. Heroic parts are in the hands of Mr Charles Stirling and Miss Alice Defoe, these contrasting well with sinister rôles undertaken by Mr W. R. Winning and Miss Beatrice M. Anderson. Mr Frank Hill and Miss Mimi Fisher supply the comic element with success, and other essential parts are well filled by Mr Geo. D. Knight, Mr Leonard Aardale, Mr Geo. P. Lester, and Mr Charles Herberte.

Metropole.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Outstanding turns here this week are the Proveanie Family, in a wonderful cycling act; Carl Mysto, the "monarch of monarchs," whose handcuff feats fairly mystify the audience; Cordite, assisted by Wild Buffalo, the lady champion rope spinner and lasso manipulator; and the clever and amusing Donatos, one-legged acrobatic marvels. Other good turns are the Brand Sisters, pleasing comediennes and dancers; Amy Allnutt, a dashing comedienne; Parez Trio, in an enjoyable musical act; Adrim and Oram, eccentrics; the Brothers Brooks, in a comedy act; Harry Alberry, a capital comedian and dancer; and Fred Dice, with a descriptive song and some good patter. A series of animated pictures completes.

Grand Junction Theatre.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—A good house on Monday witnessed the presentment here of Frank Lindo's drama, Home, Sweet Home, by a company under the author's personal direction, and including himself in a prominent rôle. Mr Lindo's depiction of David Armitage is, in fact, one of the outstanding features of the play, which teems with human interest, and is full of dramatic situations. Miss Marion Wakeford appears also in her original part of Joan, and a further valuable support to the company is Mr George F. Black as Stephen Armitage. All the subsidiary parts are well played, and the action is embellished by a "bones" speciality in the first act, and a final tableau realising the famous picture "The Doctor."

Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Henry Carlton and company head the bill this week in a highly amusing and well-received sketch, entitled One Night Only. A neat and clever performance is given by A. C. Revel, the electric juggler. H. J. Kisby in his "call boy" sketch is decidedly original, his songs and dances being much appreciated. Hill, Barry, and Lang cause considerable laughter with their boisterous antics in A Hot Reception, and the Earles are smart American banjoists. Good turns also are those of Chummie La Mara, a first-rate comedienne; Francis and Melli, in musical sketch; Steely and Dowton, acrobatic comedy artistes and dancers; Belles Americaines, vocalists and dancers; Will Sergeant, vocal comique; and Mintos, trick mandolinist and equilibrist. A series of up-to-date animated pictures is also shown.

Queen's Park Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—An excellent programme is provided here this week. Percy Honri is responsible for a refined and pleasing selection of songs, stories, and concertina solos; Rappo and Ella furnish a clever speciality act; the gymnastic feats of the Josberthos are exceptionally neat and graceful; and the droll songs and apparently inexhaustible supply of witty patter of Charles Coverdale fairly convulse the audience with laughter. The inevitable cake-walk and other dances are given by the Sisters Hayward, and a clog dance by Charles Rose. The St. Johns show their versatility in a pleasing musical act and a speciality dance; Bonetti, assisted by May Corrie, is a smart equilibrist and lightning sketch artist; Sam Shipley is an amusing comedian; and Beattie Worth, comedienne, sings a series of parodies. The animated pictures complete.

Tivoli. — Managing-Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr Arthur B. Wilkes.—The chief attraction here this week is the popular Lottie Collins, who meets with a hearty reception. George Brooks is also well received, and proves himself a very versatile comedian. Other excellent turns are the Phantos in a clever acrobatic act, "Goblin Gambols;" the amusing Mike Oray and his dog "Dooley;" Alec Aubrey, a gymnast much above the average; Dave Hallie, eccentric comedian; and the Radium Girls in their charming skipping rope dance. Enjoyable items are also supplied by Lizzie Daniels, light comedy soubrette; Annie Reid, comedienne; and Freda Tudor, male impersonator.

Grand.—Lessees, Messrs Thomas Barrasford and Will Sley; Manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun.—A good all-round performance is given here this week. The Rinaldo Trio are seen to great advantage in a refined comedy equilibristic act, which is both clever and original; Billy Farrell, the popular comedian, makes a big hit; and Shawlene, the famous tramp mimic and whistler, is deservedly loudly applauded. Lieutenant Chard presents his troupe of highly trained dogs, three of which do some extraordinary high jumping; Mary M. Glenn, ballad vocalist, sings well; Max Merlin, "the boneless crocodile," is a wonderful contortionist; the Ward Brothers are knockabouts with eccentric business; and other pleasing items are those of Rose Tilley, a smart comedienne; Fred Keeton, comedian; and the animated pictures.

Palace.—Manager and Secretary, Mr P. Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr J. H. Stringer.—The Boisset Troupe are once more prominent in the bill at this popular house, giving this week their sketch An Evening Party, which is packed with entertaining drollery from beginning to end. Here also are the Boccaccio Minstrels, including Signor Francia, one of the very best—if not the best—of mandolinists. Low comedy fills a large part of the programme, this element being agreeably supplied by Charles Chard, eccentric comedian; Foreman and Fannan, the millionaires; Dusty Rhodes, comedian and raconteur; and Chris Richards, a remarkably eccentric and clever comedian from Canada. Besides these we have the clever turns of Hanvarr and Anna Lee, in a jug'ling act; Lillie and Minnie Anderson, in some skipping rope dancing; Penley and English, in a good comedy sketch; Annie Casey, comedienne; and Vincent, a smart and daring acrobat. The programme is completed by an uncommonly interesting series of pictures, and a fine selection by the orchestra.

Aldwick Green Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Will Collins.—No less than six highly amusing turns figure on this week's programme, each being received with hearty applause and roars of laughter. Big Ben Brown, Little George Le Clerq, and company appear in their well-known absurdity A Dark Night Before Us; Horace Mills and J. W. Rawlins are seen to great advantage in Mashing the Missus; George Booker and Mabel Narbis, in a new comedy creation; the Three Missouris, in their capital Captain Kettle sketch; the Smythsons, in comedy sketch Our Suite; and last, but not least, a novel production, "Larks in the Lake," in which a large volume of water is introduced on the stage. The Langdons are excellent song illustrators; Alix Lukos gives an enjoyable turn, "The Pictures in the Fire;" the Imperial Quartet are delightful vocalists and dancers; Madame Emmy's pet fox-terriers show careful training, and go through a smart performance; and the Werner-Amoros Troupe appear in an original pantomimic sketch, An Artist's Studio, introducing some excellent juggling and comedy business.

MARGATE.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr E. Macknight; Business-Manager, Mr Charles E. Hardy.—Mr and Mrs Calvert Routledge are paying a return visit this week with A Night Off. The piece runs to an accompanying ripple of laughter throughout, Mr Calvert Routledge keeping the audience highly amused by his impersonation of Marcus Brutus Snap. Mr Willis Searle is excellent as Justinian Babbitt, and Mrs Walter Bentley delights all by her amusing assumption of Mrs Zantippa Babbitt. Mr Alexander Wills makes a capital Harry Damask and Miss Beatrice Shirley plays well as the wife. Mr Adnam Sprange as Lord Mulberry and Mr Arthur Vincent are excellent. Miss Rosalie Heath is a delightful Nisbe, Miss Stanley Ronalds is good as Matilda, and Miss Mary Jocelyn (Mrs Calvert Routledge) makes the "brassiest" of brazen females as Susan.

Grand Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr C. F. Bawtree.—Mr Edward Terry and his company commenced a three nights' engagement here on Monday. On the first night Sweet Lavender was staged, with Mr Edward Terry as Dick Phenyl. He met with a particularly cordial reception. Miss Beatrice Terry played delightfully as Lavender. Mr George Howard did well as Mr Wedderburn, and Mr A. Hylton Allen was effective as Clement Hale. Mr Arthur Connell was good as Dr. Delaney, Miss Kate Mills made an excellent Mrs Gilfillian, Miss Olive Wilton acted charmingly as Minnie, and Miss Vara Renny put in good work as Ruth Rolt. On Tuesday evening the bill was changed to Love in Idleness, and on Wednesday the programme was again altered to The House of Burnside, followed by Bardell v. Pickwick.

Hall-by-the-Sea.—Sole Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr Charles Evans.—This week's programme includes attractive turns by Ena Richards, comedian and dancer; Leona and Maude, trapeze artistes, who are fulfilling a second week's engagement; Unity Vezzey, musical performer; Edgar Granville, impersonator and vocalist; Kurtz, a very smart juggler; the Olympian Quartette of glee singers; and Miss Dora Cameron with her illustrated songs and pictures. Mr Walter Payne's Bio-photoscope pictures are in their fourth week and kept well up-to-date.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Will Smithson.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr Mark Blow's company opened here on Monday in A Sailor's Sweetheart. Lieut. Charles Clive and Grace Mayland have excellent representatives in Mr Alfred Goddard and Miss Adah Barlow; Mr Robert Faulkner and Mr C. Douglas Carlisle as Philip Pemberton and Stephen Lucas do well; Mr Chas. Stafford is a dignified Admiral Sefton; Mr William Stoneham as Captain Mayland, and Mr C. A. Johnston show ability. Mrs J. W. Braithwaite is seen to advantage as Mrs Pembury, and comedy is supplied by Mr Edwin Mullins as Tom Kelly, Mr William Shaw as Tom Duff, Mr A. C. Blunt as John James, and Miss Evelyn Shaw as Phœbe Pembury. The scenery is pretty and effective.

MOTHERWELL.

New Century Theatre.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident Manager, Mr W. Gillespy.—This week we have at this house Mr J. W. Cragg and his company of comedians, in Laughter Land, a medley of riotous mirth. Mr H. B. Lewis as Professor Sylvanus Wood, from India, and Mr Harry Rousby as a sportsman cause roars of laughter. Mr Cragie Edwards as Alderman Trentman and Mr V. T. Raymont as Archie, his nephew, are also good. The part of Squire Topsam is well handled by Mr Arthur Rehan. The Craggs give a wonderful acrobatic display, and the other members of the company are well suited to their respective parts.

MEXBOROUGH.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. K. Melton.—Mr Harry Foxwell's company is here this week with Shadows of a Great City. Mr H. Travis acts capitally in the rôle of Tom Cooper; the George Benson of Mr Chas. Vivian is a well-sustained effort; Mr Harry Foxwell presents a capable portraiture of the Jew, Abe Nathan; and Mr N Pearce provides an abundance of comedy and song as Jim Farren. Miss Shelia Walsh fills the dual rôle of Annie and Nellie Standish with great credit, and Miss Kate West capably depicts the character of Biddy Roonan. Other parts are creditably filled.

MORECAMBE.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee, Lieut. Julian Malvern; General Manager, Mr C. M. Julian.—Mr William Greet's company is presenting The Lady Slavey here, and is securing full patronage. The company is an excellent one, and includes Miss Addie Lennard (Phyllis), Mr F. Sherlock (Roberts), Miss Millicent Marsden (Flo Honeydew), Mr H. Walsh (Major O'Neill), Mr Allen Morris (Vincent Evelyn), and Mr W. T. Hybert (Lord Lavender). The chorus is well balanced, and this and the orchestra is under the direction of Mr Wm. Stephenson.

WINTER GARDENS.—Manager, Mr William Holland.—The Tiller ballets, Jolly Jack and Dresden China, are still proving big draws here. Topping the bill here this week is Miss Lelia Roze, whose grace and refined business have charmed all who have seen her on this, her second, visit to Morecambe. There are also engaged Reed and Lerne, comedians; Frank Hartley, boy juggler; Wilfrid, flexible marvel; Percy Farrimond, Wigan collier; Fenton Cross and pictures; Percy Curry, candy man; and Frances Haskoll, with her illustrated songs.

CENTRAL PIER.—Manager, Mr E. Hill.—The bill has been topped by the Celtics, comedy meister singers, who have had as colleagues Wilson Bell, tramp cyclist; Hermann Friscarl, juggler; Lena Mitchell, contralto; Tom Waddington, humourist: Mdlle. Aladina, performing cockatoos; Arthur Gilbert, vocalist; Mdlle. Chalon, equilibrist; V. J De Henau, the rapid painter with his toes; and Blanche and Diacoff, cyclists.

ALHAMBRA.—Manager, Alderman John Gardner.—Good business has been recorded here during the week Included in the bill has been Duncan's Scotch collies; Lil Esplin, comedienne; Brothers Wynford, barrel jumpers; Roma and her Piccaninnies; Ned Kennedy and company, in their Irish sketch, entitled Life in a Tenement House; Fred Bronte, the actor-vocalist; Bob Hamilton, comedian; and the Brothers O'Brien, triple bar act.

WEST-END PIER.—Manager, Mr John Porter.—Visitors have been well entertained during the week by the following:—Coram, ventriloquist; the Alexanders, operatic vocalists; the Two Weirs, comedians and dancers; Miss Hilda Morris, soprano; Arthur Gill, double-voiced comedian; Sandy and Carl, eccentrics; and Wallau, boy juggler.

NEW BRIGHTON.

GRAND TOWER THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr Albert Bulmer.—Maggie Duggan, burlesque actress, characteristic comedienne, and dancer, is paying a welcome return visit here, and judging by her reception has lost none of her popularity. The company includes Matt Wilkinson's troupe in their great comedy sketch, The Registry Office; Jennie Belmore, burlesque actress and soubrette; Sisters Poole, dainty duettists and dancers; Chas. Cassell, popular character comedian; Lilian Neville, characteristic vocalist; and Ben Hur, strong man, who does some striking feats.

NEWPORT.

LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Sidney Cooper.—Messrs Carlton and Armitage's company with In the Ranks is commanding good houses here this week. The acting all round is capable. Mr Edward Lloyd as Ned Drayton is a manly and attractive hero; as the heroine, Ruth Herrick, Miss Edith Blair-Staples is sweet and womanly in shadow and sunshine; Miss Ella Wilmer makes a charming Barbara Herrick; and the humour of Joe Buzzard and Mrs Buzzard is cleverly brought out by Mr Cecil Clayton and Miss Anna Beaumont. Mr A. W. Chappell plays Richard Belton, and gives an excellent character study; and another fine character sketch is that of Mr Arthur Palling as Col. Wynter.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr O. Stoll.—Harry Tate heads the bill here with his Motoring sketch, which keeps the house in roars; Peggy Pryde scores a big success with her three songs; Millie Hylton is popular in her latest successes; Leonard Barry is deservedly applauded; Miss May Evans shows great ability as a character singer; and Jules Keller, the Wartenburg Brothers, Charles Vincent, and a fine series of animated pictures are also among the attractions.

NORTHAMPTON.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting Manager, Mr Robert Barton.—The Okito Family head the programme here, and their Chinese magic is very clever. Olga Tosti is a pleasing operatic vocalist; the Three Novells are smart acrobats and tumblers; the Comical Walkers are amusing; Charles Rooney proves a popular comedian; Mons. Reklaw, rolling globe performer, assisted by Mdlle. Minetta, does some marvellous feats; Olive Armadale is a pleasing descriptive vocalist; and Ford and Hanson do a novel musical turn.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr W. J. Andrews.—The Osmond Tearle Shakespearian and classical répertoire company, under the management of Mr Herbert J. Montague, is here with Hamlet, Merchant of Venice, Romeo and Juliet, As You Like It, The School for Scandal, Julius Cæsar, and Richard III., in all of which Miss Carrie Baillie has shown great promise, and as Portia and Rosalind has deservedly gained great applause for her clever and spirited renderings. Mr G. Alex. Marsh has earned great approval by his rendering of Hamlet; his Shylock is well conceived and consistently carried out. A good all-round company which gives artistic support includes Mr John Burton, Mr William Lowe, Mr Julian Gallier, Mr Cyril Grier, Mr Llewellyn Evans, Mr Godfrey Tearle, Mr George Tearle, Mr Malcolm Tearle, Miss Fannie Chamberlain, Miss Kathleen Magee, Miss Molly Malone, and Mrs William Lowe.

NORTH SHIELDS.

BOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Arthur Jefferson; General Manager, Mr Horace Lee; Secretary, Mr Gordon Jefferson.—The boards here are occupied this week by Mr J. Rice Cassidy and his company with Dan the Rake, which has been heartily greeted. Mr J. Rice Cassidy as Dan Donelly meets with genuine approval; Mr Frederick Biron plays the rôle of Captain Tom Cooper in capital style; and Mr Frank Orchard is seen to advantage as Colonel Framer. Mr Frank Copeland is effective as Lieutenant Charles Kavanagh; and Mr George Harder makes the most of the High Priest. Miss Lillian Clare gives a clever impersonation of Madge; Miss Florence Halton is good as Helen Flamer; Miss Ada Roscoe puts in some satisfactory work as Mrs Donelly; and the other parts are in good hands.

NEW CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr William Mould.—Miss Dolly Harmer, the popular comedienne, tops the bill here; Elias and Lilo, wire performers, give a very clever performance; and the Saletos, acrobats and equilibrists, introduce some marvellous feats. The Karno Trio in The Travellers' Rest come in for a hearty reception; and Mr Harry Zetter, comedian and dancer; the Two Hamiltons, comedians and dancers; and the Bio-Photoscope are all successful.

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

CAPE TOWN, JULY 8.—GOOD HOPE THEATRE:—Lessees and Managers, Messrs B. and F. Wheeler; Associate Manager, Mr G. H. Smith; Manager, Mr A. Wybird:—On Monday, July 4, the Wheeler-Edwardes London Gaiety company reinstated on the boards of the above theatre A Country Girl. The popularity this piece achieved during its last run here attracted a large and fashionable audience which filled every part of the house. The production went with a swing from start to finish, and the individual members of the company more than justified the reputation which they have gained amongst Cape Town audiences. Mr Victor Gouriet as Barry kept the house in a constant state of merriment with his clever dancing and excellently rendered songs. He was repeatedly encored for his song "When I was a Girl." As Nan Miss Gertie Lester once more scored a conspicuous success, her portrayal of the outspoken and saucy Devonshire lass being admirable. Mr Myles Clifton made the most of the part of Sir Joseph Verity. Miss Violet Moore as the Princess gave "Under the Deodar," which was repeatedly encored. Mr Arthur Grover sang and acted well as Geoffrey Challoner. As Sophie Miss Maud Marsland was winsome and attractive, her singing and, particularly, her dancing quickly gaining her the favour of the audience. She was most successful in her song describing various partners, but throughout displayed a keen sense of comedy. Mr E Carter as Mr Raikes (The Rajah of Bhong) scored with his song "Peace," and received innumerable encores. Miss Florence Haydon lent grace to the character of Mrs St. Quinton, whilst the remainder of the cast was thoroughly competent and reliable. The chorus was effective, under the bâton of Mr Andrew M'Gum. Mr A. M'Ewan was responsible for the production.

CAPE TOWN, JULY 20.—GOOD HOPE THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs B. and F. Wheeler; Associate Manager, Mr G. H. Smith.—On Thursday, July 14, the Wheeler-Edwardes Gaiety company produced for the first time in Cape Town The Medal and the Maid. The piece was well received, and several of the orchestral numbers were heartily applauded by a large and enthusiastic audience. Miss Norah Brocklebank made a bright and charming Merva Sunningdale, and used her pleasing voice to distinct advantage. Mr H. Lane Bayliff as Simon Pentweasle, the old clothes man, scored the success of the production, and kept the house in a constant state of merriment. Miss Gertie Lester as Josephine made a distinct hit; she was charming and fascinating as the Flower Girl. Mr Victor Gouriet had not much scope in the character of Levanter, a French music master, but made the most of the part. Miss Maud Marsland was bright and vivacious as Miss Ventnor, the up-to-date school mistress. Mr Myles Clifton was good as Lord Belton, and scored with several humorous sayings. Miss Florence Hayden gave a capital representation of Mrs Habbicombe. Mr Percival was effective as a brigand. As the school-girls Miss Moors, Miss Palmer, and Miss Pollard were adequate. The chorus was excellent, whilst the scenery and dresses were admirable. On Monday, July 18, the Wheeler-Edwardes Gaiety company commenced their farewell week, when Florodora was staged. Mr Victor Gouriet as Tweedlepunch was admirable, his quaint and humorous gags creating roars of laughter. As Dolores Miss Nora Brocklebank surpassed herself. Her acting was characterised by a charming dash and freedom, and she was repeatedly encored for an excellently rendered coon song and dance in the second act. Mr Arthur Grover was seen to distinct advantage as Lord Abercoed, whilst his fine voice was heartily appreciated in "The Shade of the Palm;" and as Lady Holyrood Miss Maud Marsland acted with her accustomed vivacity, and scored with her song "Tact." Miss Gertie Lester was good as Angela Gilfain, and the remaining characters of the cast were capable. The play was excellently staged, whilst the dressing and scenery were exceptionally good.

OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Executors late Frank De Jong; Sub-Lessees, Sass and Nelson, Limited; Business-Manager, Mr James Nelson.—On Monday, July 17, Messrs Sass and Nelson's musical comedy company produced A Chinese Honeymoon, which attracted a large and enthusiastic audience, who expressed their warm appreciation of its charming music, humorous story, and bright costumes in unmeasured terms. As Fi Fi Miss May Audrey proved herself to be a capable comedienne. Her impersonation was clever, whilst her vivacity and brightness were conspicuous throughout the piece, her song "I want to be a lady" being exceptionally well received. Miss Lilian Hubbard charmingly portrayed Soo Soo, and her artistic rendering of "Egypt, the Land of Romance," proved one of the best things in the piece. Mr William Cromwell made the most of his many opportunities, and extracted plenty of fun from the part of Mr Pineapple, his songs "Happy Land" and "Nursery Rhymes" being repeatedly encored. Miss Crissie Leonard made a dainty Mrs Pineapple, and danced gracefully; her rendering of the song in the first act, "The à la girl," was most successful, and well deserved the vociferous applause it received. Mr Arthur Stigant was an imposing Hang Chow, and his fine voice was heard to advantage on more than one occasion. Miss Andree Corday as Mi Mi sang several pretty songs which suited her voice admirably. "Bon jour" was particularly successful. Mr G. D. Cleveland was good as the feeble and decrepit Lord Chancellor, Chipee-Chop. Miss B. Grosvenor acted with ability the much dreaded official mother-in-law, Mrs Brown. Mr Frank Barclay gave a good impersonation of Tom Hatherton; whilst the four bridesmaids, Florrie, Violet, Millie, and Gertie, who figure conspicuously in the piece, found able exponents in Misses Ethel Clarke, V. Loraine, B. Treveleyan, and D. Leighton respectively. The chorus was well balanced, and worked with a will towards the success of the performance.

THE TIVOLI THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, the Tivoli Company, Limited; Manager, Mr Ed. A. Pickering.—On Wednesday, July 13th inst., Eugen Sandow, the modern gladiator, commenced his engagement at the above handsome palace of varieties before a house packed from floor to ceiling. His performance was, of course, unique, and from the time the curtain went up down to his last feat the applause was unstinted. His performance is too well-known to need a detailed description. Sandow has proved the greatest attraction the Tivoli has yet put before its patrons. The rest of the evening's programme was full of variety and attractiveness, the chief honours falling to Miss Ruth Lytton and Mr George Bastow, who appeared in a sketch, The Lady and the Parson. The fun is broad but irresistible, and both lady and gentleman sustained their parts with much point and effect. Miss Daisy Dormer is a vivacious and pretty singer and dancer, and the crowded house evinced its delight in unmistakable fashion. Mr Charles Ashdown, another new comer, caused amusement with his excellent songs and eccentric dancing. Marba and Verity are a pair of clever acrobats. Their's is a novel performance. The gentleman proves himself a marvellous tumbler and the lady a neat dancer. Miss Madge Mayfield contributes some new songs and fresh dances, while Miss Ruth Lytton and Mr George Baston reap applause with their songs. Prince Kokin with his clever juggling is as acceptable as ever. The Tivoliscope brought the performance to a close.

THE LATE DON COLONA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—As probably I am one of the oldest living of the above deceased gentleman's friends, perhaps you will not think it out of place for me to relate a little of my knowledge of him. Our acquaintance commenced at the Birkbeck Institution, where we were fellow students in the elocution class, and subsequently my distinguished friends, A. W. Pinero and Arthur Shirley, became connected with the same. Colona's linguistic powers were considerable, as he could speak and write correctly in four or five languages.

Yours faithfully, ALFRED J. SAUNDERS.

MR R. J. WHITE'S THEATRE CURTAIN.

Mr R. J. White, of the Empire Palace Theatre, Dublin, has brought out an improved apparatus for releasing drop curtains, &c., with a view to more quickly extinguishing them should they by any means be set alight. The same invention can be applied to scenes, borders, flats, aprons, wings, guages, curtains, and other suspended inflammable materials, and may be employed in travelling and other theatres, music halls, private houses, &c. The invention prevents fire from spreading to other material in proximity, and, further, renders unnecessary the cutting of holes in scene cloths for the reception of lines.

The scene or other inflammable article is attached to a wooden or metal batten, to which are fastened plates, one on each side, connected across the top of the batten by two upstanding eyes of shorter length than the plates, so as to leave a space between them to receive a metal hanger suspended from above by a rope or wire.

Through the eyes and the hanger are holes which have co-incident axes when the hanger is inserted in the space between the eyes, in which position they are held by a pin having an eye at each end.

To the eye is attached one end of a cord or wire, the outer end of which is attached to an eye at one end of a bell crank lever, pivoted to the batten, the other eye having attached to it the upper end of a cord, by which the lever can be actuated.

In use, and assuming the pin has been inserted so as to hold the eyes together, then, when it is required to release the batten and what hangs therefrom, the cord or equivalent is pulled so as to lower the one end of the bell crank lever, which will cause the other end to withdraw the pin and let the batten and its hanging fall to the ground, and the fall may be accelerated by weights if desired.—Patents, August, 1904.

R. J. WHITE'S IMPROVED THEATRE CURTAIN.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

PITTSBURG, PA., AUG. 12.—The season is just commencing, and we have already two theatres catering for the Pittsburgites, namely the Academy of Music and the Bijou. This week's attraction at H. W. Williams's Academy are the Imperial Burlesquers, who score with their crisp performance of The Gay Widow Brown, a playlet giving plenty of opportunites to the leading characters to show to advantage. The Sisters Rena and Lilian Washburn as Margery M'Manus, the spoiled parvenu's daughter, and Widow Brown respectfully are the stars of the evening's entertainment, while Miss Flossie Coy as the fascinating French gouvernante, Jannette, is a serious rival for first honours. Mr M. J. Kelly as Alderman M'Manus is screamingly funny, and comes in for much applause. Mr Charles Emmonds as Prince De Graft gives a good impersonation of the fortune-hunter. The minor parts are well sustained by the rest of the company, among which the Bunch of Jewels, as the fourteen young ladies are billed, shine out very brilliantly. The performance closes with The Girl from the West, a one-act burlesque which, while giving the townsmen a peep into the prairie, affords him an opportunity to hear some of the latest and "catchiest" songs.

THE BIJOU is occupied by Messrs Vance and Sullivan's company in the four-act scenic sensation entitled The Lighthouse by the Sea, from the pen of Owen Davis. The plot is powerful and interesting, and ample justice is done to Mr Davis's work by the company under the management of Mr R. G. Herndon. The third act contains a terrific storm at sea and an exciting rescue. The hero of the play, a coast pilot, is portrayed to perfection by Jack Dunn. Harry B. Bradley makes a good Caleb Gale, keeper of the lighthouse; and Arnold Reeves, as Joe Daggett, the villain, and Lem C. Reeves as Ed. Dick, an ex-convict, succeed in making themselves disliked by the audience in their characters. A sweet, pure, loving Flora is depicted by Miss Wilhelma Francis. Thomas F. Donnelly takes the part of Mike Larity, a postman, with success. A good word must be put in for Louis Haines and Miss Mildred Flora as Tom Cod, a lazy country boy, and Minty Sneek. The latter does some clever tight-rope work in the third act. Jack Dunn, besides being an excellent actor, proves to be an expert violinist as well.

LICENSING AT MANCHESTER.

At a special meeting of the Manchester Watch Committee last week, for the licensing of premises for the performance of stage plays, an application was made by Mr Young, on behalf of Mr A. L. Charles, for the issue of a dramatic licence for the theatre at the Midland Hotel, Manchester.

Mr Young put forward his application very briefly, saying the licence was desired for "a room at the Midland Hotel known as the concert hall." The application, he added, was made last year, and the licence was granted after the place had been visited by the Corporation architect and surveyor.

Mr W. Cobbett said he had to oppose the application on behalf of Mr Blackmore, secretary of a well-known association, the members of which should know more about theatres and the necessary safeguards than any other body of men—the Theatrical Managers' Association. With that association were identified nearly all the principal theatrical managers in England, including Sir Henry Irving, Sir Charles Wyndham, and Mr Alexander. As representing the actual and responsible managers of the theatres of the country, who had to provide for the safety of the public, Mr Blackmore objected to the issue of this licence. Mr Oscar Barrett, a well-known local theatrical manager, also objected, and he should call evidence that there was a grave danger to the public safety in continuing a licence to this theatre.

Mr Young took an objection to the opposition of Mr Blackmore, who, he said, was a resident of London.

Mr Cobbett replied that the Act of Parliament in no way restricted the opposition, and the bye-laws referred to "any person objecting." In any case the objection was not important, because what could be said for Mr Blackmore could be said for Mr Barrett.

Mr Cobbett, continuing at the request of the chairman, said it might be asked why this objection was not raised last year. It must be remembered that the place had only been in existence twelve months, and had it been understood in the first instance that it was to be used for the purpose for which apparently it was now sought to use it objection would have been raised at the time. But the general impression on the public mind was merely a substitute for the old Gentlemen's Concert Hall, and it was not supposed that it was going to be used in the ordinary way as a theatre with stock companies giving entertainments there. His clients at any rate assumed that a dramatic licence was simply sought as a precaution against committing a breach of the law in respect of any entertainment which might be given there. They did not anticipate that regular theatrical entertainments would be given in it. As showing that such, however, had been the case, Mr Cobbett gave a list of the performances given there by London theatrical companies since it was opened, and he contended that from this it was evident that the intention was to use the hall as an ordinary theatre. The theatre was 50ft. above street level, below it were a serving room and large supper room, and below another portion of it were the kitchens of the hotel. Kitchens might take fire. "Indeed," quietly added Mr Cobbett, "I have heard of a kitchen of a hotel catching fire within the last few days." He went on to say that above the theatre were three storeys of bedrooms, and he asked the committee to consider what the result would be to this enormous building if a fire happened in the theatre. Its passages and corridors were all connected with the hotel, and means of egress were by no means adequate. Indeed, there was a lamentable absence of proper safeguards. On the left side of the theatre there were three doors near together on the main floor, and these opened on to a passage into which the exit from that side of the gallery also opened. So that in the case of a panic they would have people from the body of the hall and from the gallery rushing on to one staircase coming out of the hotel in the opposite direction. On the right side there was an emergency exit from the body of the hall, and from the gallery also converging on to a common staircase. There was further a dangerous step at the top of the gallery stair-case on this side. His clients assured him that no other theatre in the kingdom would be allowed to be carried on with such dangerous arrangements as prevailed at this theatre.

Mr Alfred Darbishire, an architect of considerable experience in the construction of theatres, bore out Mr Cobbett's statement as to the conditions which obtained at the Midland Hotel Theatre, and said that he did not consider that human life was properly safeguarded there. It was impossible to conceive what might be the result of a fire or sudden panic if the place was used as a theatre.

Cross-examined, witness said he did not suppose the place would easily burn; it was fire-resisting. He did not suppose that any fire could occur except on the stage.

Whilst the room might be safe for a concert, it might not be safe for a theatrical performance.

Mr Oscar A. Barrett, manager of three Manchester theatres, called by Mr Cobbett, said that in his opinion it was very important, when possible, that a theatre should be an isolated building. The arrangements as regarded exits now existing at the Midland Hotel Theatre were such as would not be tolerated in any other theatre. One of the points which struck him on a recent visit was that the chairs were not fastened down to the floor, which would not be allowed in another theatre, and that there was no fire-proof curtain between stage and auditorium. As to the chairs, a resolution on that question had been adopted by the Watch Committee to-day.

Mr Young remarked that if that were so the Midland Hotel Theatre would have to meet the new requirements.

Witness, in reply to Mr Young, said he had not been in the Midland Hotel Theatre since Saturday. He did not know that a fireproof curtain was now being affixed.

William M'Killip, who has charge of the electric lighting of the entire establishment, said that the electric light was used throughout. The theatre was absolutely fireproof, and the floors and ceiling were of concrete. Seating accommodation was provided for 500 people in the body of the hall and 340 in the gallery, and there were adequate gangways enabling members of the audience to pass to and from their seats. No complaints had ever been received as to the accommodation afforded at the theatre. With regard to the gallery step complained of, the company were prepared to alter it in any way that might be thought desirable.

The committee retired to consider their decision, and on their return the Town Clerk announced that the licence would be granted, subject to the requirements of the city architect being complied with, and also to the usual formal requirements as to bonds.

AT the Crown Theatre, Peckham, on the 5th inst., Back to the Stone Age, a musical play in two acts, book by George Jervis, music by A. N. Yone, was produced for copyright purposes.

MERIVALE AND CHARLES KEAN.

The late Herman Merivale, in his book, "Bar, Stage, and Platform," gives some interesting facts as to Charles Kean's cleverness as a stage-manager. "He loved," says Merivale, "to show me the workings of his ship, as he called [illegible]'s cherished Princess's, and all the mechanical arts and [illegible] devices by which, by the ingenuity of Oscar Byrne, he succeeded in putting so confined a stage to such elastic use. To make up for its shallowness, he first invented the notion of the scene set slantwise, to give depth through perspective; and, when one thinks of the vast strides made since by the arts of lighting and decoration, the use to which he turned his limited materials is wonderful to look back upon. Neither by the Saxe-Meiningen company nor any other, I think, has his stage-management of crowds been ever bettered. And as Charles Kean was a great and accomplished antiquarian, he was able to carry out his own designs without the advice of sculptor or of artist, especially in the great historical 'revivals'—as it became the odd fashion to talk of plays which, never dying, can never be revived—in which he made a great advance upon Macready, and no man since has ever been able to advance on him. He made his Ariels and angels float in the apparent air by a mechanical contrivance all his own. Kneeling on a solid perch hidden by gauze at the back, which glided up and down a groove, and was covered by long trains or petticoats, they were a puzzle always to the audience; and the apotheosis of Marguerite, in Faust, as a vision of Carlotta Leclercq's peerless beauty, was of all stage pictures one of the most memorable. It was a little disenchanting to such a young outsider, perhaps, to see these mysteries at work from behind, and on one occasion, when six angels appeared to Queen Katherine in a vision in Henry VIII., I was the witness of a sad catastrophe. There were six of them sliding on invisible perches up and down a sunbeam. They were all pretty, and nicely graduated in years and height, so that the topmost angel was a little child. With keen, youthful interest I watched them being tied on their perches in a kneeling attitude, and then draped with gauzy flowing mysteries till they all seemed sitting upon nothing. Then the soft music began to play, and the pulleys to work them up and down, and the gauzes to be withdrawn which were between them and Queen Katharine's dying couch; and then they began to sway their bodies and wave their arms; and then the little child-angel at the top, who had been eating too many oranges, began to feel the motion and was rather sick; and the girl-and-women angels down below her, descending as it were from heaven in a bee line, disliked it very much; and they ministered to the poor Queen that night in but a half-hearted sort of way, particularly when the audience encored the vision.

"After a celestial experience such as that, it was but earthy to be taken by Kean to the regions overhead one morning, to see his new thunderstorm, then raging every night. Over a floor above the stage was spread a sheet of iron, and in the corner, revolving on a pivot, a mighty box all full of cannon-balls. You had but to tip the box and the storm came on. It burst in a sudden crash with all the cannon-balls, then ground itself out in declining fury as they ran about the floor. 'You must be very quiet, my boy,' said Kean, 'as they are rehearsing the new farce underneath.' Whereupon with true Harrovian instinct I said, 'Yes,' and tipped the box immediately. I have been in the middle of severe thunderstorms amongst the Alps and elsewhere, but never in one like that I made myself. The thunder had all to be collected again, and as no lightning had introduced it in the usual polite way to the company downstairs they nearly all had fits. The stage-manager and prompter leaped headlong up to the flies by the first stairs they could get at, scenting some awful catastrophe to the machinery. And dear old Charles Kean, most childishly amused of mortals when anything upset his gravity, sat down amongst the cannon-balls and laughed till he couldn't see.

"His Corsican Brothers and Louis the Eleventh were, I think, the crown of his achievements as an actor. Nobody ever touched him in the first. So stern and picturesque an embodiment of a remorseless fate as he, when he came face to face with his brother's slayer in the last act, never crossed the stage. So intensely calm and so unutterably still, intensity in its true sense was Charles Kean's force. When he had broken his sword in two to match his enemy's, and wound his handkerchief round the steel point and his wrist, he never took his eye off Château-Renaud's face, or moved one muscle of his own. Nor did he stir one inch from the place where he had taken stand. He simply turned and turned again upon his heel to face the duellist, who was round him, about him, savage and anxious and alert, everywhere—striking at Fabien fiercely, over and over again, to have the stroke turned easily aside, and always, by that iron wrist, Kean struck once, and once only, as the fate-clock of the forest rang the hour. And in a mass, and in a moment, Château-Renaud fell at his feet stone dead, like the chieftains in Macaulay's lay. Usually unequal, seldom playing anything so well that there was not something weak in it, seldom anything so ill that it had nothing great, Charles Kean was on the whole, I think, at once the greatest master of the drier humours, and in his best parts the most impressive actor I ever saw. And he knew the force of contrast. Himself a small, though splendidly knit man, he liked a big Château-Renaud, who towered well above him, and looked as if he could break him in his hand. Fechter was a mere fidget in that double-character after him.

Louis XI was a greater feat; the actor's greatest; for he made himself the man. I am by no means sure that it isn't one of Irving's greatest achievements, too, showing how differently two great actors may read the same part. For except the grim humour shown in different ways, the two bear no resemblance. Irving might almost have studied the avoidance of Kean's points, and the invention of his own, from Kean, but that he never saw him in the part. Irving is the more subtle. Kean was the more intense. There never was a false note or feature in that picture all the way. Familiar, cruel, superstitious, weak yet strong, fearful and obstinate, a king through all. He made to himself a wonderful walk for the part which was all his own, a kind of trot which was almost a run, yet curiously natural. He had studied the character from the book of 'Quentin Durward,' and his portrait had nothing in common with the work of the French actors, Ligier or Beauvallet, both far his inferiors in the part. He thought out every detail to a fascinating whole, incarnate cruelty being his starting-point, and the result remains alive with me to this hour, full-grown Velasquez. I used to go and see it so often that the great man grew suspicious of Carlotta Leclercq's attractions, as the Dauphin, for my youthful mind. Certainly never did maid wear the lovely garnish of a boy more beautifully. 'Herbad,' he said, 'you're rather precocious, you dow. I don't believe you come here to see be at all. It's Biss Leclercq's legs.' To a certain extent I'm not sure that it wasn't true. They had their charm."

AT the Alhambra Theatre, Stourbridge, on Monday, the attraction was the musical comedy, Cissy, played by a company under the direction of Miss Gladys Silvester and Mr Fletcher Sansome. In the title-rôle Miss Florence Barnes acts, sings, and dances capitally; Mr Fletcher Sansome's performance as Titus Thomas, B.A., is admirable; Mr Frank Gillions is efficient in the character of Victor Carlton; Mr George E. Butt as Gilbert Temple and Miss Roma Dramanody give clever contributions; and Mr Frank Heller as Dossy Bowers and Miss Nellie V. Warden as Mary Mopps also submit creditable representations.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE GRAND.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Walter Melville, entitled "THE WORST WOMAN IN LONDON."

Islington is favoured with another visit from Mr Walter Melville's company in the above drama; and though this is the third visit to this theatre, the reception accorded to the play is just as enthusiastic as on previous productions. Mr Melville has selected a good all-round company to support him, and all work most loyally together to ensure a good performance. Miss Constance Medwyn, who is now entrusted with the title-rôle, has much of the burden of the play resting on her, but she comes through the ordeal excellently, playing with convincing earnestness and at times with genuine dramatic power. Miss Lilian Ross in a part of marked contrast to the "Worst Woman" invests her reading with a nice, unassuming style, and we were particularly struck with her clear enunciation. Miss Helena Rigby as Matilda contributes much of the humour by her performance of the matrimonially inclined lady. As Jane Nogood Miss Mamie Rendle is responsible for some broad humour which causes hearty laughter. Mr Edward J. Collins as Jack Felton deserves commendation for a very earnest reading of the rôle, his acting in the last scene of the second act being distinctly good. Mr Paul Barry Lewers as Vincent Lyle plays the part with the necessary callous air, and incurs the unqualified indignation of the "gods." Mr H. Maxwell Payne as Mr Milford plays a somewhat difficult rôle with success; Mr George H. Asquin as Bob Goldfinch is responsible for much hearty laughter; and Mr Joe Bracewell as Hugh Drayton submits a character study of merit. To Mr Bernard Mervyn, however, must be given the credit of presenting the finest performance of the evening as Philip Armstrong, the ruined gambler, both he and Miss Medwyn gaining a special call at the end of their big scene in the third act. Mr B. Elton is particularly good as the detective, and Mr G. Thomas is entitled to a word in the small part of a sweep. The drama is mounted most lavishly, the dresses being effective, and the scenery by Mr George Tweedle is an excellent example of his skill. Mr Edward Reeves has composed the effective incidental music.

THE STANDARD.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Musical Play, in Two Acts, entitled "THE GEISHA."

At the Standard on Monday Mr Mouillot's company appeared in The Geisha, and gave a performance worthy of the highest praise. Indeed, the change from heavy drama to light opera was evidently greatly appreciated, for upon the initial performance the house was crowded with a large and enthusiastic audience. The rôle of O Mimosa San was enacted by Miss Aimée De Leska in a style which was sufficient to satisfy even the severest of critics, and her excellent voice was well suited for the songs which fell to her share. O Juliette Diamant was well represented by Miss Violette Kenyon. As Molly Seymour Miss Florrie Saunders acquitted herself extremely well, and sang admirably. Miss Aubrey Ashton gave complete satisfaction as Lady Constance, and the parts of Ethel Hurst, Marie Worthington, and Mabel Grant were artistically played by Miss Kathleen Birbeck, Miss Norah Cunningham, and Miss Marie Gilbert respectively. Miss Edith Rimmington as O Kiki San, Miss Laura Humphreys as O Hana San, Miss Daisy Browne as O Kinkota San, and Miss Amy Bland as Konuraaki San were all deserving of praise. They sang sweetly, and added considerably to the success. Mr Arthur Cartwright as Reginald Fairfax sustained his part well, and was cordially received in his many songs. His "Kissing Duet" with Miss Aimée De Leska is worthy of special mention. Mr Edward Granby (Dick Cunningham), Mr F. P. Wilfred (Arthur Cuddy), and Mr Boy Russell (George Grimstone) each supplied a capital embodiment. Miss Blanche Browne was a delightful Tom Stanley. As Captain Katana Mr J. Hornby was entertaining, and as Takamine Mr Harry Reynolds did as much as was possible with the rôle. Mr Lionel Braham gave a highly commendable performance of the Marquis Imari, and Mr Edward Carlton's interpretation of Li was marked throughout with originality, his acting keeping the house in constant laughter. The chorus showed signs of careful training, and the augmented orchestra did excellent work under the bâton of Mr Frank Barrett. On Friday a performance of A Greek Slave was announced to be given.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Historical Drama, by W. G. Wills, entitled "A ROYAL DIVORCE."

Judging by the crowded house on Monday evening, the Pavilion has an unusually great attraction for this week in Mr W. W. Kelly's company in W. G. Wills' A Royal Divorce, which, produced at the New Olympic in 1891, has been before the public more or less ever since, and still shows vigour and vitality. Mr Frederick Victor gives a thoroughly consistant picture of Napoleon that appeals throughout to the sympathies of his audience. As his first wife, the Empress Josephine, Miss Edith Cole has many opportunities, and her highly artistic method is brought to bear upon her impersonation with success. Mr Claude Agnew is an easy and natural Talleyrand, and Mr Trevor Lowe is dignified and impressive as the Marquis De Beaumont. Mr Alfred Grenville in the rôle of General Augereau, who is in love with Stephanie De Beauharnais, and Miss Helen Richmond who plays that mischievous young lady, both do well and create a favourable impression. The innkeeper Grimaud is most amusingly sustained by Mr Dennis Bryan, a comedian with a strong sense of humour. Miss Ethyle Murray supplies a well-defined portrayal of Marie Louise, and Miss B. French Stewart is pleasing as the Gouvernante of the King of Rome. Mr Ernest G. Batley is successful as Marshall Murat, and Mr H. J. Powell is good as Dr Corvisart. Miss Violet Agnew wins golden opinions as Blanche d'Hervas, and excellent work is rendered by Mr Charles Stanley as Marshal Ney, Mr T. C. Martin as Brigadier Antoine, Mr George Herrick as Brigadier Pierre, Mr G. Kirkman as Lord Keith, Mr T. O'Brien as Bob Royal, Mr J. C. Barker as Midshipman of Bellerophon, Mr C. Goulbourne as Officer of the Palace Guard, Mr Thomas E. Watson as a servant, Miss Teresa Gilmour as Angelique De Varennes, Miss Ada Kavanagh as Madame La Campan, Miss Barbara Mead as Jean Le Terreure, and Miss Helena Dixon as Mother Lomas. Miss Doris Ivatts is natural as the little King of Rome. The scenery and appointments are admirable, and the tableaux are effective and well arranged; whilst the uniforms and dressing are correct and striking. A complimentary performance was given to Miss Edith Cole on Friday evening, when every lady attending was presented with a souvenir.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Domestic Drama, in Four Acts, by Lingford Carson, entitled "THE DRAMA OF LIFE."

When Mr Lingford Carson's piece made its first appearance in London at the Pavilion, Mile-end, we pointed out that within its four acts were to be found no new or startling situations, but that for its attractiveness with the masses it depended on its strong and interesting domestic story. The stress of misfortune that whelm hero and heroine bring out very strongly wifely fidelity and paternal affection—both of them qualities that are sure passports to the sympathy of an audience, and the inevitable villainy and the large slices of comedy all add to the effectiveness of the drama from a popular point of view. Represented at the old-established Church-street house this week by Messrs Carson and Granville's company, The Drama of Life has renewed its popularity with metropolitan audiences, and the West Londoners have not been half-hearted in their appreciation of its merits, the strong third act making a special appeal to their sensibilities. Mr Jerrold Ord succeeds in making a pathetic figure of the hero, Harry Beech, and puts much earnestness into his work. He begets much hearty sympathy when he shows the moral and material degradation of the dipsomaniac in the third act, where Harry only escapes from a diabolical plot to embroil him in a duel to be charged with a murder of which he believes himself guilty. His acting, too, as the disguised Old Joe is worthy of praise. Mr John J. Hooker depicts the remorselessness and greed of Mr Walter Beech, the villainous cousin, with both force and discretion. It is hard to believe that one person is capable of so much turpitude, but about the villain of melodrama there can be no compromise, and it is well that Mr Carson's sketch is in such capable hands as those of Mr Hooker. Mr Owen Remonde is responsible for much laughter as Sir Dobson Wilde, a harmless aristocrat, and Miss Muriel Inglis makes an attractive Lady Jane Wilde. One of the most successful impersonations is the Jack Lawton of Mr Bulwer Pitt, who has a part in which villainy is redeemed by humour and in the last act by repentance, self-sacrifice, and death. Mr Pitt is particularly successful in his many humorous asides, and in spite of his dramatic misdoings he becomes a great favourite. Mr Walter Steele, in whose capable hands the stage-management is placed, plays with considerable power the part of Richard Brenton, a detective and the friend of the hero, and Mr Edward Bikker is quite successful as the stage Frenchman Count Foi. Miss Cissie Bellamy emphasises dramatically the love of Sylvia Beech for her child, and makes effective use of her opportunities in the third act, where Sylvia is reunited temporarily to her husband. Miss Nellie Daly is sufficiently repulsive as Betty Black; Miss Marie Murray plays prettily as the boy Robert Beech; and Mr Oswald Lingard, the general manager of the company, contents himself with the small part of John Walsh, a railway porter. Other characters are adequately presented by Mr Leonard Thackeray, Mr George Shaw, Mr Henry Miller, Mr J. Harold, and Mr Col. Hunt-Mortlake. The staging is elaborate and tasteful.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Drama, by G. Carlton Wallace, entitled "THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH."

Messrs Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company, in Mr G. Carlton Wallace's drama The Village Blacksmith, provides a real dramatic treat, and the effect is a crowded house each evening. The play is full of exciting incidents, the climax being reached in the last act, where the villain and hero meet upon the stage of a music hall in a wrestling match, ending with the death of the villain. The part of the village blacksmith, John Strong, has vigorous and earnest interpretation from Mr Sam Livesey, whose efforts are greeted with rapturous applause. Mr Joseph Carter as the unscrupulous Captain Leo evokes yells of execration, and these marks of disapprobation conclusively prove that his performance is a strong and thorough one. Mr George V. Campbell as Billy Twig is responsible for much hearty laughter, and displays genuine talent as a singer and dancer. Lucas Marler is capably played by Mr Frank Harrison, and the characters of Jeremiah Parkins and Mrs Sal Parkins are excellently treated by Mr Thomas E. Marshall and Mrs T. C. Livesey. Mr Geo. Edwards is excellent as the music hall manager, and Mr George Jones makes an effective Inspector Grant. As Kate Strong Miss Ethel Kay gives a charming picture of the village blacksmith's wife, and the character is depicted with thorough sympathy and feeling. A pleasing performance is given by Miss Maggie Edwards as Ruth Parkins. She has a fine contralto voice, which she uses to great advantage in the last act, singing "Alice, where art thou?" with great taste. Humpy Tarn is well played by Mr Bert Butler, and a natural delineation is given by little Christobel in the part of John Strong's child. The minor characters are intelligently impersonated. The mounting is excellent.

THE CORONET.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Celebrated Melodrama entitled "THE SILVER KING."

Messrs G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company is appearing at the pretty Notting-hill-gate theatre this week in that always popular play The Silver King. Mr Austin Melford sustains the rôle of the unfortunate Denver and acts very powerfully indeed; Miss Emilie Polini is a sweet and pathetic heroine, and wins the sympathy of the audience; Mr Charles Levey as the Spider, Mr Arthur Rooke as Eliah Coombe, and Mr Amalia as Cripps all act capitally. Mr James Power as Corket, Mr C. G. Gratton as Jaikes, and Miss Phyllis Dailley as Olive Skinner are very successful, and smaller parts are well played by Messrs Palmer, Lindon, Redmayne, Store, Singer, and Laundy; and Misses Wood, Rooke, and Norton. The Silver King is excellently staged, and the production reflects great credit on Messrs Polini and Melford, whose enterprise has been rewarded with success.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Drama, by Seymour Hicks and George Edwardes, entitled "ONE OF THE BEST."

Mr Robert Arthur's own company in the military drama One of the Best holds the boards here this week, and on Monday evening it was enthusiastically received by a large audience. Dudley Keppel is capitally played by Mr Stanley Bedwell, whose manly impersonation wins the entire sympathy of the audience; Mr H. F. Maltby gives a dignified rendering of Lieut.-General Coventry; and Mr Wilfrid Beckwith plays the Rev. Dr. Penrose in an earnest manner. Miss Helen Haye, who appears as Esther Coventry, deserves high praise for her really clever assumption. Philip Elsworth has a clever exponent in Mr E. Bellenden Clarke, who acts with much vigour; and Mr Frederick Earle is successful as De Gruchy. Mr Herbert Darnley makes a first-class Private Jupp, and proves to be as diverting a comedian at the theatre as he was on the music hall stage. Miss Lilla Norden also materially assists in the lighter side of the play by her bright acting as Kitty Spencer. Miss Jeannette Le Gros makes a suitable Mary Penrose; Mr Charles Medwin is an amusing Jason Jupp; and Miss Nellie Gilmore is good as Mrs Spencer. The minor characters are also in capable hands. The mounting leaves nothing to be desired, and the two military bands and numerous auxiliaries help to make the performance the success it undoubtedly is. Mr Wilfrid Beckwith is to be commended for his excellent stage-management. Mr J. L. Barry is the general manager for the company.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the New Musical Play, by Seymour Hicks and Ivan Caryll, entitled "THE CHERRY GIRL."

A capital house awaited the advent of this popular Vaudeville musical play on Monday evening, which was presented for the first time in greater London at Mr Mulholland's beautiful theatre. The reception accorded to Mr G. Dubbock's company was extremely cordial. The story is a pretty one, and charmingly told both in word and song. The large cast required for the interpretation has evidently been carefully chosen. Mr H. Herbert was a hard-working and entertaining Moonshine, his acting and singing being very much in the style of Mr Seymour Hicks. Starlight was capably played by Mr H. Hewlett. A bright little Mdlle. Pas Bas was Miss Dorothy Frostick, who literally danced her way into the hearts of her audience. Miss Katie May was a sweet and animated Pansy, who had far too little to do. A clever performance of Esau, the monkey, was given by Mr Fred Le Franc. Snowball, the sweep, and Dimples, his sweetheart, found intelligent and precocious representatives in Master Willie Bailey and Little Decima Brooke. Bow and Scrape, the two chamberlains, were very amusingly rendered by Mr Charles Seymour and Mr F. Delain. The well-trained voices of the Avondale Quartette were well appreciated. Miss Elsie Mulloy made a success as the Queen, and her efforts both as singer and actress won universal approval. Miss Lottie Stone's troupe of dancers received great applause, and the Four Wisterias were deservedly popular. The minor characters were in good hands, and the chorus gave excellent support. The scenery, appointments, and dresses formed a brilliant mass of colouring.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Aug 22, the Drama, in Four Acts, entitled "THE TWO ORPHANS."

A decidedly popular attraction has been provided at this favourite and elegant playhouse in the visit this week of Miss Emma and Mr Percy Hutchison's company, in those well-known plays The Two Orphans and The Ticket-of-Leave Man, including the eminent actor Mr Henry Neville in his original parts of Pierre and Bob Brierley. During the first three evenings of the week the nobility and gentry of Stratford and its vicinity have pitied the sorrows of poor blind Louise; their sympathy has gone out to unhappy Henriette, distressed beyond measure at the loss of her helpless sister; they have naturally been greatly offended by the hideous cruelty of the hag La Frochard, at whom the pit and gallery have risen in righteous indignation; they have been much relieved when the brutal Jacques received his coup-de-grâce from the knife of his long-suffering brother; and their hearts have been drawn towards the gentle-natured knife-grinder Pierre. In the latter character Mr Henry Neville, of course, was seen to particular advantage, his embodiment of the timid, shrinking, and highly sensitive cripple being marked by all the finish and effectiveness which long since made it famous. The distinguished actor was warmly welcomed on his first entrance; and his performance throughout frequently aroused hearty applause. The Jacques of Mr L. Cory Thomas was also an excellent and most convincing enactment. The Louise of Miss Evelyn Weeden was a sweetly pathetic performance, the actress cleverly indicating the helplessness of the poor blind girl in the first act, and throughout giving a decidedly artistic and finished performance. Her sister, Henriette, was also most effectively and capably handled by Miss May Congden; and the old hag, La Frochard, was a realistic and repulsive portrait in the hands of Miss Emma Victor. Miss Barbara Gott gave an impressive rendering of Marianne; the Count De Linière of Mr T. W. Rawson was an artistic embodiment; Mr F. G. Thurstans as Picard became very popular; and the numerous other parts were all carefully and capably undertaken. The new and elaborate scenery, by Walter Johnson, of Drury-lane, calls for especial mention, and the elegant costumes were also greatly admired, the production generally being one of exceptional completeness. The Ticket-of-Leave Man has been the attraction the last three nights of the week.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Myles Wallerton and Francis Gilbert, entitled "THE BEST MUST WIN."

Judging by its cordial reception, and the applause which greeted the many telling lines and sensational situations with which it is studded, The Best Must Win, which was originally produced in London at the Shakespeare, Clapham, in December, 1902, is a melodrama exactly to the palate of a popular audience. A most thrilling moment in the play is the scene at the end of the second act, where the heroine, the fair Denise, is trapped in "the gilded cage" of the villain-in-chief, Gaston, Marquis De Marcel, alias "the Panther." The girl has some important papers relating to the parentage of her lover, Paul Dumaresque, and the Panther means to possess them. She has also to listen to the shameless proposals of the scoundrel, and when he would take the papers from her by force she defends herself in a most determined manner, the arrival of Paul, who, disguised, has managed to gain admittance to the Panther's den, effectually putting a stop to that villain's dastardly intentions. A very important part in the production, for which Messrs Charles Draycott and H. B. Peppin are responsible, is, of course, the Panther, and Mr Draycott plays the role in a manner that leaves not the slightest doubt as to that villain's intentions, being particularly good in the scene above alluded to, in which he is greatly aided by Miss Lilian Loyde as Denise, who contributes a natural and altogether most commendable performance. Mr Robert Watson makes a manly and convincing Paul Dumaresque; Juan Minos, a rascally Jew, is played in humorous fashion by Mr H. B. Peppin, and another comic embodiment is that of Jacques Courcel by Mr Oliver J. Round, the pair being frequently responsible for the greatest hilarity. An amusing representation of the maid, Susette, is forthcoming from Miss Ethel Vinney; Lucille La Fouche is commendably undertaken by Miss Florence Lovell, and Miss Violet Ospringe makes the most of her opportunities as Thérèse Dumaresque. An impressive embodiment of the old blind soldier, Sabretache, is supplied by Mr Fred Aldworth; and the other characters are all capably played. The staging and dressing of the play are entitled to praise, some very effective scenes being shown during the evening.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Drama, entitled "TOMMY ATKINS."

Mr Milton Bode's talented company is once more entertaining local audiences with this stirring drama. Mr Frederick Ross acts in breezy, manly fashion as the cant-hating parson-soldier, Harold Wilson. The villainies of Captain Richard Maitland sit lightly on the shoulders of Mr George C. Doughty, who affects a telling nonchalance throughout. Mr Reginald Holmes is good as Captain Sparrow. Mr John Nolan is "a broth of a boy" as the rollicking Irish Sergeant, Paddy Molloy. Mr Chas. A. Wenham gives an effective, if restrained, rendering of the emotional struggles of the persecuted ex-convict, Private Mason. Mr Henry C. Parsons is an emphatic Private Harris; the bibulous antics of the strangely-garbed organist, Ebenezer Skindle, are treated in true pantomime fashion by Mr Billy Harman; Mr Maurice Drew continues his excellent portraiture of the relentless father, Stephen Raymond; Mr Augustus Hammond is effective as Thomas Trotman; Mr E. Christopher is successful as Simon Redgrave; Mr Cecil F. Phillips is a capable Perkins; and Master Phillip Priddis plays neatly as Jack. Mr Fred Barclay is a stately Arab chief. Genuine sympathy for the wrongs of poor Ruth Raymond is aroused by the pretty pleadings of Miss Lola Patey coupled with the touching inflections of a musical voice. Miss Florrie Vickers is pleasing as Elsie Wilson; Miss Marie Fontaine is dramatic as Margaret Maitland; Miss Ethel Tinsley is a flippant Kate Perkins; Miss Kate Priddie is good as Martha; and Miss Annie Martin is successful as Rose Selwyn.

THE GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Play entitled "IT'S NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND."

This week Mr Charles A. East, Miss Marie Wright, and company are appearing in the stirring adaptation of Charles Reade's well-known novel, written with the purpose of showing up the ill-treatment meted out to the unfortunate inmates of the prison cells. Of course, these things have long ago been remedied, but the play still remains strongly dramatic and exciting, as well as interesting, to present playgoers. Mr Charles A. East gives a bright, breezy exposition of the character of Tom Robinson, alias Scott, alias Lyon, and he brings out into strong relief the sterling points in the character of the swell mobsman. Mr J. C. Aubrey gives an earnest, manly embodiment of the part of the impetuous George Fielding. Mr Arthur Burne as Rev. Francis Eden, a prison chaplain, gives distinction to the rôle, and acts with verve and conviction. Mr Charles Langley as Isaac Levi, a Jew, acts with vigour and intensity. Miss Rose Ralph looks and acts prettily as Susan Merton, George's sweetheart. Miss Marie Wright gives a deeply pathetic and affecting performance as Josepha, a poor waif and a victim of the system where life is crushed out by rigorous confinement. Mr E. Boddy is vastly diverting as Peter Crawley, a rascally attorney. Mr Frank Harding is a particularly cold, callous villain of the sleek and prosperous order. Mr J. C. Thompson enacts Mr Hawes, Governor of the model prison, with appropriate brutality and callousness; Mr Sam E. Pierce as Jackey, an aboriginal Australian known as Kalingaloonga is very amusing in the part; Mr C. Pierson is satisfactory as George and William Fielding's uncle, Mr Merton, who is also the paternal relative of Susan; Mr C. Aylmer is good as "Sulky Bill," alias William Fielding; Mr C. M. Thomson and Mr H. Smith are effective as members of the gang; Mr J. Harrison as Fry, a turnkey, is well in the picture; and Mr T. Adams as the tender-hearted turnkey Evans is also commendable. Other small parts are satisfactorily rendered.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.

This handsome house, which now shines resplendently beautiful from its recent redecoration, is being liberally patronised; and it is satisfactory to note that Mr Purcell's taste and liberality have been enthusiastically recognised and rewarded by the local public, who fully appreciate the luxury and brilliancy of the auditorium of the Alexandra. The attraction this week is Mr Fred Karno's company, in Saturday to Monday. Mr Fred Kitchen, part author of the piece, appears as Jaggs, and is intensely amusing in the character, his songs taking immensely. Miss Cossie Noel as the bride is charmingly vivacious, and gives the fullest point to her delivery of her songs. Miss Gladys White wins all hearts as Violet, and her vocalisation is exquisitely expressive. Miss Ada Maskell is characteristic as Skinner. Mr Frank Haylet acts and sings excellently as Tom Freeman, and Mr H. Kitts, Mr C. Baldwin, Mr J. Lloyd, Mr J. Fletch, Mr C. B. Storrs, and Mr H. Paulo, jun., all render valuable service. Mr Dudley Powell admirably performs his duties as conductor, and the piece is picturesquely mounted.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Play, by Richard Ganthony, entitled "A MESSAGE FROM MARS."

Mr Purcell is to be congratulated on the engagement of Mr Mouillot's company in A Message from Mars, a play which was witnessed by a large and very appreciative audience at the opening performance. The play is admirably staged and mounted, and a special word of praise must be accorded for the magical effects in the opening act. Mr Rawson Buckley, who sustains the central part, Horace Parker, realises to the full the idea of the self-absorbed and tyrannical man. It is throughout a highly diverting and entertaining portrayal. Miss May Saker is wholly and agreeably competent in the part of Minnie Templar, especially in the scene with her fiancé where she breaks off her engagement. The stern preceptor of Otherdom, the Messenger from Mars, is another well-filled rôle, Mr William H. Brougham maintaining a high standard of acting throughout. Miss Flora Hastings gives a charming and refined portrayal of Miss Parker, Horace Parker's aunt. Mr Bruce Lindley gives a clever and impressive character sketch of the tramp. We would commend Mr Percy Dunn for an efficient rendering of the young American, Arthur Dicey; and also Messrs Lanceley, French, and Powell for their adequate assistance as Dr. Chapman, Sir E. Fivian, and Mr Ferguson respectively. Mr William Ravenscroft is an admirable Policeman, and the remaining characters are all satisfactorily sustained. Valuable aid in the musical portion of an agreeable and much applauded entertainment comes from the Marlborough orchestra, under the skilful direction of Mr J. T. Hahn.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Drama, by Walter Melville, entitled "A DISGRACE TO HER SEX."

The above powerful drama has been the attraction at Brixton's popular theatre this week. The company engaged by Mr Walter Melville is in every way a capable one, and the many striking situations of the piece are admirably portrayed. As Jack Dawes Mr Cecil Klein is all that could be desired; a clever character sketch is submitted by Mr Arthur Byron as Barnaby Mugg; as Bella Mugg Miss Madge Yates is extremely good; as the astute and reserved Detective Dexter Mr Arthur Chisholm is real and convincing; Mabel Valley is played in a bewitching manner by Miss Winnie Tempest; Miss Nellie Lucas as Mildred Carrington merits high eulogy; Mr Eugene Santley as David Carrington presents a highly finished embodiment; Mrs M'Ginty is played by Miss Daisy Norman in a manner reflecting on her considerable credit; and the part of the unscrupulous Arnold Travers could hardly have been in better hands than in those of Mr David G. Noble. As Hilda Valley Miss Grace Heywood's performance is remarkably clever. The scenery is exceptionally good, and Mr Walter Melville must feel gratified at the success of his visit.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Play, in Five Acts, entitled "TWO LITTLE VAGABONDS."

The attraction at the Grand this week has been the excellent company of Hardie and Von Leer in the well-known play, Two Little Vagabonds, which has drawn very good audiences. Miss May Hart as Dick and Miss Dorothy Marsden as Wally were delightful. Miss Laura Hansen in the part of Marion Thornton was extremely good, her portrayal of the innocent wife and grief-stricken mother being full of feeling and refinement. Miss Nell Oliver as Barbara Scarth played with much grace and emotional power. George Thornton was admirably enacted by Mr J. W. Henson, whose rendering was exceptionally praiseworthy. Mr E. G. Merrie as Captain Darville was a decided success; and Mr Basil Hillier made the most of the rôle of John Scarth. The comedy element was admirably supplied by Mr Alfred Russell as the "Gaffer," who was also excellent in his more serious scenes. He was well assisted by Miss Marie Pritchard, who, as Biddy, excited no little merriment. Mr Leslie Parker as Dido Bunce and Mr Fred Archer as "the Coughdrop" were worthy assistants, the "infant prodigy" especially being warmly appreciated. Miss Kathleen Morgan was good as Sister Randall, as was Mr Jack Royal as Leeson, Capt. Darville's soldier servant. The smaller parts were well sustained by Mr Stanley Field as the Landlord of the Chequers, Mr Hugh Holliman as the Sexton, Mr Henry Buckland as Constable Wiffin, Miss Freda Ulrich as the maid-servant, and Mr Malcolm Galland as the footman.

PRINCESS OF WALES'S, KENNINGTON.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Musical Comedy, in Two Acts, entitled "THE BELLE OF NEW YORK."

The popularity of this musical show is not waning, judging by the big audience at Kennington on Monday. Very warm indeed was the applause evoked by the various numbers. Mr Harry A. Meymott as Ichabod Bronson scored heavily, and Mr Philip Lester as Harry Bronson repeated his clever impersonation. Mr Max Copland was a very funny Polite Lunatic, and Mr Frank Lawton brought down the house by his clever whistling, bones-playing, and dancing. He received great assistance from Miss May Angus Young, a very lively Mamie Clancy. Mr Paddy Dupres did some really clever work as Kenneth Mugg. Mr Cecil Burt gave portly embodiment to Doc Snifkins; Mr Alfred Selby and Mr Albert Sealy worked hard as the Portuguese Counts; Mr Wilson and Mr Morton were good as the Reporter and Photographer respectively; and Mr Charles made a stentorian Gateman. As the Belle Miss Beatrice Lamotte was quite equal to the demands of the part, Miss Lilian Digges being a charming Fifi, and Kissie Fitzgarter and Cora Angelique being well represented by Miss Kitty Lindley and Miss Winnie Browne. Minor parts were ably sustained by Messrs Davis, Wakeman, Anson, and Forth; and Misses Wellbourne, Paget, Cammell, Webb, Ford, R. Stratham Forster, Donovan, and Middleton.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Play, by William Gillette and A. Conan Doyle, entitled "SHERLOCK HOLMES."

North Londoners are having a treat here in the shape of that thrilling drama Sherlock Holmes, which is presented in a most attractive way by the members of Mr Charles Frohman's company. Mr H. A. Saintsbury still plays the part of the detective, Sherlock Holmes, and although he has now appeared so many times in the same rôle, he does not miss a point in the portrayal of the cool and calculating man who forms the centre of interest in the story. Mr Lawrence Leyton as Dr. Watson and Mr Marc Macdermott as John Forman both do well, and Mr James F. Anson makes a dignified Sir Edward Leighton. Mr Gissing Walters does all that is required of him as Count Von Stalberg. Mr W. F. Stirling's Professor Moriarty would take a lot of beating in the way of a representation of consummate villainy. Mr Leslie Carter as James Larrabee; Mr Legai Robinson as Sidney Prince, and Mr Harold Boughton as Lightfoot M'Tague each help to sustain the interest of the piece. The male cast also includes Mr M. M. Loomis, Mr C. Walter, Mr William Wilson, Mr J. P. Kirkwood, and Mr E. R. Fairburn. Miss Vera Longden fully maintains the interest which centres in the character of Alice Faulkner, whose wrongs Sherlock Holmes is the means of righting, and Miss Clarice Doncaster is Mrs Faulkner. Madge Larrabee is well represented by Miss Maud Linden, and Miss Rosalie Notrelle as Thérèse and Miss Rosamund Rokeby as Mrs Smedley do all that is expected of them in their respective parts. Mr Douglas Munro, in addition to representing Jim Cragin, undertakes the duties of stage-manager.

SHAKESPEARE, CLAPHAM-JUNCTION.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Musical Pantomimical Comedy, in Four Acts, by Blum and Toché, entitled "THE SWISS EXPRESS."

The Renads, with their laughter-provoking play, continue on their triumphal way, and are this week on another visit to the handsome home of drama for Clapham-junction and Battersea, the popularity of the piece seeming undiminished, notwithstanding the fact that it has been played over 3,000 times. Mr Charles Renad and Mr Frederick Renad spare no efforts, and sustain the parts of the eccentric servants with energetic and mirth-provoking comicality. Miss Marie Millward as Virginia, the bride, has a good voice and is an accomplished dancer. Misses Rosie Chandler, May Cornish, Dolly Payne, and Hetty Coventry as the maids are pretty and accomplished singers and dancers, and add life and animation to the scenes. Miss Nellie Fern deserves praise as Mrs Septimus Squeeze; Mr Wilford Balley as the quack, Dr. Gondimar Gull, is a comedian of resource; Mr George Martin is the hero, Bob Rollingstone, and works hard; while Mr Alec Wylie makes a very funny character of Dudley Green. Mr George Power as the landlord of the inn and Mr H. Alexander as Mr Septimus Squeeze do good service. The company, a well-chosen one, also includes Messrs Harwood Cooper, Cecil Barrett, Fred Strachan, Joe Clark, J. Oliver Russell, A. Johnson, E. A Cooke, G. Mason, and Leloire, who do their utmost to keep the fun going and give the necessary variety to the scenes

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Drama, Adapted by W. B. Cecil Pierpoint, and entitled "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

A return visit of this interesting, amusing, emotional old favourite to the Kingston Theatre was hailed with a degree of favour on Monday night that showed unmistakably that it has not yet lost its hold on the public fancy. Mr Kora Deanrajah fills the title-rôle and invests the part with a keen pathetic interest. The parts of George and Eliza Harris are ably portrayed by Mr Edward Aldworth and Miss Cissie Shepton, and an interesting impersonation of the part of Little Eva is given by that promising young actress, Little Marie. Mr W. H. Cecil Pierpoint as Phineas Fletcher and Mr St. Just Beechey as the lawyer, Marks, succeed in sustaining the low comedy of the drama. Good work is also put in by Mr James Palmer and Mr Fred G. Kay as the slave owners, Selby and Legree respectively, and by Mr E. Kellen Taylor as Dan Haley, Mr Edward Simpson as Loker, and Mr Fred Martin as the auctioneer, Skeggs. A word of commendation is also deserved by Mr James Stewart as Adolphe, Miss Marie Lyndon as Ophelia, Miss Mabel Rutledge as Emmeline, Miss Kitty Wood as Topsy, and Miss Lilian Danby as Chloe. The plantation festival in the fourth act is well sustained by Miss Kitty Wood, Miss Lilian Francis, and Mr C. H. Mack, Sam Taylor, Sergeant H. Danby, and the Long Branch Minstrel Entertainers. The drama is well staged.

PRINCE OF WALES'S, RICHMOND.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Musical Comedy entitled "KITTY GREY."

This highly popular musical comedy has been presented by Mr C. St. John Denton's clever company with great success to large and appreciative audiences. Mr Leslie Harris as Lord Plantagenet makes a great hit as the soft and effeminate nobleman, his song with an accompaniment of quacking by two live ducks being greeted with roars of laughter. His dancing, too, is excellent. As Kitty Grey Miss Hilda Guiver also scores heavily, her fine voice being heard to great advantage. Mr Robert Selby makes another hit in the part of Sir John Binfield, and both in his singing and acting fully sustains the high level of ability reached by the other members of the company. As Lady Binfield Miss Elly Helene is most pleasing in appearance and shows herself to be a sound and capable actress in a trying part. Miss Emily Stevens as Mrs Bright is exactly fitted, and her song, "The feeling's all the same," is encored at least half-a-dozen times, while Mr Robert Whyte, jun., as the King of Illyria makes a jovial and amusing monarch and sings with good effect. Miss Nancy Wood as Sadie de Poisson is both smart and pretty. The minor parts are well filled, and the dresses and mounting of the play are exceedingly handsome.

BROADWAY THEATRE NEW-CROSS.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Drama entitled "THE STILL ALARM."

The appearance here this week of Messrs Glenville and Osmond's company in the American drama, entitled The Still Alarm, is proving very attractive. Mr Matthew Glenville is an earnest and convincing Jack Manley, and is a warm favourite. Mr Paul Lovett emphasises the villainy of John Bird and plays the part well, on conventional lines. Mr Tom Beasley is a smart and agreeable Willie Manley. Mr Fred Osmond elaborates with considerable success the important part of the drunken ne'er-do-well, Doc Wilbur. Mr Lewis Gordon plays Franklyn Fordham effectively; Mr Dan Mining is good as Joe Jones, the old fireman; Master Arthur Turner is good as the Messenger Boy; and other parts are in the capable hands of Messrs Arthur Downs, Henry Smith, George Owens, W. Edward, E. Tudor, H. Johnstone, G. Francis, and T. Varney. Miss Hettie Zillwood makes a hit as Cad Wilbur, and her songs and dances are well received. Miss Mabel Veriton is a gentle and lovable Mrs Manley, and Miss Mary Lovett as Elinore Fordham proves herself to be an excellent actress, being always pleasing and natural, and never exaggerated. The play is well mounted, the fire scene and fire station being particularly good.

"DAS VERMACHTNIS."
("THE HERITAGE.")
A Play, in Three Acts, by Arthur Schnitzler.

ACT I.

The family Losatte—father, mother, their two sons Hugo (twenty-six), Lulu (thirteen), and their daughter Franziska—live in a large town in comparative luxury. The play opens in Hugo's room. A friend comes to fetch him, and finding him out enters into conversation with Lulu. They are soon joined by the other members of the family, and by an aunt and cousin of Hugo. He who is out riding becomes the subject of conversation. They comment on his amiability and are pleased that he is such a general favourite. Still it has been noted by his people that of late he has appeared quiet and absorbed, often as if his real life was led apart from them. Especially has this impression been made on his aunt, his former confidant, and on his cousin Agnes, who is deeply attached to him. A friend of the family, Dr. Schmidt, a man risen from the masses, cold, unsympathetic, intending to further improve his position by marrying Franziska, arrives and makes some cynical remarks. At last the two girls are left alone. From the window they see two carriages approaching, and bet on which will first pass their house. To their surprise and dismay one of the carriages stops at their door, and a man, whom they recognise as Hugo, is carried into the house. He has been thrown from his horse and mortally injured. Feeling how near death he is, still conscious, he tells his mother that, not legally married, he has a wife and son to whom he is devoted. He begs her to send for them, that he may say farewell, and extracts her promise to acknowledge them and allow them to live in the house after his death. Hugo's father, dismayed by the news and by his wife's promise, decides to fetch the wife and child himself. The death scene, where the relatives, the wife and child with their varied emotions, the cold and cynical Dr. Schmidt attending the patient, are all present, is most thrilling and dramatic. At the end Hugo's mother whispers to her dying son: "Be at peace, my child; these two, your wife and child, have found a home."

ACT II.

A week has elapsed since Hugo's death; the family have accepted the situation, and Toni and her boy are living in the house. The grand-parents love the child, and do their utmost to gain his affection; and though not unkind to Toni make her feel her position. Only Franziska and the aunt Emma are really good to her. Agnes, stirred by her love for Hugo, tries to make a friend of Toni, but jealousy and conventionality stand in her way. Toni often speaks of her past happiness, and she and Franziska visit the former home of the happy trio together. No friends of the family have visited since the death of the son, and they feel they are social outcasts in consequence of the unconventional step they have taken. Dr. Schmidt considers such action justifiable, and is much shocked that Franziska has been allowed to go out with Toni. The husband of one of the married friends is announced as a visitor, and the parents go to receive him. Franziska returns, touched by the signs of love and devotion she has seen in Hugo's own home; Dr. Schmidt reproves her for having gone there with Toni. He says though friends will give them up, he will remain true to them in consequence of his attachment to Franziska, whose hand he asks in marriage. On the parents returning they report that the friend has intimated that his wife and daughter can no longer visit. Toni returns, bringing photographs, amongst them one of her late father. This Dr. Schmidt recognises having attended him in his last illness. He died alone, his daughter preferring to remain with her lover. Toni replies that she wished to visit her father after her union with Hugo, but he had refused to see her. Suddenly from the anteroom one hears the child cry for its mother. Toni goes and returns, excitedly exclaiming that he seems very ill. The doctor and family rush in to the boy. Franziska is left alone, and says, "Oh, my God, you will not take little Franzi from us!" as the curtain falls.

ACT III.

The boy is dead. A heavy gloom seems to hang over everything. Franziska and Lulu are busy packing up the child's playthings during the mother's absence. She soon returns looking sad and ill, her only hope that as they are soon going into the country, the fresh air may revive her. Dr. Schmidt has been at work using his influence to prejudice the parents, and prove to them how they suffer socially through Toni's presence. They would fulfil their duty if they gave her money to live elsewhere. The parents cannot summon up courage to propose this to Toni, and the doctor undertakes the unpleasant duty. The Aunt Emma, disgusted at their cruelty, determines to offer Toni a home, but Agnes, hearing this, refuses to remain with her mother under these conditions. Dr. Schmidt tells Toni the decision arrived at; at first she cannot grasp his meaning, but when she does, resolves to leave at once. She goes to her room, where she writes a note: "Do not search for me, it is too late." This message is found by Franziska, ignorant of the action taken by her parents. When she learns the truth she reproaches and spurns Dr. Schmidt. The father is indignant at Toni's behaviour; he had offered a competency, this surely was enough! Now, he says, he must suffer the ignominy of going to the police and requesting them to search for his son's mistress! Mother and daughter are left alone, bitterly reproaching themselves for their unkindness to Toni: "We only tolerated her presence, when we should have been good to her."

"DAS GOLDSTUCK."
("THE PIECE OF GOLD.")
By Guido List.

The time and scene of action of this play is the middle of the sixteenth century in and near Ferrara.

ACT I.

Near a monastery in a suburb of Ferrara, Gianetta, a highly respected lady-in-waiting of the Dogaressa, is assailed by Spinolo, well-known as the lover of the Dogaressa and a good many other ladies of the aristocracy. She is saved by Salvi, the Marchese of a neighbouring county. All three meet in the second scene at the State Ball of the Doge of Ferrara. They recognise each other. Spinola is arrested, and Salvi confesses his love and is accepted as fiancé by Gianetta.

ACT II.

Spinola is set free owing to the entreaties of the Dogaressa. He is forgiven by Salvi and Gianetta, but he and the Dogaressa swear that they will take revenge upon the young couple for being responsible for their separation.

ACT III.

Six months later. Salvi's Castle at Viterbo. Salvi and his beloved wife's perfect bliss and peaceful happiness is destroyed by Spinolo, who comes as the delegate of the Doge and pretends to intertain the friendliest feelings towards Salvi and Gianetta. He cunningly contrives to be left alone with the latter, and immediately sets to work to take his revenge. He asserts he is passionately in love with Gianetta, and gradually succeeds in breaking her resistance and pratically hypnotising her. When Salvi comes back he finds his wife in Spinola's embrace. He is mad with rage and grief, but realising that he must not harass Spinola, who comes as the ambassador of a friendly State, and must not compromise himself by killing Gianetta, he decides on a far more effective and severe punishment. He makes Spinola pay Gianetta the price he is wont to pay to those whose love is mercenary, and snatches it from her. For he does not merely intend to bring home to Gianetta how low she has fallen, but the golden piece is always to remind him of the deadly blow she dealt to his love and honour, and to prevent his love and pity ever getting the better of his revengeful spirit.

ACT IV.

Scene 1: At a fête of the Doge, Salvi and Gianetta appear. Outwardly they are on the most intimate terms, but inwardly, and when they are by themselves, they are miserably unhappy. For Salvi still loves Gianetta, but every time he feels inclined to give way to her piteous pleas for forgiveness, he plays with his tragic "souvenir," thus torturing her to maddening point. Upon being asked by the Dogaressa why he is always tossing about the golden piece, he proceeds to tell the brilliant assembly that it is a reminder of a disloyal act, without, however, disclosing the actual facts. Gianetta, frightened lest he may betray the secret, faints, and, exhausted by the constant torture and bitter remorse, dies; not, however, before having sworn to Salvi that she never loved any other man but him, and before having obtained his forgiveness and his assurance of his passionate love. Salvi throws the golden piece away and, uttering heart-rending cries, collapses. Scene 2: Ten years have elapsed, and Salvi, who, in spite of the splendour of his position, has never thought of anything but of finding the author of his and his late consort's misery, arrives at a monastery, where he hopes to find rest. The priest takes pity on the poor, haggard-looking man, and allows him to become a monk. At the ceremony, however, Salvi recognises amongst the brethren Spinola, and, overpowered by his craving for revenge, knocks him down. Then he tries to kill himself, but is prevented by the priest, who, perceiving that he is no common murderer, but one driven to his sinful deed by the most tragic force, sends him away to obtain God's forgiveness and rest for his soul and poor troubled spirit.

"KOLLEGEN."
("COLLEAGUES")
By the well-known American-German Dramatist
Annie Neumann-Hofer.

A certain Schwarz, a concert agent, has arranged a marriage between his two greatest "clients," thinking, by this diplomatic stroke, to secure them to himself; he asserts they are devoted to each other. He calls upon them on the morning of their concert in Berlin to introduce to them a Mr Van Bront, a pianist, but they are apparently asleep and cannot see him. After Schwarz's departure with Van Bront, Stella and her husband, Werner Hartmann, come in to breakfast; he is in a bad temper, and refuses to eat. They quarrel incessantly, as he says she owed her success the previous night to the fact of having played his composition. He begs her to omit it from the programme that night, so that he may more easily compete with her for success. She first refuses, then accedes to his request. Schwarz is then obliged to alter the programme twice, first to substitute a rhapsody of Liszt for a Mozart Concerto for Werner, then another item for Stella. Werner then reads some criticisms on his playing and considers the laudatory remarks much too meagre, and is jealous of the praise accorded Stella. This annoys him so much that he finally declines to play at all, and after nearly driving Schwarz and Stella to distraction, they decide to substitute Van Bront as a pianist. When Werner hears the latter practising with Stella his anger knows no bounds. He then makes Stella so nervous with an attempt at love-making that she also declares she will not play. Poor Schwarz is in despair. The butler Franz then delivers another paper to Werner in which he has seen a very laudatory notice on Werner's talent. Werner is so delighted at reading such nice things about himself, that, though he thinks Schwarz has postponed the concert, he decides after all to appear. Schwarz declares then that he had not put off the affair, and that they can play after all; he tells them the house is sold out, and there is a queue ever so long at the door. Both artists beam with delight, and after much excitement over the dressing, they depart to the concert hall, to poor Schwarz's great contentment.

"THE PRINCE."
Mdlle. Jane Vieu's Highly Successful Operetta.

The action of the play takes place in the Royalty of Holzembourg.

ACT I.

The State is in the greatest poverty, the people are trying to marry the Prince to a rich heiress, all the Court are endeavouring to find her in the advertisements of the journals. The Prince only thinks of his mistress, Sergine. An American millionaire, James Clarkson, a petroleum king, wishes the Prince to marry his young daughter, Fanny. The Prince is reasoned into accepting, and sends his suite to prepare the contract. Left alone in negligé, Arlette comes in; she is the new companion of his mother, the Queen Dowagar. Declaration. He does not tell or reveal to her that he is the Prince, and they arrange to correspond secretly by telephone. The Court return in despair, the magistrature is on strike; appeal to the armed forces impossible as the soldiers are on strike; recourse to the cannon is impossible, the only cannon is under repair. The Court retires alarmed. A conversation of love takes place through the telephone between the Prince and Arlette. The return of James Clarkson, who has bought the magistrature, secures success for the contract. The arrival takes place of the two lawyers for the signature of the Prince, who pretends to cut his finger to avoid signing; the Archduke does it in his place.

ACT II.

Scene: The large gardens of the Casino of Gaden-gaden a fashionable watering place of the principality of Holzembourg. Miss Clarkson's boat has won the prize offered for the prettiest yacht. The President presents her with a vase, made of the porcelain of the country, and excuses the obligatory absence of the Prince, who is retained at Holzembourg by the work of the Army Budget. The dialect of the petroleum king is most amusing. The Archduke arrives suddenly and announces that an impostor has introduced himself into the Palace and has stolen all the crown jewels. Interesting countenances of the two policeman, who at last find an occasion, after fifteen years of stagnation, to exercise their profession. The dinner hour sounds, everyone retires. Sergine arrives incognita. She is interviewed by an old friend, Marcifal, late Minister of Finance, really croupier at the Casino. Sergine discloses the embarrassing state of the Prince in love and financially, and they decide to break the bank in favour of the Prince on the number nineteen. The Prince and Arlette arrive disguised; he explains to Sergine that he has pawned all the crown jewels or diamonds for 96f. 3c. The policemen think they have found the thief. Arlette is still under the delusion that the Prince is only Mr Georges. The Prince and Arlette go out victorious, still disguised. The policemen tear off his beard. Great surprise. It is the Prince! Astonishment of Arlette.

ACT III.

Scene: Drawing-room in the Palace. The Court is holding a council on the scandal of the night before. Outside cries and shouts of the populace. The Prince comes in—arrival of Sergine, who is engaged to Clarkson, and who promises to find Arlette, who has been sent away and hidden by the Dowagar Queen. In a moment of gratitude the Prince embraces her (Sergine); they are surprised by Clarkson, who is furious, and who goes off to calm himself by taking a "tub." Arlette returns disguised as a modiste. The Prince marries Arlette and abdicates in favour of the Archduke. The new Prince will marry Fanny, and Sergine, Clarkson.

"ZAZA."

Zaza must be popular as played by Miss Fulton.—Yarmouth Mercury, July 23.

Congratulations to the latest Zaza, Miss Violet Fulton. Zaza is the ambition of all rising actresses of the emotional order. Miss Fulton, who has the Réjane cast of features, made a very decided hit as Zaza, and at the close of the performance was several times called to the front of the curtain for Fulham's applaufe.—M.A.P., May 28.

RETURN VISIT TO THE GRAND THEATRE, SWANSEA.—A few months have passed since the interesting production here with that powerful actress Miss Violet Fulton at its head. The descent of the curtain was the signal for a storm of applause.—Cambria Daily Leader, May 31, 1904.

Miss Violet Fulton won further laurels as Zaza, and at the end of each act was recalled. Miss Violet Fulton's Zaza has created quite a furore. On Monday night Miss Fulton was simply magnificent. —South Wales Daily Post, May 31 and June 4, 1904

The acting of Miss Violet Fulton was admirable, and found great favour with the audience. It is an excellent conception of a difficult part.—Bournemouth Observer, June 11th, 1904.

Miss Violet Fulton appears in the title-rôle with exceptional success. The part is a most difficult one, and Miss Fulton shows an intensity and plays with a vigour that grips the attention of her audience throughout.—Bournemouth Graphic, June 9, 1904.

MISS VIOLET FULTON.—At the matinée on Wednesday this talented actress appeared as Zaza with conspicuous success. It was an extremely good performance, and at the close of the performance she was enthusiastically recalled.—Hampshire Advertiser (Southampton), April 29.

At the matinée on Wednesday, at the Grand, Miss Violet Fulton gave a noticeably good performance, the curtain having to be raised again and again.—Southampton Amusements, April 30.

Saturday evening Miss Fulton was repeatedly called before the curtain at the conclusion of each act.—Hastings Observer, May 28.

It is a long time since a performance at the Theatre Royal has been received with such unstinted applause, and it is rarely that any artist has received three or four calls at the end of every act, an honour which has been accorded to Miss Violet Fulton. On Monday night, when Réjane was electrifying the audience at the Prince of Wales's Theatre with her familiar impersonation of the much-discussed character, Miss Fulton was capturing a crowded house here. It is in the fourth act that Miss Fulton sets the seal upon her triumph, when the thrilling scene occurs which parts her from her idol, and leaves her a broken toy. The house was roused then beyond a doubt. The applause was so frequent during the last scene that it became a little embarrassing, but as a compliment it was acceptable.—Aldershot News, June 18.

Miss Violet Fulton is magnificent. She is an actress of undoubted talent, and the house is fairly carried away by her skilful rendering of Zaza. She plays with great success upon the sympathies of her audience, who applaud her ever-changing moods with much enthusiasm. It is seldom that such skilful acting has been seen here. We venture to predict a very brilliant future for this charming young actress. Indeed, both Press and public are already much attracted by her rare powers.—Aldershot Military Mail, June 18.

Miss Violet Fulton has the title-rôle, and than her performance nothing finer could be desired. It is brilliant in the extreme, the product, indeed, of real genius.—Folkestone Herald, June 25.

"ZAZA" AT FOLKESTONE.—The character of Zaza has been entrusted to Miss Violet Fulton. There are those who say that no one can play Zaza like Mrs Waller, yet we cannot help bearing in mind the old adage about there being as good fish in the sea as ever yet were caught. The adage was never better exemplified than on Monday evening, when Miss Violet Fulton fairly "took the house by storm" by her magnificent interpretation of Zaza. At the end of the fourth act Miss Fulton is simply superb. Hardly ever have we heard any performer so enthusiastically applauded.—Folkestone Daily News, June 22.

Few present day actresses could attempt such a part, and fewer still could play it so successfully as Miss Fulton. As Zaza she took her audience with her, and carried them away in her different phases, &c.—Folkestone Chronicle, June 22.

Miss Violet Fulton is taking the part of Zaza, and her impersonation of the character captured a crowded house. Her heart was evidently in her work. She has acquired those indefinable touches which endow her acting with artistic quality, &c.—Southend Echo, June 29.

Miss Violet Fulton had a remarkable reception at the Empire on Monday. Rarely has finer acting been seen in Southend. Alike on the tragic as well as on the lighter side she revealed the powers of a great artiste, and held her large audience spellbound, &c. —Southend Observer, June 30.

RAMSGATE PAVILION.—The outstanding feature of the production is Miss Violet Fulton in the title-part, in which she reveals all the powers of a really great artist, and the enthusiasm of a crowded house must have delighted the lessee and his host of well-wishers. Miss Violet Fulton is a host in herself. Her impassioned outburst in the fourth act was a triumph of dramatic skill. Miss Fulton's playing, indeed, was a revelation, and applause was rained on her in torrential volumes all through Monday evening. She obtained a remarkable ovation.—East Kent Times (Ramsgate), July 6.

Miss Violet Fulton gave a brilliant interpretation, and was time after time recalled at the close of the acts. The enthusiasm of the audience knew no bounds. The performance was faultless.—Thanet Times (Margate), July 15.

One of the best performances of this season is that of Zaza, Miss Violet Fulton being a perfect impersonation of a character that only a thorough artiste could give. — Thanet Journal (Margate), July 13.

"ZAZA."—Much of the weight of this great production rests upon the leading lady, and the part at once demands an actress of experience, emotion, and power. In our view Miss Violet Fulton embodies these qualities fully and soundly. The great scene, tumultuous, tearing, pleading, volcanic, of act four was a triumph—nothing less—for Miss Fulton. Again and again was a recall demanded, and despite her efforts previously made, the actress bravely responded to the applause so worthily bestowed.—Yarmouth Mercury, July 23.

BATH ASSEMBLY ROOMS.

The new lessee of the above rooms, Mr Edward S. Michel, has shown great enterprise in redecorating them thoroughly. The intention in the ball room is to produce refinement and brilliancy combined. A cream and gold scheme has, therefore, been introduced, which, when scintillating among the mirrors, will have this effect. In the supper room warmth and richness is the effect aimed at, and this is obtained by introducing a café-au-lait tint, with old gold enrichments; a series of low-toned landscapes in circular panels, and a soft crimson dado. In the Octagon the lower front is simply panelled in green and white mouldings, all the interest being reserved for the paintings. Above are full-length portraits of men who were at one time interested in the rooms—one is an original by Gainsborough. In the card room the intention is to aim at the effect of a little salon, and it is decorated in a delicate tint of Rose du Barry and cream, with paintings over the chimney-piece after the style of Watteau.

Various improvements have been effected, the most notable being the addition of fresh exits. The apartment which is best known as the tea room can now be approached direct from the street; it has three distinct exits, and is newly floored throughout. In the ballroom a new broad exit has been constructed, which, it is calculated, will empty the great salon in three minutes. In connection with this apartment—which is also called the concert hall, just as the alternative name of the tea room is the concert-room—are anterooms, modern lavatories, &c., and also artists' rooms, which have been recently added, and have a separate entrance direct from the street. The cardroom, also, is now made accessible by a second entrance from the street. In addition to the redecoration of the entire range of rooms, and the construction of convenient exits, the improvements include the installation of a complete scheme of electric lighting, and the introduction of the electric light into the cut-glass Vauxhall candelabra has produced a strikingly beautiful effect. The thorough heating and ventilation of the rooms has been carried out on a modern principle. A large space around the roof of the Octagon is devoted to the purposes of a heating and cooling chamber. All the air is drawn from the outside (entirely independent of natural temperature—heat, frost, or tempest) by means of a huge revolving fan, and forced through a saturated screen of matting which automatically removes all bacteria and impurities. In cold weather the absolutely pure and fresh air thus obtained is driven over an elaborate system of hot water coils into the ventilation chamber, from which point it is conveyed to any part of the building in use at the time. In hot weather the air is drawn through a powerful refrigerator, and thus distributed through the rooms perfectly cool and refreshing. An auxiliary system of radiators is also utilised for heating purposes, and a new boiler house has been erected at the north-west corner of the premises.

NEW EALING THEATRE.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Drama, by George R. Sims and Wilson Barrett, entitled
"THE GOLDEN LADDER."

The Golden Ladder is a drama of intense human interest, and the way it is played by Miss Mary Austin and E. Vivian Edmonds's company adds to its attractive qualities. The Madagascar scenes are especially good. Mr Harry Cullenford as the Rev. Frank Thornhill, the sympathetic clergyman, acts the part in delightful manner, and Miss Mary Austin as Lilian Grant is exceedingly good in her rendering of the part. Mr E. Vivian Edmonds as Michael Severn makes a polished villain; Mr Graham Winsford as M. Peranza ably seconds him in his nefarious designs; and the humorous scenes are in the hands of Mr John Owen as Samuel Peckaby and Miss Nellie Graham as Mrs Peckaby, who both afford ample satisfaction and amusement. Mr Joseph Rowland plays the part of Jim Dixon excellently, and Mr Ernest Ramsay as Noah Learoyd, who has a rich Yorkshire accent, is very good. Miss Ethel Patrick, who acts the "up-to-date" daughter of the Peckabys, and Little Doris Dale as Lily both give every satisfaction.

OPERA HOUSE, CROUCH-END.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Farcical Comedy, in Three Acts, entitled
"FACING THE MUSIC."

Mr Gerald Alexander's company is this week presenting that side-splitting farcical comedy Facing the Music, which had a genuine reception from a gratified audience on Monday. The cast is judiciously chosen. Mr Tim Ryley as John Smith introduces so much humour in the impersonation that he is warmly applauded throughout for his artistic handling; Mr Coningsby Brierly contributes a capital interpretation of the rôle of the Rev. John Smith; as Dick Desmond Mr Patrick Evans submits a highly enjoyable and vivacious exposition; the part of Colonel Duncan Smith is sustained with great nonchalance by Mr Cecil Newton; and of the detective, Sergeant Duffell, quite a feature is made by Mr George N. Wallace. Miss Mavis Hope is responsible for a spirited and convincing portraiture of Mabel; a charming and well-played part is that of Nora by Miss Bertha Grahame; Miss Fotheringay is safely entrusted to Miss Ethel Hope; and Miss Rose Carew is a capable exponent of the cautious housekeeper, Mrs Pounting. Barbara, which precedes, meets with general approval. By the kindness of Mr Duncan Young, a contingent of the youthful members of the local Mayfield Cricket Club visited the performance, and heartily enjoyed their treat. The sole lessee is making himself extremely popular.

GREENWICH THEATRE, S.E.

On Monday, Aug. 22, the Musical Play, entitled
"A PLUCKY NIPPER."

Miss Bonwin Carlton and company are appearing here this week in the above successful musical play. Mr Edward Surrey plays Bill Burgess with remarkable success; Mr Ernest Regent acts powerfully as Colonel Fenwick, and adds much to the success of the performance; Mr Claude Kingston is a dignified and capable Henry Paget; Mr A. F. Dudley gives a manly and earnest interpretation of Captain Frank Leslie; Mr Edward Fryer is an impressive Richard Vanbrugh; Mr Douglas Campbell does well as Tommy Atkins; and other rôles are well filled by Mr Harry Marks, Mr Philip Esmond, and Mr William Joyce. Miss Fanny Morse is successful as Ina Fenwick; Miss Esther Lamont is an interesting Daisy; and Miss Bonwin Carlton charms all present by her clever performance as Polly Hithard.

PARIS NOTES.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

We have rece... Greening and Co. a c... Turner's amusing historical ... "Damages." Quite cleverly writ... court, when Cynthia Walpole undert... tion in the course of the action—really a ... affair"—which she is bringing against Lord Gillie in order to punish his father, Lord Porth, for his meanness. It reads as follows:—

"Miss Cynthia Walpole," called out Mr Courtly the moment Sir Robert had finished, and Cynthia, at a nudge from Mr Nibble, got up to make her way to the witness-box.

"How old are you, Miss Walpole?" asked Mr Courtly, when her name, Christian name, and other formal answers had been taken down.

"How old are you?" he asked, in a mild sweet voice, which caused one of the ladies at the back to exclaim, "Just as if he were speaking to her in Piccadilly."

"Twenty," answered Cynthia, and Sir Alfred Cardboard gave, with intention, a hurried cough, and looked at the jury.

"When were you twenty?" asked the judge, beamingly.

"In June, my lord," answered Cynthia, casting down her eyes.

Mr Nibble smiled approvingly from the well of the court. It was quite right of Cynthia to be born in June.

Mr Courtly now proceeded to put a few questions as to the early life and profession of Miss Walpole, all of which, being quite simple, she answered quite simply.

Then at the inevitable moment Sir Alfred Cardboard called out—

"Don't lead, please."

"Tell us in your own words, Miss Walpole," said Courtly.

"I was introduced to Lord Gillie one night at supper, and I suppose he took a fancy to me at once. He called a day or two after, and we saw each other from time to time."

"Yes?" (Thrown in by Mr Courtly by way of encouraging the witness.)

"One day he asked me to marry him."—"Yes?"

"I hesitated some little time, then I said ——"

"Yes?"

"Yes."

"And then?"—"Then we were engaged."

At this point Mr Courtly proceeded to read the letters which Lord Gillie had sent to Miss Walpole, and the Court was much amused at their production. Evidently they made a great impression on the jury, who, at every definite promise of marriage and every affectionate phrase, nodded at each other as if they had been wise enough to discover that Lord Gillie had really been serious in his intentions with regard to Miss Walpole.

Mr Courtly only asked a few questions more, which elicited from Miss Walpole that she had been attached to Lord Gillie, that she was much upset at receiving a letter from his lawyers breaking off the engagement, and that she took legal proceedings with a view to punishing Lord Gillie for his summary treatment of her, and to right herself with the public.

That over, Mr Courtly sat down and Sir Alfred Cardboard got up. The latter gentleman was not an ideal man for the present case. He was a bully and an able one, but his knowledge of the world led him no further than to think that all actresses were scheming people, who went about seeking whom they might devour. In a case which required delicate handling he was apt to set the jury against him by his brutality. He cross-examined everyone as if the witness had done something fraudulent, and would be better placed in the dock of the Old Bailey than in the witness-box of a civil court.

He began abruptly, looking at his brief and not at Miss Walpole.

"Where were you born, madam?"—"In London."

"When?"

Here he looked at the jury with a scowl, and then at Cynthia.

"Twenty years ago."

"About when the electric light was introduced into public buildings," said Sir Alfred, and for the moment one felt that Cynthia was rather a middle-aged woman.

"When did you first go on the stage?"

"About four years ago."

"Now, I see there is an interview with you in this paper which purports to give some details as to your life." Sir Alfred held up a copy of the interview which Miss Walpole had given to the reporter on the occasion of her début at the Colonial Theatre.

Cynthia looked at the paper which was handed to her by the usher.

"Yes, sir."

"Now, you see the photo. of the little girl and the dog, with a castle in the background!"

"Yes."

"Who is that little girl?"

"It says at the bottom of the photo., 'Miss Cynthia Walpole at the age of three.'"

"I know it says that, but is it you?"

"I don't recognise myself, but then my memory does not go back so far as that."

At this moment, after a word from Nibble, Sir Robert Cark rose and said—

"I have a witness here, the plaintiff's guardian, who is responsible for the photo. She will give Sir Alfred any explanation with regard to it, but Miss Walpole has no personal knowledge of it."

"We shall see," said Sir Alfred.

"Now, Miss Walpole," he continued, "when you met Lord Gillie first, you knew who he was?"

"Certainly, or I should not have allowed him to be introduced to me."

Mr Nibble smiled sweetly; she was a beautiful witness.

"You knew his expectations?"—"No."

"You knew he was a great catch?"

"I never heard of him as a cricketer."

Mr Justice Daniel looked severely at Cynthia.

"Answer the questions, madam," he said.

Sir Alfred waited for another answer.

"I don't understand the question," said Cynthia.

"You knew it would be a great thing if you could marry him?"

"I didn't think about it when I was introduced to him, but of course it would be."

"Did Lord Gillie give you any presents before he proposed marriage?"

"He gave me a ring."

"And you accepted it?"

"Yes."

"You have received a good many presents, I suppose—from various people?"

"Am I to answer that question, my lord?" said Cynthia.

Mr Justice Daniel, pleased at being referred to, and feeling it was Sir Alfred's turn to receive a snub, said—

"You had better answer the question, but I shall tell the jury that young ladies in your position have presents forced on them by an admiring public. An actress, gentlemen," said he, turning to the jury, "does things which might be strange for other people, but which are perfectly correct for her."

"Then you did receive presents?" persisted Sir Alfred.

"Sometimes."

"And letters?"

"Often."

"Containing offers of marriage?"

"Sometimes."

"None of which you accepted?"

"None."

In the end, Cynthia gets heavy damages, which she proceeds to divide with the good-natured Lord Gillie.

LANCASTER.

ATHENÆUM.—Proprietor and ... Wilkinson.—Called Back ... are evidently as T. Arthur Jones's ... final night of her visit to Arthur Jones at Margate, last week, an alarming Capt. Hazelrigg. A large audience was witness... performance of The Good Hope, when ... one in the gallery shouted "Fire!" A number of people rose from their seats, women screamed, and a panic seemed inevitable. But the manager, keeping perfectly cool, shouted to the audience to keep their seats, and his efforts to allay excitement were well seconded by the staff in front. Miss Terry, who was on the stage, remained perfectly cool and collected, and her unmoved demeanour did much to restore the confidence of the audience.

THE late Mr Wilson Barrett has left estate which has been valued at the gross amount of £30,8 62. It is pleasant to note that the financial reward of Mr Barrett's labours was as satisfactory as the approbation bestowed on him by the public was enthusiastic.

MR GEORGE ALEXANDER—whom Mr G. Washington Brock, the "dress expert" considers to be the best-dressed man in London—is delighted to be the means of restoring the name of Mr Sydney Grundy to the playbills. Mr Alexander thinks Mr Grundy is one of the most brilliant of living dramatists. He has adapted Mr Justus Miles Forman's story, "The Garden of Lies," and it will be produced at the St. James's Theatre on Saturday, with Mr Alexander, Mr Herbert Dansey, Mr Mark Kinghorne, Mr Charles Fulton, Mr Leslie Faber, Mr E. H. Brooke, Mr Gerald Jerome, Mr Richard Dalton, Miss Coriscande Hamilton, Miss Margaret Busse, Miss Elinor Aickin, and Miss Lillian Braithwaite in the cast.

THE last place in which we should expect to find a successful dramatist is flying round in the air on a board at the rate of eighty miles an hour. Attached to the Maxim flying machine at the Crystal Palace, on Thursday, was an immense kite supporting a platform of boards, on which a man lay face downwards, and which swept round at the rate just mentioned. Sir Hiram Maxim was making experiments in connection with a scheme he has in hand for a new airship, and the passenger was Mr Metcalfe Wood, part author of The Elder Miss Blossom, who, according to his own statement, experienced a "peculiar feeling" after his flight.

MISS MARIE TEMPEST has been learning to swim at Dieppe, and her lessons in the water have been watched by large and interested crowds.

WE regret to announce the death of Mrs Eliza Jane Weathersby, who was a member of the Haymarket company from 1858 to 1879, during the managements of J. B. Buckstone and John S. Clarke. Twenty-one years in one company at a West-end theatre constitutes a record.

MISS JENNIE LEE, who will make her reappearance in London in Mr Kennedy-Cox's new play at the Royalty on Monday, has played Jo in the adaptation of "Bleak House" of the same name, nearly 9,000 times. She first sustained the part in a version of the novel at the California Theatre, San Francisco, in 1874. On the advice of the late Dion Boucicault, her husband, Mr J. P. Barnett, wrote another version, which was produced two years afterwards at Liverpool. Jo ran for many months at the Olympic Theatre. Miss Lee has appeared as Jo in sixteen London theatres, all over America, and in every part of Australia, in South Africa, and in India.

THE many friends of the veteran John Billington will be sorry to hear that he continues to be very unwell.

MR BEERBOHM TREE has fixed the date of his revival of The Tempest at His Majesty's Theatre for Sept. 14. In the second scene of the play he has "moved" the dialogue between Prospero and Miranda into Prospero's cell. Mr Tree, who will play Caliban, realises that the "savage and deformed slave" is not a comic character, and will enact it accordingly. Mr Lionel Brough will be the Trinculo, Mr Louis Calvert the Stephano, Mr Basil Gill the Ferdinand, and Miss Norah Kerin the Miranda. Much of the Tempest music composed by the late Sir Arthur Sullivan will be introduced, while Mr Raymond Roze has composed some additional airs. The real ship will be 44ft. in length. The play is arranged in four acts, and the performance will begin at half-past eight.

SEVERAL leading managers have recently been approached respecting "The Theatre of the Future." Mr George Dance said "I hold the opinion that the theatre of the future will give the public what it asks for, just as it has done in the past. It will, therefore, 'elevate' or 'amuse,' according to its patrons' demands. And since the popular modern tendency seems inclined to amusement rather than the higher education, I should say the drama of the future will not elevate, but only amuse." Mr Frank Curzon stated:—"I am sorry I cannot give my views, as I do not think they would be interesting." Mr Wilfred Cotton wrote:—"I think that the drama of the future is the drama which will interest, amuse, and tend to elevate its audiences, leaving the question of educating them entirely alone."

THE prospectus has been issued, in Hebrew and English, of the Orient Theatre, Commercial-road, E. The proposed builder and chairman, and the proposed managing directors state that there is a great want for a Jewish theatre in the East-end of London. A most eligible site has been secured; plans have been prepared by Mr Bertie Crewe, the architect for the new Lyceum Theatre, and have already been passed by the Theatre Committee of the London County Council, for a building to accommodate upwards of 2,100 persons.

MR EDWARD TERRY and company's performance of The House of Burnside at Margate on Wednesday was most enthusiastically received, four calls for the artists being given after each act. M. Georges Mitchell, the author of the original French piece from which Mr Louis N. Parker made the adaptation, came over specially from France and was in front of the house. He had a most cordial reception from the delighted audience.

WE regret to hear that Miss Louise Moodie, who has recently returned from America, has been lying seriously ill at her residence, 68, Weltje-road, W. Miss Moodie is, we are glad to learn, mending slowly, and hopes soon to be in harness again.

MR CHARLES MANNERS, who for the last few weeks has been busily engaged in superintending the rehearsals of his South African company, starts for Marienbad on Monday for a week's holiday and rest. His charming wife is already staying at the famous Continental watering place, which the patronage of Royalty has made so fashionable.

MR BEN GREET and his company left London for New York on Thursday morning for their third tour through the United States. Mr Greet will confine himself entirely to Shakespearian plays this autumn. Mr Greet may be described as a regular "mascot" for artists who have practically studied their first lines under his excellent guidance. Mrs Patrick Campbell, Miss Dorothea Baird, Mr Basil Gill, and Mr H. B. Irving passed through a good deal of their early dramatic experiences with Mr Greet, and are now stars in the theatrical firmament. An artist who owes not a little to Mr Greet's tuition is Miss Edith Wynne Matthison, who has had five years' experience of Shakespearian characters under his management, and was recently secured by Sir Henry Irving.

MR J. BANNISTER HOWARD has just entered into an arrangement with Mr Beerbohm Tree, by which the former has taken over the entire rights for the British Isles of The Eternal City, along with Mr Tree's special scenery and dresses. Mr Howard has also secured from Mr Tree the No. 2 touring rights of The Darling of the Gods. He is sending out a company with this beautiful Japanese play towards the end of the year, and will tour it through the spring and autumn. Mr Howard is rapidly taking a front seat among the managerial fraternity, for, in addition to his other ventures, he has companies travelling all over the United Kingdom with Florodora, La Poupée, The Fatal Wedding, The Eternal City, and The Belle of New York, while at the same time he is piloting the fortunes of Mr Maxwell's company in Quality Street.

MR BANNISTER HOWARD'S fine New Theatre at King's Lynn is fast approaching completion. It is being arranged to hold 1,500 people, and will be lighted throughout by electricity. The house is being decorated and furnished by Messrs Dean and Co., and is to open on Sept. 19 with the Moody-Manners No. 1 company, who will specially travel from London to perform Tannhäuser, Carmen, Faust, Bohemian Girl, Daughter of the Regiment, Maritana, and Cavalleria Rusticana. This new theatre will provide useful dates for companies to fill after Cambridge. Instead of producing his own pantomime at Christmas Mr Howard has engaged three distinct touring pantomime companies with three distinct and different entertainments to appear for one week each. They will be Edward Marris's Dick Whittington, J. Restall's Cinderella, and Milton Bode's Babes in the Wood. Mr Howard has appointed Mr Herbert Leonard to be the manager of the King's Lynn New Theatre. Mr Leonard has recently been busily engaged in putting things in order at the Theatre Royal, Ryde, and has now gone to King's Lynn. Mr Howard has had a Royal box built in the theatre, and a special entrance, so that he is fully prepared should his establishment be honoured by a visit from Royalty.

MISS MARY JERROLD, who is now a member of Mr and Mrs Kendal's company, tells a good story of a provincial landlady's dramatic criticism. Miss Jerrold once gave this particular landlady a couple of seats for the theatre, and asked her afterwards whether she had enjoyed the play. "Oh, well, Miss," was the candid reply, "it was a rest and sit down!"

ONE of the smartest captures of pirated music ever made took place on Thursday morning in the neighbourhood of Holborn-viaduct. Mr John Abbott, the Assistant Secretary of the Musical Copyright Association, in company with one of the agents of the Association, was passing a suspected printing-office on his way to business, when he took it into his head to enter the premises and reconnoitre. Walking boldly up stairs he found on the first floor landing some suspicious-looking packages, and, tearing the wrappers, he found his surmises correct, and instantly threw all the parcels out of a window into the street to his companion, who called a constable. No fewer than 11,000 copies of pirate music were thus netted, and the printer subsequently surrendered the blocks. Mr Abbott would be a decided acquisition to "the Yard."

MESSRS HARRISON AND MAUDE have had a barge thirty feet long built for the production of The Beauty and the Barge at the New Theatre on Tuesday. A new one-act piece called That Brute Simmons, adapted from one of Mr Arthur Morrison's "Tales of Mean Streets," by Messrs Arthur Morrison and Herbert C. Sargent, will be the curtain-raiser, with Mr Frederick Volpé, Mr C. Cheesman, and Miss Carlotta Zerbini in the cast.

THE American Managers' Association is advocating the abolition of the practice of giving free tickets for advertising privileges. There are stores in Sixth-avenue that do a large trade in such tickets.

IN spite of the great heat the Comédie Française, Paris, gave thirty performances in July; but the average receipts per performance were only £77 10s. Hamlet drew the largest audience, the receipts on that day being over £135.

MR PAUL POTTER, in an interview published in the New York Herald, thinks that American critics are the most ferocious in the world, and says:—"In New York the drama and the dramatic author are 'slammed' right and left. There is precious little regard for the unities. All of this I know because I have been there. There is no country on earth where the dramatic author gets such little attention as he does in the United States." Mr Potter believes that many clever authors are deterred from writing plays by the haunting thought of the merciless critics of New York; and says that in Paris it is very different, the notices there, even when they are unfavourable, being "put up with a certain delicacy of touch that makes the bitter pill seem quite palatable." In the latter city, according to Mr Potter, "it has been the poor manager that has been downtrodden. In America the poor manager has pretty well looked out for himself, and the poor author has done the best he could."

REFERRING to The School Girl, of which Mr Potter is part author, and which is about to be produced in New York at Daly's Theatre, Mr Potter recalled the fact that his first success was with a musical comedy called The City Directory. "Since then," he said, "I have written a number of plays. Of all these Trilby caught the public fancy the most, and incidentally brought me the most money, but Trilbys do not occur every year."

MR POTTER remarked that he had never seen a performance of The School Girl. He was just blasé and hardened enough to take very little interest in the première. In fact he ought not to be taken into consideration with it at all, because no author who wrote a musical comedy knew what it was going to be like when it was put on the stage. The stage manager, or the proprietor of the show, was considerably more the author of a musical play than the man whose name appeared on the programme. Mr Potter had discovered whilst writing The School Girl that the American taste in musical comedy was much lower than the English taste, and gave as the reason that the English drama had "gone to the everlasting bow-wows." There was no English drama any more. It did not amount to a hill of beans beside the American drama.

"IN England, no matter what they tell you, American plays are not successes. The unthinking outsider will say, 'Look at the phenomenal runs in London of Sherlock Holmes and Trilby,' but it must be remembered that Sherlock Holmes was really written by an Englishman, Dr. Conan Doyle, and that Trilby was not written by me, but by an Englishman, Du Maurier. I am sure that Mr Gillette will agree with me in thus taking from him the honours of his very clever dramatisation and still cleverer impersonation. For myself, I know that it was Mr Du Maurier, and not I, that attracted the English public. Outside of these two plays, I can think of none brought from New York that has been financially worth while, which proves that 'the hands across the sea' are not so firmly clasped.

"NOW, on the other hand, in America everything English is welcome, even though the welcome is with the open mouth of bad manners and loud guffaw of the peasant. It shows a heartiness and an appreciation which does not exist anywhere else in the world, and is none the less appreciated by the authors who write from the other side of the Atlantic and whose ambitions are stirred and hearts warmed by the responsive American audience."

MR ARTHUR BOURCHIER will produce this evening at the Garrick Theatre a new and original comedy, in three acts, by Henry Arthur Jones, entitled The Chevalier. Besides Mr Bourchier himself, the cast will include Mr Walter Pearce, Mr O. B. Clarence, Mr H. Nye Chart, Mr A. E. Matthews, Mr Sydney Valentine, Mr Webb-Darleigh, Mr Richard Fielding, Mr David Domville, Mr Arthur Chesney, Mr Stuart Dennison, Mr F. G. Knott, Miss Violet Vanbrugh, Miss Nancy Price, Miss Ethelwyn Arthur Jones, and Miss Margery Fane.

MR GEORGE EDWARDES will, by arrangement with Mr Frank Curzon, produce at the Comedy Theatre, on Sept. 17, an adaptation from the French, by William Boosey, entitled His Highness My Husband. The cast will include Miss Miriam Clements, Miss Lottie Venne, Mr Leonard Boyne, Mr Paul Arthur, Mr Herbert Ross, and Mr Phillip Cunningham. The play will be produced under the direction of Mr Gilbert Hare.

A CERTAIN amount of misapprehension appears to exist as to the new management at the Adelphi Theatre. Mr Otho Stuart is the sole responsible manager of the theatre, and Mr Oscar Asche is under engagement to him as director of the stage department.

AT the Royalty Theatre on Monday the curtain will rise at 8·45 precisely on Mr Reginald Kennedy-Cox's play The Chetwynd Affair. The production of the one-act "front piece" called Eriksson's Wife will be postponed until Saturday.

MR F. R. BENSON'S autumn tour commences at Buxton, on Thursday, with Othello. On the following Monday his company will open at the Spa Theatre, Scarborough, and on that day his touring school will open. On and after Sept. 12 his London offices will be at 11, Henrietta-street (second floor), Covent-garden, whence Mr Benson's Shakespearian companies and other enterprises will be controlled by his manager, Mr Alfred Smyth-Pigott.

"THE NEW HOUSEMAID" was the attraction booked by Mr Buchanan for last week, the second of his new Gaiety Theatre, Ayr, and excellent business resulted. Opening to a well-filled house on the Monday, business increased by leaps and bounds during the week, finishing with a crowded house on the Saturday night. The piece is now being toured by Mr E. Oswald Brooks alone, his partnership with the author, Mr Charles Windermere having been dissolved. The company, headed by Mr Ralph Roberts, is in every way a capable one, and includes Messrs Somers Bellamy, Pan E. Draco, John H. Costello, Charles Calvert, H. M. Ashley, Miss Ethel L. Caryllon, Miss Ella Edgar, Mrs William Mallalieu, Miss Madge Haines, and Miss Pattie Elliott.

LADY GREGORY was last Saturday granted a patent for a new theatre for the production of Irish plays in Dublin, the promoter being Miss Horniman, of Montague-gardens, London. Mr J. H. Campbell, M.P., the Solicitor-General, acting on behalf of the Irish Attorney-General, granted the patent under the Irish Act of 1786, which vests the power of licensing Dublin theatres in the Lord-Lieutenant. The Lord Chamberlain's jurisdiction does not extend to Ireland, and outside the Irish capital there is no theatrical authority.

"THE DRAMATIC MIRROR"—the American paper in which the Actors' Fund of America was originated and of which the manager of the Manhattan Theatre is proprietor and editor—says: "Mr Stephen Fiske contends that the best practical plan to aid the Actors' Fund—whose treasurer's report this year shows a serious excess of expenditure over receipts and a consequent shrinkage in assets—is 'to oblige every professional to belong to the Fund—no membership, no engagement.' There is no question that it is a solemn duty for every actor to belong to the Fund Association and to pay it $2 a year. If this duty were fulfilled the Fund would be independent of benefits and other uncertain sources of revenue. It is a reproach to the profession that of its thousands of members only about nine hundred retain membership from year to year. It would seem that there is no better way than that suggested by Mr Fiske to make the profession support its own charity. Membership in the Actors' Fund should be made a condition of every engagement contract."

MRS LESLIE CARTER, the American actress, does not drink or smoke, and eats very simple food. She never tasted a mint julep in her life, yet she has an ambition. It is to play Macbeth, making the character thoroughly feminine.

AT the Crown Theatre, Peckham, last Saturday night, in the course of a performance of The Midnight Mail, a lad named Belcher fell from the front of the amphitheatre into the gangway at the side of the stalls, a distance of 40ft. His right arm was broken and his face bruised. After his injuries had been dressed, he was removed to the Camberwell Infirmary.

THE King, who is at Marienbad, went to the theatre there on Tuesday and witnessed a performance of Tannhauser, for which some of the Bayreuth singers had been specially engaged.

MR FRED COOKE, having taken a lease of the Blaydon-on-Tyne Theatre, will open it on Monday, Sept. 5, with Mr Henry Swinerd's No. 1 company, under the direction of J. W. Cordiner, in Dare-Devil Dorothy.

MRS BENNETT has been re-engaged for lead for the autumn season at the Elephant and Castle Theatre.—Messrs Chudleigh and Frohman, whose tour of The Duke of Killicrankie will start at Buxton early in September, have engaged Mr Langhorne Burton, who has toured recently as Ernest Woolley, in The Admirable Crichton, and as David Cairne, in Mrs Gorringe's Necklace, to play the name-part.—Mr Norman A. Overton has been re-engaged by Miss Winifred Maude for his old part in The Sins of a City.—Miss Auriol Lee, who has been in America with Mr Forbes-Robertson all his tour, and scored a success as Bessie Broke, in The Light that Failed, is going on his English tour again as Bessie and Joanna Goodlake, in Mice and Men.

THE Coatbridge Theatre Royal, which was reopened on Monday evening, has undergone complete transformation, and the cost of the alterations "totals up" to close upon £3,000. The proscenium opening, which is protected by a patent fireproof water curtain, completely isolates the stage. Framed of steel, and nicely adjusted on ball bearings, this curtain is constructed so that when in position above the proscenium a flow of water, when required, will lower it and continue to cover the entire screen. The stage accommodation has been widened, and can now take on the widest scenery touring. The dressing-rooms have been overhauled and refurnished, and a new stage door has been introduced. The seating accommodation in all parts has been extended, lavatories with tile walls added, doorways widened, and extra exits formed by the construction of two new concrete stairways leading to outlets on the ground floor near the stage. All the doors have been fitted with patent panic bolts, and open outwards on the slightest pressure from within. There are now three sets of private boxes, and the upholstering, curtains, and chairs are of crimson plush. The gallery has had great attention, the pit stalls are entirely new, while the dress-circle has been enlarged, and behind tip-up chairs of the most modern pattern improve the balcony in a marked degree. Mrs Watson, the proprietrix, deserves warm praise for launching out into such expense for the benefit of her patrons and the travelling companies visiting the house.

MR A. W. PINERO, who is in Scotland finishing his new play, to be produced in due course at Wyndham's Theatre, wishes it to be known that the principal male part has been allotted to Mr Dion Boucicault, who is now in New York superintending the rehearsals of Letty at the Hudson Theatre there.

MR CHARLES FROHMAN'S cast of Merely Mary Ann at the Duke of York's Theatre on Thursday, Sept. 8, will include Mr Henry Ainley, Mr Gerald Du Maurier, Mr George Raiemond, Mr Hubert Willis, Mr Alfred Mansfield, Mr Cranley Douglas, Miss Ada Dwyer, Miss Mabel Garden, Miss Maud Wynter, Miss Susie Vaughan, Miss Geraldine Olliffe, Miss Cartwright, Miss Rosa Leo, Miss Hilda Franklyn, Mrs Sam Sothern, Miss Eleanor Robson, and Mr Howard Templeton.

SIR FRANK BURNAND has gone with Sir William Agnew in his steam yacht Greta at Oban for a cruise on the coasts of Scotland.

MR E. S. WILLARD commenced his autumn tour on Monday at the Opera House, Blackpool, with The Middleman. The reception accorded to him personally and to the play was of the most enthusiastic nature, the theatre being densely crowded.

MR MATHESON LANG will again play Benedick with Miss Ellen Terry on her autumn tour. This makes the fourth engagement Mr Lang has had with Miss Terry, under whose management he has been for over a year, during which time he has played Benedick about 150 times in London and in most large towns in England and Scotland.

THE report of the directors to be presented at the annual meeting of the shareholders of Drury-lane Theatre, which is to be held at the theatre on the 31st inst., states that the company's productions have been this year written down from £4 500 to £3,000. There has been provided out of this year's profits for depreciation, &c.:—Of furniture, tools, utensils, chattels, and effects, £3,018 17s. 11d.; for repairs, £962 9s. 7d.; total, £3,981 7s. 6d. The company's pantomime Mother Goose is still running in America. Humpty Dumpty will be produced in New York in November or December next. The Christmas pantomime of The White Cat, by Mr J. Hickory Wood and Mr Arthur Collins, will be produced here on Boxing Day. After protracted negotiations the London County Council, with the consent of the Home Secretary, served a large number of requisitions upon the company for alterations and improvements to the theatre.

THE directors appealed against these, and Mr John Slater, F.R.I.B.A., was appointed arbitrator by his Majesty's First Commissioner of Works. The arbitrator's award has recently been made. Designs for the work to be done are being prepared by the architect to the house, Mr Philip E. Pilditch. Additional staircases from gallery and stage will be built, and a new ceiling will be provided. For the purpose of carrying out these works it will be necessary to close the theatre until Christmas. The directors recommend the payment of a further dividend of 5 per cent. free of income-tax on the paid-up capital, in addition to the interim dividend already paid of 5 per cent., making a total of 10 per cent for the year. The profit and loss account shows profit in respect of productions and refreshments £37,141 16s. 11d., rents £314 2s. 1d., interest £498 13s. 11d., and balance brought forward from last account £20,861 9s. 11d., the total receipts being £49,694 6s. 7d. On the other side of the account rent, rates and taxes, &c., absorbed £10,067 13s. 7d., general expenses £2,652 8s. 9d., depreciation and repairs £3,981 7s. 6d., interim dividend £4,700 1s. 9d. The balance was £22 341 8s. 5d.

MR PURCELL'S newly decorated Alexandra Theatre vies with his neighbouring Marlborough Theatre in beauty. The latter fine house has been enjoying a full share of patronage lately, notwithstanding the tropical weather we have been experiencing. Mr Purcell announces a farewell visit of The Belle of New York next week, which will be followed by Miss Madge Girdlestone's new production, The City of Millions. Then will come Mr Henry Neville, Letty, and a host of good bookings which cannot fail to appeal to amusement-seekers in the northern heights, of which the Marlborough is such an ornament.

MR GEORGE DANCE'S enterprises prosper exceedingly. That phenomenally successful musical comedy A Chinese Honeymoon broke the record at Douglas last week. The Country Girl opened to a record house at Scarborough on Monday, and The Orchid performed a similar feat at the Grand Theatre, Llandudno.

MISS DORA DE WINTON, whose appearances of late on the West-end stage have been all too few, has been secured by Mr Otho Stuart for an important part in his forthcoming production of The Prayer of the Sword at the Adelphi. Miss De Winton—whose delightful performances recently in L'Etincelle at the Royalty, and in the ill-fated Gentleman of France, at the Avenue, afforded gratifying evidence of the fact that a lengthened Australian tour had robbed her acting of none of its old charm—is the wife of Mr John D. Saunders, the well-known actor and playwright.

MESSRS TRAVIS GREEN AND ARTHUR HINTON will produce at the Theatre Royal, Ilkeston, on Monday, their new mystic play When a Man Hates, by Clarence Burnette, for which a long tour is already booked.

THE United Music Schools, Limited (81,858), has been registered with a capital of £12,000 in £1 shares. The object is to acquire and amalgamate (1) the London Academy of Music, founded in 1861; (2) the London Organ School and International College of Music, founded in 1865, now known as the London Music School; and (3) the Forest-gate College of Music, founded in 1885, and to carry on and develop the art and science of music, elocution, and languages. Minimum cash subscription, 5 per cent. of the shares offered to the public. The first directors are T. H. Yorke-Trotter, A. Raimo, L. Denza, W. H. Bonner, and F. Bonner.

IN the Court of Bankruptcy, on Tuesday, a sitting was held for the public examination of Harry Kent, described as of Belgrave-square, S.W., and a statement of affairs was furnished disclosing a ranking indebtedness of £40,607 15s., and assets valued at £7,848 15s. The debtor had since 1901 been associated with various commercial undertakings, and in April, 1903, he took part in a syndicate known as Productions, Limited, formed for the purpose of running theatrical ventures and producing plays. He had also become liable for the rent of the Savoy Theatre, and he attributed his failure to losses by speculating on the Stock Exchange for differences; to heavy interest on borrowed money; to liabilities under guarantees and on accommodation bills, and to loss in connection with theatrical ventures. A proposal for a composition of 10s. in the pound has been accepted by creditors.

THE public examination was also held on Tuesday of John Keefe, formerly promoter and director of public companies. In 1893 the debtor became chairman and managing-director of Moore and Burgess, Limited, and acted as such until 1900, when the company was sold to the Mohawks. In May, 1901, he became a company promoter, and estimated that he had then a capital of about £4,700. The examination was closed, the total liabilities being returned at £8,137 17s. 10d., of which £2,377 17s. 10d. are expected to rank, and the debtor claiming to have a surplus of £2,912 12s. 2d.

THE cast of Mr Malcolm Watson's comedy Winnie Brooke, Widow, with which Miss Ada Reeve will open her season at the Criterion Theatre, on Thursday, Sept. 1st, includes:—Mr Frank Elliott, Mr R. E. Goddard, Mr Harry Douglas, Mr L. Ashton-Jarry, Mr Farren, Miss Drusilla Wills, Mr Walter L. Rignold, Mr Roland Bottomley, Miss Dora Glennie, Miss May Straker, Miss Kitty Clinton, Miss Yvonne Morel, Miss Ruth Hazelwood, Mr Henry Vibart, Mr Douglas Gordon, Miss Ada Reeve, Mr Eric Lewis, Mr Robb Harwood, Miss Dolores Drummond, Miss Dora Barton, Miss Lillian Mather, and Mrs Charles Maltby.

MRS GEORGE ALEXANDER and the Duchess of Hamilton and Brandon have joined the Ladies' Committee in connection with the Special Appeal Fund of the Samaritan Hospital for Women.

WE must congratulate Mr Anthony Hope-Hawkins, the author of "The Prisoner of Zenda" and numberless other works, on the birth of a daughter. The happy event took place at the author's residence in Bedford-square, on Sunday last.

MR GEORGE DAVEY has arranged with Mr Willy Clarkson to attend to the entire dressing of the pantomime of Babes in the Wood, which is to be produced at the Grand Theatre, Islington, at Christmas. All the wigs, masks, dresses and other stage effects are to be entirely of British manufacture.

"DR. WAKE'S PATIENT," a new comedy in four acts, by W. Gayer Mackay and "Robert Ord," will be produced on Sept. 5 at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool. The second part author is Miss Edith Odiere, who played so well the part of the mad girl in The Seats of the Mighty at His Majesty's Theatre some years since.

THE "farewell tour" of Mr George Musgrove's Belle of New York company, due, by the way, at the Marlborough Theatre next week, is being attended with an amount of success which shows that this most exhilarating of Transatlantic musical comedies is far from "lagging superfluous on the stage." Not the least popular of the recently interpolated numbers is Mr Frank Lawton's whistling appeal to the redoubtable "Bill Bailey" to come "home" to his sorrowing family.

MR RUSSELL ROSSE will revive, at the Opera House, Crouch-end, on Monday Mr Sydney Grundy's comedy A Marriage of Convenience. The cast will include Messrs Lawson-Butt, Horace Pollock, E. Storey-Gofton, Arthur Munro, Miss Sybil Ruskin, and Miss Muriel Godfrey-Turner as the Comtesse. A Queen's Messenger will precede the comedy, and the scene will be the same as used by Mr Lewis Waller in his recent season at the Imperial.

MR CHARLES VERNON HEATHCOTE wishes to express his gratitude for the many kind letters and messages received by him during his recent illness. It is impossible for him to reply to all personally. He is going to Folkestone for a long "rest" as soon as he is strong enough to travel. Special thanks are due from him to Mr F. R. Benson, Colonel Neville, and Mr W. H. Kirby.

"HARBOUR LIGHTS" is to be revived at the Grand Theatre, Islington, on Monday. Mr Ernest Leicester, who played with Mr George Alexander in Old Heidelberg, has been specially engaged for the cast, which also includes Messrs George Aubrey, Joynsen Powell, and Misses Helen Bancroft and Katharine Brand. The early-door variety programme at the Grand will include Royal Best, the facial expert, in addition, of course, to the Biograph.

MISS GLADYS MARY HOWITT, the daughter of Mr and Mrs Charles Howitt (Miss Mary Ford), will make her first appearance on any stage as one of the children in Mr Tree's forthcoming production of The Tempest at His Majesty's.—Mr Galwey Herbert is stage-manager for the new play, The Chetwynd Affair, at the Royalty Theatre, and will produce the one-act play, by Christopher St. John, entitled Eriksson's Wife, on Saturday.

THERE is much talk in the Salford district respecting the decision of the Salford Town Council to only allow those theatres where the legitimate drama is performed to hold an excise licence, and the consequence of such decision is that the Regent (Salford) and the Victoria (Broughton), which had full dramatic licences for some years and changed their houses to the bi-nightly variety entertainment, have had to stop selling intoxicating liquors. The matter is under consideration by the directors of those two houses, and they are consulting what steps to take in the circumstances.

MISS GEORGINA HAMILTON has returned to town after a twenty-seven months' tour in South Africa. Miss Hamilton has visited all the large towns and many of the less frequented cities of South Africa. The clever and charming actress has made herself a great favourite with playgoers there, and they all hope she will speedily return to the scene of her histrionic triumphs.

THE Hawick Theatre, which was recently acquired by Mr W. Payne Seddon, was reopened last week for the season, when Laughterland was performed by the Marvellous Craggs. At the close of the second act Mr Payne Seddon appeared in front of the curtain and had a cordial welcome from all parts of the house. When the applause had subsided he said that in opening that night their first season as managers of the Hawick Theatre he desired, on behalf of his partner (Mr Gordon Starkey) and himself, to return thanks for the very encouraging send-off the public of Hawick had given them, and at the same time to acknowledge the responsibility which the lessees owed not only to themselves but to the public. To undertake the management of a theatre which had hitherto been a financial failure was a great responsibility. He believed, however, that the non-success of the theatre had been largely due to the uncertainty which prevailed of the public getting good value for their money. That they would try to remedy. Mr Seddon then gave his hearers a sketch of his prospective engagements, which were evidently approved of.

AT the Drill Hall, Bridport, on Monday night, during a show of animated pictures, one of the films ignited, and the place, which had been in darkness, was suddenly lit up by a blaze. The people in the audience began to make for the doors; but panic was allayed by the manager imploring the audience to keep their seats, and by a young lady of the company, with great coolness, singing a song. Then the entertainment proceeded.

ADVICES from Melbourne state that a determined and successful suppression of a form of musical piracy has been brought about by the great music publishing concern of Messrs Allan and Co., though not without considerable trouble and expense. A Sydney individual has been in the habit of taking trips to the United States and tempting American publishers to part with quantities of their wares for ready money, which wares he subsequently sold in Australia. As Messrs Allan and Co. are agents for English firms who hold the rights for Britain and the Colonies of much of America's musical compositions, this proceeding could not be tolerated, and the firm has taken legal steps which has cost the individual in question hundreds of pounds, and effectually, it is believed, frightened other wrong-doers in this direction out of the field.

MISS TERRY'S COTTAGE.

Miss Ellen Terry's taste and judgment are always displayed in her choice of residences, and quite characteristic of its mistress is the charming cottage at Winchelsea, which was once graphically described by a writer in the Strand Magazine:—

"I arrived," wrote the agreeable interviewer, "at the little Sussex village of Winchelsea and heard Miss Terry's 'Welcome.' It was on one of the days just before her return to town and work again. I jumped up in the dogcart—to which Tommy, the pony, was harnessed—and Tower Cottage was quickly reached.

"'Tommy carried us all the way from London to Winchelsea,' said Miss Terry, enthusiastically, 'and he'll take us back again. We put our luggage on board—Punch, this young rascal of a terrier, who seems to live only to bark, and Prince. You'll see Prince—yes, and hear him, too, in a few minutes—for he's at the cottage. At a pretty roadside inn we found a wee kitten—it seemed to like me. It came running out to us and appeared lost. It gave such a funny little whine, which seemed to say "Me-e-ne-e," so I christened it Minnie on the spot. Isn't this country glorious? Isn't it the place for a rest? But, wait a little! Have I been ill? Yes, indeed. But we won't talk about that; still, it reminds me of a little story, and I thought perhaps you might like to hear it, because some of the people in it have appeared in your magazine.

"'We were stopping about a year ago at the Forest of Dean. There were a good many of us, among whom was Sir Morell Mackenzie. We made an excursion one day to Tintern. On the road my maid called out that something had got into her eye, and that she was in great pain. We stopped at the next village, but the chemist's shop was shut, the chemist being at church, for it was Sunday; but Sir Morell was bent on healing, and rang at the door, got down the different bottles himself, and with his own hands prepared a lotion for my poor maid's eye. I need scarcely tell how much astonished Mrs ——, the chemist's wife, was upon learning the name of her distinguished dispenser, and on our way back the whole village turned out to look at the dear man whose fame for good deeds, great and small, cannot be increased by any words which I could speak, or I would try to grow eloquent and perhaps become inspired by the noble theme.'

"We had reached the top of the hill, drove beneath the old stone gate, curiously enough known as the 'Strand Gate,' a great pile of ragstone, with towers at each angle, and partially covered with ivy, and stopped at the little white wicket gate. And, true enough, there was Prince, singing away with a heart as free as though he were in the open air instead of in his cage by the window—the same sweet tune. At sight of his mistress he hopped about in mad delight, stretched his little neck and lifted his head, anxious to pipe his richest notes as an assurance of perfect happiness. And here was the tortoise on the grass and Minnie cuddled up in the doorway, blinking her tiny blue eyes at the sunbeams which were playfully striving to drive the peacefully-disposed kitten out of her chosen corner. Whoever built Tower Cottage is hereby publicly thanked—its bricks and latticed windows form the prettiest little piece of architecture of its kind, and its site almost amounts to a paradise. Just look at its walls, up which the honeysuckle is creeping and the roses growing, the great blooming crimson fuchsias, and the paths edged with the greenest of box!—the blackberry bushes and the hammocks hung in the shade between the boughs of the apple trees! You walk along the gravel paths of the garden, and every blossom on the branches peeping out from the grassy beds appears just to have come there of its own free will. You look around for the sign of a trowel or spade in vain. Nature seems to have been her own gardener, and planned and planted this floral nook. Then come a little farther to this turret built over the stables—the turret top with its alternate green boxes of cloves and nasturtiums, on which a swing seat has been put up. There you get the view.

"'I have seen it many times before,' said Miss Terry, 'but I always find something more to look upon. Isn't it fair? I love space, and surely it is here. Look, right away across the fields—with the lambs playing about by the side of the winding rivulets—is the sea dotted with tiny vessels. To the left is Rye—it looks like a hillock of houses, doesn't it?—Rye with its windmills—and every one of them is working. You remember Thackeray's unfinished "Dennis Duval?" Dennis had a grandfather who was a barber and perruquier, and elder of the French Protestant Church at Winchelsea. Dennis himself often used to walk from this little town into Rye, perhaps past this very cottage! To my mind there is no more restful or more romantic spot anywhere than this. You can't even remember there exists such a thing as a theatre here! But I'll take you round the village this afternoon.'

"Inside the house was all that was suggested by the outside—all was dainty and in miniature. One thing struck me—there was not a single picture of the great actress herself on the walls. Here were her friends, her two children, but not one of herself. 'I don't like seeing myself about the place,' she said. 'I have a friend who gets every photo of me published, and puts them in her rooms. I haven't been to see her for some time. It made me quite wretched when I last called; there was I "weeping" in her bedroom, "mad" in her dining-room, whilst in her front parlour I was positively "dying" in three different positions!' Still, it is to be hoped that Miss Terry will not be reduced to despair when she opens these pages, and beholds herself in all the most famous characters in which she has appeared at the Lyceum.

"Our luncheon party comprised Miss Ailsa Craig, two friends, Miss Terry, and myself. Punch and Minnie were also present. Luncheon over, we hurried away to the apple trees, and Miss Terry brought out her camera—for she is a wonderfully adept photographer—and insisted on my giving her a sitting. I wonder if Miss Terry knows what happened whilst this was going on? Probably she does ere this; but one member of this very happy party hastily procured another camera, and whilst Miss Terry was photographing me, she was 'taken' herself. Then we started out for Winchelsea, and what a delightful guide I had! We visited the old prison and judgment house, now used as a public reading-room, and my kindly guide remembered a little entertainment she once gave there, when, together with her daughter and a friend, they made their first and only appearance as 'The Three Old Maids of Lee.' We looked in at the old church, and every one of the great square pews seemed to suggest—sleep, sleep, beautiful sleep! We saw the tree under which John Wesley made his last open-air address; the Friary, a fine old specimen of architecture, and the wonderful old gates and cellars of the town, which makes Winchelsea a rarity amongst rare picturesque places.

"For half an hour—whilst Miss Terry rested a little—I was left alone with a cigar. So I walked and talked with the village children. And I found out that Miss Terry's loving kindness to the little ones is known in Winchelsea, as everywhere else. One bright, sunburnt little maid, whom I met in one of the lanes, told me she was going to Miss Terry's to tea 'next Wednesday,' and, added the child, with eyes as big as stars and twinkling as brightly, 'Miss Terry says poetry to us!' I was glad the child told me that, because it made assurance doubly sure of my estimate of the woman's character. I thought of the packed theatre, and the people who had paid half-a-guinea for their stalls; then of the handful of little ones who had an unpurchasable entertainment for nothing—listening to Miss Terry 'saying poetry.'"

ENGLISH OPERA—THE WORLD'S PROVIDER.

CHAT WITH MR CHARLES MANNERS.

For the first time in its history the Moody-Manners opera company sends a fully equipped English opera to South Africa. The company is known by the letter D. The A, B, and C companies are in the English provinces, while another company, the E, is in course of formation, and may be shipped to the United States or to any country in want of English opera. The combination sails to-day. Mr Charles Manners has arranged with Messrs B. and F. Wheeler and Sons that the company shall remain for at least twenty weeks—probably longer. This, too, will be the first time that the Cape has been visited by a fully organised opera company, both as regards chorus, band, and principals. The répertoire of operas will comprise Pagliacci, Cavalleria Rusticana, Il Trovatore, Faust, Maritana, The Bohemian Girl, Carmen, Tannhauser, Lohengrin, The Daughter of the Regiment, La Traviata, and Lucia di Lammermoor. The company will number thirty choristers, fourteen in the orchestra, two conductors, fifteen principals, four special dancers, a stage-manager, and a couple of wardrobe mistresses.

During conversation after rehearsal the other day, Mr Manners was good enough to give us his views upon the new venture of the Moody-Manners company and upon other matters as well. "This is only just the commencement of what I hope to be doing later on," said he. "I have had several offers before now from the colonies, but terms and other things have come into consideration in a way that prevented my sending out a combination.

"I am very anxious, naturally enough," went on the interviewee, "that this visit to South Africa should be an unqualified success, because a lot depends upon it. As you are aware, the bad time of the year in all theatrical arrangements, as well as in grand opera, is the period between May and September. A great many companies then come off the road, and this means that the chorus and principals have to live somehow or other. The members of the orchestra can get along pretty well, for they go to Blackpool, Southport, Scarborough, and similar seaside resorts in order to augment the municipal bands that play on the piers. The trouble, then, is to provide something for the principals and chorus, who have nothing to do. If I can get my companies engaged right through the summer months, as well as in the winter, this would give the chorus a good all-round yearly income, and it would give the principals much more money than they can make now, while from an artistic point of view the operas would be a thousand times better presented. To show how important the filling up of the summer time is, I may tell you that I was able to get the whole of my chorus to come to Drury-lane at a great reduction on each of their salaries. They could never have done this in the winter, but I knew they would be pleased to accept something to keep them going through the hot weather. Therefore I was enabled to stay much longer at Drury-lane than I could otherwise have afforded to do. Those nine weeks at the Lane were nothing less than a god-send to the chorus, as well as to not a few of the principals. Now, if I could send companies out to South Africa, Australia, and Canada for three or four months every year, you will easily understand what a good purpose would be served, while the artists themselves would be receiving a lengthened engagement, in addition to a holiday costing them nothing. With the outward and return journeys they would enjoy a holiday extending over six weeks, during which period they would be boarded and lodged free of charge and have a jolly good time withal. At any rate, if my present venture turns out successful, I shall next time send out a chorus of fifty with the company."

Mr Manners gave us an idea of what it costs to send out a grand opera company to South Africa like the one which is sailing for the Cape to-day. He pays each member of his chorus £4 per week, and as there are thirty choristers, the salary of each one over a period of twenty weeks would be £80. Add to that a sum of £40 for steamship fares, and a further minimum amount of £20 for inland railway travelling and incidentals, and you will see that each chorister costs £140. Multiply by thirty and you have the sum of £4,200. Mr Manners pays his instrumentalists £6 each, and every man, therefore, costs him £180, including an estimate on the above scale of travelling expenses. £180 multiplied by fourteen—the number of his band—brings us the sum of £2,520 Then there are fifteen principals, whose travelling expenses alone amount to £900; a quartet of dancers, who run into £560; and the stage-manager, two conductors, and two wardrobe mistresses, whose travelling expenses are £350. This gives us a total of £8,530, without taking into account the salaries of principals, the money expended on scenery, wardrobes, &c., and a hundred and one other items. Truly, a man must have a long purse to send grand opera to one of our colonies. We feel sure of one thing—that Mr Charles Manners is the right man to undertake this enterprise, and we shall not be alone in wishing him all the success his efforts so well deserve. Mr Manners will not accompany his company to South Africa on the present occasion, but intends to go with them on a later trip to one or other of our dependencies.

That Mr Charles Manners will become a "world's provider" of English opera there cannot be the slightest doubt, as he is able by his exceptional experience to send out a quotation per return cable for a fully equipped opera company, large or small. At the present time his companies are the Mecca for the students from the Royal College of Music, the Royal Academy, and the Guildhall School of Music, which fact accounts for the bright young voices which compose his choruses.

MRS BANDMANN-PALMER has returned from her mountaineering trip in the Tyrol, and will resume her tour at St. Leonards on Monday.

THEATRICAL WEDDING.

An exceedingly pretty wedding took place at Trinity Church, Huntingdon, on Thursday, when Mr Reginald Crompton, of the Adelphi Theatre, and third son of Mr Francis Crompton, of Exeter, was married to Miss Isabel Mary Reaney (Miss Isabel Agnew), second daughter of the late Robert Agnew Reaney, of Huntingdon, in the presence of a large congregation. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr Harold Agnew Reaney, looked very charming in a gown of ivory crêpe de chine, trimmed with Maltese lace, and she wore a handsome Limerick lace veil, lent by an old friend of the family. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of white lilies, white roses, and stephanotis, the gift of the bridegroom. Her two principal bridesmaids were Miss Lilla Reaney (sister of the bride) and Miss Alice Goodliff, and she was also attended by Miss Joan Skinner and Masters Leslie Skinner and Esmond Clark, cousins of the bride. bridesmaids were attired in pretty dresses of pale pink mousseline de soie, trimmed with lace and prettily gauged and flounced. They wore Romney picture hats trimmed with La France roses and pale pink strings. The little girl was dressed in white accordion-pleated silk, with leghorn hat, and all three wore gold chains and pendants, which, together with the bouquets of cream roses carried by the Misses Reaney and Goodliff, and the basket carried by Miss Skinner, were the gifts of the bridegroom. The two boys were dressed in Jack Tar suits. Mr Frederic Clark was best man, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. V. Robinson. The hymns "The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden" and "O love divine and golden" were sung, and at the close of the ceremony Mr Frank Clark, uncle of the bride, played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

After the ceremony a reception took place at the residence of the bride's mother, the guests invited including:—Mrs G. S. Reaney, Mr Hamilton Reaney, Miss Mabel Reaney, Dr. and Mrs Michael Foster Reaney, Mr Francis Crompton, Dr. and Mrs Ernest Crompton, Dr. and Mrs A. Crompton, Mr and Mrs Cuthbert Crompton, Mr and Mrs Frank Crompton, Mr and Mrs Arthur Thomas, Mr and Mrs Wreford, Dr, Mrs, and Miss Pring, Mr and Mrs Radford Thomas, Mr and Mrs Frank Clark, Mr and Mrs Arthur Clark, Mr and Mrs Skinner, Miss Clark, Miss A. Clark, Mr Frederic Clark, Mr and Mrs Curtis Card, Mr and Mrs Moffatt, Miss Irene Moffatt, Mr and Mrs Searle, Mr and Mrs Frank Beard, Miss Beard, Miss Deedy, Mr and Mrs Taylor, Mr and Mrs Wheeler, Miss Topham, Mr and Mrs Bateman Brown, Mr and Mrs Grist, Miss Grist, Mr and Mrs A. Ridgley, Mr and Mrs Crowson, Mr and Mrs Lewis, the Rev. and Mrs Parkhouse, Mr Burkett, Mr Charles, Mr Trimble, Mr and Mrs Krieger, Mr and Mrs Wilson, Mr and Mrs Hadwin, Rev. W. V. and Mrs Robinson, Mr and Mrs John Goodliff, Miss Mary Goodliff, Mr and Mrs Richard Goodliff, Mr and Mrs Frank Goodliff, Miss Sadler, Mr W. Parkhouse, Mr C. Parkhouse, Mr S. Andrews, Miss Scate, Mr Kennedy, Mr and Mrs Smith, Miss Sarll, Mr, Mrs, and Miss Adams, Mr Herbert Pentelow, &c.

where the honeymoon is being spent. The bride's travelling-dress was of grey Irish silk poplin, trimmed with Irish crochet lace, and she wore a grey picture hat, with single feather to match.

Among the many beautiful presents were the following:—Bride to bridegroom, gold ring; bridegroom to bride, diamond and turquoise ring and Yorkshire toy terrier; bride's mother, cheque; bridegroom's father, cheque and seventy pieces of rat-tail table silver; brother and sister of bride, coffee service; Dr. and Mrs Crompton, silver soup tureen; Mrs Wreford, silver rose bowl; Mr Wreford, mounted jaguar skin; Mr and Mrs F. Crompton, silver dessert dish; Dr and Mrs Pring, silver hot water jug; Mrs H. C. Taylor, silver toast rack; Mrs G. S. Reaney, Queen Anne tea kettle; Miss Winifred Grist, silver serviette ring; Mr Burkett, dinner gong; Rev. and Mrs Parkhouse, silver sugar basin and sifter; Mr Mervyn Dene, silver salts; Dr. Davy, drinking horns; Mr Rivaz, Shakespeare's works; Mr and Mrs R. Goodliff, sugar tongs; Mrs and Miss Adams, silver pepper box; Mr Owen, toast rack; Miss R. Sarll, picture; Miss Lantrow, silver match bowl; Mr and Mrs Alfred Ridgley, silver-mounted vases; Miss Isobel Ridgley, picture; Mr and Mrs Frank Clark, afternoon tea service; Mr and Mrs Thomas, copper palm stand; Mrs Wheeler, silver rat-tail teaspoons; Mrs Venis Robinson, copper vase; Mr and Mrs Bateman Brown, silver cream jug; Mr and Mrs Crowson, liquor decanter; Mr and Mrs Frank Goodliff, afternoon tea spoons; Misses Goggs, picture; Miss Alice Goodliff, pillow lace; Mr and Mrs A. Grist, jam spoon and butter knife; Miss N. Grist, silver bon-bon dish; Mr F. J. Spencer, silver serviette rings; Miss Topham, picture; Mr and Mrs Skinner, silver Queen Anne teapot; Miss Mary Goodliff; Egyptian table centre; Mrs Smith, duchesse toilet set; Miss Saddler, silver scent case; Mr and the Misses Clark, silver toilet set; Mr Lewis, silver-mounted fruit stand; Mr and Mrs W. Searle, silver egg and toast stand; Mr F. Trimble, silver tea caddy; Mr and Mrs Hadwin, silver candlesticks; Mr and Mr Moffatt, silver butter dish and knife; Mr and Mrs F. Beard, set of silver salts and spoons; Mrs Goodliff, pair of trays; Mr and Mrs Curtis Card, silver photo. frame; Mr and Mrs Wilson, silver salver; Mr and Mrs Radford Thomas, silver sardine dish; Miss Scate, silver vases; Dr. and Mrs Michael Foster Reaney, silver cake knife; Miss Janetta Simpson, silver bon-bon dish; "Presented to Reginald Crompton, by his friends at the Adelphi Theatre on the occasion of his marriage to Miss Isabel Agnew, Aug. 25, 1904," massive silver salver; Mr and Mrs Cuthbert Crompton, silver entrée dish; Mr S. Andrews, silver sugar basin and sifter; Mr Elliston, silver mounted match wells; Misses Thornton, engraving; Mr Powis Pinder, silver vase; Mrs Beaumont, old china; Mrs Nixon, pianoforte cover; Mr and Mrs A. E. Clark, silver tea service.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. MATHESON LANG.

MR MATHESON LANG, the son of a Scotch Church clergyman, was originally intended for the Church, but a bad attack of stage fever drove him from college into Mr Louis Calvert's répertoire company—a very lucky start, for there he played a wide range of parts under the best possible stage-management a young actor could desire. After a month or two on the stage, Mr Lang, looking around him, came to the conclusion that there was but one satisfactory way to learn the gentle art of acting, and that was to play every kind of part in every kind of play for which one's appearance and personality were at all possible while one was young and before one got settled into any particular line. Eventually Mr Lang joined Mr F. R. Benson, with whom he stayed for over three years, in which time he rose from "responsibles" to playing the juveniles and seconds to Mr Benson, such as Macduff, Richmond, Laertes, Bassanio, Joseph Surface, &c, and also Paolo, in Mr Stephen Phillips's tragedy, Paolo and Francesca. Soon after he had attained this position Mr Lang received a tempting offer from Mrs Langtry to visit America with her, to act a strong juvenile part in a new piece—funnily enough, a very modern part in the most modern of modern plays. This was The Crossways, which was performed before the King for one special command performance at the Imperial Theatre before the company sailed for America. Throughout America, and especially at the production of the play in New York, Mr Lang was very successful, his part, fortunately for him, happening to be one that appealed very strongly to American audiences. Almost immediately after his return to England he was engaged by Miss Terry to take the rôle of Benedick for the last week of her season at the Imperial Theatre in place of Mr Oscar Asche, who was under engagement to return to His Majesty's. From that came an engagement to play Benedick with Miss Terry on tour, and ever since—that is, for two tours covering a year's time—that engagement has continued, and is now followed by another with a Shakesperian répertoire varied by the new play, The Good Hope, which Miss Terry produced at Nottingham last spring. In that Mr Lang is appearing as a young Dutch fisherman—a character which he describes as one of the strongest, most human, and most interesting he has ever known.

BIRTHDAYS OF THE WEEK.

Most heartily we wish many, many happy returns of the day to the following ladies and gentlemen:—

MR OSWALD BRAND is at present engaged in writing a new dramatic version of Dickens's "David Copperfield," which he hopes to produce some time this autumn.

PARIS NOTES.

(FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Jardin de Paris is as dull as usual. Foreigners stroll round disconsolately, wondering where all the naughtiness is; but those who know their Paris sit in the bamboo chairs under the trees, and pay little attention to the passing crowd or the concert. However, the other night I looked in to see the new numbers. There I once more beheld the marvellous young person advertised on the programme as "Just Fourteen," who gave us some songs from the répertoire of Therese. She has a voice of great depth. The young person of fourteen answers to the name of Lydia Lys. She is followed by Rosita La Fea, who calls herself in parentheses "La Laide," which is not true, for she is a pretty little Spaniard, who dances quite pleasantly. Augusta Cabardos is described as a "strong singer." She certainly has a powerful voice. M. Andry Multi-vocal sings in several styles, and has a "useful" falsetto. The Berlos give examples of different styles of dancing; they have been quite a long time at the Jardin de Paris, and seem quite popular. A new-comer to me, and one who would, I believe, receive prompt recognition in England, is Mdlle. Noedia; she is a real comedienne and character actress; her impersonation of a street gamin and her singing and dancing are all far above the average. The Cinématograph Pathé shows stirring scenes on the Indian frontier. The Baronne Van Meeren introduces a fine grey horse, and does the haute école business. The Four Olloms' marvellous equilibristic work gives them high rank as balancers and equilibrists.

THE new Theatre Titania, which is to be opened the end of this week, is credited with being quite one of the prettiest in Paris. The attraction for the opening is the operette, Madame Venus and Monsieur Mars, libretto by Maurice De Marsan, and music by George Charton. Valter will lead the orchestra, and the scenery is being painted by Ronsen. The rôle of Venus will be sung by Gabriani, familiar to all frequenters of Blanc's concerts at Monte Carlo. Colas, from the Variétés, will appear as Mars, and Mercury will be in the hands of Rabley, of the Nouveautés. Venus has got over the difficulty of taming the doves used in one of her scenes by feeding them with aniseed, which renders the greedy, though poetic-looking, birds as tame and as affectionate as can be desired.

YVONNE DE TREVILLE, a young American singer, has been successful at the Opera Comique here. She is young, beautiful, and talented, and has a "genius for hard work." She recently fulfilled engagements at the Imperial Opera House, St. Petersburg; the Royal Opera Houses of Stockholm and Copenhagen; the Khedival Opera, Cairo; and at Vichy, where at the beginning of August she created a sensation by her singing in Latin.

PROMENADE CONCERTS.

A novelty of a remarkable though somewhat fantastic character was produced on Saturday last at Queen's Hall. It was in the form of a Prelude, and was called L'Après Midi d'un Faune, the composer being Mr Claude Debussy, whose music to Pelléas et Mélisande was much discussed in Paris. The subject of the prelude now under consideration is supposed to be the musings of a fawn resting in the shade of a dense wood during the noonday heat. Dreamy and fanciful to the last degree, M. Debussy's music did not awaken great enthusiasm, but it gave the orchestra an opportunity of proving its complete efficiency and the remarkable power it possesses of interpreting all forms of composition. It must be said for the French musician that the four principal themes which form the basis of the prelude are both graceful and melodious, while the ingenious effects produced in the orchestral combination showed the French composer's cleverness of invention and his thorough command of orchestral resources. These merits naturally appealed to the cultured musician rather than to the promenade visitor, so that we must not condemn the composer because he did not secure a popular verdict. The prelude was conducted by Mr Wood with his accustomed skill, decision, and accurate perception of effects by no means easy of comprehension to an ordinary musician. For any disappointment felt regarding M. Debussy's piece there was ample compensation in the Suite de Ballet from operas by Glück, arranged by Felix Mottl, in a fine performance of the overture to Tannhäuser, in Grieg's charming symphonic dance, in Gounod's exquisite "March of a Marionette," and in the "Carnival Romain," of Berlioz. The organ was also employed with splendid effect by Mr Tonking in Guilmant's Symphony in D, No. 1. Mr Tonking brought out the full tone of the instrument in the most satisfactory manner. The charm of vocal music was added to the programme. Miss Ethel Hirschbein and Mr Frederick Ranalow were the singers. The lady, an excellent contralto, sang Glück's "Divinités du Styx" with great effect, and Mr Ranalow was quite successful in "O tu Palermo," a melody exactly suited to display the fine quality of his voice.

The reputation of Mr Henry Wood is spreading rapidly, as may be gathered from the fact that a German conductor of eminence has dedicated to the English conductor a new orchestral work, which was produced at Queen's Hall on Tuesday night for the first time. The composer is Herr Fritz Volbach, director of the Municipal Orchestra at Mayence. Herr Volbach calls his piece "Alt Heidelberg du Feine," and there is also a sub-title, "Spring Poem." The composer, like most composers of the present day, cannot escape from the potent influence exercised by Wagner, but it must in fairness be stated that Herr Volbach has plenty of knowledge and skill as a writer for the orchestra, and uses these qualities with considerable effect and without the diffuseness so common amongst modern German musicians. The work opens with a brisk and animated introduction, followed by an expressive solo for the violin dealing with the principal melody, which is again introduced in various forms during the remainder of the piece. Many of the orchestral devices are fresh and ingenious, and Mr Wood's band did ample justice to them, while the conductor displayed his usual ability and energy, the result being a favourable reception of the Mayence conductor. Other interesting musical works were included in the programme. The Violoncello Concerto in C major, by M. Eugen D'Albert, played last year by Herr Hugo Becker, was on this occasion interpreted by Mr Herbert Withers with complete success, the chief solo portions being rendered with great effect. A vigorous rendering of Dvorák's "Carnival" overture was one of the successful items, and the "Dream Pantomime" from Hansel and Gretel gained abundant applause. The overture to Benvenuto Cellini, by Berlioz, was also well rendered. The vocalists were Miss Adelaide Lambe and Mr Harold White, who were well received by a very large and enthusiastic audience.

MR W. S. GILBERT'S domestic pantomime The Fairy's Dilemma was produced with very great success for the first time out of London by Mr Arthur Bourchier's company, under the management of Mr Silvanus Dauncey and Mr M. V. Leveaux, at the Royalty Theatre, Glasgow, on Monday. The Glasgow press speaks in enthusiastic terms of the piece, which they say completely overshadows all Mr Gilbert's previous efforts in the domain of irresponsible absurdity.

MISS VIOLET FULTON, an actress of the highly emotional order, has been meeting with much success as Zaza in the provinces. On another page are reproduced the high encomiums of the Press which her excellent acting has evoked.

OLD OPEN-AIR AMUSEMENTS.

No. 1.—RANELAGH GARDENS.

The road which leads from Sloane-street to Battersea-park crosses the site of Ranelagh-gardens, originally projected by Lacy, the patentee of Drury-lane Theatre, as a kind of winter Vauxhall. The public garden was formed out of the private gardens of Ranelagh House, the villa of Viscount Ranelagh. The Rotunda, commenced in 1741, and opened with a public breakfast, April 5, 1742, was 555 feet in circumference. To this building four Doric porticoes formed as many entrances opposite to each other, and round the whole, on the outside, was an arcade with a gallery running over it, the stairs leading to which were from the porticoes. The dome was surmounted by a slated roof, in which sixty windows were fixed to give light to the slated roof below. In the centre of the Rotunda was originally the grand orchestra, but as the effect of the music was in that position marred by the echoes from the walls, the instruments were removed to the lower gallery, and a fireplace substituted to diffuse warmth throughout the building, when entertainments were given in the winter season. Around this was constructed a circle of boxes for the reception of visitors, the panels being ornamented with paintings and floral devices, and each being separated by wainscoting and square pillars. The illumination at night was brilliant and striking, each box having a bunch suspended from it of bell lamps with wax candles, whilst from the ceiling thirty-six chandeliers poured down a flood of light on the moving assemblage below. Dr. Johnson declared it "was the finest thing he had ever seen." Walpole, in one of his entertaining letters to Mann (April 22, 1744), thus describes the plan, which was at that time unfinished:—"I have been breakfasting this morning at Ranelagh Gardens; they have built an immense amphitheatre with balconies full of little ale-houses. It is in rivalry to Vauxhall, and cost about twelve thousand pounds. The building is not finished, but they got great sums by people going to see it and breakfasting in the house. There were yesterday no less than 380 persons, at eighteen-pence a-piece." Another letter, dated May 26, 1742, supplies us with the following information:—"Two nights ago Ranelagh Gardens were opened at Chelsea. The prince, princess, duke, much nobility, and much mob besides were there. There is a vast amphitheatre, finely gilt, painted, and illuminated, into which everybody that loves eating, drinking, staring, or crowding is admitted for twelve-pence. The building and disposition of the gardens cost sixteen thousand pounds. Twice a-week there are to be ridottos at guinea tickets, for which you are to have a supper and music. I was there last night, but did not find the joy of it. Vauxhall is a little better, for the garden is pleasanter, and one goes by water." A sufficient notion of the kind of entertainment presented is given by a notice in the Gentleman's Magazine, recording that on May 12, 1767, "were performed in the new orchestra the much-admired catches and glees selected from the curious collection of the Catch Club, being the first of the kind publicly exhibited in this or any other kingdom. The entertainments consisted of the favourite catches and glees composed by the most eminent masters of the last and present age, by a considerable number of the best vocal and instrumental performers. The choral and instrumental parts were added to give the catches and glees their proper effect in so large an amphitheatre, and were composed for that purpose by Dr. Arne." Smollett, in his "Humphrey Clinker," says, "At Ranelagh I heard the famous Tenducci, a thing from Italy. It looks for all the world like a man, but they say it is not. The voice, to be sure, is neither man nor woman's, but it is more melodious than either, and it warbled so divinely that whilst I listened I really thought myself in Paradise." Bonnell Thornton's burlesque ode on St. Cecilia's Day, set to music by Dr. Burney, was performed at Ranelagh with great success. The chief amusement of the place, however, for many years seemed to be promenading round and round the circular area and taking refreshments in the boxes, whilst the orchestra executed different pieces of music. Royalty was frequently represented in the throng of visitors, and about 1782 Ranelagh may be considered to have attained its zenith. On the right-hand side of the principal portico was the Prince's box, superbly decorated with gilt mouldings, festoons, and flowers, and exquisite paintings set in wood panels. The beverage chiefly consumed by the company was arrack. Servants were sedulously excluded from the grounds, and an amphitheatre was erected for them in the coach-way, whence they were called as wanted. For a long time the most popular attractions of Ranelagh were the public breakfasts, which were rarely concluded before nightfall, and which were extensively patronised by the younger branches of the nobility, who found in this resort a convenient place of assignation. It was from Ranelagh that "Fighting Fitzgerald" attempted to carry off Mrs Robinson; it was there the Prince of Wales first met Mrs Crouch, and the Duke of Cumberland Mrs Horton, who so unexpectedly became his wife.

In 1802 was here given the installation ball of the Knights of the Bath, and the Picnic Society gave a breakfast to 2,000 persons, when Garnerin ascended in his balloon. For the Peace Fête, which took place in 1803, allegorical scenes were painted by Capon, the popular scenic painter, but the Gardens now became deserted. Ranelagh was finally closed July 8, 1803, and in 1804 the buildings were taken down. The organ built for the Rotunda was transferred by purchase to the little church of Tetbury, in Gloucestershire, administering to a purpose very different from that for which it was originally designed.

The foundation walls of the Rotunda, the arches of some cellars, and the site of the orchestra, could be still traced in 1813. Part of the ground was included in the "Old Men's Gardens" of Chelsea Hospital, and the name is attached to the Sewer's district, and to a long street leading from Pimlico to the site of Ranelagh.

When Ranelagh was abolished as a place of amusement, the property, which belonged to shareholders, was purchased from time to time, as the shares came into the market, by General Richard Rich Wilford, who had property adjoining, and who, on completing the purchase, converted the estate into his private residence. Previous to his demise he sold a portion of the property to Chelsea Hospital, and, by his will, bequeathed the remainder of the estate to his widow. The General dying without children, and in consequence of a flaw in the will, a Mr George Wilford Bulkley, solicitor, a relative of the General's, and eldest son of Mrs Bulkley, the original representative of Miss Hardcastle, in She Stoops to Conquer, &c., claimed the property as heir-at-law. A lawsuit extending over sixteen years was the result, which was finally decided in the House of Lords before Lords Eldon and Wynford in favour of the widow.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR.

Your book will, I am sure, be a valuable aid to all managers and actors.—Sir Henry Irving, March 3d, 1898.

Will be of great service.—Charles Wyndham, March 1st, 1898.

Mr A. A. Strong has compiled an exceedingly useful volume dealing carefully, intelligently, and fully with the law bearing upon things theatrical. As a book of reference this excellent digest will be found invaluable.—The Era, March 5th, 1898.

Very useful.—Sporting Life, March 4th.

Mr Strong states the whole case very clearly.—Illustrated London News, March 19th.

Furnishes useful information.—Daily News, March 11th.

The work succeeds in making plain the thorny legal path that every manager and artist must tread, and by a timely consultation of its page, they may avoid much misapprehension and troubles.—Star, March 9th.

Should be of great value. An ably compiled digest of the law relating to the theatrical profession generally.—Daily Mail, March 11th, 1898.

Should prove perfectly invaluable.—Weekly Sun, March 20th.

Clearly set out, concise, and altogether comprehensible.—Pall Mall Gazette, March 19th.

Contains much that is of practical value to musicians, music publishers, and concert givers.—Musical Times, March 12th, 1898.

Contains in a handy compass and in a clear style the law relating to theatres and music halls. The book is well up to date.—Law Times, March 19th.

Should be found very useful.—Pelican, March 12th.

DEATH OF "CÆSAR."

Mr Fred C. Somerfield, business-manager to Miss Marie Dagmar, writes:—"We were travelling on Sunday night last from Chorley to Whitehaven, and had a five hours' wait at Preston. Shortly before we were due to leave Preston (about 3 20 a.m. Monday) Miss Dagmar let Cæsar out of the carriage, which was standing on the middle set of lines between platforms. The dog made several attempts to leap on the platform, which was unusually high, but failed. I then caught hold of his collar to help him up. The collar slipped over his head, and he fell backwards on the line. At that moment we were horrified to see a train coming in, and before we could do anything further to save poor Cæsar it overtook and passed over him. When the train had gone he got up and limped to us with his left leg cut off near the shoulder and other injuries. Of course, he ultimately had to be destroyed. The poor dog uttered no cry in his suffering, but the look in his dear eyes as he tried to show Miss Dagmar his mangled limb will live for ever in the minds of all who saw it!

CÆSAR.

"I do not suppose there was a more loving or better loved dog ever stepped on a stage, and his friends and admirers both in and out of the profession were numberless. It was a heavy blow to all the company, but Miss Dagmar's grief was pitiful to see. Throughout the play he was her constant companion, always protecting her—to the great delight of the audience—when the villain became threatening or too pressing in his attentions. So well did he know the stage that managers, when we made return visits, used to ask if Cæsar had further built up his part. On several occasions has he had tangible presents from "the front," notably at Brighton, when he was presented with a beautiful collar and a silver medal (crown piece), inscribed:—

To Cæsar, on his first visit to Brighton, from a few admirers in front.

"It seems hard that an almost human animal should come to so sad and terrible an end."

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

(SPECIAL TO THE ERA.)

Mr Robert Affleck, the master carpenter at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, has just returned from a well-deserved holiday, during which he has completed a plan of a stage on the lines of the Continental system, with novel features, and simpler to work. Mr Affleck is convinced that there is a great deal of superfluous material in the shape of rostrums, platforms, &c., used. He proposes to utilise the stage itself for all such purposes. His plan is to construct a stage, to be worked by electricity, that will rise or sink as a whole or in sections, at any angle, to suit the requirements of the scene which it may be desired to present, and to do this in the shortest possible time. A patent is being applied for.

Mr L. R. Chantrell has been appointed property master at the Criterion Theatre.

A meeting of carpenters will be held on Sunday evening at the Salisbury Hotel, St. Martin's-lane.

Notices and reports of meetings, &c., are invited from the various societies with which stage employees are connected.

Presentation.—Mr Will Newman, of the Happy Valley, Southend-on-Sea, Concerts, took his third annual benefit on Wednesday, and had a record evening. Amongst the presentations were a pair of ebony backed hair-brushes in case and a silver shoehorn and button-hook for Mrs Newman from Mr Harry Nation; and a silver cigarette-case from Mr Chas. Clark and Mr Sam Dalton.

MR. E. H. BOSTOCK.

There is no more popular personality in the West Country, says a Glasgow paper, than Mr E. H. Bostock, who has just retired from part-ownership of the Glasgow Zoo and Hippodrome, while it is not too much to say that for eight years he has been one of the most prominent citizens of Glasgow. Genial, kind-hearted, and courteous to a degree, he has cut out a niche for himself in the affections of Glasgow people as few men have done, and now that there is a prospect—let us hope that it will not be realised—of his leaving the city, his friends have rallied round, and they intend next week to show their great regard for him and Mrs Bostock in a tangible manner.

E. H. Bostock was born "on the road" forty-six years ago. At Stoney Stratford, Buckinghamshire, he first saw the light, and, with the exception of a few years at school in Essex, until eight years ago his whole life has been spent in travelling about the Kingdom, from one town to another. His father, who belonged to a prominent Midland family, ran away from home when a boy, and was connected with the shows of the famous George Wombwell. He married a niece of that celebrated menagerie proprietor, latterly becoming an owner himself, and doing the country. It was while Mr Bostock, sen., was in Ireland—somewhere about the year 1870—that his son was called over from school to join him, and the young lad's first experience of work on the road was gained with the advance-agents of his father's concern. He was only nineteen when his father died, and six years later we find him launching out on his own as a menagerie proprietor. His collection was small, but it was well housed, and a tidier or better-equipped show was not on the road at the time.

His initial performance was given at Burton-on-Trent, and Mr Bostock thereafter made tracks for Scotland, crossing the border at Berwick-on-Tweed. This was in April of 1883. He went right north to Wick and Thurso, and actually gave a display at Mey, five miles from John o' Groats. Returning by way of Perth, Stirling, and Glasgow, Mr Bostock made his first acquaintance with the people of St. Mungo at the Saltmarket, where the menagerie took up its stand, and where, by the way, a son, Gordon Bostock, was born. This first trip to Scotland was not a terrific success, but next year when the menagerie returned and the Scotch people had become better acquainted with Mr Bostock he did great business, and practically laid the foundations of his fortune as a showman and entertainment provider. Every year thereafter a return visit was paid to Scotland, and by and by the names of Bostock and Wombwell became household words. Soon after starting for himself Mr Bostock had bought over his mother's business, and thus secured the famous name of Wombwell to tack on to his own.

Not by any means of a boastful or talkative disposition, it is very difficult to get Mr Bostock to speak of his adventures during his long years on the road. Once at Harrogate a heavy storm blew over a waggon containing hyenas, and the fierce animals escaped in the darkness of the night. An exciting chase ensued—a chase in which Mr Bostock was the leader—and the beasts were caught and safely penned up once more. Twenty years ago, at Kilmarnock, a lady performer was rehearsing in a bear's cage, when Bruin set upon her and would possibly have killed her had not Mr Bostock been at hand to jump into the cage and beat off the infuriated animal with a large stick—the first weapon that came to his hand. Another time, at Grimsby on this occasion, a bear escaped and plunged through the window of a house in which the inmates were asleep. They were almost frightened out of their wits, and were mighty glad when Mr Bostock and his men came on the scene and secured the runaway. When a young man, Mr Bostock used frequently to perform with the lions, although he says himself that he never had a great notion for this work. Not that he was frightened—far from it, for he was always first in any cage where danger threatened—but he had too many duties otherwise to attend to.

Mr Bostock's connection with Glasgow is well known. He came here eight years ago and took over the ground on which the Hippodrome now stands, and in a very short time he had established a fine permanent Zoo. Two and a-half years ago the Hippodrome opened—a venture which was phenomenally successful from the very outset. Mr Bostock has been extremely sorry to part with his share of the ownership of the Zoo and Hippodrome, and the people of Glasgow will wait with interest the announcement of his future schemes.

Fortunate when still a very young man in securing a splendid wife, Mr Bostock must undoubtedly trace much of his success to the gentle and ladylike partner of his joys and sorrows. The couple have been married twenty-three years this week, the wedding having taken place in Leeke, Staffordshire, in August, 1881. They have had four sons and three daughters. The sons are tall, handsome fellows, and with the exception of Mr Gus, who has been assisting his father for several years, are all at Dollar Academy, where they have proved themselves both clever and popular. The eldest son, Gus, was born in France, and one of the girls in Hull, but all the others claim Scotland as their native country.

Mr Bostock, since settling down in Glasgow, has done a great deal on behalf of the poor and needy. He has ever been ready and willing to help, but he has done it in a quiet and unassuming way, and men have not known of his numerous benefactions. No good cause has appealed to him in vain, and he is worthy of the title given to him by many people in the West of Scotland—"the showman philanthropist."

The Cosy Nook concerts at Newquay have been well patronised this week. At Mr Frederick Dale's benefit on Wednesday a fashionable audience greeted the popular manager of the English Opera Singers, and an attractive programme was brightly presented. In the duet "Love's Old Song" Miss Lily Pritchard and Mr Frederick Dale were heard to advantage, following which Mr Claud Anderson effectively sang "Flight of Ages." The capabilities of the English Opera Singers to provoke unstinted mirth were next fully proved by their treatment of "The Railway Train" quartet. Miss Edith Serpell won a well-merited encore for the song "Nobody Knows," and, responding, gave "Killarney." Mr H. Collman showed nicety of touch and expression in the pianoforte solo "Saltarelle," and Mr Frederick Dale scored a hit in the sketch By the Seaside. The last item, a quartet by the English Opera Singers, entitled "Flirtation," given by special request, was a conspicuous success.

Tyne Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr Fred C. Sutcliffe.—The New Barmaid is exercising her powers of fascination here. Included in the company, under the direction of Mr Alexander Loftus, is Mr Joseph B. Montague, who continues to give every satisfaction by his entertaining embodiment of Bertie White. Mr Harrison Brockbank acts capitally as Captain Lovebury, and, of course, vocally he is very strong. Mr Albert Weston as the club proprietor gives a lively performance. The title-part has a charming representative in Miss Gwladys Elvey. Miss Hilda Blanche is also successful as Brenda. Mr Alexander Loftus makes an amusing Willie White.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Teale Lingham.—Here the attraction consists of the recently produced play A Man and His Wife, performed by a company under the direction of Mr Edward H. Kelly and Mr C. M. Holland. Much interest is centred in the appearance of Miss Nina Boucicault, and her acting as Mrs Ainslie has been much admired. Leading business is also entrusted to Mr C. Aubrey Smith, who appears as the husband with distinct credit. Mr C. M. Hallard is seen to much advantage as Sir Noel Drage. Mr E. H. Kelly submits an enjoyable performance as Lord Francis Hillyer. The play is preceded by the comedietta Jerry and a Sunbeam.

Palace Theatre.—Managing Director, Mr T. W. Rowe.—Mr Fred Bulmer's company is appearing in the drama Sentenced for Life. Leading rôles are safely entrusted to Messrs Harry Lloyd, E. Vaughan, C. Whitlock, E. D. Allen, R. Boscoe, Hallwright Clifford; Misses Madge Douglas, Georgina V. France, and Mary Dalty.

New Empire Palace.—Resident-Director, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident Manager, Mr E. Leslie Conroy.—Premier position is this week occupied by the Five M.I.'s, who give their pleasing entertainment. The Sisters Sprightly display their customary smartness in song and dance. An enjoyable act is that of Mr and Mrs Gene Hughes, in the sketch A Matrimonial Substitute. There are also appearing with success De Kock Brothers, acrobats and head-balancers; Rita and Roma, character vocalists and dancers; Venola Brothers, comedy gymnasts; Stave, Indian electric comedy artist; Georgina Leonard, burlesque actress; the Mayvilles, in their Lilliputian novelty act; Tatten Hall, comedian; Stelling and Revell, gymnasts; and Jerry Hart and Beatrice Leo, American artistes.

Pavilion Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr Will H. Boardman.—That amusing comedian and raconteur, George Fuller Golden, is repeating his previous great success here, and supporting him there are Frank and Jen Latona, in the sketch, The Musical Slavey; the Three Sisters Anderson, foot equilibrists; Louie Lynton, assisted by her Pierrots in a scena, Dolly Varden at Covent Garden; Marie Gibson, vocalist; and comedians of merit in Harry Meir, Fred Fox, Harry Walker, and Edwards and May.

Olympia.—Lessees, Messrs R. Thornton and Sidney Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Nelson Barry.—Entertainment of a light and lively description is provided here by the performance of the musical piece, A Little Coquette. Included in Mr J. Gar Kiddle's company are Misses Flo Warner, Lizzie Payne, Nellie Butt; Messrs Forsyth Bruce, L. J. Headlam, J. W. Groves, E. J. Bertram, Joe Bell, Jim Clarence, and George Hestor, the last-named of whom made a big success in the pantomime in this city last season.

Grand Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, the Newcastle and Gateshead Theatres, Limited; Managing Director, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Ernest W. Bacon.—The programme this week, although not boasting of any big stars, is yet one of all-round excellence. The best turn is undoubtedly that of the Aerial Whirlwinds, whose cycling feats on an elevated track are full of daring, skill, and excitement. A smarter performance has not been seen in this district. The Sisters Llewellyan, who deputise for the Sisters Morgan, are duettists of much ability, their singing causing much enthusiasm; the Waldrons, burlesque adepts, cause shrieks of laughter by their very funny turn; Lord, Murray, and Lord are responsible for a clever athletic act entitled The Intruders, in which they give a good boxing act; the Patty Brothers are a smart couple of acrobats; an old favourite, J. H. Milburn, entertains with a couple of his well-known selections; Conan and Doyle, comedians, submit a smart turn; and Kate Lynd, comedienne; Doyle and Gibson, comedians; and Charley Dixon, the crazy comedian, are also in the bill.

NORWICH.

Grand Opera House.—Sole Manager, Mr Fred Morgan.—Messrs Murray King and Clark's company in Sweet and Twenty is paying a return visit here this week. Mr George Miller most ably portrayed the Rev. the Hon. James Floyd, and Mr Robert Milsted as Eustace and Mr Lionel Glennister as Douglas, two brothers, were highly successful. Mr Murray King was amusing as Prynne, the handy man. Master Willie King deserved praise as Chris; Miss Lilias Waldegrave ably sustained the rôle of the housekeeper; Miss Edith M'Clure was good as Mrs Trevelyan; whilst Miss Rosalie Jacobi was charming as Joan Trevelyan. Following this was a farcial trifle, entitled You and I, in which Miss Madge Vincent as Miss Middleton and Miss Eva Weston as the maid appeared with success. Mr Murray King was humorous as the Hon. Herbert Fitzallen, and Mr Cranch ably enacted Sandy.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr F. W. Fitt; Musical Director, Captain Selby.—Mr W. L. Murray does some marvellous feats of strength here; Tom Verne, Canadian skate-dancer, supplies a clever turn, and his final descent on an inclined plane is very exciting; the Brothers Ashley, in Next, Please, create much laughter; Dora Martini, gymnast, is much admired; Will H. Fox, comedian-pianist, is very amusing; Percy Hannan, boy baritone, is well received; Amstel and Luie are good as female impersonators, comedians, and dancers; Mollie Seymour, "violin virtuoso," deserves the applause she receives; Victor Travers is an eccentric comedian; and Lillie Seville is a very pleasing comedienne.

NOTTINGHAM.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Howard Finney; Treasurer, Mr Bernard Hishin.—A Trip to Chinatown comes along this week with its bright and tuneful music and comical situations, and audiences heartily acknowledge the efforts put forth by Mr Leslie Norman's company. Miss Harriett Fawn plays the widow with delightful abandon and vivacious energy, and her singing draws forth abundant applause. Miss Winifred Davies is also to be commended for her rendering of the music allotted to Isabel Dame. Miss Florrie M'Innes makes a demure Tiny Gay, and Miss Dorothy Vicott is a wide-awake exponent of Flirt. The honours among the comedians easily fall to Mr Charles Seguin, who enacts Welland Strong with a vigour that belies his maladies but never fails to rouse the utmost hilarity. Mr Gerald Manville works energetically and well as Ben Gay; Mr Stanley Champion is good as Rashleigh, and Mr Oswald Gray uses a flexible voice with due effect as Saxon Blood. Others who add to the general amusement are Misses Beatrice Erle, Vera Lake

Grange, and Daisy Cotton, and Messrs Will Smith, Leslie Norman, and Little Britton.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Chas. P. Cooke.—A Modern Judas, written by John Denton, is a type of drama well suited to the taste of patrons here, who revel in strong, sensational scenes, and the company organised by Mr Denton does full justice to his play. Interest is further added by the appearance in the leading rôle of Miss Violet King, a Nottingham young lady, who has served under the banner of Mr Benson. Miss King's portrayal of Claire Rivers, the much-harassed heroine, is replete with sympathetic tenderness and expression, and her work throughout compels high praise. Mr Frank Beresford gives force and tone to his rôle as Jack Vavasour, and Mr Harry Browne offers a good study of James Rivers. Mr Percy Rhodes brings out the cruel and vindictive nature of Capt. Melbourne with convincing power; Mr Willie Scott adds largely to the merriment by his assumption of Tom Hopkins; and Mr John Denton makes every bit tell as the nervous Elkanah Pearce. Two lively and vivacious artistes are seen in Misses Dolly Harcourt and Ada Palmer, and able work is shown by Misses Florence Melville and Kate Walbran, and Messrs Fred Bell, Louis Hector, and Trueman Towers. Mr Herbert Higgins, the genial assistant-manager of the company, finds time to capitally portray Silas Grumble.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Geo. H. Beagle.—The stage is occupied this week by Miss Gladys Silvester and Mr Fletcher Sansome's company with a musical comedy entitled Jack's Sweetheart. There are some stirring songs, and the piece goes with a swing. Mr Cecil W. Parke is thoroughly happy in the part of the hero, Jack Tremayne; Mr Fred Laceby as Bertie Babington plays the dude admirably; the necessary villainy of the piece is given with commendable force by Mr Murray Yorke; and his schemes are cleverly frustrated by Mr Will Percy as the astute detective. Miss Gladys Silvester makes a charming and lovable character of May Leslie, singing her numbers prettily; Miss Madge Western portrays Lady Dolly Dartley carefully and well; and praise is also due to Miss Emmie Clegg (Angela) and Miss Augusta Rochfort (Mrs Hopkins). Mr Edward Houghton submits a fine representation of an English Admiral, and the comedy of Miss Jennie Clare (Sally) and Mr Michael Hasting (Sammy) keeps the house in roars of merriment.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Hatton Wharton.—There is no artist more welcome here than Dan Leno, whose quaint sayings and droll mannerisms draw the heartiest of laughter. Mr Leno was in excellent form on Monday, and received a right royal reception. May Edouin and Fred Edwards again introduce the playlet A Bachelor's Dream, which finds scope for the lady to prove her great talent in character studies and the gentleman to show his aptitude as a comedian. An attractive item is Rousby's "In Paris," an electrical device in which a bewildering number of effects are contrived in coloured lights, the most noteworthy scene being a Swiss Village, where the transition from a storm to the calm of a moonlight night is cleverly executed. Miss Florence Esdaile deserves special mention for a couple of songs brilliantly rendered; the Stavordale Quintet are accorded a gratifying demonstration for their skilful playing on banjos and harp; and James Stewart raises the utmost hilarity by his eccentricities at the piano. The Tribune Trio help the fun considerably by the sketch The Cheerful Idiot, and others well rewarded for their efforts are Tennyson and Wallis, comedians, and Charles Austin, eccentric.

NUNEATON.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Managing Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr Frederick E. Philpott's company in The Girl from Japan is delighting large audiences. As Horatio Binks Mr H. Louis Wilson nightly creates laughter; Miss Maddie Scott as Maud is very fascinating, evoking great applause. Miss Nellie Valentine is a dainty Violet Meadows, and Miss Nellie Jackson is a popular Polly Perkins. Mr Percy Baverstock does well as General Baugh, and Mr Alfred Wood is a capable Sir Mulberry Flippington, Miss Nellie Parker Dent very efficiently enacting the Lady. Miss S. Lockridge is admirably fitted for the part of Lord Allenbury, and as the Rev. John Smith Mr Ernest Spalding acts ably and well. The speciality dances by Misses Lillie and Violet English are very commendable.

OLDHAM.

ROYAL.—Proprietors, Oldham Theatres, Limited; Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr George Knowles.—The opening programme which Mr Dottridge submitted to the patrons of this popular theatre was remarkable for its attractiveness, as was indicated by the crowded houses of Monday. The premier position is occupied by Mr George Abel in a laughable absurdity Three of a Kind. Miss Ethel Arden, through indisposition, was unable to undertake the rôle of Mrs Whimper, it being ably filled by Miss Nellie Fletcher. Mr George Abel was very successful as Dan Flamp, and was ably supported by a strong company. Others engaged were Prof. M'Cann and his performing dogs; Alma Obrey, burlesque actress; the Bogannys, who gave a clever Risley and acrobatic performance as "Lunatic Bakers;" Miss Kate Butler, Lancashire comedienne, who was very successful; Los Grandas, who were clever as "Electrifying Bounders;" Bob Baxter, a genial comedian, who was well received; and Little Dando.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Oldham Theatres, Limited; Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager Mr Hulme.—The Bells of Haslemere has been effectively presented here by Mr Chas. A. Chandler and company. Mr Leonard Yorke is excellently suited to the part of Frank Beresford; and Miss Mary Hardacre is very successful as the heroine, Evelyn Brookfield. The play is very creditably mounted.

GAIETY.—Proprietors, Oldham Theatres, Limited; Manager and Licensee, Mr E. J. Dexter.—This popular place of entertainment was reopened on Monday with an excellent programme. The Anati Troupe of Eastern novelty jugglers gave a novel and smart performance; Arthur Stacey, comedian and dancer, was successful; the Lundgreens were very clever in their mid-air comedy act on a revolving ladder; Mdlle. Omega proved herself a clever wire performer; Nelly Colverd, serio and top-boot dancer, was well received; Harry Cotton, eccentric comedian, scored a success; and the Raymond Bioscope was very acceptable.

OXFORD.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr H. G. P. Wells.—The management is this week providing a new and special attraction with Professor Crocker's educated horses and an excellent series of animated pictures. In the course of the evening some marvellous tricks and acts are performed by these wonderful quadrupeds, which reflect the greatest credit on the patience and skill of the trainers. Especially noteworthy are the five pony act and the great four horse act, which are performed with the greatest precision and nicety. Cæsar, the funny mule, claims a great share of the attention of the audience, and may be justly described as the funny man of the piece. Midget also, as a rocking horse, finds considerable favour. The animated pictures are quite up to the usual standard of this house, and form a very suitable interlude.

PAIGNTON.

PAVILION PIER.—Proprietors, the Devon Steamship Co., Limited; Entertainment Manager, Mr John A. Thomson.—An excellent company, which includes several old favourites, is appearing here this week in the farcical comedy Jane. Mr J. D. Hunter's performance of William Tipson is responsible for most of the fun; Mr Frank Powell gives a capital representation of Charley Shackleton; and as Mr Kershaw Mr John A. Thomson adds considerably to the success. Mr Albert Victor's make-up and impersonation of Mr Pixton are good; Mr Frank Medhurst wins favour as Claude; Miss Blanche Bayley evokes continuous merriment in her admirable portrayal of Jane; Miss Eva Bayley as Mrs Chadwick is particularly pleasing; Miss Nettie Schrier as Mrs Pixton is effective; and Miss Mamie Stanton does all that is necessary as Lucy Norton.

PAISLEY.

PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile.—Mr Rich Waldon's stock company from the Glasgow Princess's is playing East Lynne to appreciative audiences this week. Miss Grace Lester sustains with admirable histrionic ability the part of Lady Isabel. A finely drawn portraiture of Archibald Carlyle is submitted by Mr Lewis Leslie; Mr C. Quinton Fulford acquits himself creditably as Francis Levison; Mr Frank V. Fenn gives a good sketch of Richard Hare; Lord Mountsevern is intelligently embodied by Mr Robb Harvey; Mr Stuart Forbes is capital as Mr Dill; and Mr Jos. Barker furnishes an excellent embodiment of Justice Hare. Miss Margaret R. Frame makes a meritorious Barbara Hare; Cornelia Carlyle is given a good presentment by Miss Jenny Macintyre; and capital are the assumptions submitted by Miss Bessie Douglas as Joyce, Miss Fortescue as Wilson, Miss Leslie as Susanne, and Little Miss Barker as Willie Carlyle.

PENZANCE.

ST. JOHN'S HALL.—Miss Inez Howard's Man to Man company appeared here on Monday under the personal direction of Mr Harry Chattell. The powerful drama was remarkably well staged, the big scenes being capitally worked, and the cast throughout was capable. Mr Fred Peake was a manly George Gordon, Mr Arthur L. Keade as Richard Ellerton was a villian of the deepest dye, Mr Shiel Barry as the Rev. Philip Ormond was consistently impressive as the mad parson, and the Bill Burkley of Mr Edward Cudd and the Samuel Plumtree as played by Mr Jack Paulton gave the necessary touch of humour to the play. Miss Dora Davis won the sympathy of her audience in her emotional acting as Ethel Maythorne. Miss Leslie Cudd was strong in the character of Gipsy Madge, and Miss Doris Kelvy was clever as Lavinia Dove. Mr Chas. Macdona's Three Little Maids company opened on Tuesday night to a large and fashionable audience, who received the delightful musical comedy with unmistakable signs of approval. Beautifully dressed, handsomely staged, and the principal characters being in the hands of capable people, the chorus strong and well balanced, the performance went with most enjoyable swing. Miss Vera Vallis, Miss Nellie Groves, and Miss Doris Trevor were three capitivating little maids. Miss May Wright made the most of her opportunities as the jolly Dutch girl, and sufficiently dignified were Miss Iris Coley as Lady Rosemary, Miss Margery Douglas as Venetia Crafton, and Miss Eva Swinburne as Lady Marjory Crichton. Madame Ilma Norina as Lady St. Mallory was slyly humorous and very worldly wise; Mr F. Hulme Sharp as Lord Cheyne kept his audience in a constant ripple of merriment, and undoubtedly carried off the honours of the evening by his delightful breeziness and genuine humour. Mr Jules Charmettes as M. De L'Orme possesses a fine voice and uses it with effect. He looked and acted the character of the volatile Frenchman to the life. Mr H. A. Welchman as Brian Molyneux was easy in manner, and sang his numbers in good style. Mr Ewart Drake as Cupid was responsible for much laughter, his quaint methods being much enjoyed, and his scenes with Gretchen being screamingly funny. The dancing was particularly clever. The management of the company is in the capable hands of Mr Herbert Austin.

PERTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr J. H. Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Aldridge.—Messrs Fred Darcy and Fred J. Little's company of artistes is here this week in the musical comedy-drama, On the Stroke of Twelve, written by Joseph Le Brandt. Mr Fred Rivers and Mr Leslie Lingham, who are responsible for the stage adventures of Jack Rutledge and George Bainbridge, the chums, are followed with much interest throughout. Mr H. Creagh Hunt enacts the heavy rôle of James Horton, a villainous schemer, with veritable force; Mr Harry C. Robinson is seen to advantage as old Henry Rutledge, as is also Mr Karl H. Edwards in the part of the wily Moses Levi. Mr Fred J. Little is exceedingly good as Jasper, a coloured gentleman troubled with dyspepsia, and with the able assistance of Mr Will Bass as Pat Cahill, an Irish American, succeeds in highly amusing the audience. Mr W. Montague ably portrays the character of Van Dyke, convict 29, a wronged man. Messrs Will White as Superintendent Hawkins, Thomas Younge as Keeper Doyle, George Smith as Warder Lake, Fred Jones as Oleson, the Swede, and Leslie Barrett as Samson Surley, both counterfeiters, earn an appreciable share of success. Miss Bessie Moore very ably sustains the rôle of Jess Bainbridge, and Miss Bertha St. Ruth likewise does full justice to the impersonation of Doris Rutledge, whilst Miss Elma C. Turner shows a good deal of marked ability as Marie Bergerre. The many talented members of the company brighten the tragical side of the piece at various stages by vocally and otherwise entertaining an altogether appreciative audience. The scenery is also worthy of note.

PETERBOROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. Darville Vernon.—Messrs E. H. Knight and George Denham's company has this week had a most cordial reception in The Grip of Iron, and Mr Fred Powell's powerful acting as Jagon has made a strong impression. Paul Blanchard has a capital representative in Mr George Denham, and Mr Charles Grant does well as Lorentz De Ribas. Coucou and Dodot are in the capable hands of Mr Harry Agar-Lyons and Mr John Brittain. Mr Andrew Liston is an excellent Smiler; Miss Nellie Grant is pleasing as Sophie; and Miss Georgie De Lara is successful as Cora. The piece is effectively staged.

PRESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr S. Pritt.—An excellent attraction is provided here for the holiday week in the production of the very much criticised Sapho. Miss Annie Bell as Fanny Legrand was excellent in this complex study of human character; Mr H. Sinclair as Jean Gaussin was quite successful; Mr G. Antley played Uncle Cesaire convincingly; Mr G. B. Watson was a thoroughly French Paul Dechelette; Mr J. A. Storey in the trying rôle of Father Legrand was a pathetic figure; Mr P. Nessley made a martial Sergeant De Ville; and Little Miss Lottie Ray displayed much simplicity as the child. The Sapho Syndicate, Limited, are responsible for the production.

PRINCE'S.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs Sawyer and Woodruff.—A popular return visit is being paid here by Judy, with clever Miss Florrie Groves as the child of the streets. Miss Mary Neil cleverly and artistically undertakes the dual rôle of Polly and Alice. Miss Muriel Thompson is powerfully repulsive as the wretch Blake; and Miss Ethel Holdsworth is a sprightly Becky. Mr George Kirk as the detective, Grip, gives an interesting rendering; Mr Carleton Wallace is the orthodox villain, Duburgh, and Messrs Wm. Vane as the Banker, C. Allister as Coster Jim, F. May as Giddles, W. Rose as Parkins, Frank Lyndon as Dick, and the Constable by James Nuttall are all satisfactory in their respective parts.

At the Greenock Theatre Royal this week, Mr E. Oswald Brook's company is playing The New Housemaid to good audiences. Mr Somers Bellamy appears in the rôle of Peter Pinkerton with great success. Mr Arnold Austin is a capable exponent of Arthur Pinkerton, and Mr Charles Calvert is a diverting Rev. Stephen Stingles. Mr Ralph Roberts is a comedian of undoubted ability, and sustains the part of Hon. Bertie Rashleigh with unflagging energy. Mr Pan E. Draco submits an excellent piece of work as the detective, Marmsbury Doom, and Mr John H. Costello is genuinely funny as Roseberry. Miss Ella Edgar enacts the saucy housemaid, Nellie Haddock, to perfection. Miss Madge Haines makes herself sufficiently forbidding as Lettice, Mrs Mallalieu's Caroline is a study of great merit, Miss Ethel L. Carylon is a vivacious Dulcie, and Miss Pattie Elliott makes the most of her opportunities as Agnes. The one-act comedietta, Clause No. 6, in which Mr Arnold Austin, Mr John H. Costello, and Miss Ella Edgar take part, is the front piece.

MR ARTHUR POWELL, who finishes his engagement in Siberia at the London Hippodrome to-day (Saturday), joins Messrs Arthur Hart and J. E. Malone's company to play the part of Micky O'Dowd, in My Lady Molly. The tour starts in the southern counties. The Powells come of a great "circus stock." "Pip" Powell (W. H. Powell) is now playing Pettifer, in Geo. Edwardes's No. 1 Toreador company on tour.

INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.

Copyright confusion is, like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr Albert A. Strong's new work entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his text-book on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" Office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases, what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee, July 28th, 1901

"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer, by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as "the Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright," and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright" is dedicated to Mr A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman, July 31st, 1901

Those who are interested in "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" will derive much valuable intelligence by reading Mr Albert Strong's book bearing the above title, published at "The Era" Office.—Pelican, Aug. 3d, 1901.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1904. The veteran J. L. Toole has a good story in "The Era" Annual (49, Wellington-street, Strand) a publication which is highly valued by all who have anything to do with the stage. He says:—I was once playing in "Dearer than Life" with Irving and Billington at Leeds. After the performance several gentlemen were in the general room of the hotel where we were staying, and among them a certain Mr Jones, who professed to have a large acquaintance in the profession, and who appeared to have a local reputation as a judge of ages.

"Well, how old," said someone, "would you take Mr Toole to be?'

"Well," said he, "sixty-five, if he's a day."

"Do you know him?" I asked.

"Oh, yes; I know him very well indeed."

"Ah! and how old should you take me to be?"

"Well, I should take you to be forty, if you're a day."

Irving asked Mr Jones if he didn't think Mr Toole was nearer seventy-five than sixty-five. "No," he said; "sixty-five, if he's a day," and the company present seemed to put it down that that would be my age. They had most of them been to the theatre and seen me—for the first time probably—playing an old man; and as it was my first visit to the town, and we were going on by the mail train that night, I had a fancy not to go away and leave them under the impression that I was this very old gentleman. I found that Jones was a decent sort of fellow, and I said to Irving that before I went I should just give him my card and let him know what a mistake he had made. By and bye, when our cab arrived, we said good-night to our casual acquaintances, and, taking Mr Jones aside, I handed him my card, whereupon he said "Oh, indeed!" in a very offensive manner, turned upon his heel, and walked away.

"Well," I said to my friends as we drove away, "that's the most impertinent fellow I think I ever met." Whereupon Billington and Irving went into fits of laughter, and confessed that they had warned Mr Jones that I was continually passing myself off as Toole, and he was to be quite prepared for my handing him a card and trying the imposition upon him.—Leeds and Yorkshire Mercury, Friday, Jan. 22d, 1904.

AN APOLOGY AND EXPLANATION

It is with the greatest regret that we ("The Umpire") find that in our issue of July 31—owing to an error in the transcription of a name—a report of certain proceedings (in the action of Methofer v. Methofer) in the Divorce Court turns out to be a serious libel on Miss Ethel Arden, the popular artiste.
We offer our sincerest apologies to Miss Ethel Arden, and express our deep regret that her name should have received so disgraceful an imputation in our newspaper. We feel sure that Miss Arden's many friends and admirers will understand that her reputation stands absolutely unsullied by the mistake we have made, and that her future career will continue unaffected by what has been published. We need hardly say that there was no intention to refer to her in the report. The name of the respondent in the divorce proceedings was Harben, which by mistake appeared in our issue as Arden. We trust that Miss Ethel Arden will receive this apology in the spirit in which it is tendered, and that it will help to remove the pain and suffering of which we have been the unintentional cause.

THEATRICAL WIGS.

The importance of wigs to theatrical art has often been overlooked. As DUTTON COOK says, "King Lear has been known to appear without his beard. Mr GARRICK, as his portrait reveals, played the part with a clean-shaven face, and JOHN KEMBLE followed his example; but could the Ghost of Hamlet's father ever have defied the poet's portraiture of him, and walked the platform of Elsinore Castle without a sable-silvered chin?" From the earlier days of dramatic production in England head-attires and beards have formed important parts of the expenses of the theatre In PHILIP HENSLOWE'S inventory of dress and properties, dated 1598, is a record of "six head tiers or attires." In the times of the Restoration, the actors wore the flowing perukes which came in with CHARLES II. CIBBER tells us how he sold a full-bottomed periwig to a certain Colonel BRETT, so that the gallant officer might make a fair show in his wooing of the Countess of MACCLESFIELD. The "Merry Monarch" complained of a certain contemporary convention of the drama in connection with wigs. "What is the reason," asked he, "that we never see a rogue in a play but, odds-fish, they always clap him on a black periwig, when it is known that one of the greatest rogues in England always wears a fair one?" His MAJESTY was understood to refer to the rascally informer, TITUS OATES. LLOYD, in his poem, "The Actor," published in 1762, wrote:—

> To suit the dress demands the actor's art;
> Yet there are some who over-dress the part.
> To some prescriptive right gives settled things—
> Black wigs to murderers, feathered hats to kings.

QUINN generally appeared on the stage in an immense full-bottomed periwig. GARRICK had one of much smaller size, worn low on the forehead, with five curls on each side. This was called the "Garrick cut." His various portraits, however, show him in different kinds of wigs. JOHN KEMBLE played Hamlet in ruffles and a powdered wig. MUNDEN'S "wiggery" cost him more than a hundred pounds. It was composed of second-hand wigs which had once decorated the heads of "monarchs, judges, aldermen, philosophers, sailors, jockeys, beaux, thieves, tailors, tinkers, and haberdashers." SUETT, in a burlesque of Tom Thumb, wore a wig which had once been the property of King CHARLES II. He purchased it cheaply at a sale by auction When it was put up by the auctioneer, SUETT placed it on his head and began to bid for it with a gravity which sent the spectators into roars of laughter. They agreed that it should become SUETT'S property at his own price, and, no one bidding against him, the once Royal headgear was knocked down to the actor "for a mere song" Flowing wigs were liable to troublesome accidents. When the tragedian BENSLEY was playing Richard III., on one occasion, as he advanced to the footlights to deliver his first lines his large wig was caught by a nail which stuck out from the side wing, and was dragged from his head. BENSLEY was a very dignified and solemn actor; and, sooner than bend to the stroke of misfortune, he continued the scene with his bald pate in full view of the much-amused audience. PENTLAND, a provincial manager of the last century, who suffered from gout, enacted the lively hero of FARQUHAR'S comedy The Recruiting Officer sitting in an easy chair, with his legs in flannel, and wearing a wig of the same pattern as that donned by the Lord Chief Justice on the Bench. This PENTLAND, by-the-bye, travelled from town to town on a donkey, with his gouty feet in paniers, which also contained the wardrobe and properties of his company. In 1817, when EDMUND KEAN played Eustace de St. Pierre, in The Surrender of Calais, he used such an extraordinary and terrible wig that he was for some time unrecognised by the audience. Stage wigs have almost led to political troubles. When BUNN'S adaptation of SCRIBE'S Bertrand et Raton was introduced to the British public at Covent-garden Theatre in 1834 it was feared that FARREN would make the leading character a portrait of M. TALLEYRAND, then French Ambassador at St. James's. The actor, indeed, appeared in a wig which exactly resembled TALLEYRAND'S hair; and BUNN received a very serious remonstrance from the LORD CHAMBERLAIN. In reply BUNN, to excuse himself, wrote, "Until the evening of the performance I was not aware what style of wig Mr FARREN meant to adopt, such matters being entirely at the discretion of performers of his standard. I have since mentioned to him the objections which have been pointed out to me, but he has written me word that he cannot consent so to mutilate his appearance." WILLIAM IV. sent the LORD CHAMBERLAIN to Lords GREY and PALMERSTON, and they all three attended the performance. In the box opposite to them, however, sat TALLEYRAND, who, with his usual tact, laughed heartily at the play, and thus the threatened international complication was avoided.

The migration of that celebrated wig-maker Mr W. CLARKSON from his old home on the west side of Wellington-street to new premises in Wardour-street will be an event of great interest, considering the importance to the profession of thoroughly reliable perruquiers. The Wellington-street premises have been associated with the art since the days of WILLIAM IV. Mr CLARKSON'S father began business there in 1833, and since 1878, when that gentleman died, Mr CLARKSON has carried on the business. His fame has even spread across the Channel, and amongst his patrons are M. COQUELIN, Madame REJANE, and Madame BERNHARDT, who has been lavish in her telegrams of gratitude and praise to Mr CLARKSON for the fine work he has done for her. This was only a return for the knowledge which he obtained when he went to study his art in Paris at the age of twelve. He can remember, as customers of his father, such actors as MATHEWS, BUCKSTONE, PHELPS, and CRESWICK The late Mr CLARKSON introduced a practice into the art of making-up which was an immense improvement—i.e., the use of grease paints, a German invention of which he was informed by Mr HERMANN VEZIN As an instance of the difficulties which are overcome by the accomplished perruquier we may mention the wig which was made by CLARKSON for Mr WARNER to play Coupeau in. Every hair had to stand on end "like quills upon the fretful porcupine." And the criticism to which the firm, as costumiers as well as wigmakers, is occasionally subject is very strict. Once, when Mr CLARKSON had made the skeleton dress for the dance of death in a revival of The Duchess of Malfi, a gentleman to whom the costume was shown complained that one particular bone was wrong. On the assistant stoutly maintaining the contrary, the customer humbly remarked, "I suppose you are right; but, during thirty-seven years' practice as a surgeon, I have always found the bone where I suggest it ought to be." This is probably the only instance in which the firm of CLARKSON has been convicted of incorrectness

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS.

BIRTHS.

ALLEN.—Aug. 19, at 12, Sussex-place, Regent's-park, London, the wife of W. E. Allen, of a son.

BATH.—Aug. 18, at Bridlington, the wife of Joe Bath (Beanland and Bath), of a bouncing boy. Both doing well.

CONROY.—Aug. 5, Mrs Dan Conroy of a daughter. Both doing well.

JENNINGS.—Aug. 25, at her residence, Woodcote, Milton-road, Hanwell, the wife of F. S. Jennings, the manager of the Ealing Theatre, of a daughter.

NEWBURY.—On Aug. 20, Mrs Frank Newbury, of a daughter. Both doing well. Telephone, 63, Wednesbury. Telegrams, "Newbury, Wednesbury."

TERRY.—Aug. 22, at 54, Ashford-road, Eastbourne, the wife of William Terry, of a splendid son. Both in fine form.

MARRIAGES.

MOULD—SMITH.—Aug. 23, at Holy Trinity Church, North Shields, Thomas Harcus Mould (eldest son of Mr William R. Mould, lessee and manager of Central Palace), to Mary Lizzie Smith.

MARRIAGE ANNIVERSARY.

Aug. 27, 1892, at Stonehaven, N.B., Nannie M. Baxter to Walter J. Bayliss, business-manager.

DEATHS.

MUSANTE.—Aug. 25, in London, Mrs John Wilson Musante (Bertha Waring, of Wilson and Waring)

WATERHOUSE.—Aug. 18, Frederick Gilmore Waterhouse, the dearly-loved husband of Lilian Doreen, at 25, Waterloo-road, S.E.

WEATHERSBY.—Aug. 10, after a painful operation, Eliza Jane Weathersby, a member of the Haymarket Theatre Company from 1858 to 1879, under the management of Mr J. B. Buckstone and Mr J. S. Clarke, wife of George W. Weathersby, and mother of Frank Weathersby, in her sixty-eighth year.

IN MEMORIAM.

LANGTON.—In memory of Fred Langton, who died Aug. 23, 1903. Gone, but not forgotten by his loving wife, Millie Denham (Mrs Fred Langton).

SWALLOW.—In loving memory of William Chas. Swallow, who died Aug. 23, 1900. Never forgotten by his loving mother, sisters, and brothers.

MISS MARIANNE CALDWELL has been engaged by Mr Scott Buist for a part in The Axis, by Cyril Harcourt, for trial production at Worthing on Sept. 12.—Owing to the indisposition of Miss Averil May, Miss Elsie Savile was called upon one day this week to play the part of Rosalie with Mr Frank Wilson's company in The Marriage of Kitty at the Pier Pavilion, St. Leonards-on-Sea, and acquitted herself with credit.—Mr Frank Wilson's Marriage of Kitty company scored a great success at the Opera House, Buxton, last week. On the 13th inst. was given the 150th performance of the piece by the company, and occasion was taken by the members of the company to present a bouquet in the shape of a horse-shoe, composed of pink carnations and studded with nails of stephanotis, with the figures 150 in white stocks across it, to Miss Vera Fordyce, who plays Kitty.

MR J. F. ELLISTON'S company is appearing with credit at the Terriss Theatre this week in Alone in London. Mr Gerald Kennedy cleverly doubles the parts of John Biddlecombe and the miller's son. Miss Madge Devereux as Annie Meadows is vivacious. Mr Stephen Ewart's Richard Redcliffe is a telling embodiment, and Mr Hugh Brady as Spriggins creates much merriment. Miss Ada Tilley's Tom Chickweed deserves warm praise for its many good qualities; and Mr J. W. Wilkinson as Jenkinson is excellent in every way. Mr Stafford Smith as Mr Burnaby and Mr George Boag as Walter render valuable service; and Miss Lily Lewis as Ruth Clinton is full of feeling. Miss Ada Elliston and Miss Augusta Evans as Liz Jenkinson and Susan are very praiseworthy, and the elaborate scenic effects evoke loud plaudits.

FOR copyright purposes the performance of a new drama entitled The Wolves of London took place at the Theatre Royal, Greenock, on Saturday, Aug. 13.

MR F. H. DE QUINCEY AND MISS SIME SERUYA, by arrangement with Charles Frohman, will present The Twin Sister in Jersey and Guernsey for nine performances, commencing on Sept. 5, with the entire Duke of York's Theatre equipment. Among the artists engaged are Messrs Balliol Holloway, Alec Flood, J. Henry Twyford, Kendal Chalmers, and Montague Lane. The season is under the direction of Mr Harold Reyner, and the acting and advance manager is Mr A. Hamilton Warden.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

PLYMOUTH.

NEW PALACE.—Mr John Lawson is here with his dramatic sketch, Humanity. The mounting of the piece is admirable, and the acting is realistic. An enthusiastic reception is accorded to Espinosa and Neilson, whose saltatory performances are remarkably clever. La Belle Nello merits special commendation as a contortionist. As a "chapeau artiste" Charles Wood is smart and quick, and Charles Stevens has a cultured voice, which he uses to advantage in some taking songs. Mirthful moments may be reckoned upon when Charles Lilburn and C. Bayman are on the boards. They find warm favour. Tony and Flo Vernon deserve honourable mention for their very amusing sketch.

GRAND THEATRE.—There is a happy blending of the grave and gay in Between Two Women, which is being performed here this week by Mr Frederick Melville's company. Mr Tubby Edlin thoroughly amused the large audience as Jack Pringle, and in the leading character, that of the Rev. Philip Carton, a heroic clergyman, Mr Albert Ward was a success. He attacked the arduous part with a zeal and surety that rendered the result inevitable. Miss Monita Valdar and Miss Marie Robson were very effective, and as the Blind Boy Miss Alice Bowes was pathetic, her singing eliciting applause. As the villain Mr Fred Morgan displayed force, concentration, and power, and Mr Sidney Price, Mr Harry Marlow, and Mr Graham Woods gave careful studies of minor parts.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Miss Fortescue and company are here this week. On Monday The School for Scandal was given, and was well staged. There were evidences of clear insight and patient study in the excellent performance of Miss Fortescue, whose portrayal of Lady Teazle was free from any tendency to exaggerate. Mr Conway Wingfield appeared as Charles Surface; and the Sir Peter of Mr George P. Polson was very commendable. Mr Chichester as Sir Oliver, Mr Carpenter as Rowley, and Miss Madeline Meredith as Maria achieved success, and the remainder of the cast deserve praise for their representations. Ought We to Visit Her? was played the following night, and, on succeeding nights, Moths and She Stoops to Conquer.

METROPOLE.—In the popular musical comedy drama, Carl the Clockmaker, Mr Henry Starr's company is appearing here this week. Mr Starr sustains four characters himself, and accomplishes the task very creditably. He is well supported by Miss Danbury, Mr Richard Harris, and Miss Rita Rosslyn, all of whom acquit themselves satisfactorily.

PORTH.

POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr W. Bynorth.—This week we are favoured with a visit by F. R. Benson's Shakespearian company in the following répertoire:—Romeo and Juliet, The Taming of the Shrew, The Merchant of Venice, As You Like It, The Merry Wives of Windsor, and Hamlet. On Monday evening Romeo and Juliet was presented before a large and appreciative audience. Mr Ivan Leslie as Escalus, Prince of Verona, was well placed. Mr Bernard Limpus as Romeo won the favour of the audience, displaying much ability and power; Mr William Senior as Montague and Mr A. Fayne as Capulet were both seen to advantage; Tybalt found an able representative in Mr Arthur Phillips; Mr F. Owen Chambers merited praise as Friar Laurence; Mr Henry Herbert gave an excellent account of Mercutio; Mr Courtney Foote was exceedingly good as Paris; Mr G. Wallace Johnstone submitted a capital impersonation of Benvolio; Miss Dorothy Green as Juliet was excellent; and Miss May De Launcy successfully played the part of the Nurse.

PORTSMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Bell.—This week we have here the very successful comic opera My Lady Molly, which is most delightfully played by Mr Frederick Mouillot's excellent company. Miss Edmee De Dreux as Lady Molly Martingale fills the rôle to perfection, and acts very charmingly. The Alice Coverdale of Miss Zoe Gilfillan is a piquant and dainty performance; Miss Madge Carr makes a vivacious Hester, and Mdlle. Ebba Darcier meets with approval as Mdlle. Mirabeau. Mr Leicester Tunks is responsible for the part of Captain Harry Romney, and acts and sings well. Mr Harold F. Payne creates a favourable impression as Lionel Bland. Mr H. Godwin Hunt's Sir Miles Coverdale is a capital representation, and the very humorous Mickey O'Dowd of Mr Stephen Fitzgerald evokes the unbounded approval of the audience. The minor parts are well filled.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr T. E. Agate.—A return visit to this house of Mr F. Brooke Warren's company in the sensational drama, Mysteries of the Thames, is the attraction this week. The drama has many incidents, all of a most exciting character, and is capitally put on. Richard Brandon, a ruined gambler, as portrayed by Mr Roy Fortescue is an excellent piece of acting. Captain James Denbigh, alias "the Hawke," is presented by Mr F. Brooke Warren in a most powerful manner. Miss Gwynne Warren in the dual part of Helen Price, "Flash Nell," and Grace Rochdale, her twin sister, shows much ability. Miss Lallah Shelton is a very pathetic Kate Brandon; and Miss Nellie Palmer makes an effective Little Doris. The humour of the piece is well sustained by Mr Elton Morgan as Bill Bosco, a London burglar, and Mr Dan Hardie as Peter Waggles.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr W. Pratt.—Capital talent is provided at this hall for the week. The Jackson Troupe, in their musical melange, From London to Tokio, submit a very pleasing turn, every member of the troupe being an artist; Patty Yole, comedienne and elegant dancer, is very smart; Regan and Ryan, vaudeville artistes, contribute very taking business, and gain much applause; Kloof and Ramsey, the eccentric musical entertainers, are clever; and a sketch by Wal Pink and company, entitled The Prize Baby, is responsible for shouts of laughter. Bert Weston, swell comedian, has a good reception; and other good entertainment is also contributed by Fred M'Arthur, vocalists and dialect mimic; Lali Cliff, comedienne and danseuse; and Payne's Photo.-Bioscope, with new pictures.

RADCLIFFE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr Jas. Boothman.—Russel Vaun's capital drama, A Daughter's Crime, has been played here by Mr Garrett Todd's company. Mr Alfred Lloyd acts well as Lord Sefton, Mr D. W. Cleugh is smart as Sir Charles Tremaine, and Mr Allen Wade makes a good lawyer. As Rupert Thorne Mr William Vaughan is seen to considerable advantage, and Mr W. Anderson does good work as Major Grant. Miss Joan Pereira, a charming actress, makes the most of her opportunities in the part of Ivra Blight, Miss Emery successfully impersonates twin sisters, and Miss G. Allison acts well as Hilda Dundonald.

ROTHERHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr W. Manning.—Mr T. Morton Powell and company are here with Greed of Gold. Mr Carthage Caldcleugh gives a careful embodiment of Harry Hood, and Mr Wilson Summers is a manly Arthur Erroll. Mr T. G. Warry scores as Mr Brightson, Q.C., and Mr Walter M. Cameron is a typical Cully Snig. Mr B. Fox as Tom Welstead is deserving of warm commendation, and Mr H. Skea is a humorous Conn Creamer. Miss Edith Wallis is sympathetic as Dora Maxwell, and Miss Grace St. John scores highly as Mrs Mary Maxwell. Miss Katie Leaven is a sprightly Patty Mayfield, and Miss Florrie Woods is deserving of praise as Cecil.

RAMSGATE.

AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr Henry Bowman.—A return visit is being paid by A Country Girl, in which Mr George Dance's all-round talented company has been appearing. Mr Harry Buss is wonderfully amusing as the irrepressible Barry, causing a vast amount of fun. Mr Francis Ludlow sings nicely and acts in capable fashion as Geoffrey Challoner, and other effective impersonations are those given by Mr H. C. Morton (Sir Joseph Verity), Mr Fred W. Pattrick (Mr Raikes), &c. Miss Nellie Cozens is a delightful Nan, while as Princess Melaneh Miss Ernestine Desborough scores heavily. Miss Kathryn Comber charmingly portrays Marjory Joy, and Miss Rosie Begarnie proves herself a capable actress as Madame Sophie. All the other parts are skilfully performed, and the chorus and orchestra render excellent service.

ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE AND PAVILION.—Proprietors, the Ramsgate Corporation; Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Herbert Jay; Acting-Manager, Mr N. Arthur Hornby.—Little Miss Nobody, enacted by Mr Frederick Thorne's company, has formed a substantial attraction here. Miss Mabel Archdall plays the title-part prettily, and the Sisters Triplet are effectively represented by the Misses M. Melba, Perry, and Dora Dent. Fun is contributed by Mr Percy Clifton as Christopher Potter, and Mr Dennis Drew does admirably as Guy Cheviot. The Gussie Stilton of Mr P. Barrow, the Dominie Crockett of Mr C. F. Cooke, the Dandy Triplet of Mr H. E. Garden, and the Jock Jameson of Mr J. J. Jordan being good representations. As the Earl of Cripplegate Mr R. Cooper is quite successful, and the daughters find capable representatives in Miss Sybil Henniker, Miss Marjorie Clark, and Miss Armstrong. Miss Mabel Dent plays Maggie in lively fashion, and Miss Molly Tremaine is a capital Lady Stilton, the rôle of the daughter being in the accomplished hands of Miss Dorothy Maxwell.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr Reginald Taylor.—The late Mr Wilson Barrett's play The Never Never Land is being performed this week in good style by Messrs John Hart and Harry Armitage's company. Mr George M'Kenzie takes the part of Jack Landale well; Mr Edmund F. Kennedy gives an excellent rendering of Jack Mowbray, and Mr Edward Rochelle plays amusingly as Nat Rudder, and is capitally supported by Miss Julie Kennard as Sal Berker. Miss Marion Fawcett acts sympathetically as Lady Walgrove; Miss Caroline Barrett is very pleasing as Sybil; Miss Margaret Parker gives a clever rendering of the part of Smudgee; Mr Simon D'Ord is humorous as the minor poet, Caerwon Moody. Mr John Hart gives a capital character impersonation of the old gardener Brudds, and Mr Stanley Harrison as Tom Hewley, Mr Benson North as the lawyer, Mr Cecil Elgar as Lord Shorland, Mr Selby Burrell as Dan Murphy, Mr Sidney Drayton as the Chinaman Wong, Mr Stephen Bancroft as Spurdy, and Miss Blanchette Grand as Lorna Mannerley all deserve special mention.

RHYL.

QUEEN'S PALACE.—Manager, Mr P. J. Ashfield; Secretary, Mr E. W. Parry.—Craig, Rose, and Craig head the bill here. They are correctly described as dental athletes, and do a turn that is as novel as it is acceptable. Mdlle. Alencon has a number of tricks all of a mystifying character. Gerald Mount proves a versatile humourist and entertainer. Maude Vera, serio and coon artiste, renders her songs in charming style. Ray and Miles are prominent with some clever juggling Lillian Gorman, burlesque actress; Wilton Warton, card manipulator; and the Palace Vivagraph are other strong attractions. A word of praise is due to the orchestra, ably conducted by Mons. Bosanquet.

TOWN HALL.—Lessees, Messrs Baring Brothers; Manager, Mr D. C. James.—Mr Penley's company, in Charley's Aunt, is paying a welcome visit here this week. Mr Edmund Baker sustains the part of Lord Fancourt Babberley in a lively and energetic manner; Miss Lucy Sibley acquits herself well as Donna Lucia; Miss Winifred Ingham plays Ela Delahay in a pretty and natural way; Mr Hastings Lynn and Mr Basil Lynn do full justice to the parts of Jack Chesney and Charley Wykeham; and other rôles are capably sustained by Miss Renee Roy, Miss Marie Fletcher, Mr Walter Beaumont, Mr Sydney Lynn, and Mr Frederick Tyrrell.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr A. R. Sutcliffe.—Bert Byrne, comedian, pays a first visit here, and meets with decided success. Phil Smith and Jessie Barlee contribute several well-chosen duets; A. R. Sutcliffe sings with spirit, and is always effective; W. H. Atkinson's vocal contributions are well received; and Peter Flitcroft exhibits skill in his accompaniments and pianoforte solos.

ROCHDALE.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr Charles Clucas.—The King of Crime occupies the boards here this week. Mr Wm. Clayton submits a striking impersonation of Ronjarre; Mr A. D. Anderson makes a typical miser, Gandelu; Mr W. H. Porter cleverly portrays the part of Simon; Mr Herbert Evelyn sustains with manly bearing Louis Mascarot; Mr Walter Dale as Mick Maloney is most amusing, as also is Mr Val W. Gally as Toto Chapin. Miss Marion Turner enacts with skill the part of Henriette; Miss Elizabeth Turner Elliott as Matilde is everything that could be desired; Miss Kitty Russell creates roars of laughter as Clarisse.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr Frank Hargreaves.—Here this week are the Maningos, acrobats and equilibrists; Marie Winsome, male impersonator; Mill May, quick-change artiste and top solo dancer; Les Lorens, novel statuary act, &c; Graham, ventriloquist; Winnie Scott, Parisian soubrette and dancer; Emily Alvena, ballad vocalist; Wat Tyler, character and descriptive vocalist; and the Sisters Marion, juvenile duettists.

ROCK FERRY (CHESHIRE).

OLYMPIAN GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr Victor Wallace.—This week Mr Whit Cunliffe returns to the scene of former successes; Mr Jack W. Hughes charms everyone by his vocal selections; Miss Errol Stanhope is in great demand with her whistling solos; and Mr Maynard Dakin is a humorous comedian. Mr Victor Wallace controls the show admirably.

RUGBY.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Kingsley.—Two Little Vagabonds has been presented here by Hardie and Von Leer's company. Miss Elena Lonsdale as Marion Thornton appeals strongly to the sympathy of the audience, and enacts her part with great success. Miss Edna Eden as Barbara Scarth does excellent work, and Mr Talbot Homeward as George Thornton gives a thoroughly effective rendering. Mr Douglas Cecil is very good as Captain Darville. As the Two Little Vagabonds Miss Lilian Francis and Miss Violet Carr are deserving of high praise for their carefully rendered and realistic expositions. Mr H. Hesselgrave as Bill Mullins is excellent, and Miss Eleanor Papera as Biddy Mullins gives an exceedingly clever and natural character study. Mr Chas. T. Doe as Dido Bunce and Mr Chas. T. Hughes as the Coughdrop are highly praiseworthy, and Mr Harry B. Major as John Scarth, Mr C. W. Crowe as Leeson, Mr Henry Rentoul as Joe Gargoyle, and Mr Arthur Cheverton as Wiffin make the most of their opportunities. Miss Kate Hesslegrave is commendable as Sister Brandon, and Mr Cyril Grover as the footman is well placed.

RUNCORN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr H. W. Caddick.—Mr W. H. Melrose's company is here with the sensational drama, The Red Barn. Mr Geo. Steel gives an excellent portrayal of the dual-rôle of Clement Carlton and Harvey Slingsby. William Carlton's disreputable character is well depicted by Mr Leo Rodway; Mr J. Short as Augustus Chatterwell is quaint and entertaining; and Mr William H. Melrose does well as Jerry Updike. Miss Lily Winter presents the vicissitudes of the discarded wife, Mary Merton, with much pathetic power; Madame Issa Steel gives a capable interpretation of Lucy; and Miss Lizzie Moorley's Betty commends itself in every way. Master A. Keand should also be mentioned.

SALFORD.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr Harold Goulden.—Miss Marie Menzies' company in A Rogue's Daughter is well received here, and Mr Wilfred Blair makes a good impression by his impersonation of Frank Tyler. Miss May Wynlard is successful in the difficult rôle of Lady Maynard. Colonel Foster is well represented by Mr Richard Ferris, and Mr Charles Stimson as Isaac Isaacs makes the most of his opportunities. Mr A. Hall-Menzies as 'Ercules, Mr Will Wilson as Ebenezer, and Miss Milly Doria as Priscilla, with Miss K. Rallb as Mrs Jenkins cause much laughter. Miss Marie Menzies as Letty Grey and Miss Mabel Hall as Dicky meet with much sympathy and appreciation. Mr F. V. Fenn as Sir George Maynard also does well. The scenery is good.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford; Licensee, Mr James M. Hardie; Secretary and Manager, Mr C. Shayler.—An excellent programme is provided here twice nightly. Lottie Lennox makes a welcome appearance with some new songs which have "caught on;" Nelson's Newsboys Quintet are well received; Bretma, magician and illusionist, is very smart; a clever trapeze act is done by the Bob Hanlon Troupe. Solo and Mayo, eccentrics; Walter Wallace, a clever comedian; Dion Wade, a comical comedian; and Jenny Lynn, comedienne, with the animated pictures, fill the bill satisfactorily.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy B. Broadhead.—Good houses are well entertained here twice nightly by Harry Grey, Australian comedy vocalist; Jumel's musical act; Fred Karno's comedians, in the pantomime absurdity, Hilarity; Satsuma, Japanese wonder-worker; Itrams, in their clever Continental act; Wal Croft, Scotch comedian; Will Goodwin, dramatic vocal comedian; Harry Blake, comedian and eccentric dancer; Rutland and company, in their sketch, Winning a Wife; Tell and Tell, comedy acrobats; and the animated pictures are much admired.

SCARBOROUGH.

SPA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Fras. Goodricke.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company is here with Cousin Kate. Mrs Spencer is well played by Miss Helen Leyton, and Miss Hilda Howitt is a demure Amy Spencer. Mr Walter Ingham makes the most of his opportunities as the Rev. James Bartlett; Heath Desmond is enacted with much spirit by Mr Yorke Stephens; and Kate Curtis is charmingly embodied by Miss Lilias Earle. On Wednesday afternoon Mr George Grossmith gave his musical and humorous recital here before a large and fashionable audience.

LONDESBOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Waddington and Sons; Acting-Manager, Mr J. T. Carpenter.—Mr George Dance's principal company is here with A Country Girl. Mr George Mudie, jun., is a capital Sir Joseph Verity, Mr Cyril Thompson sings and acts well as Geoffrey Challoner, and Mr Johnny Osborne succeeds in evoking laughter as Barry. Praise is due to Miss Maud Harvey for her refined impersonation of Margery, to Miss May Glen as Nan, and to Miss Veronica Brady, who is a most vivacious Madame Sophie.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Henry Mayhew; Business-Manager, Mr F. P. Morgan.—The Hardie and Von Leer company is here with A Path of Thorns. Mr Alfred Lester's rendering of Sam Hallett is good; Mr Cyril Mackay is successful as the Rev. Frank Selby; and Miss Amy Rogerson acts with vivacity as Jane Adelaide; Little Mabel May is exceptionally clever, singing "Bedella" and dancing delightfully.

PEOPLE'S PALACE AND AQUARIUM.—Managing Director, Mr W. Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr William Kitchingman.—The Cairo orchestra, conducted by Professor Voorzanger, affords much enjoyment here. Mr Dillon Shallard's singing wins loud applause; Ariel and Astarte are capable gymnasts; Miss Issa Steel, soprano vocalist, has a good reception; the Mezzettis, comedy gymnasts, are amusing; Martinettis, sketch artistes, do a capital turn; Cameron, the 'kerchief king, earns approval by his spectacular magic act; Will Saunders is a quaint comedian; Master Thomas Cullen, the boy vocalist, has met with success; and Judge's trained birds are wonderfully obedient. Professor Dickinson's lady swimmers are applauded.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr George Zalva.—The attractive programme here includes the names of the Akimoto Troupe of Imperial Japanese performers; Eleonora, aerial gymnast; Mystery Gauze, vocalist; Vanda, juggler; Selbo, "King of Clubs;" Mdlle. Victoria Dagmar, gymnastic rope performer; Rumbo Austin and Doodles, clowns; and the Three De Veres. The fairy spectacle Cinderella is much admired.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr A. C. Harrison.—One Woman's Wickedness is at the above theatre this week, the piece being excellently presented by Mr Charles H. Phelps and company. Philip Beaufort is cleverly played by Mr Lawrence Brien; Mr Hubert Humphreys is capable as the villain Paul Roque; Jem Craggs finds a powerful exponent in Mr Phelps, the author; and Mr Geo. Byrne as Lord Fitznoodle and Mr Howard Ward as Limpy Larry successfully sustain the humorous element. Janet Raymond is in the capable hands of Miss Augusta Tullock; Miss Louie Davis is a charming Lillian Craggs; Miss Ethel Asbury is a vivacious Jenny Jiggles; and Aunt Grasy is realistically drawn by Miss Florence M. Daly. Songs and dances are interspersed throughout the play, and are pleasingly given by George Byrne, Howard Ward, Louie Davis, and Ethel Asbury.

SHREWSBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Business Manager, Mr W. C. Dornton.—Mr C. Finch-Hatton's powerful company is playing the drama When London Sleeps here. As Capt. Rodney Haynes Mr R. L. Trelawney makes a gentlemanly villain; Mr Tom Ronald is a stalwart and talented hero as David Engleheart; Mr Louis Silverton acts creditably as Mr Furnaby Fuller; Mr Paul Graydon is amusing and successful as Bob Jones, circus proprietor; Mr Darcy Kelway is a smart and droll Sammy Blyth; Mr Charles Digby in the ludicrous part of the Hon. Bertie Broomhead provokes merriment; Mr F. Morton Wright makes a capable Mark Blackwood; Mr Jas. Turner as P. C. Stone acquits himself creditably; Mr Otto Gottschalk merits praise as Stephano Mordicana; Mr Saml. Rentum is good as Winkles; Mr Hugh Falconer as Andrew Service acts satisfactorily; and Mr Fred Walters and Mr Douglas Paul perform their respective parts admirably. Miss Vera Monerieff is a capital Rhoda Reckless and Little Dudley makes a pleasing Pierrot. Miss Mildred Clay works hard and wins considerable applause as Queenie Carruthers, the heroine; Miss Grace Baring in the rôle of Hilda Carrode looks well and enacts her part with ability. Miss Hilda Young is extremely good as Carrie Jones; and Miss Daisy Clifford as Maudie de Friere plays a disagreeable part cleverly.

MUSIC HALL GOSSIP.

The Alhambra may be said to be in the heart of the foreign quarter of London, and the production on its stage on Monday of the new ballet, L'Entente Cordiale, should accentuate the feelings of mutual goodwill that are such a happy outcome of the tactful and far-seeing policy of his Majesty the King. The music is composed by Mr Landon Ronald, and the scenario has been arranged by Mr Charles Wilson, who will "produce." The ballet is in a prologue and two scenes, representing respectively the Grove of Concordia, the World's Conquerors, and the Palace of Peace. Naturally, L'Entente Cordiale deals with current events, and will be found quite up to date.

The graceful and pretty Mdlle. Adéline Genée has returned to her duties at the Empire, and on Monday resumed her part in the successful ballet, High Jinks. During her absence her place has been taken by Elise Clerc. By the way, it is to be regretted that Mdlle. Cora, who has filled so many prominent parts in Empire productions, terminates her engagement at that house at the conclusion of the run of High Jinks, of which a second edition will be presented on Monday week, Sept. 5. Among the alterations to High Jinks will be a cotillion, a new pas de quatre for Messrs Farren, Rogerson, Vokes, and Ward, and some other additions. Mdlle. Genée will have an entirely new rôle.

Miss Arabella Allen is the latest impersonator of the characters of Charles Dickens, and will join Mr Frank Glenister's company at the London Pavilion on Monday next. Miss Allen has a wide field for comedy and pathos in the heroines of the master of fiction, and as she is said to possess much versatility she should be able to give effective portrayals of both Little Nell and the Marchioness—characters which were both played by Lotta in an adaptation of the Old Curiosity Shop at the now defunct Opera Comique nearly twenty years ago. Strange to relate, Miss Allen has up to the present made her greatest hit in her delineation of that chief of humbugs, Uriah Heap. Another fresh attraction in the London Pavilion programme next week is the new American musical sketch, Hooked by Crook, presented for the first time in London by Mason and Keeler.

Miss Lilian Herries, a well-known actress who has played several of Mrs Patrick Campbell's parts on tour, is at present taking the place of Mrs John Lawson in the sketch Humanity during the latter lady's holiday. When are we to see Mr Lawson's long-promised production of Mr Todd of London, in which the ingenious John intends presenting a curious psychological combination of Vanderdecken and the cut-throat barber of Fleet-street. It is understood that Mr Walter Gibbons will produce it, and that, like Mr Tree in his production of The Tempest, Mr Lawson intends to astonish music-hall patrons with a wonderful working model of a ship on the stage. For the regatta week at Plymouth he will produce Man Against Motor, bringing all the motors and elaborate scenery from London. A celebrated motorist will appear in the episode.

The attention of the Lord Chamberlain having been called to Miss Ella's daring lion show at the Palace, a letter was written to the London County Council, who, in turn, wrote to the Palace management referring to the manner in which Miss Ella placed her head in the mouth of one of the lions. Mr G. L. Gomme, the clerk to the L.C.C., stated that he was sure the Palace management would at once eliminate this portion of the entertainment if it were in any way dangerous.

A representative of this paper paid a visit to the Palace on Thursday evening, and had a chat with Miss Ella concerning her performance. Referring to the more sensational part of it, where her face seemingly is at the mercy of the lion, she said in her broken English, "There is no danger at all with that lion. He would rather bite his own tongue off than hurt me." Miss Ella, who has "played" with lions since she was seven years of age, tells us that she never practices with the animals before appearing on the stage with them.

The most daring portion of her exhibition—and which, we are informed, no other lion-tamer has yet attempted—consists of a lion weighing 3½cwts. jumping on to her shoulders. The lady wears a low-necked dress in the ring, and her right shoulder bears the marks of numerous scratches she has received from the lion's paws as the creature has mounted her shoulder. Miss Ella tells us that lions are no use for stage work after the age of nine years.

The Brothers Egbert, who have returned to the Alhambra in their tumbling farce called The Happy Dustmen, started their career in the circus ring when they were both under six years old. They are members of the well-known Jee family, all their relations, both on the father's and mother's side, having been popular performers. Mr Seth Egbert, who plays the old, grey-bearded dustman, belonged to Sanger's and company for nine years, and one of his worst experiences was when he failed to follow the good advice of "Lord" George. "The three high fall"—a novel trick in those days—is the name for the feat when three men stand upon one another's shoulders and then drop to the ground, turning a somersault at the finish. Young Egbert, being the boy, was given the highest position, and "Lord" George entreated him to remember to "duck and roll" as he came to earth. He did not remember, and the consequence was a fall that nearly broke his neck and sent him to hospital.

Mr Egbert has accomplished every feat attempted in the ring, including horsemanship, trapeze work, tumbling, riding a kicking mule, and driving a fierce kangaroo. He has figured as a French clown and an Arab tumbler; he mastered contortion and facial expression in the days of his earliest youth, and in his spare time he draws and paints pictures.

Mr H. E. Moss keeps abreast of the times with novelties at the London Hippodrome. On Monday next the famous gymnastic combination, the Max Welson Troupe, will perform in a new and very original act. The Trentanovi Sisters will also appear in some novel feats of the trapeze order. The Wille Brothers will be seen in their extraordinary head balancing on poles. With the ever-popular Siberia and an additional programme consisting of twelve turns, it is not to be wondered at that the show is still doing record business despite the hot weather.

Mr Bert Gilbert might very well sing that ancient refrain "In the Strand," for he can point to a long stay at Terry's Theatre as Micky O'Dowd, and he is now commencing what we feel sure may be regarded as a series of successful engagements at the Tivoli. Mr Gilbert, who is Mr Gilbert Hazlewood in private life, has hereditary gifts for the stage; for his father was a theatre proprietor at Wolverhampton, and his mother a member of one of the Birmingham Theatre Royal stock companies. His grandfather, C. H. Hazlewood, had he lived in these days would have amassed a large fortune; for he wrote dramas and farces by the hundred for the Britannia, Hoxton.

Mr Joe Lawrence, the Nestor of the Terriers' Association, was on the 6th inst. presented with an elaborately chased gold medal as an acknowledgment of his long services to that fraternity, which was founded nearly sixteen years since. The latest Terrier is Mr Willie Benn, the pianist, who founded the well-known troupe, Park's Eton Boys.

Mr Thomas Barrasford, the proprietor of the local Hippodrome, added very much to the attractions of the Hospital Saturday procession at Brighton on the 20th inst. by an imposing car. The dawn of a new era in Russia was typified by an infant representing the newly-born Czarewitch, carried in the arms of a nurse and guarded by Cossacks. The car was generally admired.

The Royal Theatre of Varieties, Oldham, opened on Monday with a powerful variety company, under the able management of Mr Ernest Dottridge. Mr George Knowles is the acting-manager, and Mr Arthur Langstaffe is again the musical director. There will be as usual two houses each evening, at 7 0 and 9 0 o'clock, and matinées will be given every Tuesday at 2 0 o'clock at reduced prices. The enterprising management announced a singing competition for Friday evening next for the best rendering of Miss Alma Obrey's song, "Good-bye, my Lady Love." Valuable prizes are to be given.

The Gaiety, Oldham, opened on Monday with a strong star company. Mr E. J. Dexter, the licensee and general manager, is endeavouring to improve on his former success by booking excellent talent and reducing admission fees. There will be two houses nightly as usual, but each performance will commence fifteen minutes earlier—namely, 6·45 and 8·45 o'clock. Every credit is due to Mr Dexter for the popularity and success of the house.

Mr Charles Rembges, of the Middlesex, who is still in temporary charge of the Empire, Middlesbrough, was on Saturday night asked by the daughter of a local medical gentleman if he would be good enough to make a collection among the audience for the Middlesbrough Fresh Air Fund for Waifs. He at once consented, with the result that the respectable sum of £5 4s. 9d. was contributed to the deserving object by the patrons of the Empire as they left that popular and comfortable place of entertainment.

The ancient city of Chester was awakened on Sunday by the triumphant entry of Messrs Murray and Drury, with the staff of the Palace Theatre, Blackburn, this being the first outing in connection with that place of amusement. The party, numbering sixty, left by special train for Liverpool at 9·0 o'clock. Crossing the Ferry, they were met at Birkenhead by brakes and charabancs, which conveyed them to the Pied Bull Hotel, Chester, where a six-course dinner was served. Afterwards the party visited the many places of interest, and returned to tea, where, in the unavoidable absence of Mr Frank Macnaghten, the respected proprietor, Mr Will Murray took the chair, when many complimentary toasts were drunk. Blackburn was reached shortly before 10 0 o'clock, and it was admitted on all hands that a most enjoyable day had been spent.

Mr D. J. Clarke, of the Argyle, Birkenhead, was on Wednesday last presented with a little novelty in the shape of an illuminated address containing exact reproductions of the Argyle "bills" for the years 1873, 1903, and a possible one for 1913, being the past, the present, and the future. The idea is to convey the progress the Argyle has made under Mr Clarke's spirited management during the greater portion of this period, with a prospective glance at the future. The Era title-page, being the organ of the profession, is reproduced in facsimile at the foot, and the whole design and execution of the idea originated with Mr W. H. Donovan, a local pressman, who has seen every artiste on the three bills. We may quote the bill of the future, which embraces the names of Sir Daniel Leno, Lady Marie Lloyd, Marie Lottus, Vesta Tilley, Gus Elen, T. E. Dunville, George Robey, Bransby Williams, and Harry Randall, which is not a bad show for the provinces.

The first annual staff outing in connection with the Bordesley Palace, Birmingham, was celebrated most successfully and enjoyably at Bidford-on-Avon last Sunday, the party numbering fifty-eight persons, friends and servants of the establishment. Mr Edward Foster, the popular resident manager's, plans for the comfort of the party were excellently arranged, and his natural vivacity communicated itself to all present. The journey was negotiated per train to Stratford, and thence by coaches. On arrival at Bidford, boating and the many other country pursuits were indulged in, after which dinner was served at the White Lion Hotel. The catering won the highest encomiums for the host and hostess, Mr and Mrs Butler.

At the conclusion of the repast, Mr Lester Collingwood rose, and in happy terms proposed the health of the chairman, Mr Foster, which was drunk with enthusiasm. Mr Foster replied in equally happy terms, testifying to the excellence of his staff, and further proposed the health of "Moss', Limited." In addition to those above mentioned, there were present Mrs Edward Foster, Miss Maud Mortimer, Mr Harry Calver Mr Charlie Matcham, Mr C. Archer, Mr C. Chick, Mr A. Barrows, Mr G. Smith and others no less prominent. In the afternoon rain intervened, and thus out-door amusements were taboo, but nothing could damp the spirits of the trippers. The party arrived back in Birmingham at eleven p.m. without encountering a single hitch or mishap of any kind whatsoever.

Miss Mabie Walford, "Mystic Marie," Dr. Bodie's real Trilby, who has been dangerously ill, has now fully recovered, and is rusticating at Dr. Bodie's beautiful Highland home at Macduff. She will rejoin the doctor at the Grand Theatre, Glasgow, where he will produce his latest sensation, "The Beautiful Mystic Marie, the Real Trilby and Floating Magnetic Lady." The act should have been produced in London, but owing to Miss Marie's serious illness it had to be abandoned.

On Wednesday, the 17th, the scene at the Southend Kursaal was indeed a remarkable one. The occasion was that of a Confetti Fête and Fancy Dress Carnival. This function, which was attended by over 7,000 of the visitors and inhabitants of Southend, is the first of its kind ever held in the town, and it must be most gratifying to Mr Humphrey E. Brammall to know that his efforts are so well appreciated. Mr Brammall has already begun to make his wide knowledge and experience in catering for the amusement of the public felt at the popular sea-side resort, and promises to provide in the near future many more delightful novelties. It is with pleasure we learn that Mr Brammall has secured the services of Mr Charles A. Barnett, assistant to the late Mr Henry Gillman at the Crystal Palace, and it was under this gentleman's management that the most successful carnival above referred to took place.

"The Little Colonel" concludes his preliminary campaign to-night at Woolwich and Greenwich. On all sides this charming little scena has been pronounced a decided acquisition to the variety stage, and its charm and originality have secured for it bookings extending over a considerable period.

Sweet are the uses of advertisement, but the ways of those who "boom" in America approach very nearly to abuse of the art of puffery. Miss Alexandra Dagmar must have thought so when she saw herself described in a Yankee sheet as "the great Russian beauty, favourite of the Czar, the only professional lady who ever had the honour of dining with the Czar and Czarina." In New York she became the "Great Dane," and Detroit hailed her as the "beautiful ice maiden direct from Iceland." She, however, prefers to remain merely Alexandra Dagmar.

The destruction of the Shoreditch Town Hall reminds us that Mr Jesse Sparrow used to run some very successful variety entertainments there in the seventies and eighties. Among the more noted entertainers appearing there under his management were George Leybourne, Arthur Roberts, George Grossmith, and Howard Paul.

A prominent star relates a funny story of an entertainment given at Shoreditch in aid of a coal-heavers' strike fund. The said comedian had given of his best, and his last number was persistently encored. He refused to sing another, and the amateur stage-manager (the secretary of the fund) feared a disturbance. In his despair he offered the comedian half-a-ton of best coals if he would oblige again. The offer was accepted, and the required encore given. The comedian, however, still awaits the half-a-ton of Wallsend.

Dr. Walford Bodie may almost be said to have gained a world-wide reputation as an exponent of the healing art. On Tuesday morning there awaited his appearance at Collins's, Islington, a lady and her son, both of whom had travelled specially from Ireland to see the doctor. The boy, it appears, had been paralysed for years; but Dr. Bodie, after an examination of the lad, found that he was unable to effect a cure in his case, owing to a surgical operation having previously been performed. Another woman brought her child from Portsmouth, and we understand that in this latter case the doctor was able to do much good.

We regretfully have to announce the death of Bertha Waring, of the comedy-sketch team of Wilson and Waring. The lady had only recently returned from South Africa. After her return she was seized with illness, from which she never recovered. The funeral will take place on Monday from 79, High-street, Peckham, and the interment will be at Tooting Cemetery, at one o'clock. Will friends kindly accept this intimation?

Mr Adderley Howard has in preparation for production shortly at a London hall a new sketch on the subject of Fouché, the first Napoleon's celebrated chief of police. This remarkable historical figure was first introduced to the English stage by the late Tom Taylor, author of The Ticket-of-Leave Man, in that well-known and most effective play, Plot and Passion; and Fouché was also a subsidiary character in Sir Henry Irving's production of Madame Sans-Gêne at the Lyceum. The exploits of the famous minister whose system of espionage was utilised more for political purposes than for the detection of crime should furnish abundant opportunities for the popular sketch artiste.

Yolande Noble, who has just completed her two weeks' special engagement at the Alhambra, tells a pretty little story of her first appearance behind the footlights. She was playing in a sketch dealing with country life, and just as she commenced her song a white dove, that had escaped from its cage behind the scenes, flew from the wings and settled in the middle of the stage, remaining perfectly still until the last line, when it made its exit at the same place as the young singer, but refused to take "the call" that an admiring audience demanded.

The burglar is seemingly a favourite character on the stage—sometimes in the irreproachable evening wear of Belgravia, and more often in such habiliments as would compromise the respectability of a Baptist elder. Mr Charles R. Sweet, who is back again in England, has a happy notion of being a music-loving burglar—on the stage, bien entendu. He cherishes the vivacity of Chopin, the rich harmonies of Wagner, and the soft cadences of Beethoven; and his entertainment is one to be seen and enjoyed. He made his first appearance in this country at the Oxford last year, and will be seen on Monday at the Empire in his musical mimicry interspersed with anecdotes, being under contract to that directorate for eight weeks.

In the course of the next six months London will have another half-a-dozen houses devoted to variety, some of them, of course, being converted theatres; and it is, therefore, quite in accordance with the fitness of things that theatrical comedians should try their fortunes on what used to be termed the illegitimate stage, where the cosmopolitan tastes of the public give excellent scope for the resourceful artiste. Mr Russell Wallett, whose excellent work in musical comedy has often been praised in these columns, is the latest to take the plunge, and will appear on Monday at Hammersmith Palace as a society entertainer.

Mr E. E. Giles, manager of the Battersea Empire, announces that the second anniversary of that house under the present conditions of entertainment is to be celebrated on Thursday, Oct. 6. On this occasion there will be one performance only of a special programme.

Mr Bob Hutt and Mr Harry Barnard are concentrating their energies on the organisation of a music hall walk, which is to be held on Wednesday, Sept. 28, the route being from the Camberwell Palace to Stamford-bridge Grounds, where a fête will be held. It is to be feared that the course chosen — through crowded thoroughfares — will hinder the traffic, and the police authorities may have something to say about the matter. Last year the walk was to Croydon. The profits are to be given to the Music Hall Home Fund.

Mr John Smith, Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter's energetic manager, is taking a well-earned holiday at Hastings. Mr Lester Barrett, looking the picture of health, has returned from a holiday spent at Blackpool and Douglas.

Outside the La Scala Theatre at the Earl's Court Exhibition is a gentleman faultlessly attired, who, by the aid of a voice of pleasant quality and great power, indulges in oratorical feats describing the beauties of the entertainment being given within. The other night Mr C. Claflin, the well-known American agent, was a visitor to La Scala Theatre, and was so impressed with the powers of Mr Jack Norman—this is the name of the oratorical doorsman—that he invited him to crack a bottle at supper and receive a diamond pin as a token of his admiration of his skill.

Mr Fred G. Brooke produced a new dramatic sketch entitled, Todd, Fleet-street, on Monday, at Sadler's Wells Theatre. As the title indicates, the story concerns the murderous doings of the notorious barber, and it is not necessary to enter into details of the rather ingenious plot which Mr Brooke and Miss Dora Deane have woven round the life of the historic criminal. Mr Fred G. Brooke made the most of the bloodthirsty ideas and methods of that worthy, and Miss Dora Deane appeared to advantage as Brenda Watson. The scenes representing the baker's shop, the bakehouse, and the lunatic asylum were very realistic.

At the Palace Theatre, on Monday, the Bioscope will introduce several new pictures, the chief of which will be one showing some of the wonders of the process of converting iron into steel. The picture opens with a smelting iron being drawn from the blasting furnace and the molten metal being poured into a ladle which is taken to the steel furnace by means of an electric crane. One next sees the converters being fed by the workmen, and, later, the seething stream of steel flowing into another ladle, from which the ingots are cast. The ingots are then taken red hot and placed on the rolling-mills, where sheets, girders, and tram-rails are fashioned. The whole picture gives a realistic idea of one of our greatest industries.

Mr Alfred Butt, who has spent a couple of weeks at invigorating Dieppe, is back again at the Palace looking after the house during Mr Morton's absence. It is not expected that the latter, who is at Westgate-on-Sea, will be back before a fortnight has elapsed.

There is much discussion in music hall circles concerning the future of the Grand, Clapham. It may possibly be acquired by the Variety Theatres Consolidated, Limited, or it may be run in conjunction with the Empress, Brixton, the Duchess, Balham, the Islington Empire, and the Royal. The directors have been approached on the question, and it is understood that a meeting of shareholders will be called shortly to consider it. The house will, in the near future, join the ever-increasing contingent of places of entertainment run on the two-houses-a-night principle.

Mr Cliff Ryland returns to town on Monday after a successful series of engagements on the Stoll tours, &c. He comes back to three halls with new songs and new gags, and will be quite "himself."

Hana, the well-known photographer, has been producing some pictures of the famous pedestrienne, Miss Minni Letta. The picture we have before us is instinct with life, the graceful, pretty girl being just about to start on a walk. The artist has caught, as he invariably does, the correct pose. It is not only a photograph which the unrivalled Hana has produced, it is a veritable work of art, and proves what is already claimed for him, that he is a master in the art of posing. A visit to his studios is time well invested.

Miss Harriett Vernon met with an enthusiastic reception last Monday at the Empire, Edinburgh. Her clear, melodious voice, her handsome stage presence, and her dashing style have made her one of the most popular favourites of the day. She contributed three songs, among them "Only to be a child once more," which was given with a sweetness and an expression that elicited warm tributes of praise.

Dr. Walford Bodie has made another great hit at Collins's and Camberwell. Last week he broke all records at the Camberwell Palace, and this week he is breaking last week's record, the huge building being packed nightly to suffocation. On making his reappearance on Monday at Camberwell he received quite an ovation, the vast audience rising and cheering him lustily again and again. Unfortunately, owing to his many provincial engagements, he must finish London next week, when he appears at the Canterbury and Paragon. He opens at the Grand Theatre, Glasgow, his annual Scotch tour, and returns to London at Christmas, where he will appear at all the West-end halls for several weeks.

Mr Douglas Stuart, the hard-working and indefatigable secretary of the Music Hall Railway Rates' Association, will start for his annual holiday on Monday, and will take in a fresh store of energy at bracing Mundesley, near Cromer, in the heart of Poppyland. He will be away for a fortnight.

Signor and Madame Borelli, the drawing-room entertainers, have been specially engaged for the reopening of the Folies-Bergère, a contract that they have been enabled to fulfil owing to the courtesy and kindness of Messrs J. L. Graydon, T. Prichard, and Hargreaves, who have postponed their dates. As both Signor and Madame Borelli are accomplished linguists the language difficulty will not stand in the way of their success.

A special matinée of an interesting character took place at the Theatre Royal, Aldershot, on Wednesday. The chief feature was a wrestling match between Professor Dale, of Lambeth, and Mr Sam Clifford, of Aldershot, for a purse of £100 (catch-as-catch-can), and was won by Clifford easily. Mr Geo. Scott, of the Alhambra Theatre, London, was referee; Mr Alf Hampson, an old showman, was stage-manager; and Pipe-Major M'Pherson acted as M.C. There were several other exhibitions of boxing and wrestling matches between Heffier and Tarrant, Staff-Sergeant Dent and Donovan, Pipe-Major M'Pherson and J. Mitchell, and Mascole and Dunbar, all of which were highly interesting, considerable skill being shown. One of the best items of the capital programme in the variety line, however, was the burlesque wrestling and horizontal bar performance by Marzelo and Millay, encore after encore greeting their efforts. Songs were rendered by Miss Dora Lyric, Miss Peggy Primrose, Sisters Bellrose, and the Sisters Du Prangh, encores in every case greeting their efforts. The performance was under the patronage of H.S.H. Prince Alexander of Teck. There was a crowded attendance.

"The Heirloom," which Mr Walter Hast and Miss Peggy Lennie are producing on tour with the most successful results, is a pleasing fantasy in opera-bouffe form. In it is discovered the youthful scion reduced by his profligacy to the abject necessity of selling the family picture (the heirloom). Drawing the curtains aside, he gazes on the picture—that of a young girl—with a rueful reflection on his folly, and anon relapses into slumber, whereon the picture becomes imbued with life. Some exceedingly pretty and artistic passages follow between the twain, the sleeping youth having become part of the action; and finally the picture resumes its wonted position, with a pathetic wail at fate. The youth awakens and seeks to embrace his fair visitant, only to realise that it is all a dream. The two parts are played with power and finesse, and should bring these artistes much fame. Mr Hast and Miss Lennie have, we understand, other productions in preparation, of which they have the highest expectations.

Miss Minni Letta, whose engagement at the Pavilion terminates next Saturday, will proceed on the following day to Paris, where she has a contract to appear for six weeks at the Alhambra. After that she goes to Berlin and other Continental cities and towns. Her moving walking track has created such a favourable impression among London audiences that she has decided to send out a couple of "sporting girls" company, one through the provinces and another to America.

Clara, the little three-year old daughter of Mr Frederic Baugh, the indefatigable manager of Mr Frank Macnaghten, has been distinguishing herself at the Alhambra, Sandgate, by her exposition of the cake-walk. So charmingly has she done this, that the audiences have decided to present her with a cake as a reward for the amusement she has afforded them throughout the week.

Miss Queenie Leighton has just purchased a very smart song from the pen of William Hargreaves, entitled "The tide went out," which she will shortly produce in the West-end.

The friends of Florian Fretelli, variety agent, and business manager to Miss Florrie Gallimore, will be sorry to hear that he is lying very ill at his residence.

Mr George Rhodes Parry, who, a short time ago, resigned his position of manager of Collins's, and has been taking a long holiday at Margate and elsewhere, has been appointed business manager of Mr Fred Karno's Saturday to Monday company, which starts its tour on Monday at His Majesty's Theatre, Walsall.

Mr Edgar Curtis was accorded a benefit on the 23rd inst. at the Bandstand Concert at Clacton-on-Sea, and the financial result testified to the popularity of this rising comedian.

The marriage of Miss Rose Barclay, youngest daughter of Mr Arthur J. Barclay, the popular manager of the Walthamstow Palace, to Mr Percy Lines, takes place at one o'clock to-day (Saturday) at the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Walthamstow.

Deep sympathy will be felt for Miss Lilian Doreen, who is suffering from nervous prostration, following upon the death of her husband, Mr F. G. Waterhouse. She has been ordered complete rest for the next few weeks. On her recovery she goes to the London Pavilion for two months.

Mr Cayley Calvert, the author of the successful sketches On the Rocks and The Matador, has written a song apropos to the Adolf Beck case, one of the most extraordinary judicial blunders known in the annals of British administration of the law. Mr Arthur St. George has written the music and will introduce the number at his various engagements, starting at the Grand, Halifax. He will sing the song in London on Sept. 29.

Miss Maggie Duggan is scoring a success at the Tower, New Brighton, this week being her second engagement within a month. She is particularly happy and apropos with her local verses, and has a telling verse on the Beck case that is very effective.

Mdlle. La Petite Bella, who has been having a month's holiday in the Highlands, will restart her tour at the Grand Theatre, Glasgow, on Sept. 5. She opens at the London at Christmas for several weeks, and will appear at most of the West-end halls.

Mr Julius Simpson, who was recently appointed manager of Sadler's Wells Theatre, is a gentleman who can boast no small experience of theatrical work. For a number of years he acted as business-manager for Messrs Paumier and Howard with their touring attractions, entitled The Curate and Why Men Love Women. Mr Simpson tells us that whatever advancement he has made in his professional career has been in no small degree due to the interest taken in him by Mr Paumier. Mr Simpson also managed Mr John F. Elliston's pantomimes for a period of three years. At a later date Mr Simpson travelled his own company with the drama Forgive Us Our Trespasses, and he intends sending the piece out again shortly.

Miss Gracie Grahame has cabled her arrival in Johannesburg, where she opened at the Empire on Monday and scored a tremendous success, having to sing seven songs before the audience would let her go.

These are flourishing times for Mr Tom Costello. He held so many contracts for this last week at various halls that he could not possibly find time to appear at the New Grand, Clapham-junction. Ross and Grayson, however, proved an excellent deputy, and things went on swimmingly.

The Brewster Troupe of lady vocalists and speciality dancers conclude to-night a highly successful engagement at the Crystal Palace, and start a provincial tour next Monday at the Circus, Rochdale. Miss Kitty Brewster, who scored such a success in Lester Collingwood's Aladdin, at the Alexandra Theatre, Birmingham, is this year engaged for pantomime as principal girl.

The 369th meeting of the executive committee of the Music Hall Artistes Railway Association was held on Tuesday afternoon, Mr Fred W. Millis presiding. The secretary reported that fifteen new members had joined during the past week, making a total number enrolled since the commencement of 10,437. Mr John A. Doughty, of the Goat Hotel, Sheerness, was appointed as agent, and Mr J. Humphrey, of the George and Dragon Hotel, Sunderland, was also elected agent.

SOUTH LONDON ANNIVERSARY.

The season of anniversaries has set in strongly, an early celebration being made on the Friday of last week, when the fifth year of the opening of the South London on the dual principle was marked by crowded audiences at both houses. Festoons of flowers and Chinese lanterns lent the requisite gaiety to the scene, and above and below in the auditorium joviality reigned supreme. The programme at the second performance was opened by a speech from Mr Frank Weeks, the capable manager, who was greeted with an enthusiasm that gave full evidence of the popularity that he has won during the five years that the hall has been under his control. He tendered his warmest thanks to the large audience for their attendance and also to his brother managers, as well as many agents and a contingent of the Terriers Association. He assured his hearers that he had striven in the past to provide them with the best entertainment, and that the same policy would be pursued in the future. His standing among the profession enabled him to secure the finest turns, and to that end his best efforts would be directed. Contributions far in excess of the current bill were made to the evening's enjoyment, one of the heartiest receptions being awarded to Miss Billie Barlow, who gave new life to the well-worn "Hiawatha" by her own personal charm and her artistic delivery of the quaint travesty to which the melody is set. Mr Charles Ridgwell, realistically attired, made sport of "The Peckham Fat Boy" and the inevitable "Bill Bailey" was cunningly introduced in a funny parody by Mr Walter Stockwell. Miss Lillie Soutter provoked merriment with "I'm looking for a nice young man;" echoes of grand opera were aroused by Miss Zella Lusana, who thrilled her hearers with her melodious tones; and Miss Katie Holloway supplemented a pretty ballad with an equally attractive dance. The coster comedy, Me and 'Er, by Miss Cora Duncan and Mr Arthur Godfrey, kept the audience amused from first to last, as did also the sketch by Mr Harry Lynn and company. Mr Gilbert Girard supplied clever imitations of the Æolian harp and of animals which terminated with a dog fight; Mr Fred Elton gave a novel song called "Music Hall Titbits;" Mr E. Montefiore made a hit with "The Little Colonel;" the Brothers Everett did an acrobatic act in which fun was predominant, and the other artistes who appeared, many of them in both houses, were Misses Dora Lyric, Alma Bignell, Winifred Eyre, Glenn, Bella Harcourt, Lilian Morgan, Ada Vernon, Hettie Leo, and Hetty Lee, the Eugenes, Wragg and Wragg, Blake and Granby, Seltina Troupe, Codge, the whistling street arab; Messrs Harry Pleon, Herbert Darnley, Walter Stanley, Phil Sinclair, Kit Keen, Walter King, Ben Odis, G. H. Elliott, and Will Musgrove. Neighbouring halls were represented by Mr Fred Miller, of the Canterbury; by Mr Jesse Sparrow, of the Camberwell Palace; and by Mr Tom Tinsley, of Gatti's. Others who joined in the felicitations were Mr H. Tozer, Mr Tom Pacey, Mr Adderly Howard, Mr J. W. Johnson, and Mr Edward Parker, musical director of the Elephant and Castle, while the contingent of Terriers included Messrs Joe Lawrence, Ben Woodger, Harry Lester, the popular secretary; Cory Woodrow, Fred Neiman, A. H. Neiman, G. Preston, A. N. Hennessey, F. Hughes, Joe Hughes, C. Cornish, R. Burnham, C. Harley, and Ben Nevis. The stage was well regulated by Mr Walter Bentley and Mr Horace Sheldon, Mr C. Seaman, the stage-manager, and Mr Harry B. Wincott, assistant acting-manager, giving willing help. Mr Frank Boyce announced the turns with singular distinctness, and Mr C. E. Howells presided over the orchestra. An extended licence afforded opportunity for the full enjoyment of the occasion, with a supper in prospect, given by the staff to Mr Weeks in token of congratulation on his recovery from his recent illness.

THE LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

LONDON PAVILION.

The West-end is undoubtedly more affected by the dead season than the less fashionable quarters of our overgrown metropolis, but country visitors in large numbers make up in some measure for the exodus that takes place in August, and not a few of these find their way to the variety palace that occupies such a fine position in Piccadilly-circus. Mr Frank Glenister, himself a sportsman in the best sense of the word, appeals to the sport-loving instincts of the British public with the attractive walking exhibition by Miss Minni Letta and her girl pedestrians, who try conclusions on a patent revolving track, and furnish a pretty display of athletic prowess. There are other athletes in the bill, and Lional, a fine specimen of muscular manhood, lifts weights and dumb-bells in a manner that shows him to be both an expert and a graceful performer. Notwithstanding his height and weight, he jumps nimbly over chairs, and makes light of the mass of iron he carries in his hands while doing three spring jumps. The art of the athlete and gymnast is carried to the height of perfection, too, by Charles Serra, a Continental performer, who won his reputation in this country at a special engagement at this house last year. Serra does feats of great dexterity on the Roman column, the most remarkable being a marvellous piece of equilibrism in which he raises and supports himself on a couple of billiard cues. The programme is most judiciously varied. Early in the evening Mr Harry Carsdale sends the sounds of country life across the footlights, and we might imagine ourselves in the peaceful pastures of Sussex when we listen to his imitations of poultry, dogs, and donkeys. Miss Maud Dewey completes the deception by some excellent imitations of birds. Miss Kittee Rayburn, who returns to renew her former triumphs, has a capital comedy song in "He didn't want to go any farther," which contains a much-applauded verse on the Russo-Japanese crisis. The name of Lupino is one that is remembered for some honoured theatrical traditions, and the Lupino Brothers are responsible for an eccentric act, entitled, "The Musician and the Poodle," that is very successful. It would be none the less so were some ancient patter replaced by some up-to-date wheezes. A startling display of dancing is furnished by Les Auberts, whose acrobatic dancing finishes up with a whirling and exciting measure that brings down the house. Somewhat less corybantic is the solo of Miss Mignon Tremaine, a most engaging dancer, who looks as pretty as a picture in a most attractive costume. Miss May Henderson, too, who has been here a long time now, makes her dancing a meritorious feature of her turn, and she receives the reward of her spirited efforts in loud cheers. Among the finest of our ventriloquists may be ranked Mr Horace White, whose polyphony scarcely ranks second to his musical attainments. It is refreshing to hear Mr White play Scharwenka's "Polnische Tanze," and then an extract from Weber's "Invitation à la Valse." His figures, too, are excellent, the "lady" of the party being very perfect in ocular expression and lip movement, and his "boy," with a wonderful wink, is quite equal to putting his fingers to his nose when his "guv'nor" takes a call. Nipper Lupino Lane gives a capital exhibition of dancing, and his exceptional ability in this direction brings down the house. Mr Herbert Shelley, the actor-vocalist, tells dramatically the story of an extravagant young gentleman who, after wasting his substance on riotous living, turns highwayman and is condemned to the gallows. It is not clear whether the "little girl who is true" is responsible for the reprieve granted by King George. In his song of heroes past and present the patriotic pulses of the audience are deeply stirred, and Mr Shelley wins a very hearty recall. Mr Phil Ray, the chief comedian of the bill, is eagerly waited for, and his patter keeps the house in convulsions of laughter, his turn being completed by a burlesque recitation. Mr Emlyn Jones, assisted by his Emerald Ladies Quartet, is heard to advantage in "The Old Green Isle" and "Killarney;" the Vernon Troupe of xylophonists are to be complimented on their fine playing of the celebrated Tannhauser march; Francis, a juggler of remarkable attainments, has a smart and funny assistant; and the entertainment is much enhanced by the contributions of Mdlle. Duperret, Mr T. E. Dunville, Mdlle. Martha, Dutch Daly, and the Three Laurels. Mr Bond Sayers is an able musical director, and Mr W. Cobbett a courteous assistant manager.

THE ALHAMBRA.

The splendid series of views shown at the Alhambra by means of the Urban Bioscope forms an important part of the attractive programme at this popular place of amusement. The films depicting three stages of the careers of the soldiers of the British Army appeal strongly to patriotic feeling. We are first shown the veterans at Chelsea Hospital; then the Scots Guards passing along the Mall; and lastly, the boys of the Duke of York's Royal Military School marching with "eyes left" in the most approved fashion of respectful acknowledgment of the presence of a superior. The trouble and care—to say nothing of the expense—which must have gone to the preparation of the comic film "Off for the Holidays," are remarkable. We first see the interior of a suburban residence with the family frantically occupied in packing up for their trip. There is a large and portly mother, a small energetic father, a young man and a young woman, and a number of boys and girls. We are next at the front door of the house, where a four-wheeled cab waits to convey the party to the railway-station. The cab is piled high with luggage, so as to appear quite "top-heavy." The most strenuous efforts are made to get the bulky mother into the cab; and finally, by the combined forces of her husband, her son, and her daughter, she is pushed up to a seat on the box. Then the numerous brood of "small fry" are put into the cab, the youth and maiden follow, and the vehicle starts for the railway station. When within sight of it, the cab suddenly overturns, and, in a scene of confusion, the family are pulled out of one of the windows. However, they manage to get to the station before the train starts, and by pushing the matron into the guard's van they are spared the annoyance of being left on the platform; but the luggage is not put "on board," and the whole party, leaning out of the windows, gesticulate wildly as the scene concludes. "Off for the holidays" is certainly a most amusing and well-arranged film, and, judging by the roars of laughter with which it is received at the Alhambra, it should divert thousands before its career comes to a close. It is difficult to invent anything fresh in the way of conjuring and illusions, but the Ten-Ichi Troupe of Japanese seem to have overcome the difficulty. One of their tricks is decidedly puzzling. The thumbs of one of the performers are tied together by a committee of volunteers from the audience; and then his companion throws at him a number of wooden rings which are passed round for examination. As each of these rings reaches the tied-up hands of the performer it slips up one of his arms, his hands remaining apparently tied as before. The Ten-Ichis also have a marvellous trick with small fountains throwing long, thin jets of water. These are produced from various strange places—from the backs of the heads of the artistes, from tables, and from the ends of fans; and are apparently controllable at the will of the principal operator. A pretty young Japanese lady does some neat bits of legerdemain, and the whole turn is prettily mounted and dressed. A very pleasing contribution to the entertainment at the Alhambra is made by Miss Yolande Noble, whose attractive appearance, frank and humorous style, and dainty delivery at once make her a favourite. Her first ditty, the air of which has a "taking" swing, is about various "mild flirtations," and Miss Nobel does it the fullest justice. Strong in its protest against modern anti-betting laws is her second song, in which she asks, "Why can't we back our opinion?" her argument being enforced by the exhibition of several very effective bioscopic views of horse races. Miss Noble has made an excellent impression at the Alhambra, where she has become extremely popular. The Brothers Egbert as the dustmen are as happy and as popular as ever; Mr Elliston Webb sings some tenor songs capitally; Perzina's monkeys, now in their last week at the Alhambra, are very warmly received, as also are his cats, rabbits, and cockatoos; and Miss Marie Dainton, with her imitations of theatrical and music hall celebrities, wins much favour. All the Year Round continues to be intensely admired and thoroughly enjoyed; and Mr George W. Byng's fine orchestra plays the "Lorraine" march and a selection from The Orchid in first-rate style. Under the able and attentive management of Mr George Scott matters in front of the house are admirably organised.

THE METROPOLITAN.

The old but ever new story of Sleepy Hollow is being told at the Edgware-road establishment this week, and it is somewhat significant of the popularity of the Washington Irving legend that crowded audiences have followed it with intense interest. It is fortunate for the production that an actor of such sterling ability as Mr Fred Storey is at hand to play the genial ne'er-do-well, Rip, and to beguile his listeners both of their tears and laughter. The accentuation—if we may use the term—is placed on the genial side of the part by the actor, who, however, relieves Rip's bibulous jocosity by streaks of real feeling—such, for instance, as the scene of the parting of the banished father from his beloved and only daughter, Meenie, at the cottage door. The ghostly business in the Kaatskill Mountains is very well managed, the grave faces and mysterious silence of Hendrik Hudson's men being stoically maintained by the correctly dressed supers. The part of Gretchen is made sufficiently shrewish in the first act by Miss Lilian Holmes, who also emphasises with discretion the repentance of Frau Van Winkle. A word of praise must be given to the little girl who plays Meenie—an intelligent and interesting performance. We are, however, unable to give the name in consequence of its omission from the programme. Rip Van Winkle is elaborately mounted, and should hold its own for a long time to come on the variety stage. The general programme arranged by Mr Jack Edgar contains a highly original and successful comedian in Mr J. W. Churchill, who has very just claims to his great popularity at the Metropolitan. He lectures on popular ditties, laying special stress on the contrast in the fates of heroes and heroines in song. The heroes in ancient lyrics almost invariably die, as Mr Churchill very drolly points out, either in the first verse or the chorus. "Massa's in the cold ground," "Good old Jeff has gone to rest," "Tom Bowling," "Home they brought her warrior," may be cited as instances of his thesis. On the contrary, poetic heroines have the best of good times. Mr Churchill is a droll of the first water. One of the stars of the bill is Mr Tom Costello, who returns here time after time, and always with songs that interest and amuse. From grave to gay, from sentimental to humorous, is an easy transition for this excellent comedian, whose name is associated with some of the most wholesome songs of the variety stage. In his mirthful item he adopts a feminine costume that is positively ingenious in its ugly absurdity, and when the weather-worn dame sings coquettishly of her powers of fascination the ladies of the audience shriek with laughter. In his song of a hero's farewell to his Jap sweetheart Mr Costello strikes a note of sincere pathos that goes home to the hearts of the audience, who recall him again and again. Miss Millie Lindon is another great Metropolitan favourite, and it is delightful to hear her sing a song of such lyrical excellence as "The rain came pitter-patter down"—in itself incontestable evidence of the upward trend of the tastes of the music hall public. Miss Lindon, if we may say so, sings with heart and voice. Her intensely earnest style gives her work an artistic value as rare as it is welcome. She sets herself a high standard of vocal and histrionic expression, and never fails to reach it. Miss Amy Clevere is another lady whose artistic aims are ever soaring, and whose sweet voice and engaging style have rightly won for her the hearty goodwill of music hall audiences. Miss Clevere shows that she possesses a vein of comedy by the piquant way in which she sings of "The girl with the baby stare." Her pretty figure looks well in boy's costume in which she sings a haunting coon song, the success of which is added to by a graceful dance. Mr Walter Stanley, who appears early in the evening, has a very effective song "Don't stand there with your hands in your pockets;" Mr Harry Freeman is the exponent of a cheery philosophy when he sings "I never trouble trouble;" and Mr Hal Chapter has also claims to comicality as a vocalist. Mr G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, is a clever disciple of the Stratton school, and sings very plaintively "I'm a-waitin' for yer, Josie," which he follows with a clever dance. The art of the gymnast is very agreeably exhibited by the Brothers Bright, and as tumblers, wire-walkers, and xylophonists the Five Whiteleys are responsible for a versatile interlude that brings down the house, the work of the lady of the troupe being exceedingly clever. Clark and Hamilton score their usual success in their clever comedy; and other turns on the bill are Arthur Prince, ventriloquist; the Phydoras, in a musical comedy act; Miss Ada Martina, comedienne; and Miss Rosie Lloyd. The American Biograph shows pictures of the wrestling match at the Albert Hall between Jenkins and Hackenschmidt.

A SONG-WRITING GENIUS.

The following striking letter from a budding aspirant to song-writing honours has been received by Mr David Day. The missive, which accompanied a song, comes from the Emerald Isle:—"Gentlemen,—As I Could never afford to Continue paying a musicianer for the benifit of the State, I hope you will excuse Me for haveing to discontinue sending any more songs. Still, if you care to have a look at My last offer before the receipts run much lower, I don't mind if I let you have it for 5s. Remember this is a song and piece of music that ought to fetch some thousands of pounds, it is Something like what They call a De Valse and before I send it to America I now offer it to you for the Small Sum of 5s. Of course it is not for the 5s. I value, but there are People here trying to make a Laughing-stock of Me, for I attempting to write Poetery and Music. And as I Claim Myself to be the Father of all Musicianers I trust you will not think that I am in any way daft, when I tell you, that I Can tune a Piano, to produce any kind of an Air I like, in less than five Minuts. Now wheres the Man ever born Could do the Same in my like form? For further proof he'll not Come down the price is small, tis but a Crown One five bob to give to Biddy, After doing Saint Joseph with the Kiddy.

Yours truly, ——."

THE charming dancer My Fancy opens at the Wellington Pier, Great Yarmouth, on Monday for three weeks, after which she will fulfil engagements on the Moss tour, returning to town on Nov. 14.

MR ARCHIE HOWELLS, musical director of the Palace, Greenwich, with his wife and family, is spending a well-earned fortnight at Gt. Yarmouth.

THE Yokels combination, after visiting Torquay, Teignmouth, and Kingstown Pavilion, Dublin, return to town, where they intend making a bid for public favour on the music halls. The Yokels have already received several tempting offers.

A CHAT WITH MR. C. E. HOWELLS.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER.)

"Breezy" is the right word to apply to a description of the conversation and manner of Mr C. E. Howells, the musical director of the South London Palace orchestra. In our previous chats with him we had found him to be a person of much wit and much philosophy. With such a combination, therefore, we were hardly surprised when, in dealing with his own history, he should give one the impression that he took life very much as it came, without worrying at all about what some people would call the orderings of Fate. And so keen is his sense of the ridiculous that if it were possible to extract humour out of an owl we believe Mr Howells would do it. We notice, by the way, that his family crest consists of a short bar of "music," comprising the pianoforte "C" and "E," followed by a couple of owls sitting on the fence-like lines.

"I think that every man's life is intensely interesting to himself," says the interviewee. "You want a few outlines of mine? You shall have them. I was born in Hereford on July 15, 1854, my father being then organist of St. Martin's Church in that city. When six years old I broke a blood vessel. Brain fever followed—some people say I have had it ever since—and for thirteen months I was on a sick bed. I was then captured by two maiden aunts and carried off to Abergavenny. My aunts kept a ladies' school, and it was there that I met a Miss Davies, who was afterwards to play no unimportant part in my life. It was there, too, that I received my first music lesson. At the age of nine I made my initial bow to an audience, and played my first solo in public. Twelve months later I was sent to Liverpool as an articled pupil of Mr Best for four years. I stayed three years and nine months, and was then sent home on account of illness. In the interim my father had been appointed organist at St. Mary's Church, Abergavenny, a post he held for twenty-seven years. When I was fifteen I was organist of Llanfoist, and musical preceptor at Llanwenarth College, where I had the honour of teaching many of the sons of England's nobility. At the age of sixteen I was earning about £250 a-year, was engaged to the afore-mentioned Miss Davies, had a tiff at home, and came to London."

Strangely enough, Mr Howells' first engagement in a concert hall was as second cornet in the establishment where he is now employed as musical director. His premiere engagement as a music hall pianist was at Sinclair's Variety Hall in Carlisle-street, Edgware-road. He took the conductor's seat for the first time at the Alhambra, West Hartlepool. Before he was out of his teens he returned to Abergavenny and became the husband of Miss Davies. He tells us that during his travels he missed being in the Tay Bridge disaster through the hands of the clock being put back half-an-hour.

In 1880 Mr Howells wrote an original pantomime, entitled Will-o'-th'-Wisp, and produced it with great success at the Alexandra Theatre, Walsall. For the same theatre, where he was musical director, he wrote and produced many comedies, farces, musical absurdities, and pantomimes, among them being Etiquette, Golden Plume; or, the Magic Crystal, Silverstreak; or, The Indian Maiden, King Buz-Fuz, King Fiddle de-Dee, Quits, William Tell; or, The Demon of the Alps, The Enchanted Island, The Author and the Composer; or, The Trials of Professional Life. "This latter," remarks Mr Howell, "the proprietor, Mr Charles Crooke, was very fond of, and kept it in the bill week after week. After seeing it once, the members of the orchestra used to go and have a drink. After the first week the majority of the audience followed their example, and, in the finish, it suddenly dawned upon Mr Crooke that he was the only one left to laugh at it. Golden Plume was reproduced at the same theatre twelve months after its birth; and subsequently went on tour, I travelling as conductor. When the company arrived at Workington the 'King' was taken ill. I mean the King of the piece, not His most Gracious Majesty Edward VII. Here was a dilemma. As I was the author, conductor, and the composer, in a weak moment I volunteered to take the part. After the various members of the company had 'made me up' I completely lost my identity. At the end of the show I was complimented by the proprietor of the theatre on my libretto and music, 'but,' said he, 'wherever did you dig that fellow up who played the king? Take my advice, lose him or shoot him.' In 1891 I was musical director of the Star Music Hall, Bristol, and there collaborated with Mr C. M. Rodney in The Caliph, Aladdin, Captain Pink, &c. In 1892 we travelled our joint work The Black Cat. In this year I was fortunate in composing the music of the hit of Drury-lane pantomime, Arthur Alexander's and Julia Kent's 'Love Duet.' In 1893 I composed and travelled as conductor of Laughs. Christmas of the same year I was conducting at the ill-fated Opera Comique two of my own works daily, The House that Jack Built, the book of which was the work of Mr Chance Newton, and Eastward Ho! written by Mr C. M. Rodney. The first night of the latter piece I shall never forget. The audience sang the Dead March in Saul for half-an-hour before the rise of the curtain—good, kind Christian people condemning a work before they had heard it. In spite of all, there were seven encores that evening."

Mr Howells' latest produced work is a musical comedy which goes by the name of The Girl from Chicago, now on tour with Mr Henry Hare's company. He tells us that he has had over one hundred works published, and hopes to accomplish many more. The subject of this interview is a very popular man in professional circles, and is a great favourite with everybody in South London. It may be mentioned that he has a daughter in the "South" orchestra, and another daughter who is very clever with the brush and palette.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at any of Smith and Sons' bookstalls throughout the provinces.

THE EMPIRE.

The visitor to the Empire is always certain to find a beautiful ballet—sometimes two—and a miscellaneous programme composed of interesting and attractive turns, judiciously selected and cleverly arranged, and the present week's entertainment is no exception to the general rule. One of the oddest and most amusing items which we have seen of late at a variety theatre is supplied at the Empire by Syd May, who gives a burlesque skit on Hackenschmidt which is excruciatingly funny. Mr May comes on attired in the usual light wrestling costume, and engages in a series of violent struggles with a well-contrived lay figure. By adroit handling the latter seems to be endowed with life, and the attitudes which it is made to assume are most ludicrous. Laughter is loud when the umpire—who, by the way, plays his part remarkably well—becomes entangled in the bout, and is finally assaulted, in blind excitement, by the mock Hackenschmidt and roughly handled before the mistake is explained. Mr May's imitations of Gus Elen, Dan Leno, and other well-known artists are as accurate as ever; but his Hackenschmidt item is both ludicrous and quaint. The Four Merkel Sisters are not only accomplished acrobats. They one and all are cast in a liberal mould of female beauty; and are, indeed, superb examples of physical development. They show considerable taste in the grouping of their performance, and their graceful attitudes combine with their great strength, agility, and expertness to make their turn completely successful. Paulton and Doley's trick bicycling is familiar to the patrons of the Empire, and the proof of its excellence is the applause which it evokes in spite of that familiarity. The activity of the non-comic partner is marvellous; and the things he does on his machine are incredibly difficult. Everybody cycles nowadays, and the appreciation of the feats of the trick artist is therefore sharpened by knowledge of their hazardous and delicate nature. The "tramp" business of the other partner is intensely funny. The mandoline as an instrument is capable of being played with an amount of skill which approaches virtuosity; and Signor Ernesto Rocco, if not absoluteley "incomparable" is certainly a musician of remarkable executive power and finish. Sam Elton's entertainment, so complete in its arrangement and so "well-acted," again evokes roars of merriment. It is carried out as carefully as ever down to the smallest detail. A highly original and really clever conjuror is Mr H. Sloan, who manages to compress a vast amount of diversion within brief limits. His costume is wildly eccentric, and his ability as a juggler is embellished by some extremely droll inventions. The air of jaunty gaiety with which he goes through his performance is in itself exhilarating; and the "smashes and crashes" which he introduces are very adroitly contrived and provided for. Iben Oben, an Arabian hand manipulator, shows remarkable strength by the way in which he raises himself, by degrees, on two piles of blocks. He is an accomplished artist in his line, and the applause he evokes is well merited. Mdlle. Marguerite Cornille's first selection is a French chanson of the sentimental order, which she renders with great taste and expressiveness. "The Little Brown Man of Japan" appeals strongly to prevailing feeling; and Miss Cornille delivers it with admirable distinctness and point, thoroughly stirring the sympathies of her hearers. Her last item is a kind of "coon" song, the air of which is gay and lively. Mdlle. Cornille renders it with great spirit. To listen to the performance of the fine orchestra at the Empire is a treat in itself, and the band here performs Mendelssohn's overture to Ruy Blas and a selection from Florodora with equal excellence of attack and accuracy. The main attraction at the Empire is still the beautiful and interesting ballet High Jinks, which, now probably in its last weeks, wins the warm favour of the patrons of this ever-popular establishment. The scenes shown by Cinématographic aid include views of the recent contests for the Stewards' Cup and the Goodwood Cup, and Guido Gialdini, a gifted whistler, contributes a striking example of his powers as a sifflеur.

ROYAL ALBERT.

A place in the programme is always assured for anything that tends towards merriment, in which category may certainly be classed The Bewildered Barrister, which has been revived by Mr Cecil Merrie and Mr Fred Newham. The audience at Mr Charles Relf's hall have taken to it immediately, entering thoroughly into the humour of the awkward situations of the solicitor whose jealous wife has found a love-letter addressed to her husband, but really intended for his amatory and audacious clerk. The scene in which the resourceful lady poes as the plaintiff in a divorce case, and is cross-examined by her husband, with a running commentary by the clerk, proves very amusing. The barrister rehearsing his speech for the defence provides more fun, which becomes broadly farcical when master and man make love to the lady, to the ultimate discomfiture of both. The amusing trifle has the advantage of the combined abilities of a couple of comedians whose talents have already ripened, Mr Cecil Merrie, the author, giving a refined but no less droll impersonation of the smart and dapper lawyer who is the hero of the episode. The efforts of the begowned orator to deliver his speech are made very comical, and a splendid foil is provided to the more effusive humour of the clerk, a part which is forcibly played by Mr Fred Newham, who loses no opportunity of obtaining a laugh. He has an abundant flow of cockneyisms, and his energy and extravagant antics are justified by the mirth he creates. Miss Nelly Leybourne makes a welcome reappearance in the congenial rôle of the assertive wife, who for all her jealous ferocity is something of a coquette, and contributes valuably to the effect of the love-making scene. So much fun is made out of the diverting incidents that the audience is kept in incessant laughter during the progress of the little piece, which has a refreshing flavour and loses nothing by the side of many productions more pretentious but less refined. A decided impression is also made by the other sketch of the bill, The King of Coiners, the pathos of which is profound. It is brought out strongly by Mr Clavering Craig and company, the scene in which the coiner beholds the image of his murdered victim being very thrilling. Princess Pauline wins the favour of the audience in a marked degree in her song of "Susie," also assuming the burlesque tragic note with great skill in "Ditty-Dotty," a song which deftly introduces the titles of popular lyrics. The Zaro Troupe perform a number of flip-flaps and somersaults with astonishing vigour, their head balancing also being clever, Brindale and Cooper are knockabout comedians with "patter" that savours little of originality, but their dancing possesses some novel features and pleases Canning-town, which boasts no mean critics of the art. A smart appearance is made by Mr Hal Croueste, who has a striking song with a tuneful chorus in "M-E-N." He also makes a hit with a few lines on General Macdonald, which he recites with fine fire and force, while an account of an "Annual Ball" enables him to show his versatility as a rollicking swell deep in his cups, an impersonation which gains great approbation. The Sisters Cora, Mr Syd Godfrey, Miss Daisy Reeves, and Little Johnny Dewar also contribute to the programme, which is concluded by some excellent pictures on Mr W. Payne's Bio-Photoscope, notably one of Holbein swimming the Channel, with a close view of the feeding process, and his subsequent emerging from the water. Mr R. A. Howell is in command of the musical forces, and the revered personality of Mr Walter Leaver, the manager and chairman, still exercises the same beneficent sway that it has done for a quarter of a century past.

CAMBERWELL PALACE.

Dr. Walford Bodie is for the second week creating records at the pretty Camberwell hall, where his fortnight's stay has by no means served to exhaust his drawing powers. Indeed, so widespread is his renown that the claimants for admission seem to have exceeded those of last week, and the house is crammed to the doors at a very early period of the evening, his weird manifestations of hypnotism and electric force being followed in awesome silence broken by hearty cheers. There is no room for doubt as to the genuineness of the cases which the famous hypnotist treats. The sufferer is carried in limp and helpless, the surgical appliances are removed and flung contemptuously into a corner, the mystic passes are made, the current is applied to the afflicted limb, and in a few moments the patient is set upon his feet. An incredulous smile lights up the poor wan face as the hitherto lifeless foot touches the ground or as the once palsied hand grasps a heavy tool and raises it high above the head. Then the Doctor, tenderly taking the hands of the patient, leads him in the first few steps of his new-found activity, while the house bursts into long-continued cheers as the sufferer finishes his exit at a trot. On Monday evidence of the permanency of the cure was supplied by a young girl from St. Luke's, who had been treated by Dr Bodie on his visit to the Britannia last Easter, and who come forward voluntarily to testify to the completeness of the cure. The arm that she held up, though still emaciated, was strong and well, despite the fact that the surgeons of the National Hospital had advised its amputation. Two doctors from that institution were present, said Dr. Bodie, and he challenged them to step forward and disprove the statement, but the only response was the cheers of the audience. The mother of the child also bore witness to the cure, the grateful woman adding a fervent "God bless Doctor Bodie wherever he goes!" as she retired. Cures were effected on Monday in no less than five cases, the worst of which appeared to be that of a youth from Kennington, who had been paralysed for sixteen years, and whose withered leg hung limp and useless. In a few minutes he was able to walk, but was advised not to bear too heavily on the foot, for fear the bone should break through the skin, so devoid of flesh was the limb. Other cases were successfully treated, all of whom had been paralysed for the better part of their lives, and had been discharged from a number of hospitals as hopeless and incurable. Breathless interest was manifested in the proceedings by the audience, who were deeply enthralled, but who were soon in ecstasies of merriment at the grotesque antics of a half-dozen men who later came under the doctor's hypnotic influence. Another attraction of Mr Jesse Sparrow's bill is Mr Joe Elvin and company, in The Hansom Cabby, in which the famous Cockney comedian has won the laughter of the audience and kept them in continuous mirth. Mr Sid Bandon elicits screams of merriment from the fair sex when he appears in silk hat and frock-coat and carrying a baby, which had been surreptitiously confided to his care, while the genuine pathos of his impersonation of a "waster," who sings "There's many worse scoundrels than me" is fully recognised and amply applauded. The graceful variations of the top-boot and sand-dance given by My Fancy supply one of the prettiest spectacles of the evening; and Austin and Cowan in their "Dream" duet and an effective setting of "The dear little Shamrock" secure admiration for their fine tenor and contralto voices, which blend tunefully. Mr Harry Pleon awakens merriment with "The same old song" and with his variation on "Bill Bailey," and Miss Constance Moxon piquantly trills "If you don't know, you'll be none the wiser," and submits her realistic Sunday walks. The ventriloquial séance given by Mr Horace White affords proof of his polyphonic skill; the Wyffs furnish a farcical absurdity in which a curate and a pretty actress figure; and Mr Alf Aubyn sings blithely as the "Coal-black Dandy." Speciality dancing is done by Susie and Protti, whose agility is astonishing; the Five Whiteleys indulge in a varied and exciting acrobatic and rope-walking performance; and the other items of a well-diversified programme are Mr Kit Keen, Mr Fred Elton, the Katos, Nash and Noel, and Ross and Grayson, in The Professor and the Pupil. The invariably crowded audiences at the Camberwell Palace include the best people of the district—an eloquent tribute to the spirited catering of Mr Jesse Sparrow.

MISS BELLE RAY, who has been appearing this week at the Empress, Brixton, has a somewhat unique voice. During the week she has been singing a patriotic number with great effect, and in the well-known song "Out on the Deep," she shows remarkable richness of tone in her lower notes.

MISS EDNA CRAGGE has found Sandgate a most delightful seaside resort, where she is combining business with pleasure. Her success has secured for her an early return engagement.

AT the Grand, Clapham, this week, Miss Millie Harris (one of George Fuller and company's latest finds) is reaping a rich harvest of applause through her rendering of "Don't rake up the past," a delightful descriptive ballad from the pen of Mr Eric Graham. This successful number is published by Maynard's, of High-street, Bloomsbury.

EXCELLENT business is being done at the Bedford this week, and the large audiences have held their sides with laughter during the progress of Mr Brien M'Cullough's Two Runaway Girls. It is certainly one of the funniest sketches we have seen, and ought to find a place in the West-end.

MDLLE. NINA MARTINO made an instantaneous hit on Tuesday evening at the Hackney Empire with "The Sunshine of Love," by A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott. Mr David Day has published the song, and is also placing on the market Celian Kottaun's "Gathering of the Clans" Quadrilles; A. Arnold's "Empress" waltz; and the "Proposal" valse (or veleta cotillion), by J. Powell and Clement Harris.

AMONG new songs about to be issued by the same house are "The workhouse gate," by Herbert Shelley and Stephen R. Philpot; Miss Gladys Mavius's "Julia, I want you for my wife," by Robson and Hyde; Kit Keen's "My Hindoo queen," by Barnes and Collins; Mark Sheridan's "All the little Ja-panay faces," a particularly smart parody by Harry Castling; the same writer's "Who killed Bill Bailey?" sung by Sandford and Lyons; and "Laughable times, or coming through the rhymes," by Chas. and George Collins.

MISS MARIE KENDALL has acquired the music hall rights of C. W. Murphy's new and beautiful ballad, "The Garden Filled with Gold." Messrs Francis, Day, and Hunter are the publishers of the song.

LES SUPRISKIS, lady aerial performers, have just been engaged for a long tour on the Continent, starting in Germany, for which country they sail to-day (Saturday), viâ Hamburg.—Mr and Mrs Tom Hughes, having brought over Mr George Gaskin's latest American success, entitled "Good-bye my lady love," have presented it to Miss Alma Obrey, who has produced it with enormous success.—Miss Margaret Radcliffe's success at the Pier Pavilion, Cleethorpe, has led to a second engagement during the current month.

AT the Oddfellows' Hall, Jersey, Joseph Poole's myriorama opened on Monday a four weeks' season. The pictures are thoroughly up to date, and smart variety turns are contributed by Miss May Finch, vocalist; the Veronas, lady dancers; Felix Somers, "facial king;" and Mdlle. Orbasany, with her trained birds.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

Great disappointment to many who have frequented the popular Oldham fair ground, known as "Tommy Field," will be caused by the erection of a new and extensive market hall, which will occupy a great deal of the ground usually devoted to the fair. The plot in Henshaw-street is already excavated.

Shildon Show is a rendezvous for the showmen travelling the North-eastern Counties. Amongst them this year we noticed W. and B. Murphy's No. 2 gondola set, Walker Hoadley's galloping horses, Mander's cockerells, Richardson's two concerns, Mander's No. 1 great show, Cooper's Bioscope, Westbrook's Cinématograph and varieties, Collenss's shooting acts, Gess with his athletes, Testo's wonders of the deep, Paine's Cinémato, Burnett's battery, Moore's boxing troupe, Marwood's freaks, and a large number of minor concerns. Messrs Campbell and Whitehead officiated as stewards for the lessees.

One of the most popular shows in Wales, Dooner's New Empire, is now paying a welcome return visit to Bury Port, where it is being rewarded with crowded houses nightly. Dooner's animated pictures have a wonderful reputation in this part of Wales. The pictures are always up-to-date. Amongst an attractive display, which is the principal feature of the programme, we are shown the recent Royal visit to Swansea, which excites great interest. In addition to the animated pictures, Mr Dooner has added a strong variety programme to his entertainment. Colonel Bushman with his performing cockatoos is well received; Ardene, the handcuff expert and gaol breaker, mystifies by escaping from all locks, handcuffs, and chains brought by the audience; Major Mite, though only 2ft. 10in. in height, possesses enough talent to keep the audience in roars of laughter. Another display of pictures, efficiently described by Mr G. B. Gould, concludes an enjoyable programme.

As we briefly stated last week, Mr Henry Studt gave his annual benefit fête and gala, in aid of the Llanelly Hospital, last week. Amongst the shows present was the ever-popular and up-to-date Bioscope exhibition of Mr William Haggar. The artistes engaged included the Cee-Mee Family, very clever gymnasts and trapeze artists; the charming Sisters Ethardo, on the unsupported ladder; Balzens and Pei-ho, Japanese top-spinners and jugglers; Mirzello, the spiral cyclist; &c. A very large crowd attended, and a goodly sum was realised.

At the Alexandra Theatre, Evesham, this week, the following programme has been given:—The Chain of Guilt, Shadows of a Great City, The Daughter of the Regiment, The Factory Girl, The Girl of My Heart, and Uncle Tom's Cabin.

At Mrs Sinclair's, Victoria Theatre, Pershore, The Stranglers of Paris, Current Cash, Shadows of a Great City, Leah, the Forsaken Jewess, The Factory Girl, and The Cross Roads of Life have been performed.

At Holloway's Empire Theatre, Studley, this week, the following plays have been performed:—Two Little Vagabonds, Beggar's Petition, Moat Farm Mystery, Derby Winner, Sweeney Todd, and Kathleen Mavourneen.

CROWN THEATRE STAGE STAFF OUTING.

The stage staff of the Crown Theatre, Peckham, have had their annual outing, and may now settle down to work again, cheered by sweet recollections of the glorious sea and country, of a happy day spent away from the turmoil and smoke of the city, and by the recollection of the high compliment paid them by their respected manager, Mr Cecil Paget, and their acting-manager, Mr H. J. Brett, who honoured them by being present; Mr Paget presiding at the sixth annual dinner.

The party assembled at London Bridge Station, as per programme, at 8 10 on Sunday morning last, and were soon being merrily whisked along in a specially reserved S.-E. and C. Railway carriage towards that Mecca of London trippers and "beanoites" good old Margate. According to the programme so admirably arranged by the worthy secretary, Mr Philip Sheridan, the Crown electrician, the party was due at Margate at 11·0 o'clock; but mere man proposes and the S. E. Railway disposes, for the train took a stroll around Ramsgate and Broadstairs, and stopped now and then for awhile, presumably to admire the scenery, so that it was just on twelve o'clock when the party arrived at their destination.

CROWN THEATRE, PECKHAM, STAGE STAFF OUTING (1904).

They were soon scattered all over the front enjoying to the full the pure sea air and ozone that comes so refreshing to "smokeites." At one o'clock sharp dinner was served at the headquarters, the celebrated Crown Hotel in Broadstreet, the host, Mr G. M. Miles, upholding his well-merited reputation as the king of theatrical outing caterers, Mr Paget, the most courteous and popular of theatre managers, taking the chair, where he was ably supported by another well-known and popular Peckham gentleman, Mr Fred W. Butler, of the King's Head, Meeting House-lane, who with Mr John Mellish, of the Red Cow, High-street (a newly imported Peckhamite, but already a popular one), also honoured the Crown party with their esteemed and jovial company.

After dinner, of course, came the usual toasts and speeches, Mr PAGET giving a neat little one to the effect that he was "proud to accompany his staff, a staff that all touring managers describe as being the best, not only in the United Kingdom, but in the world." At this the Crown boys not unnaturally blushed a deep pink and looked confused, as all modest people should when their heretofore unrecognised virtues are eulogised in their presence, and more especially so by the "governor;" in fact, Mr Teddy Wade, the Crown M.C., and resident stage-manager, blushed so deep a crimson that William, the waiter, rushed to his assistance with a full decanter, which was accepted, and the contents duly disposed of in the usual way and with the utmost promptitude, so avoiding the dangers of apoplexy.

MR FRED BUTLER responded to Mr Wade's toast of "Our Visitors," and said that "oft threatening comes at last," for although he had often promised and wished to accompany the Crown boys on their annual, something had always transpired to prevent him. However, this time he had come, and he was proud indeed to occupy the honoured position of vice-chairman upon such an auspicious occasion, and with such excellent company as the worthy chairman, Mr Paget, and the splendid staff of Peckham's magnificent theatre, and he hoped that he would have the pleasure of accompanying them again on many more of their annual outings—a wish that was echoed by every person present.

MR PHILIP SHERIDAN, in responding to the "Governor's" toast of the stage staff, said in his pure native English (from the banks of the Liffey), "Sure, whoy wouldn't the sthaff be a good one when their governor showed them such a good example"—and, indeed, why not?

The company also drank to the health of the "King and Queen," "Mr Paget, Mr Brett, and the Directors," and to "Our secretary and treasurers (Mr Phil Sheridan and Mr E. Wade) and stewards (Messrs Morgan, Blakey, and Buck)."

At two o'clock the party was waylaid by Mr J. Weller, of St. John's-road, Margate, who succeeded after a considerable amount of trouble in in taking a couple of snapshots of the group.

After the curtain had rung down on the artistic act the programme was "go as you please," some of the party pleasing themselves out on the briny with hook and worm, whilst others went for a drive through Ramsgate, Pegwell Bay, and the many other picturesque places in close proximity to Margate. Mr Paget, and Messrs Brett, Butler, Mellish, and Wade hied themselves off on the Palace Company's splendid steamship the Kohinoor to Deal and Dover, &c., and thoroughly enjoyed the trip, judging by the enthusiastic manner in which they described it on their return. After tea there was the gathering of the clans again at the hotel for the home journey, upon which the party started at 7 35, arriving at New-cross at 10·15, after a pleasant and very harmonious journey, thanks to the fine tenor voices of Jack Wick and Tommy Morgan—whom Mr Wade appropriately termed the railway stage-manager—and the resonant baritone of Mr Harry Brett, the whole company joining in heartily for the refrains. Votes of thanks were unanimously passed to the president and vice-president, and also to the secretary and treasurers, Messrs Sheridan and Wade, and their able assistants, Messrs Thos. Morgan, Bob Blakey, and Matt Buck, the stewards, for the efficient manner in which all the arrangements had been carried out, not a single hitch or untoward incident having occurred throughout the day to mar the pleasure of the party. The Crown stage staff wish to sincerely thank all their numerous benefactors, including Mr Paget and the directors, the Red Riding Hood pantomime artists, Mr F. W. Butler, Mr John Mellish, and also various tradespeople, local and otherwise, who so generously contributed to the outing fund, and so made the sixth annual as brilliant a success as the five preceding ones.

THE PARAGON OUTING.

East-end folk, no less than West-end folk, know how to make the most of their opportunities when on pleasure bent. So it was with the seven and forty souls who took possession of a couple of saloon carriages at Liverpool-street Station on Sunday morning last. Railway journeys are not as a rule very lively ceremonies, but the members of the staff of the Paragon Music Hall assumed such cheerfulness of manner and disposition that other passengers were perforce obliged to follow suit, and gaiety and good humour found a place even amid the grime and gloom and smoke of a great railway station. The party was in the charge of Mr Charles Beecham, and no more popular or well-esteemed person could have been found for the part than the amiable and tactful manager of the Paragon. He it was who acted as president over the function, Mr Worland S. Wheeler being the vice-president. Mr A. Earnshaw performed some hard work as the secretary and treasurer, while the committee consisted of Messrs H. Lamerton, H. Raphael, J. Taylor, and J. Alexander.

The two hours spent in the train until Clacton-on-Sea was reached passed as merrily as a roundabout on a country fair ground. There were wits among the company, not the least of them being genial Manager Charles himself, whose natural sense of humour has not seemingly been dulled by several years' association with the dismal and cheerless atmosphere of the Mile End-road. On arrival at Clacton a pleasant couple of hours or so were spent by some of the trippers in a short yachting expedition, and by others in boating excursions and the delights of bathing.

Dinner was served in the Osbourne Hotel, Rosemary-road, at 2 0 p m., Mr CHARLES BEECHAM in the chair. After the loyal toasts had been drunk amid musical honours,

MR A. HARRIS, in proposing "Success to the Canterbury and Paragon Music Halls," said that he had known Mr Beecham for many years, and he could not help thinking that the Paragon was in good hands. There were, too, some most able directors, while the general manager of the two houses, Mr Fred Miller, was a gentleman who was held in universal esteem. He regretted that Mr Miller had been unable to join them that day.

The CHAIRMAN, in responding, thanked Mr Harris for his kind remarks, and said that he was able to congratulate himself upon having such able directors and such an able staff.

MR A. EARNSHAW, in submitting "The Visitors," remarked that he was sorry some of the faces they had seen at former outings were now absent. No doubt circumstances had prevented them from coming. Anyhow, he hoped the present company would take back pleasant memories of Clacton.

MR A. J. DAWSON briefly and suitably replied to this toast on behalf of the visitors.

MR A. GRIMMATT made a capital speech about the ladies, and concluded by asking the mere males there assembled to drink a bumper to the health of the sex of whom it was said, "the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

MISS DOBSON, of the refreshment staff, gracefully acknowledged the compliments passed upon the ladies

MR A. HARRIS proposed Mrs Beecham's health, saying he was sure he voiced the sentiments of everyone when he expressed his regret at her unavoidable absence. Mr BEECHAM returned thanks on his wife's behalf.

MR W. S. WHEELER had some nice words to say about the Press. He took it as a distinct honour that his name should be associated with the toast to the members of the Fourth Estate. He considered that the variety stage—and probably the legitimate stage as well—received greater assistance from the newspapers than was afforded to any other business he knew of. He had begun almost to look upon the journalists who were in the habit of paying regular visits to the Paragon as his friends, and certainly as friends to the house.

MR A. GRIMMETT proposed the health of, and a vote of thanks to, the secretary and treasurer, Mr A. Earnshaw, for the excellent services he had rendered in connection with the outing, which had been a great success.

MR EARNSHAW received quite an ovation when he rose to reply. Whatever he had done, he said, had been a distinct pleasure to him to perform.

Dinner over, group photographs were taken of the party, after which all of them drove in brakes to St. Oswyth's Priory, a place of considerable historical interest. Tea was partaken of at the Osborne Hotel at six o'clock, when congratulations and compliments were showered upon Mr George Benton, the host, for the first-rate manner in which he had arranged everything in the catering department. The return journey was commenced at 8·20, and Liverpool-street was reached a little over a couple of hours later.

AT the Empire Music Hall, Wrexham, the attractions this week have been Doddy and Belle, comedy artists; James Dale and Cissie Vale, in their clever singing and artistic pedestal dancing act; Billy Taylor, the coloured expert dancer and whistler; Flo Christine, comedienne and dancer; Mabel Comely, burlesque artist; and Arthur Farren, society comedian.

AT the Palace and Winter Gardens, Tynemouth, this week, the Royal Court Orchestra is ably conducted by Herr Wilhelm Wehber; the Four Maisanos, musical clowns, have a flattering reception; Rex Harley, mimic, is exceptionally clever; Fredo, illusionist, scores in his various items; and Miss Mary Glover is a harpist and vocalist of ability.

AT the Opera House, Jersey, this week Messrs Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's company, has been appearing in Quality Street. The play is beautifully put on, and the company is good all round. Miss Florence Jackson as Phœbe Throssell deserves special mention, her changes from grave to gay being exceedingly well done; Miss Grace Edwin as Susan Throssell acts with marked ability; Mr George Brandram fills the rôle of Valentine Brown admirably, winning all hearts by his manliness and gallantry; Miss Gwynneth Galton makes an amusing Patty; and Mr Dan Dyce causes much amusement as the Recruiting Sergeant. Other minor parts are well filled by Messrs Arthur Lysons, Herbert Chown, and Arthur Curtis, and Misses Isabel Merson, Marie Densett, Frances Leslie, Lilian Rogers, Violet Hollom, and Beryl Burnle.

AT the Grand Pavilion, Ventnor, on Monday, Mr Chas. Hartley presented that charming comedy Lady Windermere's Fan to a large and fashionable audience. Mr Hartley, in the character of Lord Windermere, gave a highly finished representation. Mr W. H. Hargreaves impersonated Lord Darlington with refinement. Lord Lorton was in the capable hands of Mr Austin Leigh; Miss Ethel Gordon Paul was responsible for some fine acting as Mrs Erlynne; and Miss Mabel Durrant did well as Lady Windermere. Miss Phyllis Noell acted piquantly as the Duchess of Berwick; Miss Louis Graeme was capital as Lady Agatha Carlisle; and Mr Wallis Clark as Mr Chas. Dunby was good.

MR HARRY POOLE, who learnt much of the variety business at the South London and during his period of acting-management at the Tivoli under the late Mr Vernon Dowsett, is entertainment director at Rosherville Gardens, a resort that is rapidly regaining the success that attended it during the seventies. No less than £4,000 in sixpences was the amount taken during Bank Holiday week. No wonder that Mr Poole is sanguine of the future success of the place.

MR W. F. FRAME, "the man you know," and his excellent vaudeville company, are delighting the amusement-seekers in the Cumberland Lake District.—Mr Harry Liston, Miss Lord Lumley, and "Merry Moments" Party will commence their autumn tour at Pier Pavilion, Southport, on Monday. Their numerous bookings include Lancashire, Lincolnshire, Cheshire, &c.—Blanche and Diacoff are sailing for India, per s.s. Persia, to fulfil a twelve months' engagement, opening at Bombay on Sept. 28 for one month. They return to England in May, 1906.—Mr Herbert Shelley has had a busy week, as he has been appearing at the London Pavilion and the Middlesex, besides deputising for Little Tich at the Tivoli.

AT the usual weekly meeting of the council, held last Tuesday, Gillian Scaife was nominated as a candidate for election as a member of the Actors' Association. The hon. solicitors reported progress in several matters; also that they had issued judgment recovering salary on behalf of a member, and attention was drawn to the seriously increased difficulties of recovering if arrears of salary were allowed to increase week after week. It was hoped that members would assist by discouraging this, as far as possible.

IN the Court of Bankruptcy, on Monday, before Mr E. Leadam Hough, Senior Official Receiver, there was a first meeting of creditors of Walter Edmund Dolphin, actor, described as of Landridge-road, Fulham. The debtor attributed his failure to his expenses having exceeded his income, owing to lack of engagements. He estimated his liabilities at £105, and disclosed practically no assets. The matter remained in the Official Receiver's hands to be wound up in bankruptcy.

DIDEROT'S "PARADOXE."

We hear the Paradoxe of Diderot often alluded to, but not everyone has a clear idea of the meaning of the French author's theory. Its thesis may be stated, as a writer in the Westminster Review once remarked, in a few of Diderot's own sentences. "Sensibility is only in a slight degree the quality of a great genius. He will love justice; but he will exercise that virtue with no perception of its sweetness (douceur). It is not his heart; it is his head which does all." "It is extreme sensibility which makes mediocre actors; it is mediocre sensibility which makes the multitude of bad actors; and it is the absolute lack of sensibility which qualifies (prépare) sublime actors."

That is the gist of the "Paradoxe," and it certainly justifies the title. Indeed, it may be at once conceded that the paradox is loosely framed; it being impossible to accept any one of the three propositions precisely as it is put. It is only fair, however, to show how Diderot supports them; and the exposition will go far to bring out the fundamental rightness of his views. He knew many actors apart from his acquaintance with the profession through his plays (he gives a Frenchly frank account of how and why he once wished to go on the stage himself), and he studied their art with all the eager interest he felt in the industrial processes he described for the Encyclopédie. Accordingly he is able to support his doctrine with anecdotes as well as arguments. As thus:—A certain actor and his wife had to play Eraste and Lucile together in Molière's Le Dépit Amoureux at a time when they had a fierce quarrel on hand; and in the third scene of the fourth act they played with such brilliancy as to win loud applause; yet all the while they were keeping up, sotto voce, a series of bitter recriminations, the wife murmuring angry comments on the words addressed to her by Eraste in his quality of Lucile's lover; and the husband revenged himself by physical means immediately on their exit. At another time this French actress kept up an under-breath talk with another actor, her lover, each speaking low while the other declaimed. On another occasion the French actress pacified, in a series of asides, another lover who, having been deceived, placed himself at the side of the stage with the intention of putting her out of countenance; and this in a scene in which her pathos moved the audience to tears. Diderot vouches for the truth of his stories, and asks triumphantly whether these players felt what they played. Again he tells how he saw Garrick, whose acquaintance he made, pass his head through a doorway, and, in the space of four or five seconds, cause his countenance successively to express extravagant joy, moderate joy, tranquility, surprise, astonishment, sadness, despondency, fear, horror, and despair, and then go back through the same phases. Could any mind, he asks, have passed through the sensations thus suggested in such a space of time? He has yet other stories, of how an actor, while representing the extremest emotion, could deftly put out of the way something which had fallen; and how, on the first production of Inès De Castro, Duclos, by an indignant protest, silenced the parterre when it laughed on the appearance of the children, and then went on successfully with her part. "What, then?" asks the paradoxer. "Is it that one can thus pass and repass from one profound sentiment to another; from grief to indignation, and from indignation to grief? I cannot conceive that; but what I do conceive is that the indignation of Duclos was real, and the grief simulated."

When put thus, the principal contended for looks fairly plausible. The word "simulated" is apt to be unthinkingly accepted; and in that case Diderot's position is made good.

The discussion here tends to divide, some simply holding that the actor must have felt the situation to begin with, in order to be able to represent it; others steadily maintaining that to exhibit grief effectively the actor must needs have a sympathetic grief in his heart. The first issue had better be disposed of before the second is tried.

It is obvious that a great deal depends on what is meant by sensibility. The word, says Diderot, signifies "that disposition, accompanied with (compagne de) weakness of the organs, and followed by (suite de) mobility of the diaphragm, vivacity of the imagination, and delicacy of the nerves; which inclines to be compassionate, to tremble, to admire, to fear, to fret, to weep, to faint, to succour, to fly, to cry, to lose presence of mind, to exaggerate, to despise, to disdain, to have no precise idea of the true, the good, and the beautiful, to be unjust, to be crazy,"—a definition more copious than satisfactory. On the understanding, however, that sensibility is only asserted to incline the subject more or less to such manifestations of feeling, the term may provisionally stand. At once the question arises whether the actor must not have the capacity for a great many of these very forms of emotion. Must he or she not possess a "mobility of the diaphragm" for purposes of sobbing; a vivacious imagination; an organisation of considerable sensitiveness; the power of pity; the ability to tremble and conceive fear, to feel admiration, to weep, to be extravagant, to be scornful? Diderot's great array of terms does not save him. Apart from the act of playing, the great actors, as a matter of fact, may be confidently expected to possess in some measure most of the capacities mentioned. Garrick, of whom Diderot says it was worth while to go to England merely to see him act, must, one would think, have had considerable "sensibility" of temperament. Is then the proposition as to the great actor being devoid of sensibility to be read as merely meaning that his emotional capacities shall not be exercised while he is playing? Rather Diderot seems to have held that an actor's power of feeling is to sensibility proper somewhat as to the appreciation of fine poetry is to the faculty of composing it. "It is," he says, "that to be emotional is one thing, and to feel is another." (C'est qu'être sensible est une chose, sentir est une autre)—"The one is an affair of the soul (âme), the other an affair of the judgment. There is nothing to be said of this but that it is a rather crude sample of eighteenth-century literary psychology. The solution seems to be that the notion of feeling as distinct from sensibility is Diderot's account of the quality of a temperament in which the emotions are usually exhibited in moderation, being either naturally feeble or controlled by the judgment; and that his formula of the "absolute lack of sensibility" in a great actor simply covers the conception of a display of violent emotion based on no corresponding sensation—as in the case of Garrick's rapid series of facial expressions.

AT the Victoria Hall, Newquay, on Monday, Mr Charles Macdona's company appeared in Three Little Maids. The trio of damsels was represented by the Misses Vera Vallis, Nellie Groves, and Doris Trevor with great vivacity and freshness, and as the aspirants for these ladies' hearts Messrs H. A. Welchman, Brian Molyneux; Jules Charmettes, M. De L'Orme; and F. Hulme Sharp, Lord Cheyne, were quite satisfactory, Mr Sharp's study of the society peer convulsing the audience. Rosemary Beaulieu, Marjory Crichton, and Miss Venetia Crafton were carefully enacted by Misses Iris Coley, Eva Swinburne, and Margaret Douglas, and Madame Ilma Norina made an excellent Lady St. Mallory. As Cupid Mr Ewart Drake was irresistible, the dance in Dutch clogs which he did with Miss May Wright (a delightful Gretchen) evoking a not-to-be-denied encore. The minor parts were well filled, and the mounting of the piece left little to be desired.

MR GEORGE F. SLATTER, the hard-working and obliging acting-manager of the Walthamstow Palace, leaves to-day (Saturday) for a well-deserved two weeks' holiday at Lechlade, Gloucestershire.

SHEERNESS.

TRANSFIELD'S HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr T. G. Transfield; Secretary and Manager, Mr Charles Melvin.—A brilliant programme here includes a spectacular demonstration by Mr Tom Herman depicting various scenes of naval and military life. Another turn equally meritorious is furnished by the Four Musical Palmers; the Sisters Dover, vocalists and dancers, are a pleasing item; and Mr Lade Henderson, comedian; Miss Blanche Gerrard, comedienne; and Miss Daisy Almer, serio and dancer, are also attractions in a well-arranged bill. The Bio-Tableaux exhibited by Bernand Theobald conclude the performance.

SHEFFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr F. W. Purcell; Acting-Manager, Mr T. S. Carter.—The well-known author-actor Mr James Willard and a well-selected company are appearing to delighted audiences this week in that gentleman's drama entitled A Woman's Pluck. The scenery is realistic, especially the one depicting the wings from "behind" at a music hall, and the acting of Messrs Dottridge and Longden's company is good all round. Mr James Willard makes an admirable representative of Dick Darrell, and Mr J. P. Dryden is successful in the dual-rôle of Mark Scanlan and Jim Daremount. Mr Harry Emmerson, long familiar to local audiences in The World, New Babylon, and other famous dramas, is quite suited in the highly amusing character of Roger Pippin, a good old "pro." Miss East Robertson, a favourite with Sheffield theatregoers, is a comely and dramatic representative of Grace, and other cleverly-played parts are the Jessie Pope of Miss Yatman, the Ophelia of Miss Agnes D'Aragon, the Sarah Smith of Mrs Pope, and the Winston Dale of Mr Edward Ashby.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager and Treasurer, Mr J. E. B. Beaumont.—Mr Fred Jarman's new farce, Trooper Hunt's Widow, was presented here on Monday. All the members of the company worked hard, and the result was that throughout the three acts of the farce good-humoured hilarity prevailed. Mr Howard Cridland as Trooper Hunt acted with great vivacity and a most refreshing sense of the comic possibilities of a rôle that might easily have been vulgarised. Mr Henry Osmond caused considerable laughter by his clever sketch of the eccentric little "sport," Ryder. Mr Edgar Kent was smart and professional as the solicitor, Henry Fraser. A highly comical impersonation of the love-sick grocer, Nathaniel Sapp, was given by Mr Cecil Fowler; Mr Roy Milton did well as Richard Hunt, and Mr George M'Closkie was good as the clerk, Newman. Miss Ella Kitson earned the goodwill of the audience by her clever and characteristic representation of the character of the wardrobe dealer, Jane Watson; Miss Amy Edmonds was a pretty and interesting Frances; and Miss Susie Oak made a piquant and pleasing Bessie.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr C. W. Ramsay.—For many years the name of Mr F. A. Scudamore on a Sheffield playbill has appealed strongly to the drama-loving public, for it is a guarantee that play, acting, and scenery will all be admirable. This was again the case on Monday, when the talented and expert author-manager's new modern play, entitled The Beautiful Avenger, was acted to a crowded and enthusiastic house. Mr Scudamore is always up-to-date, and he has adroitly utilised the newly discovered force, radium, for one of his sensational effects. All the artists worked conscientiously to promote the general success, that well-known Britannia favourite, Mr Algernon Syms, distinguishing himself by a meritorious impersonation of a poor artist. Miss Daisy Scudamore looked well and acted earnestly in the title-rôle. Mr Fred Withers was a funny Jim Thams. Mr Lionel Gillet and Mr W. Diamond were excellent, and all the other characters were in safe hands.

EMPIRE PALACE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. W. Young.—The graceful and talented American comedienne, Miss Julie Mackey, is once more fulfilling a welcome starring engagement here. Other favourite artists appearing are Palles and Cussick, two old Sheffield favourites; the Olive Trio, characteristic vocalist; Milner Verren, tenor vocalist; Geraldo, club juggler; W. Lee, Helen Bentley and Company, in a clever sketch; Charles Baron, with his burlesque cats, &c.; Manning's entertainers; Mabel La Blanch, serio; Fred Zola, eccentric; the New York Nippers; and the funny comedian, Jack Camp.

GRAND PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr W. C. Burns.—Jack Renson and Rose Waite, duettists; Carlotti, juggler; Will Harvey, comedian; Dot Stanley, burlesque actress; Rose D'Alberg; serio-comic; the Bowery Boys, comedians; Zaro and Arno, comic triple bar performers; and Thos. Finglass, coon vocalist, are playing to delighted houses nightly.

SOUTHAMPTON.

GRAND.—That perennial attraction, A Chinese Honeymoon, is once more attracting crowded houses here. Mr George Dance's company, who is responsible for the presentation of this popular musical play, differs very little from that representing the comedy on the last visit. Miss Gwennie Harcourt still plays Fi-Fi, and is the life and soul of the piece. That popular Savoyard Mr Helier Le Maistre is a dignified Emperor, and another old favourite is Mr Rudolph Kloss, who gives a capital portrayal of the Lord Chancellor. Amongst the new-comers we must single out for special mention Mr Lennox Barry, who, on his first visit to Southampton, achieves a great success as the Lord High Admiral. He is also responsible for the admirable stage management, everything working smoothly and going like clockwork. Mr Clifford Morgan is likewise very successful as Tom Hatherton, acting and singing in fine style. Mr Gus Wheatman causes endless amusement and laughter as Mr Pineapple, and the success of the "honeymoon" is further contributed to by Miss Nellie Wigley, a dainty Princess Soo-Soo; Miss Dot Stephens, Mrs Pineapple; and Miss Elsie Carew as the meddlesome official mother-in-law. The scenery is beautiful, and the orchestra does well under the direction of Mr C. Claus Büoz.

PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Mr Fred Melville's company is playing Her Forbidden Marriage to crowded houses. The production of the drama is highly creditable, and the entire company does extremely well, the acting throughout being excellent. Mr Horace Hunter plays the part of George Madison in a manly and vigorous fashion. Miss Dora Brookes is admirable as the deceitful Lady Lucretia Lancaster, and Miss Isla Garnet Vayne is a charming Lucy. Miss Emily Hughes gives a carefully studied performance as the Mother Superior, the Convent scene being wonderfully well done and extremely effective. Mr Harry Elliston is responsible for much laughter, and he is well seconded by Miss Marie Kildare, who scores as Pattie. Mr Clarence Hague is a refined Charles Devereux; and Mr Chas. Carte is good as Sir George Lancaster. All the other parts are intelligently treated.

PALACE.—Packed every night is the order here, Marie Lloyd being the magnet. This charming comedienne met with a flattering reception on Monday in "The Coster's Christening." Walter Munroe was also in fine form with his Irish songs; G. W. Hunter pattered away to his heart's content; and Ernest Rees, droll as ever, scored with his latest ditty, "On a cold and frosty night." Jake Friedman was very successful in his one-man opera, and others who entertained were the Two Bells, dashing duettists and dancers; Lilian Rigby, a clever instrumentalist; Frank Sylvo, a smart juggler; and Gwen Howard, a comely comedienne.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr W. Marlow; Manager, Mr W. Marlow, jun.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company is playing Saturday to Monday to large audiences. The cast is of uniform excellence, and the dresses and scenery are perfect.

PIER PAVILION.—Sole Lessee, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—This week Mr Henry Swinerd's No. 1 company is presenting Dare-Devil Dorothy. The play meets with a good reception. Mr Wm. Francis Green represents Captain George Fielding creditably, his singing being greatly admired; Captain Edward Dudley finds a most able exponent in Mr Henry C. Ward; Mr Arthur Verne makes a humorous and clever Silas Crump; Miss Nellie Harcourt is a pleasing Judith; Miss Kathleen Garnon is well suited as Ruth Montrose; and Miss M. Cecil gives an excellent portrayal of Dorothy Montrose. The Misses Mabel and Lillie Blake are two clever acrobatic and speciality dancers.

KURSAAL.—Manager, Mr J. Sydney Childs.—An excellent variety programme is presented here this week, and large and appreciative audiences are the result. Bryan and Lawrence are comedians greatly admired; Mdlle. Orpho is a pleasing dan-seuse and toe specialist; Jenny Venton wins favour with her dancing and singing; Mr John Macauley gives some excellent renderings of old ballads; Swan and Stanley are capital facial experts; Lee, the marvellous conjuror, shows some very clever tricks; and the Sisters Gilbert are pretty duettists and dancers. The Kursaal Pierrots still draw large audiences.

SOUTH SHIELDS.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs J. and F. Coulson.—Mr J. Gar Kiddie's company in the successful musical comedy A Chinese Idyl is a sound attraction for the current week. The author, Mr Fred Danvers, funnily depicts His Excellency the Viceroy, and considerable mirth is caused by Mr Dawson Dewick as Tang-a-hang. The musical numbers allotted to the part of Lieut. West are pleasingly rendered by Mr F. H. Dundas; Mr W. H. Gatty creditably sustains Li Hi, High Priest; Ching Foo receives a dramatic interpretation at the hands of Mr J. G. Maine; Miss Mabel Mainwaring acts and sings in altogether charming style as Pitti Pat; Miss Marie Rainbird is a bright Belle Brighton; and loud applause welcomes Miss Emmie Milsted as Princess Stephanie, her coon songs and dances being clever. The Henriques give a good acrobatic display. The beautiful scenery and well-blending costumes lend fine spectacular effect to the entire scene, the animated chorus and augmented orchestra being under Mr Arthur Silver's able direction.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident Manager, Mr Geo. F. Thompson.—Mr Thornton submits another capital programme to his patrons, including the versatile comedian George Lashwood, who eclipses previous successes here by his present admirable form, his artistic rendering of "Fol-de-rol-lol" being again excellently received. The excited audience would have fain heard more of him, judging by the deafening applause which reigned for several minutes at the conclusion of his fifth song. The good male impersonations of Nellie Coleman, lady comedian, are always palatable; Mars and M'Leod are entertaining, the house unsparingly rewarding these clever duologue artists; and the funniosities of Dome, the comedy clay modeller, are laughable. The Leggetts furnish an agreeable sketch. Harry Bickley, a droll comedian, and Will Cornish, in a musical entertainment, are both popular turns. The Sisters Lonnen, duettists and dancers, are charming, and a pleasing feature is the American Bioscope.

SEASIDE PAVILION.—Proprietors The South Shields Corporation.—Mr W. Catlin's Pierrots are still attracting great crowds. The concerted numbers again come in for much approval. The ability of Mr Charley Arnett as an eccentric comedian stands out prominently, his diverting efforts being immensely amusing. Mr H. C. Lovell looks after the business management courteously and capably.

SPENNYMOOR.

CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Harding Thomas; Resident Manager, Mr Herbert Vere.—The boards here are this week occupied by Mr Bert Wentworth's company, in That Woman From France. A special feature of the representation is the beautiful scenery. Miss Marie De Roos is an admirable and typical Camille Nichol, and as John Beaumont Mr Jerrold Heather is well placed. Mr H. Leonard Williams is responsible for an excellent rendering of Cecil Charrington, and Mr Annesley Hely is sufficiently villainous as Philip Charrington. Miss Evelyn Marrable gives an exceptionally fine rendering of Bert Stancliffe, Miss Lola Tempest is characteristic as Martha Williams, and Mr Bernard Dunstan as Latimer Louder and Miss Amy Maitland as Winnie Williams supply the comedy relief.

ST. HELENS.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED—Resident Manager, Mr M'Leod Loader.—What Became of Mrs Rackett is in possession here this week. The company, under the direction of Mr Charles R. Stone, is an exceedingly good one, conspicuous in the cast being Miss Edith Madelle, Mr Gerald Wyatt; Messrs E. Raymond, E. Oxlee, C. R. Stone; Misses Daisy Stone and Emily Kelsey.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs T. Barrasford, Will Sley, and F. Willmot.—Another first-class programme is being provided here by Miss Lottie Siegenberg in her original act, "The Lazy Slavey;" Atlas and Vulcana, athletes; Stewart and Morgan, in their speciality, Leaving Ireland; the Three Dagmars, acrobats; Harry Laybourne, double-voiced comedian; the Morrisons, comedy artists; Mr D. W. Watson, vocalist and cornet soloist; and Ben Harris's Nippers, in A Promising Pupil.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Weldon Watts; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr R. G. Elder.—Messrs E. Hill-Mitchelson and Harris Fineberg's company is here in The Traitor. The dual rôle of Prince Rudolph and Colonel Nervi is admirably played by Mr Wellesley Draper; Mr Stephen E. Scanlan doubles two important parts with great vigour and intensity; good comedy work is done by Mr Bernard Liell as General Hirtz and Mr Frank Southerland as Jack Boult; Mr Cyril Maitland's Captain Ross is worthy of favourable notice; Miss Georgette Thierry's Zula is clever; and Miss Lily Roselle's Countess Zicka is a fine dramatic portrait.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr J. Batty; Manager, Mr W. Batty.—We have here Janet Howard Reynolds, a very sweet soprano; Robins and Collier in The Photographer and the Lady; the Sisters Lunelle, nimble dancers; Agnes Krembser, lady juggler; George Edney, a good descriptive vocalist; Mark Melford and company in their funny sketch Non-Suited; the Manello and Marnitz Troupe of remarkable acrobats and equilibrists; and new pictures by Payne's Bioscope.

STOKE.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr P. Collins; Manager, Mr Frank Egerton.—The management is to be congratulated upon the excellence of this week's programme. At the head are the Imperial Russian singers and dancers, whose performance is indeed brilliant. May Lilian Levey is a dashing comedienne, with good songs and an admirable style; Howard and Harris, in their acrobatic dancing and contortions, are really clever; the Bros. Lloddge are good athletes and strong men; Harrigan and Holt are a pair of entertaining comedians; the Four Burgatiles, musical pantomimists, contribute a clever and novel turn; Reuben Hill sings his songs in an excellent manner; Lily Turner is a pleasing singer; and Will Lambert, in a smart musical turn, is much appreciated.

STOCKPORT.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Revill.—Bigamy has been here, and has been much appreciated. Mr Fred Moule's company is a capable one. Miss Eugenie Magnus as Diane De Courcelle acts with power and effect, and Miss Elsie Capell is charming as Sylvia Dresden. As Lilian Lambkin Miss Lydia Mannington is exceedingly pleasing; Mr Wilfred H. Benson plays ably and effectively as Lionel Craven; and Mr E. S. Earle is excellent as Edgar Craven. Mr Colin Hazlewood portrays Sir Charles Dresden admirably, and Mr Chas. Burdon gives a manly impersonation of Frank Merrivale.

SUNDERLAND.

AVENUE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. E. Machin; Acting-Manager, Mr Percival Craig.—Mr William Greet's company, in The Earl and the Girl, is visiting here this week. Mr Wm. Stephens as Jim Cheese infuses much life and vigour into the piece; Mr Percy Carr is a capital Dick Wargrave; and Mr Bertie White an amusing Crewe Boodle. A charming Elphin Haye is found in Miss Aimee Grey; Miss Dot Carey as 'Liza Shoddam is good; and Miss Florence Imeson is a success as Daisy Fallowfield. Mr William Walshe as A. Bunker Bliss, Mr Tom Redmond as Mr Hazell, Mr J. G. Graves as Mr Talk, and Miss Gladys Fontaine as Mrs Shimmering Black are equally good in their respective parts.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. E. Machin; Acting-Manager, Mr Percival Craig.—Mr George Daventry's drama, The Indian Mutiny, occupies the boards here this week. Mr Villiers Stanley as Nebu Sing, Mr Ernest Keand as Ra Goonga, Mr Fred Emery as Lieut. Manley, and Mr Johnny M'Elroy as Terry O'Brien deserve praise. Miss Maud Digby gives a capital representation of Ghuz-nah, and Miss Dora Moorhouse is commendable as Rama Goosh.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Brothers; Acting-Manager, Mr George V. Wybrow; Treasurer, Mr Alfred Browne.—Harry Rambler and his troupe, speciality jugglers, are at the top of bill this week. They give a fine performance, entitled Fun in a Paris Café. An excellent turn is that by Rowland Hill, "the curious comedian." The laughable farce The Order of the Bath, by Miss Lilith Leyton and Mr Bertram Star, is novel and interesting. Lavater and his educated dog Julius is another praiseworthy item.

SWANSEA.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons; Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Boyce.—The Seal of Silence, a powerful drama by C. Watson Mill, has been the attraction here, played by Mr B. Buckstone and J. K. Cox's company. Miss Gertrude Hunt was exceedingly good as Lilian Desbrooke; Captain Hedley Norman was capitally played by Mr George Langdon; the part of Geoffrey Merrington was in the capable hands of Mr E. H. Walton; and Dr. Mark Renwood was well played by Mr C. Arrol-Aldersyde. Mr Henry Lonsdale as Jack Ellerslie was soon a great favourite, and Little Violet Du Cane acted nicely as Victor. The play was well mounted.

NEW EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Albert Mitchell.—George Robey is droll and popular here; Mdlle. Marvelle and her well-trained macaws and cockatoos are warmly appreciated; Nat Travers, a clever coster comedian, does well; Miss Ethel Haydon is a charming vocalist; and Miss Minnie Cunningham, a refined and dainty Irish comedienne. Henri Abdy's Canine Circus is clever and popular; Miss Lilian Warren, pictorial songstress, is well received; Fred Lincoln, a capital comedian, is applauded; and Fred Harcourt, modern magician, wins appreciation.

SWINDON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Responsible Manager, Mr Alfred Manners; Acting-Manager, Mr W. B. Astin.—Zaza concluded a remarkably heavy week's business here on Saturday last with another crowded audience, and was followed on Monday by a visit from Miss Cissie Moxon's A Trip to Rum-Fum company, under the business-management of Mr J. H. Lynch. Despite a heavy downpour of rain, a crowded house was attracted by this amusing musical piece, cleverly stage-managed by Mr W. Garvey, who figured successfully and with much fun as Larry O'Hooligan. Mr W. S. Hutchinson did well as Biddy; Miss Cissie Moxon as Flossie Kixie was well received, at once making herself a favourite; Mr Jim Woods and Mr C. Russell caused some amusement in their respective parts; and Miss Kitty Jones proved a pleasing Peggy. The Terpsichorean efforts of the Saxon troupe of dancers were undoubtedly one of the strongest features of the piece, each item being deservedly encored.

WALLSEND.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, the Wallsend Theatre Company; Manager, Mr T. Richardson.—A Woman Adrift is the attraction here. Sir John Ingleby is excellently portrayed by Mr Leslie Beauford, and as Ferdinand Castro Mr Sanderson Moffat displays ability. Mr Charles Wilson is amusing as Jibbs; Miss Phyllis Hamilton impersonates Cora Leigh creditably; and Miss Violet Keand especially distinguishes herself in the rôle of Stella Ferdinand. Miss Phyllis Graham as Little Rupert Ingleby gives efficient help.

WALTHAMSTOW.

PALACE.—Managing Director, Mr G. Adney Payne; Manager, Mr Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr Geo. F. Slatter.—Mr Barclay has prepared a very attractive programme for patrons this week. The Peerless De Dio excites wonder and admiration in her creation "Terpsichore's Dream," one of those dazzling performances in which the dancing is subordinate to the clever manipulation of endless silk gauzes flooded with exquisite arrangements of lights. De Dio's graceful act of apparently flying through the air like a gigantic butterfly fairly holds the audience spell-bound. The Eugene Family are exceptionally elegant aerial gymnasts, and perform many very clever feats. The Lyons Trio are responsible for roars of laughter in their pantomimic absurdity, which finds its climax in a wild dance. Mr Ernest Ball gives a good account of his two songs, "The Fireman's Daughter" and "A Parson and a Man." Miss Dora Lyric sings agreeably, and Mr R. W. Bentley renders his songs with some quaint humour. The O'Malleys are a pair of funny pattering comedians. Mr Charles Cunningham with a small company creates a profound impression in Sutton Vane's interesting dramatic sketch V.C., which is capitally played by all concerned. The enchanting coon, Spot, provides a novel up-to-date scena, The Cake-walk Craze, which is well received. At both houses on Tuesday night there was put on an "extra turn" which deserves a special word of praise. A Ba-Be presents a series of living picture postcards, and nothing could well be prettier than the way in which the child poseuse realises the various pictures, including such widely different subjects as "Red Riding Hood" and "Homeless," "A Little Mother" and "The Chorister." At the back of the stage is an immense postcard album, the front board of which opens and discloses each tableau. The trial production at the Palace on Tuesday gave every indication of success.

KING'S THEATRE.—Miss Ada Wallis's company occupies the boards of this theatre for the present week with the musical absurdity, The Major, which is by no means a stranger to local playgoers. Mr T. C. M'Quire repeats his well-known representation of Major Barney O'Neale, and Miss Ada Wallis is still full of irrepressible spirits as Angelina. Mr Frank Hartley sings agreeably as George Goodman; Mr J. W. Groves gives a conscientious reading of Jeremiah Stoney; and Miss Alice Williams is good as Mrs Gampney.

WEDNESBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Harry Battersby; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Cranston.—On Monday Mr F. S. Gilbert's Grand English opera company opened here to a crowded audience with Maritana. Mr F. S. Gilbert as the famous Don Cæsar de Bazan scored with an excellent rendering, and as the Marquis Mr Stuart Bolton was loudly applauded. Miss Constance St. Bride in the rôle of Maritana delighted the audience with her charming voice, and as Lazarillo Miss C. Waldon was all that could be desired. Miss Kate White made an effective Marchioness, and Mr G. H. Price as the King of Spain was warmly appreciated. Il Trovatore, Faust, and The Bohemian Girl are also in the répertoire.

WEST BROMWICH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr J. P. Moore.—Mr Melville's drama A Girl's Cross Roads is being presented here this week. Miss Lily Hammersley, who fills the rôle of the heroine with great credit, receives ample support from Miss Kate Walfred, Misses Grace Adams and Flo Beatty. Miss Ethel Bracewell is also worthy of high commendation. Messrs Gaisford and Griffiths deserve notice, and Mr Will Corrie gives a good character study.

WALSALL.

Her Majesty's Theatre, Limited.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Mr Cecil Barth's company is here with An Actor's Romance. As Harold Davenport Mr Guy Hastings is very effective, and Mr Ernest Raston is successful as Robert Livingstone. Miss Alice Esden plays the sensational character, and is a great favourite. Miss Connie Leon as Dottie Dillingham, Mr E. H. Dobell as Charlie Cummings, and John Detliv as Valois are clever in the comedy portions of the piece, and Miss Annie Travers is responsible for a capable impersonation of Sal Wiggins. Mr Percy Marmont is satisfactory as Jack Woodford, and John Lennon is well represented by Mr Albert Wainwright. Miss Ada Dowsing plays charmingly as Phyllis, and as Louise Davenport Miss Bertha Northam deserves warm commendation.

Grand Theatre, Limited.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr W. H. Westwood.—Mr F. J. Webb and Wilson Benge's company in The Two Hussars are playing to good houses here.

WARRINGTON.

Royal Court.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter.—Messrs Atkin and Howe's company is doing excellent business here this week in A Victim of Villainy. Mr Walter Howe as Frank Manton displays histrionic abilities of a high order; Mr Lester plays with much power and intensity as Stephen Cavanagh; and Tom Leckie has a capital exponent in Mr Arthur Staples. Mr John Wybrett is well placed as Dr. Lennox, and as Walter Lennox Mr Leonard Howe scores a success. A typical policeman is Mr S. P. Pearce. Miss Eileen Concanen as Mary Manton gives a clever rendering of the part, and Miss Sophy Shenton as the warm-hearted Mrs Leckie submits a good character sketch. Miss Cissy Bezant as Eric is a clever juvenile; Miss Helena Walbran as Alice Cavanagh gives a telling performance; and Miss Nita Barton is successful as Vera Diamond. The staging is very effective.

Royal Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General Manager, Mr J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr F. Willmot.—Another capital list of artists is attracting good houses here this week, and Harry Edeon, with his wonderful dog, supplies an excellent novelty turn; and Merton and Rydon, vocal speciality artistes, score a big success. Joe Sheldon, club swinger; the Two Counties, coloured duettists; Harry Hayton, comedian; Victorian Trio of dancers; and Walter Emerson, comedian, complete a capital programme.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.

Grand.—General Manager (for Mrs Weldon Watts), Mr Fred Conneaux.—Mr E. St. Alban's opera company in Les Cloches de Corneville is drawing well-filled houses here. Mr Fowler Thatcher, who is announced to have played the part of Gobo no less than 2,300 times, is as good as ever in the rôle. Mr E. St. Alban still retains that of Gaspard, and does some fine acting. Mr Geo. A. Fox as the Marquis and Mdlle. Derlita as Germaine have also appeared with success, their artistic style and pleasing method winning favour. Miss Lucy Fitzroy is a vivacious Serpolette. Mr George Delaforce is capital as the Bailie, and Grenicheux and Christophe are in the safe hands of Mr Lawrence Wensley and Miss Norman.

Palace.—Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten.—The popularity which this house has attained under the new régime shows no signs of abatement. The principal attraction this week is a wonderful head acrobatic performance by the Borghettis, whose performance is gone through with remarkable precision and spirit. Charles Mildare is rapturously encored nightly for his wonderful imitations of numerous kinds of birds. The Bransbys are received with greater favour than ever. Adelina gives some wonderful representations of "famous faces," every character represented having accurate delineation. A strong attraction is the Maples, who earn a vociferous encore by their unique exhibition of song and dance, entitled "The Little Japs at Home." Ada Twibell, burlesque artiste; Palliser's Bioscope; Ted Young, comedian; and Sisters Morde, duettists and dancers, complete the company.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.

Knightstone Pavilion and Opera House.—Manager, Mr W. Payne.—Mr Norman V. Norman's répertoire company is this week paying us a return visit with Under the Red Robe. Mr Norman gives a remarkably clever and powerful interpretation of Gil de Berault, his acting being thrilling and artistic; Miss Beatrice Wilson's impersonation of Renée de Cocheforêt is an excellent one, and she exhibited exceptional histrionic ability; as Richelieu Mr Robert Hilton merits high praise; quite successful is Mr Robert J. Danson as Capt. Larolle; Mr J. Forrest (Marquis de Pombal), Mr Reginald J. Croft (Sir Thomas Brunt), and Mr B. Iden Payne (Clon) are admirable exponents of their respective characters; Miss Kathleen Rind is commendable as Madame de Cocheforêt; and Miss Lilian Kevill Davies does well as Madame Zaton.

Grand Pier Pavilion.—The Follies are attracting good audiences here this week, the varied programme submitted being much appreciated. Miss Ethel Allandale was much applauded for her singing of "Mother's Maxims," and Miss Lucy Webling was well received with her American child stories, "Come and hear the cricket sing," was delightfully rendered by Miss Marjorie Napier. Mr Lewis Sydney gave a clever musical sketch, and Mr Dan Everard was heard to advantage with "Last night I dreamt." Mr H. G. Pellissier is a talented comedian, his topical song, "What a very nice world it would be," gaining a hearty encore. Herr Julian Kandt's Austrian Blue Band is a "draw," and the pictures shown by the American biograph are much admired.

Victoria Hall.—Manager, Mr E. W. Sully.—Mr Albert Chevalier's annual visit is always looked forward to with delight. A large audience assembled here on Tuesday, and showed by their enthusiasm how they appreciated the popular entertainer. Mr Alfred H. West's pianoforte solo was loudly encored; Miss Tresilian Davy sang "Poor wand'ring one" effectively; and Mr Isidor Marcille rendered "The Diver" in artistic style.

WHITBY.

Spa Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr Henry Walker.—Mr George Edwardes's company, in San Toy, appeared at this theatre on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, crowded houses being present upon each occasion. The drolleries of Mr Alfred Beers as the wily Li created much amusement and elicited frequent plaudits; as Capt. Bobby Preston Mr Edward Sherras was highly successful, his vocal efforts being well received; the pas seul by Miss Beatrice Gradella evoked considerable applause; Fo-Hop was finely and effectively portrayed by Mr Clinton Reynold; and Mr Cliffe Davies gave a clever rendering of the rôle of the Emperor. As Sir Bingo Preston Mr G. J. Williams left nothing to be desired; Mr Walter B. Wright portrayed the rôle of Lieut. Harvey Tucker with excellent effect; and Mr Alfred W. Clark as Yen-How earned well-deserved appreciation. In the title-part Miss Dot Harradine was a conspicuous success. Miss Mabel Lavelle as Poppy, Miss Florence Arnold as Dudley, and Miss Beatrice Gradella all gave clever performances of their parts. The staging was excellent, and there was a very capable chorus.

WORTHING.

Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr A. B. Dixon.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr Mark Blow's company is here this week with Lord and Lady Algy. Mr Mark Blow as Lord Algernon Chetland is really excellent; Miss May Pardoe as Lady Algernon Chetland gives a very fine portrayal; and the remaining characters are exceedingly well placed. The Prisoner of Zenda was to be presented on Thursday.

WHITEHAVEN.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Clark.—Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr Fred C. Summerfield's company is the attraction here this week in the romantic drama A Life's Revenge. The company is a strong one, and the scenery and dresses are elaborate. Mr Summerfield is prominent by his acting of the part of Prince Strogoroff, and Mr J. F. Traynor (a local gentleman) is warmly applauded for his fine portrayal of Paul. Mr Walter Roberts as Michael Orloff is excellent, and Mr Pringle Roberts is seen to advantage as Maurice. Miss Dagmar as Princess Vanda both looks and acts well, and Miss Katherine Eckhart is good as Marcia. The humorous element is in the able hands of Mr G. Doyle as Clarence and Miss May Davis as Daphne Dashaway.

WIGAN.

Royal Court Theatre.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr John Worswick.—Large and delighted houses have witnessed during the week Mr Frank Curzon's Glittering Gloria. The absurdity has been presented under the direction of Messrs Charles Williams and Phillip Glynn, from Wyndham's Theatre. Glittering Gloria is very vivaciously represented by Miss Eva Bertram, and Miss Lillian Williams, Miss Dorothy Dunn, and Miss Mary Bune assume the other lady characters in sprightly and thorough fashion. Mr Ernest Percy as Gallagher and Mr Gerald Clark as the Colonel's secretary are quaint and original. Mr John Campbell as Jack James, Mr S. Arthur as Toddleby, and Mr Haughton Macaulay as Posket contribute extravagantly to the fun which rolls on impetuously from start to finish of the piece. The Roltz, American dancers, give a clever exhibition of their art.

Grand Theatre and Hippodrome.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Company; Managing-Director, Mr J. Worswick.—Tschernoff's horses and dogs perform many remarkable feats, and are quite a novel and greatly-appreciated turn this week. Terry and Lambert create uproarious amusement in their rehearsal of "family jars" in the lower walks of life. The Sisters Redfern as banjoists, &c., are very smart; and E. W. Selman and Bob Pearson, comedians, contribute some good funny business. Oasi Souplessi, aerial serpent; Lily Pender, comedienne; Gus Barra, musical motorist; and Pauline Zaza, comedienne, are all well received. The Five Olracs, comedy acrobats, are a special feature of an especially good programme.

WINDSOR.

Theatre Royal, Limited.—Governing Director, Mr Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr Harry E. Rickett.—Having played Money Makes the Man and No Escape here last week, Mr Coleman Davies is this week presenting the sensational American melodrama The Unknown; or, the River Mystery. There are five acts, and the play bristles with strong, stirring situations on land, sea, and river. The staging is excellent, and the whole production admirable, the company as a whole displaying judgment and ability. Mr Archer Terry in the titular rôle (as Harry Merrybright) responds well to the requirements of the part, especially in the scene in which he is regaining his distorted reason after cruel incarceration in a lunatic asylum. Mr W. Vincent Carlyle as Arnold Tyson, a lawyer, and one of the arch-conspirators, is strikingly successful. Mr W. A. Stanton does well as Albert Stormking, a naval lieutenant, and Mr Coleman Davies presents an excellent impersonation of the stalwart, faithful old sailor, Jack Salt. Mr E. Meebar, Mr T. Royd, and Mr Syd Lyons are also in the cast. Miss Evelyn Clare in the character of Bessie Merrybright, an heiress, stands out conspicuously by her finished and delicate acting; Miss May Neilson obtains well-deserved applause and encores as the merry, cute Cockney lad, Jimmy; and Miss Eunice Udall has a prominent and diverting part in Louise, a maid engaged to Pat (Mr T. Royd). The play has been well received throughout the week.

WOKING.

Public Hall.—Manager, Mr Joseph Lewis.—The season opened here on Monday night with Daventry's military drama The Indian Mutiny, presented by Miss Maggie Morton's No. 1 company. This stirring play has evidently lost none of its attractive powers. Miss Adeline Randall as a Brahmin Priestess gave a very fine reading. Mr Sydney Grant as Nebu Singh was highly successful, and Mr Walter Cooke gained much favour as Ra Goonga. Mr Joseph Magrath evoked much laughter as the Irish body servant. Mr Geoffrey Chate was good as Lieut. Manley. Mr W. S. Collins as Major Ingleby, Miss May Dene as the wife, Miss Dorothy Greaves as the daughter, and Mr E. H. Day as the Khan were all successful.

WORCESTER.

New Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager Mr Arthur Carlton; General Manager, Mr Louis Karpe; Assistant-Manager, Mr Albert J. Lewis.—The patrons of this house are being regaled this week with melodrama, Mr Milton Bode's company being accorded a hearty welcome on Monday in their production of Woman and Wine. Miss Edith Blande takes the part of Marcel, and gives a powerful interpretation of a callous and reckless woman. In striking contrast to Marcel is the Mary Andrews of Miss Ernestine Holker. Dick Seymour has a capital exponent in Mr Frank Robertson, and another notable piece of acting is that of Mr Fred Mare as the old and blind artist, especially in the pathetic passages. The lighter element is well sustained by Miss Muriel Vox (Janet) and Mr Percy Dawson (Charles), and Mr Herbert Landeck is very good as Caliban. The piece is well mounted, and some dances by the Edene Troupe constitute a pleasant interlude.

WORKINGTON.

Queen's Opera House.—Lessee, Mr Coates F. Porter.—On Monday A Chinese Honeymoon was presented to a crowded and appreciative audience. The piece was beautifully mounted. Mr L. Carey was good as the Emperor and sang with effect. Mr Percy Stephens as the Lord Chancellor was effectively obsequious; Mr T. Birch was satisfactory as Hi-Lung; the part of Mr Pineapple in the hands of Mr Geo. P. Ascot was exceedingly well played, creating roars of laughter; and Miss Dorothy Payne was charming as Mrs Pineapple. Miss Cissie Schofield as Fi-fi was equally successful. Miss Mamie Finbow scored successfully in the part of Soo-Soo, her singing being excellent.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr Helsby Wright.—Mr S. F. Cody's Klondyke Nugget opened on Monday to a good house and caused enthusiastic applause. Mr Edward Leroy as Sam gave a capital representation; Mr Vivian Cody as Joe Smith was clever; and a picturesque portrayal was Waco in the hands of Mr Leon Cody. Mr Bob Thorpe was quite satisfactory as Bill Sykes.

YORK.

Royal.—Lessees, Messrs Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr T. H. Barrow.—In Dahomey is a musical hotch-potch exactly suited to the patrons of the York races, who have been crowding the theatre nightly. All the members of the company are accomplished artistes. Special mention must be made of Messrs Dan Avery and Charles Hart, who, as the two detectives, cause roars of laughter, their business being as funny as it is clever. The mounting of the play is a special feature, and the dresses are tasteful.

Opera House and Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr Sidney Brooke.—Our old friends Downes and Langford are well received in their special line; the George Bonhair Gregory Troupe of acrobats are wonderfully clever; and Alethea also gives a refined gymnastic performance. Pete and Juno, dancers; Herbert Maden; Joe Archer; Andy Fagan; and Lily Marney, a comedienne of much ability, complete the bill.

A SHOWMAN NATURALIST.

Showmen have often been pioneers in natural history investigation. Mr Farini, with his travels in the Kalahari desert, affords one case in point; and another is the exhibitor of the last generation, Van Hare, who in his memoirs gives a graphic description of the way in which he procured a young gorilla to train as a tight-rope dancer and acrobat. Says Van Hare in his account of his hunting in the Gaboon district:—

"We arranged to move our camp down by the forest, which we had left the previous night, as that was on our way to the Fan town where we were going. I said I supposed that was another African high road.

"The next morning we had an early breakfast, struck our camp, and moved to our new camping-ground. We pitched upon a suitable place, started for a day's hunt, and soon found more fresh gorilla tracks, which we followed up for four or five hours, when we came upon two young ones. I should say, from what I could see of them, they were half-grown, as they were more active than the adults, for they very quickly disappeared in the thick underbush. We got a long shot at them, but I question if we touched a hair of their bodies. We followed them up, beating the bush until towards evening, but never caught sight of them again. On leaving the forest we came across a herd of wild hogs, and bagged two of them. We had then something for the pot if we had had nothing in the camp, but we had no fear of starvation there, having been left well provisioned. We hurried up to camp and had fresh pork for dinner, which my cannibal friend did not object to—a proof that the Fans were not Jews.

"The following morning we all started out, only leaving two Niggers in charge of the camp. Our cannibal friend was armed to the teeth, carrying his spears in one hand, and his big shield in the other, and a very large knife or cutlass hanging over his shoulder, and, with the exception of charms and fetishes hung round his neck, he was about as naked as Adam.

"We proceeded to the thickest and most impenetrable part of the forest where we left off the previous night. We found fresh gorilla tracks. We followed them up, creeping through the bush as quiet as possible, for some four or five hours, when we heard the peculiar shrill bark of gorillas, also the soft chuckle of some juvenile of the family. All the men were struck with terror at hearing a number of the ferocious animals, for one was quite enough for them to tackle at a time. We crept on without a whisper from any of the fellows, all in the greatest awe; some of the Niggers positively turned pale.

"At last we got a full sight of a male and female gorilla sitting by an immense tree with a huge and hollow trunk. There they were close together, like Darby and Joan, conversing over their family affairs, or perhaps the old woman reading him a curtain lecture, and the young one playing about, eating ground-nuts, all quite unconscious of being surrounded by enemies. There was no time to be lost in looking and pitying them in their happy state of ignorance.

"I let my two courageous hunters, Yongyong and Mongogomo, have the first shot, one selecting the male and the other the female for their mark, I keeping my ammunition for self-defence, thinking that it was too long a shot to make sure of a kill. They both fired. The female crawled into the bush, the young one following its mother; the old male rose upon his legs, looking most ferocious. He stepped forward a few paces, stood looking round in a bewildered manner, then threw up his right arm, giving a tremendous roar and beating his breast. I could see he had been winged; he had only got one arm. He had caught sight of us and moved again. Most of the fellows ran off, but my cannibal friend stuck to me like a brick; the two hunters were reloading. I did not feel the least timid; I had got used to gorilla hunts, and felt as indifferent as if I was going to shoot a midden fowl. He came a few steps nearer, swinging his arm and grinding his teeth; I thought he had got quite close enough to be comfortable. He gave another of his terrible roars. As he raised his leg for another move I took a deadly aim, and shot him in the heart. He fell forward, struggled and rolled over upon his back, grinding his teeth, and died like a Christian.

"All the Niggers rushed up, determined to be in at the roast if they ran away from the kill. We then went to look after the old female. We found her dead, and the young one fondling over her, but the underbush was so thick we could not throw the net over the young one, and it ran further into the bush, so we brought the mother away into the open space, and laid her near the old male, and hid behind the trees. We waited for some time; at last the young one came creeping very cautiously from the bush. It looked first at its dead father, but, evidently having most affection for its mother, left him and went to the mother, making a most pitiable lamentation. It cuddled and kissed her as a child would its mother, took hold of her hand, as if to pull her up. We all surrounded it and threw the net over the mother and young one, and after a great deal of struggling, one Nigger receiving a severe bite in the thick part of the arm, and others getting numerous scratches (for it was a most savage little wretch—we had never met with one half so vicious), at last I got a collar on it, with a good chain, put what was left of my old coat over its head, and tied its arms and legs safe with the net, so that they could carry it without being bitten or scratched, and started off for the camp, leaving sufficient men to bring the two corpses.

"Of course the Niggers had to have their usual dance and song of praise to something for their great luck, so we left them to it and hurried away with our young prize. When we got to the camp we untied it and put it into a cage by itself, for it was so savage and wild in its manners I durst not put it with the little female. I found it was a very fine male; I should think it was nearly five years old, with a cast in one eye. I then put the cages opposite each other. They seemed to fraternise with each other, as if they had met before in the forest.

"The men arrived with the dead father and mother, and I examined them very minutely. The male was a monstrous beast, very nearly seven feet in height, with an immense chest, and a muscle on his arms and legs like a Roman gladiator, and enormous tusks. The female was a foot shorter, but a fine muscular animal. I must confess that a feeling of repentance came over me for having taken such a cowardly advantage of the two noble creatures, and thought if they only went in organised companies, as we were, they would make short work of their enemies. I have never seen them but in pairs, which satisfied one that they were not polygamists, like their Negro countrymen."

The Town Hall, Herne Bay, was crowded on Wednesday to witness the comic opera La Poupée, played by the Ben Greet company. The piece was accorded a most enthusiastic reception. Mr Bert Danson was very droll indeed as Hilarius, and played with unflagging zeal throughout. He was well supported by Mr Algernon Lee, a very capable Launcelot, Miss Margaret Ainsworth as Madame Hilarius, and Miss Eva Ellis as Henri. Miss Cissie Wade was admirable as Alesia, her singing being much appreciated, and her doll-like movements were most realistic. Mr Stanley White gave one of the best representations of Baron Chanterelle that we have seen, and was ably supported by Mr A. Bishop as Loremois. Mr J. Brüll was an excellent Father Maxime. The piece was well put on under the management of Mr Stanley White.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1904
"The Era" Annual for the current year preserves all the features which have made it popular among actors and actresses in the past—short stories, some of them very good and some of them not so good, by well-known entertainers, countless photographs, and a list of plays produced during the year which should make it useful to students of stage history. It is a sign of the times that Omar Khayyam should be quoted on the first page of the almanack.—Morning Post, Jan. 23d.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1904.
"The Era" Annual, 1904, contains, as usual, many items and statistics of use and interest to all connected with the stage, and, in addition, a number of sketches and short stories by leading artistes, managers, and others. Among the contributors are J. L. Toole, Dan Leno, George R. Sims, George Robey, Huntley Wright, Harry Randall, Bransby Williams, A. W. Pinero, Louie Freear, Little Tich, George Mozart, and Douglas Orichton. The publication is cheap at a shilling.—Birmingham Daily Gazette, Jan. 16th, 1904

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED, Known, Wanted, Known, Gloucester Great Barton Fair, Sept. 28 and 29, and Mops, Monday, Oct. 3 and 10.
Mr Jacob Studt, has been appointed by the Mayor and Corporation of Gloucester Sole Lessee of the above Fairs and Mops, which will be held in the well-situated Corporation Grounds, near Westgate-bridge. The Grounds are high and dry, and will be well ashed.
Electric Cars run to the Gates.
Steam and Pleasure Boats also run up the River, right to the Ground.
Monster Attractions will be provided.
Free Aerial Sights and Open-air Performances.
No Expense will be spared to make this the Greatest and Most Successful Fair ever held in Gloucester.
Spaces to Let for Roundabouts, Menageries, Cinématographs, Shows, Swings, Shooting Galleries, Cocoanut Sheets, and all kinds of Amusements.
Fellow Travellers Note.—The Electric Cars will run continuously down Barton-street on each of above days, making it impossible for any reasonable size standing to be in the street.
Don't forget, the Fair, which was fast being abolished, will now be revived in all its glory, as it never has been before.
Spaces, which are rapidly filling up, will be Let according to application. Persons requiring Ground state full particulars in first letter, and apply at once to Sole Lessee, by appointment,
JACOB STUDT,
World's Fair, Swindon.

WANTED, Known, Gloucester Barton Fair and Mops will be held in the Old and Original Fair Ground, Wildman Ground, Barton-street, Gloucester, where there are still a few Spaces to Let for Side Shows. This Ground is where Barton Fair has always been held. Clean, high, and dry, and does not need ashes put on it for the health and comfort of the people. Note.—Fellow Travellers and Showmen, don't be misled. Gloucester Fair and Mops have not been abolished yet from the street. Wake up, and look after your own interest. Once removed, gone for ever, as far as Barton Fair is concerned. Showmen and Stallholders, look to this matter at once, and meet the Mayor and Corporation of Gloucester as Gentlemen, and ask them, and the People, and the Inhabitation of the Town if they wish this old, ancient custom of our forefathers done away with, that has been kept up for so many years, and is the means of bringing thousands of people into this town, and if so make a clean sweep of the whole thing, not do it in a piecemeal way, a little at a time. Let us ask the Corporation to find us a suitable healthy fair ground for travelling people and the public—not on a meadow that is subject to the flood in bad weather and ground that is made up of street sweepings, and would need tons of ashes to keep out of the mud in wet weather. It's well known to most showmen it's been impossible for some years past to stand in Barton-street with any exhibition any size. Don't forget, when the fair is once removed it has gone for ever, has Barton Fair. Anyone requiring Ground can have same by applying to W. SYMONDS, the Pioneer of the Amusement World. Address as per route, Castle Carey, Sept. 25, 26, and 27; Shepton Mallet till Sept. 8; Glastonbury to follow.

WANTED, Known, Ground to Let, for Shows, Side Shows, Stalls, &c., for Folkestone Fair, commencing Sept. 15, until Oct. 4; also to follow on Canterbury Great Pleasure Fair, commencing Oct. 7, until Oct. 22, in the Agricultural Hall, and Field adjoining Hall, one Space in Hall, 30ft. by 30ft.

NEW WARWICK FILMS.

THE LATEST NEWS.

A gentleman with very fine facial expression discovers something in a newspaper. By the ingenious method of moving letters, the "something" is announced to the audience—that "Bill Baily has come home." The picture concludes with the punishment of the gentleman for perpetrating such a chestnut. A splendid film for concluding a programme.

Length, 60ft. Price, £1 5s.

THE KIDDIES AND THE RABBITS.

A most interesting and laughable film, showing the friendly relations between some very small children and a crowd of sociable rabbits. Appreciated everywhere.

Length, 100ft. Price, £2 10s.

SOURS AND SWEETS.

Very comical picture, showing that even a baby, however young, can distinguish between a piece of chocolate and a lemon. Facial expression is most beautiful.

Length, 100ft. Price, £2 10s.

HOLBEIN SWIMMING IN THE CHANNEL.

A very fine animated portrait of this celebrated swimmer, taken from a tug in mid-Channel. Shows his method of feeding while in the water, the various strokes used by him whilst swimming, and the curious mask with which his face is covered to prevent the beating of the waves.

Length, 150ft. Price, £3 15s.

NEW ELGE FILMS.

MORE COMICS WITH POINTS.

We wish to particularly call the attention of exhibitors to the very fine selection of new pictures which we now have at their disposal.

Many of the films which we are now issuing will, we feel confident, MAKE HISTORY, and it therefore behoves those who wish to keep "at the top of the profession" to see these pictures without delay. Those who see will purchase.

Our August Elgé List will be ready on Monday next, and will contain full particulars of all our latest pictures.

No. 198. THE BABY SHOW.

Fat babies, lean babies, black babies, white babies—in fact, all kinds of kiddies, some cheery and others surly. They do not all obtain first prize, but they all deserve it. That, at any rate, is their "mummies'" opinion.

Length, 150ft. Price, £3 15s.

No. 200. THE FATAL WIG.

A maiden fair, past the first bloom of youth, resorts to artifice in the hopes of renewing her charms. But, youth will be served, and while the damsel is making a hit with her Sunday boy, some children on the other side of the garden wall procure their pa's fishing-rod, and hook a wig at a moment when the infatuated pair are locked in each other's arms.

Length, 118ft. Price, £2 19s.

No. 203. THREE LITTLE MAIDS.

Illustrating the adventures of three pretty little tomboys, who play truant for the day, and get up to all sorts of mischief. One of the funniest, and certainly the daintiest picture ever taken.

Length, 215ft. Price, £5 12s. 6d.

No. 222. STEWED MISSIONARY.

The adventures of the Rev. Mr. Dogood in the Cannibal Islands.

Length, 165ft. Price, £4 2s. 6d.

No. 193. WILFUL MURDER; or, A WOODLAND TRAGEDY.

No. 649.

THE LOVER'S CRIME.

A scene of jealousy and sudden rage. A violent act bitterly repented when too late, and a hurried flight from justice, ending, after many exciting adventures, in the capture of the criminal.

The first scene is laid in a pretty country lane where a young lady is keeping an appointment with her jealous and passionate lover. He upbraids her with inconstancy, and she gets angry and tears up a letter which he has written to her, and flings the pieces in his face. Then she pulls the engagement ring from her finger and throws it on the ground, and tells her jealous lover that she will have nothing more to do with him. Enraged past all bearing, the lover suddenly pulls a revolver from his pocket and shoots his sweetheart dead. He repents his hasty action all too late, but he quickly sees that nothing can be done but hide, if possible, the traces of his crime and endeavour to escape the consequences. He takes the lifeless girl up in his arms and seeks round for a place to hide her. At the foot of a haystack near at hand he lays her gently down and covers her with loose hay. But already the sound of the shot has attracted a couple of policemen to the place, and the guilty lover has only just time to climb a ladder on to the top of the stack before a policeman arrives hot-footed on the scene.

The hasty concealment of the body has been badly done and is quickly discovered. The policeman runs up the ladder and accidentally knocks it over behind him. And then commences a chase which waxes both hot and furious before the murderer is finally run to earth. There is a terrible struggle on the top of the haystack and a wild leap for life by the criminal. The policeman tumbles from the top, but recovering himself he pulls himself together, and joined by another constable rushes off after the escaping man. Through copse and thicket, over stony roads, he runs with the policemen in full pursuit. At one quiet spot he doubles suddenly on his immediate pursuer, and flinging him to the ground gains a fresh start. Soon he comes to a high brick wall, which in his exhausted state is almost too much for him, but he manages to scale it just before the policemen arrive. He is hard pressed now and he finds himself at the banks of the river. He crosses the weir over the rushing, boiling water, his pursuers close at his heels, and then as a last resource he takes to the water.

One of his pursuers, however, is an expert swimmer, and he dashes in after the fugitive. After an exciting struggle in mid-stream, a severe ducking for the murderer proves too much for his plucky resistance, and, half-drowned, he is dragged ashore, handcuffed, and marched to justice.

Length, 300ft. Price, £6 5s.

AUTUMN TOURS.

WE ARE NOW VERY BUSY CLEANING DRESSES FOR AUTUMN TOURS,
but have plenty of room, and, like Oliver Twist,
WE ASK FOR MORE.

We are also very busy Cleaning and Renovating Tableaux Curtains and Draperies from London and Country Theatres and Music Halls.

We still hold the field as Cleaners and Dyers to the Theatrical and Music Hall Professions. This fact is clearly proved by the unsolicited testimonials we are continually receiving.

Professional Work takes Precedence over all other orders.

By Special Arrangement,

TOURING MANAGERS

can have their Wardrobes Cleaned between Shows, when in or near London.

T. HARRIS, Manager.

COPY OF MR COLE'S LETTER.

Yarmouth, Aug. 10.

My Dear Mr Harris,—

Very many thanks for your wire. I would have replied only was, as you can imagine, very busy. We managed to open all right, as you are, no doubt, aware, and every thing went off splendidly.

I cannot thank you enough for all the trouble you took on our behalf, and but for your prompt action I am certain we could not have opened on Monday.

With kindest regards and again many thanks,

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) HORACE COLE,

AN ARCHITECT ON THE STAGE.

Mr Alfred Darbishire, F.I.B.A., in his "Experiences," gives an amusing account of his appearance on the stage of the Theatre Royal, Hereford, then a very different house from the present one. He says: —"On a beautiful Whitsuntide morning we arrived at the Old London Road Station, and to our horror the package of costumes was not to hand. Just as we were taking our seats, a quaint old costumier of the name of Tyrer turned up with many apologies, producing the 'togs.' We were soon deep in our parts, and rehearsed them during the whole of the journey. After passing Shrewsbury town, and during the run to Ludlow, we disrobed and got into our acting costumes. I shall never forget the consternation of the porters at the latter station when they beheld the strange spectacle; I believe they thought we were 'two wandering lunatics,' for the guard locked both the carriage doors; and, on arriving at Hereford, he was astonished to find us clothed and in our right minds, as we thanked him kindly for securing the carriage for our own special use. Under any other circumstances our first thoughts would have been for the Cathedral; but we had no eyes for anything but the long streamers on the walls, bearing these startling announcements: 'Othello to night, Mr Charles Addison;' 'Cassio to-night, Mr Frank Howard.' Other posters declared in big letters that on this occasion, being the manager's benefit, Othello would be performed with the aforesaid gentlemen in the cast, 'both of the Theatre Royal, Manchester.' This announcement made me nervous; but my companion burst into an uncontrollable fit of laughter, remarking that it was 'just like Whitehead to "star" us in that style.'

"Arrived at the Theatre Royal, the rehearsal began in earnest, and a curious experience it was. Nobody but Iago seemed to know his part, and the 'heavy' man sulked and growled all through. The scenery reminded one of the 'blood and thunder' shows at a fair. There were a few properties, consisting of chairs and tables, and when we mildly asked where so-and-so was we were informed in the most light-and-airy manner that he was 'cut out.' The company was so small that they had to 'double' in order to mount the piece at all. When that rehearsal was ended I felt so depressed that I wanted to take the first train home. What a destruction to the castle building I had indulged in! What a sacrilege to treat the great master's work in such a manner! To rouse our spirits the manager took us over the cathedral, and treated us to a copious draught of cider at the first hostelry we came to. Whilst there the 'heavy' man entered, and, putting on a tragic air, exclaimed to the landlord, 'Simpson, it is now a long time since you said to me, "Bertram, will you have a glass of beer?"' to which the landlord remarked that that period of time would probably be considerably extended. It was evident that Bertram had not been a strict teetotaler during the day, and the manager quaked as he thought of the Duke of Venice and Lodovico of the evening. He whispered in my ear that the man was annoyed at our coming, and advised me to be civil to him.

"The dreadful evening arrived. The house was packed from floor to ceiling, and the summer heat was almost intolerable. Our dressing-room was reached by a ladder from a back yard, and, I believe, was a hayloft hastily arranged for the occasion. Othello, Cassio, Iago, and Lodovico shared this adjunct to the temple of the drama. I had arrayed myself in my Moorish costume, and was creating the dusky hue before a large mirror, when I caught the reflection of the striking form of Bertram vainly endeavouring to pull on his 'tights.' At the same moment my image caught his sight—from that moment Othello was doomed. His first exclamation, in a deep, sepulchral, thick voice, struck the keynote of the situation: 'Where on earth did you get that make-up from? It looks just like the Turkey rhubarb merchant on London-bridge!' Quite true; there was no mistake about it. Yet the thing could not be altered, and Othello made his first entrance with this horrid thought in his swarthy bosom. Fortunately the audience were not impressed with the same notion, and the burst of applause which greeted the Manchester 'star' drove the rhubarb idea from my mind. All went well till the great scene where the Moor appears before the Duke and his Court to answer the charges of Brabantio for charming away his daughter. From the wing we saw the noble Duke assisted to his throne by two 'supers,' and the acting edition coolly laid open before him on the table. Brabantio exclaims, 'My daughter! O, my daughter!' The Senator exclaims, 'Dead?'

BRABANTIO: Ay, to me;
She is abus'd, stol'n from me, and corrupted
By spells and medicines bought of mountebanks;
For nature so preposterously to err—
Being not deficient, blind, or lame of sense—
Sans witchcraft could not——

"Then to our horror, the deep, husky voice of the Duke was heard to enquire: 'What, not with rhubarb?' It would be impossible to describe the effect produced on the stage. The diabolical grin of that noble Duke haunts me still. Those Senators shook with suppressed laughter; and Michael Cassio, who stood beside me at the footlights, fairly turned on his heel, and fled the scene. Fortunately the audience did not see the joke; the rhubarb seemed part of the drugs and charms, and just as the curtain was about to descend, I started off in a fit of passion with 'Most potent, grave, and reverend signiors,' and thereby prevented the collapse of the Tragedy.

"We worked through to the fourth act, during which time the Duke of Venice, after desperate efforts, exchanged his robes for the simple dress appropriate to Lodovico. It was with the greatest difficulty that the latter character got on to the stage with the papers from the Duke and Senate. I snatched them from him whilst a slight hissing came from the audience; then, retiring up the stage to peruse the papers, still keeping my eye on the impertinent messenger, I heard the gentle Desdemona say, 'And what's the news, good Lodovico?' The answer came with a leer at myself, 'Rhubarb's cheap.' This fairly aroused the audience into a fit of frenzy. To save a catastrophe, I cut the speech short, ending with the words, 'I do entreat that we may sup together.' Then came the climax: 'Thank ye. Will there be any Turkey rhubarb?'

"I shall never forget the scene that followed. Iago (poor Henry Drayton) seized the wretched Lodovico by the collar, and hurled him off the boards. It is needless to say that he fell with a fearful crash into the scenery, and the curtain descended amidst the yells of the exasperated audience. How I got through the last two acts is a mystery. I think anger carried me through, for I remember Desdemona (Mrs Henry Drayton) struggled under the pillows, and she afterwards informed me she was afraid I was really going to crush the breath out of her. We wound up that disastrous evening with a supper, but my mind never fairly recovered the shock. I was cured of my craving for histrionics. The stage-struck youth who entered that theatre full of high hope left it in disgust, and returned to his legitimate avocation, a sadder but a wiser man."

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.—All suffering from irritation of the throat and hoarseness will be agreeably surprised at the almost immediate relief afforded by the use of Brown's Bronchial Troches. People troubled with a hacking cough, a slight cold, or bronchial affections cannot try them too soon, as similar troubles, if allowed to progress, result in serious pulmonary and asthmatic affections. ABERDEEN.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; General Manager, Mr Eade Montefiore; Acting-Manager, Mr H. C. Cavanah.—The New Housemaid is here this week. Mr Ralph Roberts plays very cleverly in the leading part; Miss Ethel Carlyon gives a delightful portraiture of Dulcie; and Mrs Mallalieu as Caroline contributes genuine amusement. Miss Ella Edgar is highly successful as Nellie Hadock; Miss Pattie Elliot as the lady novelist is good; and Miss Madge Haines makes a creditable appearance as the cook. Mr Somers Bellamy as Peter Pinkerton; Mr Ashley as Arthur, his nephew; Mr Calvert as the Rev. Stephen Singleton; and Mr Costello as the butler do capital work, and a good deal is made of the burlesque of Sherlock Holmes by Mr Pan E. Draco.

PALACE THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Ernest Sheldon.—Messrs Cooke and Clinton give a remarkable display of shooting here; and Miss Lilith Leyton receives an ovation in her humorous sketch The Order of the Bath, in which she is effectively supported by Mr Bertram Steer. A Quiet Night is the title of an amusing sketch presented by W. Onda and company; the Pueblo Brothers contribute a very smart turn; and the Marvellous Ondas are received with warm appreciation. Miss Daisy Morell gives fine renderings of popular songs, and the Mackenzie Family, vocalists and dancers, merit the hearty applause they receive. The Sisters Charnley are popular vocalists, and an interesting entertainment is concluded with an exhibition of pictures by the Palace Bioscope.

ABERTILLERY.

THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. W. Ventom; Stage-Manager, Mr Fred Thomas.—On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week Messrs Geo. Mitchell and John Belton's company favoured us with a return visit of the sensational drama The Conscript. Mr Geo. Mitchell in the rôle of Karl Truevitch was powerful; Mr W. Spinner as Ivan Manloff was easy and natural; as Count Paul Hardiski Mr F. H. Constable portrayed cleverly the brutal instincts of the part; Mr John Belton as Dor Doggervitch was excellent; Mr Frank Lilliput as Tretch Tretoff and Miss Ivy Chandos as Wanda also did well. Real dramatic force was evident in the Nadia Truevitch of Miss Mary Dawson; and as Little Karl Miss Elsie Baston displayed ability, her songs being quite a feature. Miss Maud Ranford played feelingly as Dame Katinka.

ALDERSHOT.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Williams.—Professor Crocker's educated horses are here. They go through many marvellously clever evolutions, and greatest credit is reflected on the Professor for the splendid training he has given to his twenty-five intelligent animals, whose efforts are heartily applauded.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Fairbairn.—The Mockery of Marriage is a drama of which little need be said at this time, because it has been here before. The members of Miss Olga Audre's company prove themselves capable of the work allotted to them. Miss Florence Zillwood has the arduous rôle of the deserted wife to sustain, and she fulfils all the requirements of the character. Mr Arthur Winpenny in the part of the villain, Dick Kenyon, is brutal and vicious enough, and as his courageous and manly rival Mr H. Stebbing gains favour and sympathy. Miss L. Audrey acts her part with feeling, and Mrs Sidney Halling as Mary Ann is responsible, along with Mr Will Skelton as Toby, for many humorous sallies. Messrs Dalton, Grahame, Little Kate, and the Four Aces greatly contribute to the success.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Chas. Revill; Director of Entertainments, Mr F. Willmot.—This week's list of artists includes Atlas and Vulcana, in their astonishing feats. Vulcana is especially fine in her classical poses. Professor Gilbert introduces a troupe of trained dogs and cats. Eccentric comedy is cleverly depicted in song and patter by Oliver Conroy; Merton and Rydon give a good turn as speciality vocalists; Hilton and Hilton, comedy bar experts, are also very diverting; Harry Leybourne, society entertainer, is quite successful. The Hippodrome Bioscope is a very attractive item.

ATTERCLIFFE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr Claude Seaton.—The attraction here this week is Mr Vivian Grantham's Anglo-Russian drama entitled Slaves of Passion. Sir John Hawthorn is admirably portrayed by Mr Vivian Grantham; Mr John M'Farlane ably represents Ivan Dronski; and Mr Alfred H. Majilton is good in the rôle of Paul De Beaupre. Mr Allan Wilkie makes a good Prince Mazaroff; Mr Frank Ayrton as Harry Dunn and Miss Madge Seymour as Lisette create much amusement and do a very acceptable song and dance. Miss Agnes Imlay is exceptionally effective as Zara Dronski. The other parts are in the hands of capable artistes, and the scenery and dresses leave little to be desired.

BACUP.

NEW COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr Richard Nightingale. — The return visit of Mr R. S. Gresham's company with Vice and Virtue constitutes the attraction here this week. The company includes Miss Nell Ingram, who repeats her admirable character sketch as Sally Reedhook; she is ably assisted by Mr Horace Buckley, who, as Police-constable Raspberry is responsible for some broad humour; Mr R. S. Gresham gives a manly and earnest rendering of the part of John Carford; Robert Hickton is embodied in capital style by Mr John Power, the villainy of the character being well depicted. Mr F. Cornwall submits a good rendering of Richard Carford; Miss Ana Corri supplies a pleasing representation of the character of Edith Weatley and Miss Rita Millman is a forcible Harriet Hickton.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr George Stone.—The first visit of The New Clown here this week is very generously responded to. Mr Stanley Cooke in the title-rôle is a great success, his dry, quaint humour being most taking. As Mr Dixon, the circus proprietor, Mr Herbert Greville is responsible for some capital character acting and comedy; Miss Kate Yates plays the rôle of Rosie Platt in a refreshingly quiet style; and the Misses Chesterton are most ably represented by Miss Violet Greville and Miss Evelyn Maxwell. Mr Fred Paul and Mr James Benwell make the most of their respective parts.

TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr Tom Whiting.—Mr Mark Melford tops the bill here this week, and is very successful with his sketch Non-Suited, which keeps the audience in roars of laughter. The Two Falcons do some unusually clever acrobatic acts, combined with genuine comedy; Gus Harris proves a very popular character vocalist; Walter Emerson's comicalities are well received; Mephisto is a capital contortionist; Will Auther gives a refined wire act; and Laffan B. Jolly's songs are much appreciated.

BARNSLEY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr A. C. Mitchell.—Bigamy is being performed here. Miss Eugenie Magnus makes a powerful Diane de Courcelle; Sylvia Dresden is charmingly played by Miss Elsie Capell; Miss Lydia Mannington is an excellent Lillian Lambkiss; Mr W. H. Benson is an able Lionel Craven; and Mr E. S. Earle portrays Edgar Craven admirably. Mr Charles Burdon is a manly Frank Merrivale and Sir Charles Dresden is well represented by Mr Colin Hazlewood.

PUBLIC HALL.—Manager, Mr Jasper Redfern.—Another capital programme is submitted here. Mike Cray and his dog supply a novel and clever show; the Farras earn favour as Double Cross jugglers; Black Apollo is a man of many instruments; Mdlle. Dahlia is a smart gymnast; the Radium Girls assist with duets and dances; Miss Eileen Moore is a pleasing vocalist; and the pictures of unusual quality.

BATH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr Lewis A. Long.—Mr Milton Bode's company, under the direction of Mr Stanley Rogers, is paying a return visit after a long absence in the musical comedy Gentleman Joe. Mr Kennedy Allen now impersonates the hansom cabby, an effort which must "rank" as one of the smartest bits of work this clever artiste has done; his nimble dancing is excellent. As Emma Miss Maud Marriott plays up to Mr Allen in capital fashion, the two becoming prime favourites. Mr Harry A. Gribben is the Mr Pilkington Jones, and for his song "Something Else" he gains many encores. Miss Hebe Bliss is an attractive Mrs Ralli-Carr, playing the part with plenty of confidence, a remark which also applies to the Miss Lalage Potts of Miss Elda Burman. Miss Mabel Kerridge sings with acceptance the ballads allotted to Mabel Cavanagh; Lord Donnybrook is satisfactorily enacted by Mr Robert Vincent, the fortunate possessor of a capital baritone voice; Mr Sydney Benson as Dawson is responsible for much amusement; and the page boy, William, of Miss Edith Benson is amusingly pert. The acrobatic dancing of the Edingale Trio finds many admirers, and the chorus and orchestra, under Mr Harry Richardson, deserve commendation.

PALACE THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Trussell.—In this week's bill several of the artistes are on return visits. The Two Bostons fully uphold their high reputation as laughter-making comedians. Their business, besides being funny, is smart. The Katos, if possible, have improved their living marionette performance; the Sisters Wingrove are more dashing than ever, their dancing always securing them a hearty recall; Mabel Thorne, comedienne, scores with her version of "Bill Bailey;" Muir and Bartlett, in their latest comedy sketch The Lady and the Lunatic, provide an amusing interlude that is well enacted; Harry Anderson comes in for a warm reception; Fred Herbert, in his extempore songs, gains much favour; Carlotti juggles skilfully; and Winnie Derson, comedienne, also appears.

BEDFORD.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter R. Wilson.—The programme this week is opened by Miss Hettie Gale in original songs. Amusement is afforded by Mr H. E. High, the comedy skater; the animal imitations of Mr Barko are astonishing; Mr Alfred Poynton impersonates with the aid of a few wigs, coats, and moustaches several celebrities; and other noteworthy items are Ben Nevis, eccentric dancer; the Escaladers; Mr Henry Anthony, clever conjuror; and the Bioscope.

BELFAST.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr James M'Cann.—We are favoured this week with a return visit of the favourite comic opera My Lady Molly, presented by Mr Fredk. Mouillot's first-class company, which includes such stars as Miss Decima Moore, Miss Beatrice Edwards, and Mr John F. M'Callum. The delightful piece met with a splendid reception on Monday, the tuneful music, handsome costumes, and clever acting being the theme of general admiration. In the title-rôle Miss Beatrice Edwards achieved a notable success, her acting and singing being remarkably clever. Miss Decima Moore's impersonation of Alice Coverdale was quite a feature of the presentation, and this charming actress has certainly appeared to great advantage, her vocalism and graceful dancing being all that could possibly be desired. In the rôle of Micky O'Dowd Mr J. T. M'Callum was decidedly humorous, his Irish song and dances being enthusiastically received. Mr Henry T. Davies was admirable as Captain Harry Romney, filling the rôle to perfection; and the same remarks apply to Mr Augustus Cramer's impersonation of Sir Miles Coverdale. Mr Ernest Mozar was in every sense excellent as Lionel Bland, and Miss Kitty Upton ably impersonated Hester. As Madeline Mirabeau Miss Amy Cooper was much admired, and Mr J. Walton did full justice to the part of Judge Romney. Mr Frederick Silveston was an effective Landlord, and Miss Hilda Marks and Miss Lottie Crawford were winsome and captivating serving-maids. Mr W. D. J. Damant efficiently acted as conductor of the full chorus and augmented orchestra.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Managing Director, Mr Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr John P. Beardmore.—Another fine bill is here this week, the leading attraction being provided by Mr Charles Kitts and Miss Rhoda Windrum, who appear to immense advantage in their funny sketch The Entr'acte. The Four Jumels play a number of musical instruments to perfection, and a good reception has been accorded Miss Amy Height, comedienne. The Herald Comedy Four appear in their attractive speciality act, which commands a deserved success, and the Gladenbecks astound all with their remarkable ring performance, their feats being surprisingly clever. A sensation has been caused by the cannon-ball and juggling performance of Francisco, and the reception extended to the Eight Lancashire Lads for their dancing is in every sense deserved. Also appearing are Beatrice Renee, comedienne; Charles Fanning and Bob Hutt, comedians.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Brock.—The bill here is topped by Bard and O'Brien in their clever comedy wire act, which has been successful. The fine baritone voice of Mr Albert Christian has been heard with infinite pleasure in his songs, and the quaint comedian Mr George Formby has been deservedly encored. Phillips and Terry stage a very successful sketch entitled The Revolt of Man; and fun reigns while the Brothers Edgar occupy the stage. Brett and Orford produce their latest vaudeville "Two Love Birds" with success, and also appearing are Miss Katie Cohen with cultured vocalism, and Miss Florence Gwynne "the stage-struck slavey."

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Henry T. Downs.—Miss Ada Fawn, a clever comedienne, is the star here, and her songs were enthusiastically received on Monday. The comedy juggling act by the Wallys is undoubtedly one of the features of the programme, and a very welcome return visit is being paid by Mr Harry Wright, extempore vocalist, whose songs have been smartly rendered. The Two Stars dance delightfully, and Mr Geo. Globe, described as a Tyrolean vocalist, sings very sweetly. The gymnastic feats by Onda and Artell are certainly amazing, and Miss Nellie Gannon in her capital descriptive songs is successful. The barrel jumping of the Wynford Brothers possesses many novel features, and the Japanese equilibrist N. T. Kioto submits a really wonderful performance.

BIRKENHEAD.

THEATRE METROPOLE. — Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—A visit from Mr Frank Nelson's company, in the farcical comedy, Trooper Hunt's Widow, is proving attractive. Mr Howard Cridland is a great success as Joseph Hunt, and is well supported by Mr Roy Milton as Richard Hunt. Miss Susie Oak is exceptionally good as Bessie Wood, and Miss Ella Kitson is an admirable Mrs Jane Watson. The cast is thoroughly efficient throughout, and the performance most enjoyable. Both company and piece have created an excellent impression here.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Pell.—Miss Frances Delaval's company, in The Biggest Scamp on Earth, commands a large following. Mr Percy Carne Warham gives a powerful rendering of Derrick Knight. Mr Hamilton Urquhart is well placed as Sir Aubrey Knight; Vivian is well played by Mr Douglas Hutchings; and Napoleon Hawk is well represented by Mr Alfred Rousby. Miss Delaval is an irreproachable Naomi Belvidere, and Bobby is skilfully sustained by Miss Doris Denman.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—Mr R. A. Roberts, a wonderfully versatile quick change artiste, in his cleverly sustained sketch, Dick Turpin, is again a leading attraction here. Miss Lelia Roze, the charming and accomplished comedienne, is on a welcome return visit, and is repeating previous triumphs, and Renson and Waite, resourceful and amusing duettists, afford great gratification. Other prominent turns include Cline and Clark, black and white comedians; Mr Victor Travers, character comedian; Miss Ray Maskell, a serio of ability; Les Cubiacs, eccentric acrobats; and Mr Jack Mills, Scotch comedian, who are all excellent.

BIRMINGHAM.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr Henry Johnston. — Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner was brought here for the first time on Monday last, when Mr Lewis Waller's company secured for it an instant and hearty reception. Mr Thomas Kingston leaves nothing whatever to be desired in the character of the hero. Miss Gertrude Burnett is proud, imperious or tender as the character of the heroine wills it, and all with well-laid effect. Mr Hilliard Vox as the despicable lover, Major Colden, is entitled to much praise. Mr George Mallett as the politic Mr Valentine is responsible for much of the success, and Mr J. Harold Carson shines in the prologue as that volatile Irishman, Major Murphy. Miss Alys Rees figures well as the giddy Sarah Williams.

GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr V. Turner.—Facing the Music has proved excellent fun and entertainment, and the company engaged therein, under Mr Gerald Alexander, has waxed exceedingly popular. First and foremost is Mr Tim Ryley in the clever rôle of John Smith, which he makes most diverting. Mr Coningsby Brierley as the Rev. John Smith adds to the diversion in a very clever manner, and Mesdames Mavis Hope and Bertha Grahame act charmingly as the two ladies, Mabel and Nora. Messrs Patrick Evans, Gerald Alexander, Geo. N. Wallace, and the Misses Ethel Hope and Rose Carew appear successfully in other parts, and a curtain-raiser entitled Barbara also engages the sympathies of the house.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Lester Collingwood.—The Face at the Window has once more scored a palpable hit for Messrs Armadale and Warren's company. Mr E. Hoggan-Armadale as the ruthless Italian, Lucio Delgado, is a conspicuous and powerful figure. Mr T. W. Dunscombe essays the detective's role with complete success, and Mr Alfred Richards as Lucien Cortier arouses all the sympathies of the audience. Miss Marie Florence as Marie De Brisson also gains a sympathetic reception, and Miss Jeannie Dempster as La Pinau, Miss Lizzie Chambers as Babette, Mr Bob Anderson as Peter Pottlebury, and Mr C. Allen-Hineson as La Blanc do admirable service.

METROPOLE THEATRE. — Manager, Mr Walter Melville; Resident-Manager, Mr J. Hindle Taylor.—Lady Godiva, Nell Gwynne, and Jane Shore have each contributed to the programme this week, at the instance of Messrs John F. Preston and Patrick E. Doherty's company. Miss Hilda Shirley, an actress of excellent attainments, has shone in the title-rôles, and in the first-named was supported by Mr Jo Monkhouse as Leofric, Mr A. C. Adams as Tom o' Coventry and very popular withal, Mr Jas. Duncan as Edgar, Mr Wilton March as Algar, Mr Ernest Hamilton as Unwolfson, Miss Georgie Walton as Lady Aldyth, Miss Nina Westerleigh as Elfrida, and Mr Dan F. Roe as Robin Shacklebolt. All these parts are well done.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr Ben Sydney.—The Harvest of Sin has furnished a goodly crop of attendances here, and Mr Henry Furnival's company have fared well. Mr Chas. H. Lester as the half-brothers, Harold and Arnold Mainwaring, scores a double success with these distinct and dissimilar rôles. Mr Edward Valentine depicts the French Nihilist refugee, Paul De Brisionere, with able discrimination. Miss Louisa Peach wins admiration and regard for the wife, Grace; Mr Sydney Compton shares in the success as George Mainwaring; and the Misses Pattie Hastings, K. Willoughby, Alice Oliver, Maggie English, and Messrs W. Garrett, J. Fulton Millar, and A. V. Dixon take good parts in the play.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr Charles Barnard; Manager, Mr Dan Barnard.—Sapho, as presented by Miss Olga Nethersole's company, won a respectful, nay, a most cordial reception here on Monday last. Miss Cecil Cromwell as Sapho is all that the character conjures, and nothing could exceed the enthusiasm which her acting aroused. Mr Arthur Royston is also most satisfactory as Jean, while Mr Harry Dodd in the important and, as it proved, well-played part of Cesaire, Mr Hodgson Taylor as Flamant, Mr Arthur Poole as Dechelette, Mr James Kenning as Hettema, Miss Jessie Melville as Madame Hettema, Miss Rose Sullivan as Francine, and Miss Clara Halkin as Toto contribute worthily to an undoubted success.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr A. W. Matcham.—The principal item this week is the Boisset Troupe in The Bricklayers, which is well appreciated. Another excellent sketch, The Lie Alarm, is provided by the Smithson comedy company. Nellie Wallace, a versatile character comedienne, received a hearty welcome. Hal Forde has some new songs which go well, and Lulu Gould (comedienne), W. H. Liddy (Irish character actor), Orpheus (instrumentalist), Jack Camp, Phil Ray, and Palles and Cusick (comedians), all win deserved applause.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr Albert Bushell.—The performance presented by Captain Rudolf with his elephants is highly interesting. The Imperial Quartet, vocalists and dancers, are well applauded; Signor and Madame Prosper Benn are responsible for a musical comedy act; Rose Elliott, comedienne, contributes songs in her happiest manner; as also does Nancy St. John. Some smart and amusing trick cycling is displayed by the Wheelers. Alix Lukos, Fred Curran, and the Percys are also in the bill.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford. — The Moto-Girl is attracting large audiences this week. Captain Woodward stays on another week with his sea lions and seals; Louie Lynton and her Pierrots are a smart turn; a clever mimic and character actor is H. Hughman; Nelson's Singing Newsboys; Little Barney, Scotch comedian; the Bros. Pim, in a humorous gymnastic act; Steel and Laing, acrobats; and Reed and Glenny, in a duologue, Married or Photographed, are well received.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident Manager, Mr Edw. Foster.—The dainty comedienne Winifred Hare is loudly applauded for her song "The Little White Girl;" the Werner Troupe provide many opportunities for laughter in their absurdity An Artist's Studio, in which Pierre Amoros shows his skill as a juggler; Charles Prelle with his dogs gives a good show; and May Mars and Kenneth Macleod are successful in their duologue. Beattie Worth; the Sisters Hayden, comediennes; Sam Shipley, Lanos and Montes, comedians; Callie and Walker, in a humorous sketch; and Alethea, a remarkably clever contortionist, complete the programme.

BLACKBURN.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr E. H. Page.—The Rich and Poor of London, portrayed by Messrs Preston and Doherty's company, is a strong attraction here. Mr Andrew Money is to be complimented on his vigorous portrayal of Mark Stanley. Mr Harry Hiller invests his performance as Dr. Leonard Morton with professional dignity, and Mr Harry Tilbury makes a capable Matthew Grabbam. As Spider Jack Mr Jay Laurier creates much merriment, and Mr Sidney C. Cranston repeats his distinctly funny impersonation of Gussy Lamb. Miss Dora Dench is excellent as May Braithwaite, her powerful acting meeting with much approval, Miss Bella Tilbury submits a clever character study as Ruby Redgrave, and Miss Sybil Viner gives a most effective rendition of the rôle of Polly Philpot.

BLACKPOOL.

HIS MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr and Mrs Fred Terry and company are here this week with Sunday, which has been received with the utmost enthusiasm. Mr Terry's work is always artistic, and his Colonel Brinthorpe is an ideal embodiment. Mr Malcolm Cherry gives an excellent delineation of Arthur Brinthorpe, and Mr J. D. Beveridge as Tom Oxley also contributes a clever piece of acting. "The Boys" are represented by Messrs Rothbury Evans, J. Carter Edwards, Horace Hodges, and Alfred Kendrick, and one and all play their parts well. Miss Neilson, of course, appears in the title-rôle with considerable success; Miss Bella Pateman is good as Mrs Naresby; and Miss Adeline Bourne appears as a Nun. The play is well staged.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr T. Sergenson.—The management here has secured a trump card this week in the shape of The Duchess of Dantzic, by Mr George Edwardes's company. The title-rôle is in the able hands of Miss Evie Green, who has always been a great favourite in Blackpool. She plays her part admirably. The Napoleon of Mr Holbrook Blinn is a fine study, and the same remark applies to Mr Courtice Pounds' Papillon. Mr Herbert Clayton sings and acts well as Lefebvre, and Mr Leonard Mackay distinguishes himself as Adhemar. A more dainty and bewitching Renee than is supplied by Miss Adrienne Augarde could not be desired, and Miss Billie Burke's portrayal of Lisette is also very pleasing. The chorus is strong and tuneful, the dresses are superb, the staging is sumptuous, and "business" is tremendous. Mr F. J. Harris is the acting-manager of the company.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessees, Signor Pepi and Co; Manager, Mr T. P. Duignan.—Miss Marie Loftus is the "bright particular" here this week, and has been accorded a warm welcome; Malcolm Scott is a clever comedian; and La Tostia is probably unequalled as a mandolinist. In addition to these there are: Ethel May, comedienne; Mdlle. Florence, mimic; Wilfrid, the flexible marvel; Thornbury, lightning chromographist; Booker and Narbis, comedians; Gwennie Hasto, vocalist and dancer; T. B. Fame, the Yorkshire comic; and W. H. Morgan, character vocalist.

PALACE.—General Manager, Mr G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Waller.—The artistes engaged here this week are all of equal excellence, and include George Leyton, in his military monologues; Mendel, the blind musician, whose powers on the piano are marvellous; Tom Leamore, the funny comedian; Lydia and Albino, gymnasts; O'Neil and Torp, jugglers; the Seven Savonas, in their great musical show, illuminated by over 1,000 vari-coloured electric lights; Howe and Ardie, grotesque acrobats; the cycling Elliotts, the Dainez comedy circus, and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

TOWER CIRCUS.—General Manager, Mr G. H. Harrop.—The new arrivals here this week are Vermette and Dionne, a pair of exceedingly clever gymnasts; and Radford and Valentine, who are described as America's most amusing burlesque jugglers. The old favourites, including the Novellos, the Colibris Midgets, Madame Theresa Renz, and the Finneys, are still retained. As a spectacle probably unequalled in the circus world Hagedorn's wonderful grotto and fairy fountains are also included in the programme.

WINTER GARDENS PAVILION.—General Manager, Mr J. R Huddlestone.—Killarney; or, From Kerry Fair to the Gorgeous East, is still swinging along right merrily. Catchy songs and new dances have been introduced, and Messrs Huddlestone and Tiller must be well satisfied with their joint production. Miss Gracie Moore, Mr Will Bishop, Mr Fred Russell, and Mr Greene Taylor appear to great advantage in the principal parts. The contributors to the variety programme include Miss Kremo, in a clever wire act; Tiny Clementa, with her performing horse and dogs; the Price Troupe of pantomimists; Charles Leb, with his wonderful monkeys; the Leislyn Quartet; and the Langdons, vocalists.

BLYTH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Resident-Manager, Mr George E. Good.—The visit of Mr J. Rice Cassidy and his company, with the romantic musical play entitled Dan the Rake, has met with a most enthusiastic reception. In the title-rôle Mr Cassidy has a part that gives him full scope to display his abilities as a comedian. As Madge Miss Lilian Clare is responsible for a winsome performance.

BOLTON.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Herman.—Messrs Gordyn and Gelling's company is here with The Temptress. The character of Stella, Lady Fordyce, is ably portrayed by Miss Elaine Verner. Other prominent rôles are ably filled by Messrs Fredk. B. Davies, Herbert Williams, H. W. Hatchman, and Allen Charles and Misses Ada M. Ryder, Vashti Wynn, and Mattie Everett.

BOSCOMBE.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr F. Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Messrs C. and F. Renad's company is paying a visit here this week in The Swiss Express. Much hearty laughter is evoked by the Renad Brothers' clever impersonations of Dr. Gull's eccentric servants, and they are ably supported by capable exponents of the other rôles, notably, Mr Wilfred Bailey, who is successful as Dr. Gull; Mr George Martin as Bob Rollingstone, Mr Alec Wyllie as Dudley Green, and Mr George Power as Rhino. Mr H. Alexander does good work as Mr Septimus Squeeze, with Miss Nellie Fern as Mrs Squeeze, while Miss Marie Millward is excellent as Virginia. Mention must be made of the Four Brighton Girls, dancers and sword experts, who contribute some pleasing items. A handsome musical souvenir was presented to each member of the audience on Monday.

BOURNEMOUTH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs David Allen and Sons; Lessee, Mr Mouillot; Manager, Mr Rowland Stewart.—Mr George Dance's company opened here on Monday with A Chinese Honeymoon, and is attracting crowded and delighted houses nightly. Mr Heller Lemaistre, an old favourite in Bournemouth, skilfully enacts the part of Hang Chow, and is delightfully haughty and supercilious. He is well supported by Mr Rudolph Kloss as Chippie Chop. Mr Lennox Barry is breezily nautical as the embarassed Lord High Admiral, Hi Lung; Mr Clifford Morgan acts with ease and sings well as Tom Hatherton; Mr Gus Wheatman is immensely amusing as the long-suffering and sorely perplexed Mr Pineapple, his better-half, Mrs Pineapple, being enacted with vivacity and exuberant spirits by Miss Dot Stephens. Charm and grace characterise the acting of Miss Nellie Wigley as Soo-Soo, her vocalisation being of a high order of merit. Miss Gwennie Harcourt retains the rôle of Fi-Fi, and fairly revels in the part; Miss Elsie Carew is austere and domineering as becomes the "official mother-in-law," Mrs Brown. Miss Flossie Weigh, Miss Iris Grosvenor, Miss Russell Reid, and Miss D. Leslie pleasingly and picturesquely represent the bridesmaids.

BRADFORD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Richardson.—Evidence of the continued popularity of San Toy was not wanting here on Monday, when Mr George Edwardes' company once more appeared in the favourite comic opera. In the title-rôle Miss Fanny Dango was bright and delightfully piquant in her acting; Miss Louie Collier as Chu-San sang charmingly; Mr Reginald Kenneth as Captain Bobby Preston, too, sang well, and shared in the honours with Mr Henry Claff as Fo-Hop. Mr E. Statham Staples as the cunning Li was responsible for roars of hearty laughter. Dudley was a clever and charming performance on the part of Miss Maud Darling. Mr John Humphries as Yen-How, Mr Stratton Mills as Sir Bingo Preston, Mr Colin Coop as the Emperor, Mr Jocelyn Hope as Sing-Hi, and Mr Arthur Soames as Lieut. Harvey Tucker also stood out prominently.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Francis Laidler.—The New Mephisto was successfully presented here on Monday for the first time by Mr W. H. Kirby's company. Mr Fred Lyne as Mr Mephistopheles is not only humorous, but gives a distinct individuality to the other five characters he so cleverly impersonates. Mr W. H. Kirby is excruciatingly quaint and funny as Dick Pilgrim, Captain Meredith is well played by Mr H. P. Carr, and there is much charm and vivacity in Miss Lily Gullick's impersonation of Dolly Pilgrim. Mr Herbert St. John as the dude, Lord Hummingtop, Mr Willie H. Vernon as the fiery Major Bantam, and Miss Marion Armitage as the eccentric Becky Pilgrim are responsible for much of the fun, and the three plotting Widows Gentle have charming exponents in Mesdames Dorothy Cecil, Leah Howard, and Marion Keeley.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr E. Crawford Swann.—Welcome and prominent contributors to the excellent programme here are those versatile and delightful entertainers, Bella and Bijou. The comedienne line is capitally represented by Alice Maple and by Annie Casey. There is a strong comedy element in the skilful acrobatic entertainment given by the Brothers Damm, and Charles Chard is a good exponent of eccentric comedy. In their pleasing "Kindergarten" entertainment Carrie Lawrie's juveniles display considerable talent and precocity; Silent Tait, the eccentric wizard, is provokingly funny; Lalla Selbini's cycling, juggling, and musical turn is very cleverly accomplished, and the lady has considerable aid from her cleverly trained dog; the Caselli Sisters contribute good eccentric dancing; the vocalism of Harry Coates, the singing navvy, constitutes a very popular turn; and the Pantzer Brothers are distinctly clever acrobats.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr E. Harrison.—The star turn here this week is the Peckham Fat Boy, Johnnie Trundley, who is a subject for much wonder and astonishment; Peggy Pryde, the sparkling comedienne, makes a welcome return visit; and Mdlle. Flora Lumiere presents a charming kaleidoscopic dance. Dale and O'Malley give a good comedy turn; on the flying trapeze Martha is distinctly clever; and Zaro and Arno submit a fine turn on the horizontal bar; as a "facial expert" Adelina is entertaining; Arthur Gill affords enjoyment with a good ventriloquial entertainment; and Kenna Russell, comedienne, also contributes acceptably to the enjoyable programme.

BRIDLINGTON.

ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE.—Manager, Mr Charles Palmer.—The popularity of the Royal Viennese Orchestra continues unabated, and the talented conductor of the promenade concerts, Herr Sigmund Winternitz, was this week accorded a benefit, when he had the assistance of Miss Eleanor Rawling, soprano; Mr Fred Fallas, tenor; Mr Herbert Brown, baritone; Mr Maurice Garland, a clever illusionist; and Mr Arthur Chenery's Willow Pattern Serenaders.

NEW SPA AND GARDENS.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Henry Hague.—The company's English orchestra, under Dr. Churchill Sibley, has been giving some well-arranged classical concerts, as well as popular programmes; and this week there has been a repetition of the Japanese night, when the popular London Pierrots combined with the band in a Jap costume entertainment which was highly successful. Saturday was a grand gala night, when there was an illumination of the extensive gardens and a display of fireworks by Messrs Pain and Son.

PEOPLE'S PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr William Morgan.—There is an entire change of variety turns this week, including Ariel and Astarte, in a neat and clever trapeze performance. The Great Cameron submits a good turn as a magician; Will Saunders is a quaint comedian; and Mons. Reklaw on the rolling globe does well. The Mezzettis excel in a triple bar act; and Judge's performing cockatoos, parrots, and macaws, are finely trained.

SUMMER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs Beanland, Bath, and Danton.—The week's programmes at this seaside resort are being constantly varied. Messrs Sid Hind, Hyam, Newsam, and Ellison take their benefits this week, assisted by a host of talent.

BRIGHOUSE.

ALBERT THEATRE.—Mr Morton Powell has taken over the management of the above well-appointed and popular theatre, and the season commenced on Monday with Miss Gladys Silvester and Mr Fletcher Sansome's musical comedy Jack's Sweetheart. Miss Silvester in the title-rôle was the chief factor in the popularity of the piece, her singing and dancing being greatly enjoyed. Mr Cecil Parke as Jack Tremayne and Mr Will Percy as Spotter were also good in their parts. On Monday Mr Morton Powell addressed the audience and stated that he intended during his management to bring the best possible companies, and hoped he would have the hearty support of the inhabitants.

BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr Harcourt M. Beryl.—Miss Gladys Unger's new comedy, Mr Sheridan, was produced here, for the first time on any stage, on Monday evening. A full report appears in another column.

GRAND THEATRE.—Under the control of Mr Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr W. F. Crowe.—Mr Milton Bode's company opened here on Monday with Tommy Atkins. Mr Frederick Ross gave a manly and popular representation of Harold Wilson; Mr George C. Doughty acted admirably as the villainous Captain Richard Maitland; Mr Maurice Drew's Stephen Raymond was an artistic enactment; and Mr Reginald Holmes made a capital Captain Sparrow, Miss Lola Patey imparted great feeling to her representation of Ruth Raymond; Mr Chas. A. Wenman as Private Mason, Miss Florrie Vickers as Elsie Wilson, and Miss Kitty Omar as Rose Selwyn acquitted themselves very effectively; and the humorous element was well sustained by Mr John Nolan as Paddy Molloy and Mr Billy Hardman as Ebenezer Skindle.

AQUARIUM.—Manager, Mr W. J. Hardy; Secretary, Mr S. H. Andrews.—Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope exhibition is still the chief attraction here, and is doing good business.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr Ernest Lepard.—The following are here this week:—Joe O'Gorman, Irish comedian; George Gray and company, in The Fighting Parson; Thomas Finglas, singer, assisted by Miss Gracie Herbert; Mountford and Walsh (Harry and Maud), speciality artistes; Jessica Grace, burlesque comedienne; Drew and Alders, speciality comedians; Frank Sylvo, comedy juggler; Belle Ray, vocalist; Jake Friedman, Anglo-German comedian; and animated pictures.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—The following are appearing here:—Mirzah, "the man in green," a clever banjoist; the Jackson Family, in a delightful musical entertainment; Alma Abdullah and La Superbe, in "Electra's Dream;" Miss Raffin's marvellous troupe of monkeys; Neil Kenyon, Scotch comedian; W. J. Churchill, comedian; Vera Patey, character and laughing comedienne; Great Scott, the ladder king and musical and equilibristic juggler; Billy Howard and Katherine Harris, in Happy Hooligans; and animated pictures.

NEW PALACE PIER THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr C. Thompson Ford; Entertainment Manager, Mr Drew Mackintosh.—The Roman Singers are here and delight large audiences with their admirably rendered selections.

WEST PIER PAVILION.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr A. D. Norman.—Mr Norman V. Norman and company opened here on Monday with Nell Gwyn. Mr Norman V. Norman gave an excellent representation of Charles II.; and Miss Beatrice Wilson was a delightful Nell Gwyn. Miss Kathleen Rind made a charming and winsome Mistress Betty Arndale; Mr Robert J. Damon was highly successful as Lord Dellans, and able support was given by Miss Lilian Kevill-Davies, Miss F. Glossop Harris, Mr Reginald Croft, Mr R. Iden Payne, and Mr Norman Leslie. The programme for the week included David Garrick.

BRISTOL.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr James Macready Chute.—Miss Ellen Terry and company commenced a week's engagement here on Monday evening. There was a large attendance in all parts of the house, and Miss Terry had a very cordial reception. Much Ado About Nothing was selected for Monday evening. The comedy was admirably staged, and it was capitally played by the very competent company supporting Miss Terry. The Beatrice of Miss Terry is well known and appreciated, and on Monday evening she played the charming and vivacious lady with all her accustomed skill. Miss Hutin Britton was a graceful and convincing Hero; Mr Matheson Lang presented a really good exposition of Benedick; Mr E. Harcourt Williams was sufficiently earnest and impassioned as Claudio; Mr George Fitzgerald and Mr J. S. Hamilton were well placed as Leonato and Antonio; Mr Charles Thursby and Mr T. A. Shannon were decidedly good as Don Pedro and Don John; and Mr John Willes and Mr Charles Whittle were amusing as Dogberry and Virges. The remaining parts were all very carefully performed, and "Sigh no more, ladies" was pleasingly rendered by Mr Penderel Price. The Good Hope, Nance Oldfield, and The Merchant of Venice were also billed for performance during the week.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Ernest Carpenter.—In the Ranks is well staged here by Messrs Arthur Carlton and H. Armitage. Mr Edward Lloyd gives a fine convincing performance of Ned Drayton; Miss Edith Blair-Staples plays with much distinction and charm as Ruth Herrick; Miss Ella Wilmer presents an effective exposition of Barbara Herrick; Mr Herbert Cecil acts with much discretion as Gideon Blake; and the parts of Farmer Herrick, Joe Buzzard, and Mrs Buzzard are taken in excellent style by Mr Lionel Sullivan, Mr Cecil Clayton, and Miss Anna Beaumont.

PALACE.—Managing Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Resident Manager, Mr Horace Livermore; Secretary, Mr Welchman.—Valvero's Naval Bombardment heads the programme. He sketches with rapidity some battleships, and concludes with a vivid representation of a bombardment, which is accompanied by the use of searchlights and firing of cannons, the act being both novel and effective. The Hoopers do some smart juggling and hoop rolling; La Belle Nello does a charmingly graceful and expert contortionist act; the Vivians present a pleasing and refined musical and dancing speciality; Espinosa and Neilson are experts at dancing in different styles; the Daintons are amusing in a speciality of song, dance, and patter; Miss Flo Elvin, comedienne, pleases; and Charles Bayman, Negro comedian; Charles Stevens, vocal comedian; and Ernie Spark, eccentric comedian, obtain applause. The performance concludes with a new set of Vernon's animated pictures.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Miss Dorothy L. Clark, descriptive comedienne, presents a pleasing turn. She has an excellent and well-trained voice, and is particularly successful in her new song "Blue Bell." Tom Lloyd, comedian, has some good songs, and he obtains appreciation; Polk and Kollins are expert banjo players; Edward Avon and Ethel Crest have a smart comedy act, "A little bit of this, and a little bit of that;" Mac Turc is an amusing comedy juggler; Edna Mastin pleases as a sifflleuse; Johnny Alexander's pantomime and burlesque company amuse with Our Lodger; Charles R. Whittle, comedian, obtains applause for some good songs; and Baker Belphor distinguishes himself as a baritone vocalist. The performance concludes with some good animated pictures.

BROUGHTON.

VICTORIA THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr C. Smith-Wilkes.—The extraordinary mechanical doll Phroso heads this week's bill, and an acceptable performance of a scena, entitled The Lost Coon, is given by Dinah Morris and her troupe (ten in number). Other turns include Les Valdos, acrobatic eccentrics; Will Farrell, comedian; De Voy, Hurst, and Ricks, in sketch The New Many; or, Humour Her; Rowland Hill, curious comedian; Kenwick and De Vere (Lilian and H. A.), song and dance and instrumentalists; and Violet Grazia, soprano vocalist.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs Bennett; Manager, Mr John Waller.—Mr George Edwardes's company is attracting large audiences here this week by a capital presentation of San Toy. Miss Dan Harradine, who possesses a charming voice, is sweet and chic as San Toy; Miss Florence Arnold is a clever and piquante lady's maid; Miss Mabel Savelle is irreprochable as Poppy; Mr Alfred W. Clarke gives a praiseworthy delineation of Yen How; Mr Alfred Beers as Li is a conspicuous success; and Mr Edmund Sherra's cultured voice is heard to advantage. The irascible Consul is amusingly represented by Mr G. J. Williams; and Mr Cliffe Davies is a thoroughly efficient Emperor.

BURY (LANCS.)

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—Mr J. W. Turner's English opera company is here this week. On Monday Balfe's Bohemian Girl was given. Mr C. Le Sueur made a good Thaddeus; Mr Tom Griffiths sang well as Count Arnheim; Mr Sidney Clifford appeared as Devilshoof; his excellent acting and singing were most enjoyable. Miss B. Hill as the Gipsy Queen has a fine voice; Miss Alice Boaden's vocalisation was good, and she made a charming Arline. The chorus was strong. On Tuesday Fra Diavolo was given, Mr Turner having an enthusiastic reception.

BUXTON.

OPERA HOUSE.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Arthur Willoughby.—On Monday evening Mr Martin Harvey and company received a hearty welcome when they opened in The Breed of the Treshams. Mr Hartin Harvey played with telling effect in the rôle of Lieut. Reresby (the rat), and at the conclusion of his fine performance was enthusiastically cheered. Mr Albert E. Raynor effectively depicted Viscount Dorsington, and Mr Charles Glenney acted with much skill and discretion the unpopular part of Colonel Hungerford. Mr Percy Anstey gave a sound rendering of Colonel Sir Henry Carwen, and Mr Fred Wright, sen., did admirably as Colonel Bagshawe. Mr Gilbert Yorke was a suitable Captain Stanhope, and Mr Eugene Wellesley capably sustained the character of Lieut. Willoughby. Mr Milton Rosmer lent dignity and conviction to Cornet Tresham, Miss Coleridge was a delightful Margaret, and Miss M. De Silva scored heavily as the boy Batty. The scenery is delightfully picturesque, and the dresses of the period of the play remarkably attractive.

CARDIFF.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Robert Redford.—The Never-Never Land, the late Wilson Barrett's penultimate play, has been presented here this week by Messrs John Hart and Harry Armitage's company. Mr Edward Rochelle as Nat Rudder gives a wonderfully natural delineation of this difficult character; Mr Edmund Kennedy's Jack Mowbray is a fine performance, sustained throughout with an effective earnestness and rare emotional strength; and Mr Benson North makes an excellent Raphael Wolff, his determined manner being well suited to the part. The Sal Berker of Miss Julie Kennard is a powerful study of the shady side of life, and the very clever rendering of Smudgee by Miss Margaret Parker gains unstinted applause. Miss Marion Fawcett plays Lady Walgrave with a pathos that is most affecting; Sybil has a faithful representative in Miss Caroline Barrett; and Miss Blanchette Grand is charmingly bright and vivacious as Lorna Mannerley. Mr Sidney Bancroft deserves praise for his clever portrayal of the imperturbable Chinaman.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Frank Bateman; General-Manager, Mr Robert Sawin.—The attraction at the popular King's is the brilliant comedian Mr Harry Starr. Exceptionally good houses have been the rule nightly, and the management is to be congratulated on securing such an important engagement. During the first part of the week Otto the Outcast was presented. Mr Starr appeared in the title-rôle and earned the hearty applause of all. Miss Ethel Danbury as Lara, the flower girl, also received an ovation. For Thursday and the remainder of the week Carl the Clockmaker was billed, Mr Starr appearing as Carl and Miss Danbury as Lena Harrigan.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Lea.—The programme here includes the Two M'Naughtons, the well-known comedians; Herr Fritz, with his marvellous illusions; J. A. Wilson, the black oracle; the British Quartet of glee singers; the popular comedian, J. W. Hall; Zanfretta and Napio, Continental grotesques; Bijou Russell, a clever dancer; Roburtus and Wilfredo, ball manipulators; and Marie Weston, vocalist, banjoist, and clever step dancer.

CARLISLE.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, the Trustees of Mr R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr Stanley Rogers.—Monsieur Beaucaire is the attraction here. Mr Norman Macowan, who is responsible for the production, appears in the title-part, and is quite successful, his skilful portrayal meeting with a cordial reception. Mr T. Stuart Willson as the Duke of Winterset and Mr Herbert Cornish as Major Molyneux play with keen appreciation. Mr P. Ramsey Forman makes a robust Captain Badger, and Beau Nash has a capable representative in Mr H. A. Young. Miss Violet Sterne in the rôle of Lady May Carlisle creates a favourable impression. Graceful and artistic at every point, her presentment is watched with every sign of interest and approval. Miss Millie Hamer contributes a pleasing performance as Lucy Rellerton.

CASTLEFORD.

ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr Chas. Gadsby; Business Manager, Councillor Henry Masterman.—After undergoing extensive alterations and renovations the Royal was reopened this week with The Bank of England by Mr Henry Johnson's company, under the general management of Mr H. S. Chambers. Sherlock Holmes is a character made very conspicuous in the hands of Mr George Henry. Mr Edwin Walton is responsible for the part of Sir Sidney Barraclough, and does well; Mr Juan De Alberti is telling and powerful as the pitiless Stephen Hartley. An entertaining vein of comedy is supplied by the love affairs of the amorous, though thoroughly good-hearted, widow, Aminta J. Bean; the Hon. Bertie Burlington is amusingly portrayed by Mr R. Duncan Bell; Godfrey Dane has a good exponent in Mr F. Ernstone; and Mr Charles H. Gallier, who undertakes Eric Dane, makes a capital hero. Mr Charles Nivian gives an effective presentment of the money-lending Jew, Gordon Isaacs; Mr Charles Goff as Tommy Sprouts and Miss Dorothy Normandale as Lucy Lockett cause plenty of fun and laughter; Miss Amy Ellam as Margaret Dane gives a capital representation, and Miss Ada Collins is graceful and pleasing as Sylvia Barraclough. The scenery is excellent, the play being thoroughly well staged.

CHELTENHAM.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, the Cheltenham Theatre and Opera House Company, Limited; General Manager, Mr H. Oswald Redford.—If I Were King is the attraction here this week, played by Mr Frank Fenton's company. Mr Frank Fenton sustains the rôle of François Villon powerfully, and holds the interest of the audience from start to finish; Mr Olive Currie's Louis XI. is a conscientious study; Katherine De Vaucelles is in the able hands of Miss Marion Grey, who is winning and stately throughout; Miss Louise Vansitter gives a realistic conception of Huguette du Hamel. Of the lesser characters the acting of Mr Fred Garrett as Tristan L'Hermite, Mr Ernest Marsh as Olivier le Dain; Mr Noel M'Guckin as Noel le Jolys, and Mr Will Barrett as Rebin Turgis is pleasing and convincing, and Miss Una Gilbert plays Mother Villon with all the necessary pathos and tenderness.

CLYDEBANK.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Frank Wilson.—This house, which has been greatly improved during the vacation, was opened on Monday by the Ben Greet company with the successful drama The Fatal Wedding. Mr W. E. Clive is a quiet and effective Howard Wilson, and as the much-wronged Mabel Miss Eva Moss is all that can be desired. Cora Williams, as played by Miss Beatrice Whitney, is most convincing. As her accomplice in treachery she is ably assisted by Mr Cecil A. Collins as Robert Curtis. Nothing could be finer than the performance of little Miss Maisie Richardson as Jessie; this very young lady speaks her lines exceptionally well. Songs and dances are introduced in the third act by some clever children. The drama is well put on and is under the direction of Mr J. Bannister Howard.

COATBRIDGE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs Mary Watson; Manager, Mr C. B. Fountaine.—Messrs Fred Darcy and Fred J. Little's company opened here on Monday on a return visit with On the Stroke of Twelve, and were well received. Mr Little, who takes the part of Jasper, delights the house with his funniosities; Mr Fred Rivers artistically renders Jack Rutledge; Mr Karl H. Edwards successfully enacts Moses Levi; and Mr H. Creagh Hunt makes a powerful James Hooton. Miss Nellie Moore is a delightful Jess Bainbridge; Miss Bertha St. Ruth plays Doris Rutledge in good style; and Marie Bergerre has a capable exponent in Miss Elma C. Turner.

CORK.

OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr John Horgan.—His Excellency the Governor was played here on Monday by Messrs Percy D. Standing and Monckton Hoffe's company. The part of Sir Montague Martin was sustained by Mr Percy D Standing and was a very finished performance; Mr Wm. Allison as Baverstock was a great success; as Captain Charles Carew Mr Frank G. Bayly acquitted himself admirably; as Ethel Carlton Miss Joan Ellis proved herself a charming actress; the parts of Mrs Wentworth-Bolingbroke and Stella De Gex were well rendered by Miss Isabel Grey and Miss Noma Hoffe respectively. The piece was preceded by The Lady who Dwelt in the Dark.

CHORLEY (LANCS).

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr G. T. Santé; Secretary, Mr J. Clay.—Mr Fred Jarman's company is here with the new drama In Dark Siberia. Mr Fred W. Mussett effectively undertakes Capt. Victor Gordon, the rôle of Princess Natalie Orloff being in the capable hands of Miss Helen M'Cullock; Mr Charles Osborne is successful as Major Waroff, the Hebrew boy, Paul, being capitally sustained by Miss Cecelia Ransome.

CONSETT.

NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr Lloyd Clarence.—Miss Rose Faith's company is here this week with No Cross, No Crown. As Sir Francis Luttrell Mr Ernest Lodge does well, and as Professor Nebb Mr Harris Chapman is good. Mr Logan Darra gives an excellent rendering of the part of Austin Blake, and as Dr. Ashley Mr Herbert Clifton renders efficient aid. Miss Rose Faith in the character of Clara is excellent, and in the dual part of Lady Margaret Luttrell and Mistress Grey gives entire satisfaction. Little May Warder deserves praise for her careful rendition of the rôle of Doris Luttrell. The scenery and mounting are very attractive and the costumes are elaborate.

COVENTRY.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr Wm. Bennett.—When London Sleeps, presented by Lester Collingwood and company, is occupying the boards at the above house this week. Queenie Carruthers, the queen of the slack wire, is excellently rendered by Miss Maude Hastings; Captain Rodney Haynes is in the capable hands of Mr Frank Graham; David Englehardt, the hero, is successfully impersonated by Mr Wm. H. S. Sams; Hilda Carode is well taken by Miss Mary Brammer; Carry Jones, a circus rider (Miss Effie Macintosh) and Sammy Blyth, a performer (Mr Victor Mason) are responsible for as much fun as can be put into the piece; and are ably supported by the Hon. Bertie Broomhead (Mr Frank Eden).

CREWE.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Sole Lessee, Mr Henry Taylor.—The above theatre has been occupied this week by a representation of the domestic drama by Henry Pettitt, entitled A Woman's Revenge. The performance was in the hands of a very powerful company, brought by Miss Winifred Chalmers, and included Mr Henry L. Osmond, who, in the character of Frank Drummond, showed himself to be a thoroughly sound actor. Miss Winifred Chalmers as Mary Lonsdale was lady-like and more than praiseworthy, displaying both deep emotion and great power, and her efforts made a great impression on the audience. Jephtha Grimwade was played in a masterly manner by Mr Elmore Fritt, who was excellent in the trial scene; Mr W. Carriden made the character of Robert Overstone stand out conspicuously. Little Elsie Videan in the part of Little Mary completely won the hearts of the audience, and the comedy element was entrusted to Mr Frank Ayrton as Dick Chilton and Miss Madge Seymour as Lottie Bromley, both acquitting themselves admirably. To Miss Dora Hamilton was entrusted the character of Mabel Wentworth, and Miss Lillian Denvil essayed the part of Maggie Westwood. The piece was excellently staged.

CROOK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Wallace Davidson.—This week we have a special attraction in the shape of the World's Wonders Variety Company. Li Chang, the heathen Chinee, is very smart in a kind of juggling act; Fred Starr, comedian, does well; and the Mysterious Lady is correctly named. Ventro is a splendid mimic, and the Lillians are commendable novelty artistes. Miss Blanche West, the popular songstress, is a great favourite; and some fine animated pictures are shown by the Scenograph.

CROYDON.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Lawson Lambert.—Mr Leon M. Lion's company is here in The Edge of the Storm, which is mounted in good style. Miss Jean Sterling Mackinlay is pure, sweet, and sympathetic in her impersonation of Szentes Leta; and Mr Henry Renouf plays in real earnest and takes a prominent position in the rôle of Jim Poulett. Mr Arthur Whitehead acts with expression as Szentes Istvan; Mr Frederick Annerley plays with great power and point in the character of Bakonyi Forenz; Mr Alan Borthwick scores a point as Major De Trafford; Mr Arthur Fitzgerald is first rate as Captain Stent; Mr Louis Palgrave is fresh as Ensign Partridge; Mr Julius Hagen submits a smart character sketch as M. Pierre Duchamp; Mr Gerald Malvern makes the most of his opportunities in the rôle of Mahomet Ali; Mr Leon M. Lion distinguishes himself as Mootoosawami; and Mr Arthur White is a suitable Captain Hodges. Miss Ada Marius works hard in the rôle of Szentes Wilma; and Misses Maud M. Magrath, Nannie Hume, and Mima Renouf are favourable as Mrs De Trafford, Katie De Trafford, and Sophia Stent. Mr Leonard Gautier resumes his office as musical director, and Mr Reginald Lawrence is now the acting-manager.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr H. D. Lyle.—The Best Must Win is proving a draw at the Royal, and it is well staged. Mr Charles Draycott acts with determination as Gaston, Marquis De Marcel; Mr Robert Watson is convincing as Paul Dumaresq; Mr H. B. Peppin is resourceful as Juan Minos; Mr Fred Aldworth is capital as Sabretache; Mr Oliver J. Round is responsible for much laughter as Jacques; Miss Mary Vincent is pathetic in the part of La Marquise De Marcel; Miss Violet O. Spring is an interesting Thérèse Dumaresq; Miss Florence Lovell makes a spirited Lucille La Fanche; Miss Ethel Vinroy is a sprightly Suzette; Miss Lilian Loyde is charming as Denise Dumaresq; and the remaining parts receive every attention.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—Resident General Manager, Mr Eustace H. Jay.—An excellent bill-of-fare here. Vestor is a capital eccentric musical comedian; Allis and Cassati are a lively pair of comedy artistes; Hector, on the wire, is greeted with applause; an exceptionally novel and entertaining club-swinging turn is given by Hanvarr and Anna Lee. "The Golfer and the Maid;" Elsa Joel is splendid in her vocal imitations; the Seltina Troupe are marvellous acrobats; Nellie Lewis and coon chorus introduce Joe Peterman's "Song Sheet," and are encored again and again; Will Dalton, comedian, is successful in new songs; the Sivronis, in Opera Gone Mad, are well worth seeing; and others who appear are Clara Nesbitt, burlesque actress; the Brothers Levett, vaulters; Tom Vine, topical vocalist; Vokey Gaylor, comedienne; A. G. Spry, comedian; and Mr Fred S. Partridge's orchestra.

DERBY.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr Chas. Denley.—A capital race week attraction is to be found here this week in The Earl and the Girl, which is being produced by Mr William Greet. The company is one of all-round excellence, and the piece is mounted in a manner which reflects credit upon all concerned. Jim Cheese is admirably accounted for by Mr Wm. Stephens, a clever comedian, who keeps the ball of fun rolling merrily from start to finish. Miss Dot Carey as Liza Shoddam acquits herself with distinction. Mr Percy Carr is thoroughly successful as Dick Wargrave, and sings the songs allotted to him in excellent fashion; Miss Aimee Grey is a charming Elphin Haye, also proving vided by Hick's Six Clerks, including Little Peter, an eccentric juvenile comedian; Mahatma in a thought-reading séance completely mystifies her audience; Larry Lewis, a diverting comedian, provokes much hearty laughter; the Jansons present a creditable gymnastic act; and Nash and Noel, described as gentlemanly comedians, are well worthy of recommendation Ernie Lesch is a clever singing ventriloquist; Leo as a comedian and dancer is praiseworthy; and the Bioscope is responsible for several entertaining pictures.

DEWSBURY.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Resident-Manager, Mr J. Herbert Asquith.—Mr J. Gar Kiddie's Chinese Idyl company is here. Miss Mabel Mainwaring as Pitti Pat has a charming voice, and uses it nicely, and Mr Dawson Dewick as Tanga Lang is very quaint. Mr Fred Danvers as the Viceroy is full of life, and Miss Emmie Milsted as Princess Stephanie does very well. Mr J. G. Maine imbues the rôle of Ching Foo with rare character, and Mr W. H. Gatty as Ji Hi is praiseworthy. Miss Marie Rainbird's performance of Belle Brighton is warmly received, and Mr F. H. Dundas as Lieut. West is capable. The chorus and orchestra, which is augmented, is under the able direction of Mr Arthur Silver, and the feats of the Henriques, Chinese acrobats, are extremely clever.

DONCASTER.

NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Councillor J. W. Chapman.—The Worst Woman in London was staged here on Monday. A high opinion was formed of Mr Edwin J. Colins as Jack Fulton, and Mr Paul Barry-Lewers rose to his responsibilities in his presentation of Vincent Lyle. Mr Cass was au fait as Fred Thornborough; Mr H. Maxwell Payne afforded immense delight as James Milford to a Yorkshire audience by reason of his appreciation of the dialect; Miss Lilian Ross was charming as Ruth Milford; and a good character sketch of Detective Curzon was submitted by Mr B. Elton; Mr George H. Asquin was well placed as Bob Goldfinch; and Mr Joe Bracewell was a typical Hugh Drayton. Mr Bernard Mervyn did well as Philip Armstrong; Miss Helena Rigby worthily sustained the rôle of Matilda Parker; and the title-part had in Miss Constance Medwyn an exponent full of ability.

DOUGLAS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Alfred Hemming; Acting-Manager, Mr T. R. Wood.—Cultured and serious persons can talk as much as they like in precious periods as to definite duties of dramatic art, but Lancashire and Yorkshire prefer A Country Girl. They are in Douglas this week, and they say it is a real good show. And it is. Mr George Dance's company sings and acts and dances with intention and excellence. Miss May Glen as Nan does really fine work sans exaggeration; Miss Maud Harvey is quite fascinating as Margery Joy; Mr Cyril Thompson is sincere and artistic as Geoffrey Challoner; and Barry, the raison d'être of the play, is admirably played by Mr Johnny Osborne.

GAIETY THEATRE, LIMITED. — Secretary and Manager, Mr Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Bertram.—To the Gaiety comes gaiety in the form materialised by The Orchid, and it pleases all and sundry. The music has just the quality which gets there, and story is not complex. Miss Ethel Bryant makes of Lady Violet Anstruther a delightful personality, her singing of "Little Mary" being as exquisitely funny and refined as J. M. Barrie's wit. The Hon. Guy Scrymgeour lives on the stage through the artistic impersonation of Mr Davy Barnaby; and Mr Bertie Wright's Meakin is the positive expression of concentrated comedy. Miss Madge Lucas insists that Caroline shall cause laughs.

PALACE, LIMITED. — Secretary and Manager, Mr Charles Fox, jun.—This week the popular and courteous secretary and manager has taken his benefit. The programme presented was really excellent. It included the Matweef Hugoston Troupe of vocalists, acrobats, and dancers; Vox, the ventriloquist; Miss Alexandra Edwin, a charming vocalist; Vasco, the mad musician; Sanford and Lyons, quaint comedians; De Dio, the fire dancer; Harry Weldon, who has at his finger tips the resources of the born droll; the Brothers Artois, in their triple bar act; the clever juggler Chinko and his equally clever sister; Miss Godwynne Earle, a charming artiste; Mr George Burton's Bohemian entertainers; Karr and Kooney, quaint humourists; Tom Johnston, actor-vocalist; Miss Amy Randolph, a fascinating soubrette; Mr Syd Kerr, a baritone singer of excellent quality; the Bio-Motograph, chronicling pictorially the passing show; and the Celtic Comedy Four.

DERBY CASTLE, LIMITED.—Secretary and Manager, Mr CharlesFox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr Alfred Kelly.—This is the oldest, and perhaps the most popular, place of amusement in the island. It appeals to the imagination of many humans who never dreamt they had any. At Derby Castle you are given full liberty to enjoy yourselves in your own way, so long as that liberty is not abused. The management provides a really fine programme. The place is alive with light and colour. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr Haydn Wood, is music personified.

THE other shows in Douglas are Mr Frederick Buxton's Pierrots, Mr George Burton's Pierrots, and Mr Charles Dare's Minstrels.

DOVER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Exquisitely dressed, staged to perfection, and played with unusual vivacity, Amorelle has been drawing crowded and enthusiastic houses nightly. No more charming a lady than Miss Empsie Bowman could have been found to play the name-rôle, for the gracefulness of her dancing, the sympathetic timbre of her voice, and her natural and unaffected gaiety have made her justly famous. Next in point of merit comes Mr Leon Simkin as Dr. Crow with his delightful egotism, the amount of humour which he introduces into the part making it irresistibly funny. Mr Arthur Cousins was deservedly applauded for his excellent vocal efforts as Jules, his duet with Lesbia entitled "I Wonder" being repeatedly encored. The villainies of François were duly emphasised by the capable acting of Mr Horace Manger. The rôle of Boissey as played by Mr George Paulton was decidedly good, and he shares honours equally with Mr Arthur Elwyn as the Count of Cideaux. Mr J. Redmond is to be congratulated for his capital portrayal of Lupin, and Mr Langford Reed was no less successful as Alphonse. A prominent performance, and one worthy of high praise, is that of Mr Fred Carrington as Father Dotard, his splendid voice being heard to great advantage in a typical and original sea song. Miss Hilda Edwards as Mdlle. Ribot was responsible for a pretty vocal number, while too much praise cannot be given to Miss Von Bargen for her inimitably droll impersonation of Marina. Miss Belle M'Kenzie was distinctly picturesque as Lesbia, and acted with much power and feeling. On Thursday Miss Emma Hutchison's company opened with Saturday to Monday.

DUBLIN.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Limited; General Manager, Mr C. Hyland.—Mr Geo. Edwardes's company entered on its second week here on Monday with the musical comedy The Cingalee, and is proving as attractive as on its opening night, crowded houses being the rule.

THEATRE ROYAL.—General Manager, Mr Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—A large and brilliant audience was present here on Monday to witness the production of Boy Bob, as played by Miss Louie Freear and company. Miss Freear in the title-rôle finds ample scope for her versatile abilities, her acting being both pathetic and quaint She secures enthusiastic appreciation. Mr Stephen Bond gives a realistic impersonation of Captain Winton, and Miss Dora Rignold is a delightful Lottie Brenton. The rôle of Old Charley is efficiently played by Mr Edwin Sheppard; Mrs H. A. Saintsbury presents a careful study of Mrs Caudraugh; Mr B. Soane Roby makes the part of Sergeant Daniels stand out very prominently, and Miss Jessie Burgwitz is pleasing as Dora Herrick. Mr J. Russell Bogue as Colonel Vincent, Mr Francis Hawley as Captain Fisher, and Mr Brisco Owen as Lieut. Rex Herrick are all successful in their respective parts, and Miss Marie Rignold makes a good impression as Edith Vincent. Miss Jessie Glenn as Nurse Draycott and Miss Maude Jeans as Sal are both seen to advantage. As Sergeant Field and Corporal Ball Messrs A. T. Hendon and Frank Brown are good. Mr Edwin Sheppard is capital as Carter. The comedietta Good for Nothing precedes.

QUEEN'S ROYAL THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. W. Whitbread; General Manager, Mr Kennedy Miller.—Mr Kennedy Miller's company entered on its second week here on Monday, when the romantic Irish drama Lord Edward; or, 98, was presented to an excellent house. The rôle of Lord Edward is capitally sustained by Mr Fred Lloyd, and as Pamela Miss Annie Hylton is admirable. Mr James O'Brien gives a humorous impersonation of Thady; as Lady Louisa Connolly Miss P. Maynard is acceptable; the part of Francis Higgins has an able exponent in Mr Ion Ireland; Miss Ada Arnott is very good as Madame De Sillery; Mr Dane Clarke acts with judgment the rôle of Francis Magan; and as Katey Malone Miss Monica Kelly is successful. Little Mollie Miller is an intelligent Edward, and Mr R. Payne makes a capable Napper Tandy. Major Sirr is well played by Mr Nolan, and as Mrs and Miss Moore Miss Ada Turner and Miss Helena Forest are both effective.

EMPIRE.—General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr A. S. Figgis.—The chief attraction here this week is the Poluski Brothers, who meet with a cordial reception. The Kreegers are a successful musical turn, Harry Sheldon is an excellent tenor vocalist, Sisters Govell are charming duettists and dancers, Fred Poplar is a capital eccentric comedian, and Wilson Hallet is a clever imitator of children's voices. Kitty Wager is a pleasing comedienne, and Edwin Boyde, comedian, and Howard and St Clair, comedy artistes, who remain from last week, are still scoring. The interesting Empire pictures show recent events.

TIVOLI.—General Manager, Mr Chas. M. Jones; Secretary, Mr H. A. Murphy.—The Lundgreens, aerial gymnasts, are well received here. Another interesting item is Lieut. Chard's troupe of performing dogs. E. W. Selman is a smart comedian, the Sylvesters are clever bar performers, and Billy Richardson is a droll Negro comedian. Marks and Marks, in their sketch Aunt Marth, are highly amusing, and the efforts of the New York Quartet of lady vocalists and dancers are well appreciated. Other turns are provided by Lill Hartley, comedienne, and Vere and Royal, speciality artists. The Bioscope pictures are also popular.

WORLD'S FAIR.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—C. H. Burns, vocalist and instrumentalist; George Harcourt, descriptive vocalist; Emilie Stephenson, ballad vocalist; Bob Ebony, Negro comedian and dancer; and Witty Will Pearce, humourist and vocalist, form the company here.

DUNDEE.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; General Manager, Mr Eade Montefiore.—A Girl's Cross Roads is being played here this week. Miss Beatrice Homer secures premier honours for her extremely artistic portrayal of Barbara Wade; Miss Octavia Noel gives a clever rendering of Nellie Meadows; Mr Edwin J. Wilde makes an excellent John Meadows; and Mr Wingold Lawrence and Mr Charles Terry also show to advantage in their respective parts.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Dundee Empire Company, Limited.—Saved from the Sea is staged this week by Mr Leslie Vyner's company. Mr Leonard Robson is seen to advantage as Dan Ellington; Miss F. Speirs is an attractive heroine; and Mr H. Vernon and Miss Dora Condor sustain the comic element with much acceptance.

GAIETY.—Proprietors, Dundee Gaiety Company, Limited.—Kathleen Mavourneen is the attraction this week. Miss Celestine Brandon in the title-rôle creates an excellent impression; Terence O'Moore is the character entrusted to Mr Clarence Temple, in which part he excels; Mr Wilfred E. Brandon makes a capital squire; and as the squire's sister Miss Madge Willis is all that can be desired.

PEOPLE'S PALACE.—Manager, Mr Will Parker; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr Alf Ross.—The Two Macs are here again adding to their laurels as fun creators. The M'Connell Trio in their clever comedietta The Airship meet with an ovation; the Zenary Bros. do some smart acrobatic feats; Will Candlish is no stranger here, and his comicalities never seem to pall; the Two Dorrells give a very smart dancing turn. Elly Adair, Lue Lord, Cribb and Cribb, and Geo. Reeves also appear.

EASTBOURNE.

DEVONSHIRE-PARK THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr A. Standen Triggs.—Mr George Dance's excellent company is appearing here this week in A Country Girl. Mr Harry Buss as Barry creates a large amount of fun by his clever and animated work; Mr Francis Ludlow is a very pleasing Geoffrey, and sings with excellent effect; Mr Fred W. Pattrick as Mr Raikes does able work, and has a fine voice; Mr H. C. Morton is a capable Sir Joseph; Mr Ernest Cresfan is a dignified Lord Anchester; and Mr J. D. Newton is an appropriate Douglas. Miss Kathryn Comber is a very charming Marjory, and Miss Nellie Cozens is a bright, merry Nan. Miss Ernestine Desborough is a most effective Princess, and her admirable singing meets with much applause. Miss Rosie Begarnie as Madame Sophie is the cause of much fun; Miss Beatrice Robey does well as Mrs St. Quinten; and the remainder of the company lend able help. The orchestra and chorus are under the direction of Mr Otto Manns.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Samuel Lloyd.—Messrs H. J. Callan and Wentworth's company is appearing here in Florodora. Capital work is done by Mr Arthur Lenville, who as Tweedlepunch provides no end of fun. Mr William Everard is a quietly effective Frank Abercoed, and his voice is heard to good purpose in his song "The Shade of the Palms." Mr Frank Grans introduces much life into his acting and dancing as Arthur, and his singing is very commendable. Mr C. Young Fixott is an adequate Gilfain; and Mr A. E. Coleby is an excellent Leandro. Miss Violet Bronson possesses very high abilities as a singer, and her songs are well received. Miss Dorothy Sephton is a smart, sparkling Lady Holyrood, and she is one of the distinct successes of the evening. Miss May Yates is a dainty Angela, and praise is due to the numerous other ladies in the cast.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr George Hayes.—The chief attraction here this week is the company under the direction of Mr F. Mouillot in My Lady Molly. Miss Zoe Gilfillan undertakes the rôle of Alice with great success, and her singing calls for special praise; Miss Edmee Dreux is a very charming Lady Molly; and Miss Mabel Carr is a very effective Hester. Miss Ebba Darcier is a commendable Mdlle. Mirabeau, and Miss Violet Lingard and Miss Kitty Holmes are gay and sprightly serving-maids. Mr Stephen Fitzgerald interprets very cleverly the humour of the rôle of Mickey O'Dowd; Mr Leicester Tunks sings and acts well as Captain Romney; and Mr Harold F. Payne is praiseworthy as Lionel Bland. Mr H. Godwin Hunt is a hearty, breezy Sir Miles; Mr Dan O'Regan is well suited as Reuben Oats; and Mr G. M'Closkie is an excellent Judge Romney. Mr Leonard Leslie is the musical director.

AT a matinée on Monday the Follies appeared with success in their very clever, refined entertainment. Miss Marjorie Napier has a sweet voice, and her work displayed exceptional ability. Miss Ethel Allandale, an effective humorous singer; Miss Lucy Webling, a reciter; Mr H. G. Pelissier, a clever musician; Mr Lewis Sydney, a smart comedian; and Mr Dan Everard contributed pleasing items. Two matinées have been given by the Roman Singers of their scena "Song, Sense, and Nonsense."

EBBW VALE.

KING'S.—Lessees, Messrs Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr Geo. S. King.—Messrs M. B. Buckstone and I. R. Cox's company with The Seal of Silence played to good houses on the first three nights of the week. Mr Geo. Langdon as Captain Hedley Norman, Mr Harry Lonsdale as Jack Ellerslie, and Mr E. H. Walton as George Warrington gave abundant proof of their ability; Mr E. W. Coleman kept the audience well provided with fun in the clever comedy part of Bimbo Bretton, a clown; and Miss Cissie Cleveland as Dora Lumley was very attractive. Miss Gertrude Hunt was especially prominent as Lilian Desbrooke.

EDINBURGH.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Hollister.—Thoroughbred was presented her on Monday by a capital company under the direction of Messrs Edward A. Coventry and John R. Collins. The acting was excellent, Mr R. Cowley Polhill making an admirable Lord Sandacre and Mr Percy Bell affording some amusement as the Mayor. Mr Edward A. Coventry's Blenkinsopp Carlingham was a performance meriting high praise; Mr John W. Bradbury contributed a particularly clever bit of character acting as Jebb Tosh; Miss Hilda Stewart played with charming effect as Wilhelmina Carlingham; and Misses Mary Smith, Catherine Parry, and Beatrice Egerton also appeared with success. Cutting Out a Prize preceded.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Howard and Wyndham, Limited; General-Manager, Mr G. T. Minshull.—Mr W. S. Gilbert's latest production, The Fairy's Dilemma, was given at this theatre on Monday with a highly efficient cast, and was heartily received by a large and fashionable audience. Mr Charles V. France undertook the part of Sir Trevor Maulever, and gave a natural and manly representation, his fooling as the clown being exceedingly comical. Mr Frank Stanmore afforded excellent support as the Rev. Aloysius Parfitt, whose humorous vagaries caused much hilarity. Mr Frank Collins was sufficiently drastic as the irascible Mr Justice Whortle; Mr C. Herbert Hewetson made a highly effective Demon Alcohol; and minor parts were ably filled by Messrs Morris Harvey and Frank Norman. As Lady Angela Wealdstone Miss Ada Homer showed herself a comedy actress of ability; and Miss Gertrude Hope proved a bright and winsome Clarissa. The Fairy Rosebud was cleverly played by Miss Elise Cooke, whose clear enunciation and charming presence added much to the success, her graceful dancing being also much admired. The staging was excellent, the transformation scene being especially fine. The Conversion of Nat Sturge proved a capital curtain-raiser, Mr C. V. France making quite a hit as the Bishop.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss.—Mr Paul Conchas, the strong man juggler, was greeted with genuine enthusiasm when he appeared on Monday. His work with heavy cannon-balls and Krupp shells was of a very wonderful kind. Mr and Mrs Gene Hughes provided plenty of entertainment with their sparkling sketch A Matrimonial Substitute, and the Mayvilles were well received as usual in a clever Lilliputian act. The Three Sisters Sprightly presented a brilliantly attractive turn, acting, singing, and dancing with distinction and earning much well-merited applause. Mr Will Cornish introduced a delightful musical interlude, his artistic bell-playing taking the house by storm. The Venola Bros., the Sisters Lonnen, Dot Hardy, Rosie Bartlett, and Jerry Hart and Beatrice Leo also gave satisfactory turns.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Tom Ellis.—Mr C. B. Cave's company opened at this theatre on Monday in The Master of the Chain, which was well received. Mr Sydney Felton sustained the character of Maurice De Chant with success, and Mr J. W. Carson gave a really effective representation of the wicked Valoise De Riche. Miss Eulin Hielburg was a spirited Madeline Trevor, and the part of Lena De Menza was played with characteristic skill by Miss Alice N. Livesey. There was a large house.

EXETER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr Fred Pollard; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy M. Dunsford.—Kitty Grey made her début here on Monday. Mr C. St. John Denton's company is responsible for the production. Mr Leslie Harris's interpretation of Lord Plantagenet was marked throughout by originality; Mr Robert Selby scored as Sir John Binfield; in the title part Miss Hilda Guiver was seen to distinct advantage, her excellent voice being well suited to the songs which fell to her share; Miss Emily Stevens as Mrs Bright acquitted herself admirably; and Lady Binfield was well represented by Miss Elly Helene. The King of Illyria was amusingly embodied by Mr Robert White, jun.; and Miss Constance Hamilton's impersonation of Sadie was piquant and dainty. The piece was mounted most lavishly.

FARNWORTH.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr T. Morton Powell.—Dishonoured is here this week. Mr Percy Ballard undertakes the part of Philip Cunningham in a manly and heroic manner. Mr William Bradford wins the dislike of the popular parts as Captain Peyntland. Humorous is Mr Cecil Morand in Mike Farthing, and Mhooelb Khan is admirably presented by Mr Victor Herne. Sir William Cunningham (Mr Frank Stuart), Jem Stokes (Mr Jack Bigwood), and Captain Cholmondley (Mr Horace Custins) deserve praise in their respective characters. The part of Leslie Maynard in point of consistency and effect is well played by Miss Winifred Stuart. The smaller parts are well done.

FOLKESTONE.

PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company, in Saturday to Monday, came here on Monday for three nights. Miss Moyra Creegan as Mrs Wendover was well suited; Miss Nancy Beresford made a first-rate Angela; Mr Stuart Champion as Lord Culvert acted capably; and Mr Dallas Welford gave a highly amusing impersonation of Stanley Pidding. Miss Madeline L'Estrange was successful as Lady Diana, and Miss Josephine Rae showed considerable talent as Ursula Toop. Judged by Appearances, the curtain-raiser, was played exceedingly well. Mr C. P. Levilly's company, in Amorelle, occupied the boards on Thursday.

VICTORIA PIER.—Lessees, Messrs Keith Prowse and Co., Limited; General Manager, Mr H. De Mauche.—Mr Charles Sullivan, baritone, meets with well-deserved applause; Mr Franklyn Vernon, humorist is very amusing; Miss Teresa Blamy possesses a pleasing voice; Herr Venanzi contributes some skilful piano solos; and Mr Franklyn Vernon's company, in Charity Begins at Home, concludes the programme. Amato's Neapolitan singers perform four times daily in the Café Chantant.

LEAS PAVILION.—Manager, Mr A. Sitter.—Miss Florence Venning, contralto, sings in a charming manner; Miss Olive Fox, comedienne, provides a capital turn; and Mr Fred Frampton, mimic and humorist, wins well-deserved applause. The members of the Blue Salon Band contribute several solos, and the animated pictures are well received.

TOWN HALL.—Lessee, Mr E. J. Chadwick.—Messrs Maskelyne and Cooke's company continued its stay here the first part of the week. The Chamounix orchestra performs selections at intervals, and "The Sylph" causes considerable wonderment.

FALKIRK.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr Horace W. Ebbutt.—Mr Frank Stephens' company, with F. A. Scudamore's Because I Love You, is here this week. Mr Stephens' company is strong in every department, and gives a capital rendering of the piece. Mr W. Cowell Clarke invests the novel part of Nemo (the Vulture) with the necessary mystery and pathos. Mr Richard A. Greene's fine stage presence and manly bearing stand him in good stead in the part of Captain Stirling, V.C. As Uhristopher Chandos Mr Walter Rayham is quiet and dignified, and Mr Albert Sefton as the half-mad Professor Predate is appropriately heavy and preoccupied. Miss Madge North makes a pretty and engaging heroine. Miss Florence Trivior as Lady Ursula Milfoil is an effective lady villain, and is well supported by Miss Agnes Stinton as Mrs Pupplett. The fun of the piece is effectively supplied by Miss Minnie Leslie as Cleopatra Cotton and Mr Herbert Boyle as Nebuchadnezzar Moke, aided in some measure by Mr Guy Ramsden as Eddie Pupplett.

GAINSBOROUGH.

ALBERT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Robert Kirk.—The season opened here last week with Mrs Robert A. Cuthbert's company in The Black Bishop. Mr Hartwell J. Kirby was excellent in the title-rôle, and Miss Jennie Marquise repeated her clever dual representation of Kate and Marion. Mr John Montgomery (Strathcoat), Mr Charles Coventry (Kilcrift), and Miss May Lyttleton (Ruth) gave good renderings of their respective parts. Mr H. Belford and Miss Nellie Benson were amusing as the innkeeper and his wife. The scenery and mounting were very effective.

GLASGOW.

THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr Percy Humphrys.—Mr George Edwardes' company in The Toreador is once again attracting large audiences here. Mr Lionel Victor's impersonation of Sammy Gigg is exceptionally clever, and his business is very amusing. Mr T. W. Volt supplies a humorous study of Sir Archibald, and Mr W. H. Powell proves himself an able comedian as Pettifer. Mr John Donald is very effective in his reading of Carajola; Miss Alice Oppitz is well placed as Donna Teresa; Mr Fred Allandale is very good as Augustus Trail; and a very attractive Dora Selby is found in Miss Daisie Wallace. Miss Nancy Langtyre as Nancy Staunton renders her numbers sweetly; Miss Daisy Stratton makes the most of her opportunities as Susan; and the part of Mrs Hoppings finds a good exponent in Miss Nellie Bouverie.

ROYALTY THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr H. Macfarlane.—This week Mr Tom B. Davis's company is paying a welcome visit with Florodora. The company gives a bright and spirited performance, and all the well-known numbers seem to be as popular as ever. Mr Edward Lewis as Tweedlepunch makes excellent use of his opportunities, and as Gilfain Mr Fred Winn looks and acts the character admirably. Miss Lena Maitland shows a thorough grasp of the part of Dolores, and sings with much expression, and Frank Abercoed has again a capable and popular exponent in Mr Leonard Russell. The Lady Holyrood of Miss Isabelle Dillon is also a capital performance of its kind. Miss Hilda Dugdale gives considerable charm to the part of Angela Gilfain, whose lover, Captain Donegal, has a smart and promising representative in Mr J. Paul Callan. Mr William Rousell makes a characteristic Leandro, and the parts of Valleda and Carmita are well filled by Miss Lylia Granville and Miss Ethel Faber respectively.

ROYAL PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr Hugh Murdoch.—Mr Walter Melville's company is here on a return visit to Glasgow with the exciting drama, Her Second Time on Earth. Abounding as it does in strongly defined characters, this play is drawing eager crowds nightly. Miss Hilda Beverley as Dora Grey gives a vivid representation of the demi-mondaine, while in strong contrast is the grand old sailor, Capt. Jasper Norman, effectively played by Mr Chas Franmore. Mr Cecil A. Melton as Jack Carlton makes a fine manly hero, and Mr St. John Stuart is equally good as his friend Tom Norman. Miss Elaine Vanbrugh as Laura Norman is an engaging heroine; Miss Polly Marsh as a drunken old woman gives a forcible picture of the character; and Mr Wilton J. Selby is a picturesque representative of an Italian organ-grinder; Mr Charles Girdlestone as Guy Brand acts the villain with immense power. The comedy of the play is well carried on by Miss Nana Flensberg as Kitty Rosebud and Mr Fred Ingram as Teddy Butterfly.

GRAND THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr A. Mascard.—Mr Rich Waldon's company is appearing here in East Lynne. Produced by a decidedly capable company, this play continues to draw as well as ever. Miss Grace Lester is very realistic as Lady Isabel, and the part of Archibald Carlyle has a strong representative in Mr Lewis Leslie. Mr C. Quinton Fulford submits an excellent performance as Francis Levison, and Mr Frank V. Fenn as Richard Hare and Miss Margaret R. Frame as Barbara Hare are very effective. Mr Jos Barker as Justice Hare, Mr Robt. Harvey as Lord Mountsevern, Miss Jenny M'Intrye as Cornelia, and Miss Bessie Douglas as Joyce are all well placed.

METROPOLE, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr John Dunbar.—Man to Man, as presented by Mr William Bourne's company, is a safe draw here. Mr Charles Boult gives a good rendering of the part of George Gordon, so long played by Mr Bourne. Miss Maud Buchanan is a charming and sympathetic Ethel Maythorn; Mr J. Royden gives all the exquisite vindictiveness to the part of Richard Ellerton; Mr A. Moore acts with quiet dignity as Matthew Ellerton; as Bill Burkley Mr Ellis J. Preston infuses a vein of grim humour into the part; the amorous spinster, Lavinia Dove, is safe in the experienced hands of Miss Clarrie Ash; Miss Alys Elan acts well as the young clerk Ned Doyle; and the gipsy girl is well played by Miss Amy Vennimore. Miss Lydia Hart as Mary and Mr Will Clement as Plumtree provide a lot of funny business. Mr Frank Liston plays the clergyman with excellent effect.

LICEUM.—Proprietor, Mr Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. H. Oakden.—The Milton-Rays' company in A Hot Night is drawing good houses this week. Mr Arthur Milton as Frank Frith is responsible for much of the fun, a remark which applies alike to Messrs Francis Hope as Flutterwig, Harry T. Butler as Mark Maybery, and Maxwell Stewart as the Professor, but the major part of the sport falls to Mr Rolando Martin as Whiffles, whose comical byplay and singing are most enjoyable. As Captain Drake Mr James Sherwin has a good part, of which he makes much. Miss Susie Beavan sings several songs in good taste, and is very successful in the rôle of Polly Drake, while Miss Clara Reid as Lucy sings and dances herself into favour. Miss Adeline Montagu as Mrs Flutterwig is a sound actress, and excellent support is given by Misses Madge and Jessie Wrae as Fanny Frith and Mary Maybury. The Eldorado Quartet in skipping-rope and acrobatic turns find much favour.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss's Empires, Limited.—The management is still providing fine companies at this popular house. The bill is headed this week by Mr A. C. Lilly and company, in Drummed Out. Chung Ling Soo, the Chinese conjuror, is fulfilling his second week, and delighting everyone with his mystic art. Miss Harriett Vernon still remains a favourite, and her character song of the olden time takes the fancy of the audience immensely. A clever turn is that of Jas. Grant, and the Two Romers, who sing the popular duet, "Love and War," are also a pleasing turn. Rayfayette's Dogs added to the variety, and Frank Lynne proves himself a popular comedian. Rezene and Robini, eccentric trapeze artistes, are very good, a remark which also applies to G. F. Best, comedian. Gus Garrick and Josh Dixon, two old favourites, are happy in their comic business.

ZOO-HIPPODROME, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr Alfred Selwyn.—Richard Sawade and his great array of trained lions, tigers, polar bears, &c., are now in their third week and proving a big draw; Joe Almasio, "the jumping juggler," is very smart, and his comic assistant ably diversifies the turn; Martine and Son, song illustrators, catch the fancy of the audience; Brothers Wragg, gymnasts; and the Three Rickards, acrobats, are two turns of outstanding merit; Kimberley Boys as comedians are very diverting; Dan Thomas, Sisters Anderson, and Nelson Hardy contribute acceptable items. The band performances in the Zoo portion are an attractive feature.

TIVOLI, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Barney M. Armstrong; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred C. Ewing.—This week an attractive programme is submitted here. The Adonis Trio, American eccentrics, are in great favour, their business being original and amusing. Other interesting turns include George French, character comedian; Bros. Lavelle, comedy acrobats; Esme Gordon, comedienne and dancer; Fred Dunstone, character comedian; Mezzetti and Mora, bar performers; Amy Bell, comedienne; the Bothets, acrobats and contortionists; and Prince Bendon's Bioscope, with films showing Hackenschmidt in the wrestling contest.

PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs Rich Waldon and Thos. Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr David Douglas.—Yukio Tani, the Japanese wrestler, is working up great excitement here, his novel methods being a surprise to the audiences. Bouts have taken place with many well-known local and other wrestlers, and the interest is keen. Miss Carola's miniature circus is a popular turn. Geo. Ripon gets a good reception from his old friends here. The Waltons as Chinese equilibrists are neat in all their tricks. Alf Aubyn, Ward Brothers, Lucy Weston, Fred Fox, and a clever extra turn on the high bars are all well received.

QUEEN'S, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr T. J. Colquhoun; Acting-Manager, Mr B. M. Armstrong, jun.—Another good company appears here this week, the attraction being the engagement of an old Glasgow favourite, Horace Wheatley, who is heard to much advantage in several new and up-to-date songs. Robbins and Collier in a clever sketch, The Photographer and the Lady, are amusing. The Bothets as comedy acrobats get a rousing reception. Mr and Mrs Harold Findon in their farce, A Desperate Remedy, are much appreciated. The company also includes Edgar Budden, bone soloist; the Sisters Aindow, musical speciality artistes; Maud Darlow, comedienne; Maud Beaumont, burlesque actress; and Prince Bendon's Bioscope.

PAVILION, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Manager, Mr Alfred Selwyn.—Rosina Casselli and her Mexican dogs provide an excellent turn here. The cycling display of the Valdares is one of the best and most daring we have seen. George W. Leslie and company in Chums provide a lively sketch. Wells and August as comedy jugglers prove exceedingly popular. The musical turn of the Four Maisanos is very good. Dan Filmer, comedian and dancer; Alf Hurley, vocalist; Doris Lillian, and Brothers Donar complete a good programme.

GLOUCESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, Messrs C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr W. H. Weller.—A return visit is being paid this week by Miss Cissie Moxon's company in A Trip to Rum-Fum. Miss Moxon plays Flossie in bright style; Mr W. Garvey as Larry O'Hooligan is highly appreciated; and Mr W. S. Hutchinson is a capital Biddy O'Hooligan. Mr Jim Woods is a comical Van Swanck; and as Cecil Toff Mr Charles Russell works hard and successfully. Miss Lily Mayfield is prominent as Angelina Toff, and a smart and clever impersonation of Peggy O'Hooligan is given by Miss Kitty Jones. Miss Kathleen Kemp is a vivacious Thady Clancy; Mr R. H. Handon is prominent as Sharpe Scrivener; and Miss Marjorie Manifold is excellent as Percy Vere. Mr Cecil Dainton is good as Paddy Doyle, and this remark applies to Mr Ernest Victor as Bill Burley. The Saxon Troupe of dancers are awarded hearty applause. The scenery and dresses are first class.

GOOLE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr John E. Tomlinson.—Messrs Clifford Rean and Sydney T. Pease's Company commenced a three nights' engagement here on Monday with the comedy-drama, A Tempter of Women. The piece abounds in sensational incidents. Mr Clifford Rean himself in the character of Horatio Buskin was vastly amusing; Mr Forbes Murray acted the part of Reeves Delmere, the villain, in a bold and spirited manner; Mr David Phillips was capital as Benjamin Isaacs; and Mr Harry Housden makes the most of the part of Bill Sleath. Mr Sidney T. Pease played with manly effect as Harold Vaughan; Mr Bob Ronald as Jerry Blythe and Mr Fred Weston as Duke A. Phillipino were both highly successful; Miss Nesta Sandford gave a remarkably clever impersonation of Kate, Countess of Gunislake; Miss Lilly Lloyd was sprightly and vivacious as Polly Phillipino; and Miss Nelly Murray made an excellent Rhoda Sleath. Miss Jessie Gillette was bright and engaging as Little Lord Gunislake.

GREAT GRIMSBY.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—A new drama, Defending His Honour, presented by Messrs Carson and Granville's company has appeared here this week. The plot is largely of a domestic character, with a strong pathetic element. Mr John Davidson accomplishes good work as Douglas Brice, and Miss F. Melrose-Millst wins favour as Ethel Bryce. Mr Clifton Boyne presents the character of Stephen Graid with good effect, and the same may be said of Mr Chas. N. Herbert as George Duncan. Mr John Hignett ably impersonates the Irishman, Jack Damish; whilst some amusing comedy scenes are provided by Mr F. L. Arthur as Richard Verison, Mrs Edmond Lyons as Theresa Verison, Mr Kenneth Black, jun., as Dick Verison, and Miss Lilian Matthews as Trixie Lucien.

HIPPODROME.—An extremely laughable pantomime sketch, My Pet, has been presented here this week by the Asher Troupe. The surprises it contains in the shape of trick scenery and properties are highly diverting. Miss Fredrica's troupe of performing toy terriers have also given an interesting turn, whilst the game lady's cake-walking pony has provided a decided novelty. Amy Anderson and company's coster speciality has created much amusement, the distribution of bananas among the audience being naturally a popular feature. Pete and Juno's Negro business was a smart performance, it including some clever dancing. H. O. Wills, comedian, has given some good songs. Zasma's exhibition of gymnastic exercises has given considerable pleasure. The Rameses have contributed some excellent Egyptian living pictures, whilst others appearing have been the Lorrisons, comedy artists.

EMPIRE, CLEETHORPES.—Chas. Pastor, the well-known comedian, has entertained the audiences at the Cleethorpes house this week. His laughing songs are particularly good, and have created much amusement. Fredo has caused much mystification with his puzzling illusions; Kavanag

GATESHEAD.

METROPOLE THEATRE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Straughan.—Aerial Whirlwinds are creating a sensation here. Fanny and Harry Dent provide much amusement in the sketch Mary and the Squire; the Patty Bros. are first-class acrobats; and the Sisters Devona, lady gymnasts, do an interesting turn. The bill is made up by Miss Edie Anderson, comedienne and dancer; Harry Zetter, comedian; the Bros. Ralston, characteristic duettists; Herman Friscari, hat manipulator and juggler; the Sisters Llewellyn, vocalists; and J. H. Milburn.

GREAT YARMOUTH.

ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor, Mr J. W. Nightingale; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Scott Phipp. —The Girl from Kay's, played by Mr George Dance's company, is drawing crowded houses this week. In the title-rôle Miss Lily Lingard is natural and tactful; Miss May Martin is very successful as Norah Chalmers; Miss Polly Prim is charming and vivacious as Ellen, and dances delightfully; Harry Gordon is capitally represented by Mr Garnet Wilson, who wins hearty applause for his admirable rendition of the song "I don't care;" Mr Tom Shelford is droll as the Hon. Percy Fitzthistle; Mr Sam Lysons is highly amusing as Theodore Quench; Mr Charles Goold is drily humorous as Joseph; Mr Johnnie Schofield is irresistible as Max Hoggenheimer, giving a most diverting representation of the rich parvenu. Mr and Mrs Chalmers are well played by Mr H. Champion and Mr T. Reynolds.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr J. W. Nightingale.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company is here with that charming comedy Cousin Kate. Miss Lilias Earle is exceedingly winning and natural as Kate Curtis; Heath Desmond is effectively played by Mr Yorke Stephens; Mr Walter Ringham gives a capital character sketch as the Rev. James Bartlett; Master Vyvian Thomas is pert and precocious as Bobby Spencer; Mrs Spencer is well played by Miss Helen Leyton; Amy Spencer is cleverly depicted by Miss Hilda Honiss; Jane is admirably represented by Miss Betty Castle. A Case for Eviction forms the curtain-raiser.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr George Gilbert.—A well-varied programme is capitally received here. Les Francois give an extraordinary exhibition of tumbling; the Sisters Moulier contribute a daring act on the horizontal bars; Lady Mansel's juvenile concert party delight with their clever and artistic performance. Other turns well received are Caban, with his ponies; Dubois, the man-monkey; the Sisters Lizette, acrobats; Baby Culeen, the child rider; the Hulines, musical eccentrics; the Royal Bioscope; and the hunting spectacle Tally Ho!

BRITANNIA PIER PAVILION.—Managing-Director, Mr J. W. Nightingale; Acting-Manager, Mr Edward Gray.—Mr Charles Coborn continues to delight and amuse with new songs and old favourites; J. W. Rowley still keeps to the front as a popular comedian; Fred Neiman proves himself an exceedingly clever ventriloquist; Miss Maud Grundy (of Madame Angless's Band) contributes well-played harp solos; and other items in the programme are the Two Weirs, duettists and dancers; Miss Ella Dean, contralto artiste; Miss Maud Marlowe, burlesque actress; the Revell Troupe, in Mischief; and the American Biograph.

WELLINGTON PIER PAVILION.—Proprietors, Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr Harry Tunbridge.—Walton and Lester continue to amuse with their travesty as wizards; My Fanoy dances nimbly and dexterously; Sam Mayo gains plenty of applause as a comedian; Stella Stanley pleases with her songs; the Three Novells give a capital acrobatic turn; Eugene and Willie are clever musical clowns; Julia Leslie wins favour as a ballad vocalist; and Lennie and Hast contribute a fantasy entitled A Christmas Dream.

GORLESTON PAVILION.—Mr D'Arcy Clayton's humorous musical entertainers continue high in public favour. Miss Florence Croft and Miss Barbara Antoine sing delightfully. Mr Fred Milner sings, recites, and jokes himself into the favour of his audience. Mr D'Arcy Clayton contributes songs in effective style. Mr Robert Tattersall mystifies with his magic and amuses with his ventriloquial sketches. Mr Eric Davidson wins loud applause for his well-rendered songs.

GREENOCK.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the Executors of the late Mr Alexander Wright; Managers Messrs A. B. Wright and J. J. Wright.—Mr W. H. Hallatt's company is here this week with Two Little Sailor Boys. Mr W. H. Hallatt is convincing as Commander Tregarthen; Mr Leonard Booker acquits himself creditably as Lieutenant Redstone; Mr Edward Warden as Captain Yorke is a general favourite; Mr George Cecil Murray ably impersonates Admiral Grey; and Mr Oscar Power is an amusing Jack Jolly, being ably seconded by Mr Sid Cotterell, who is responsible for much fun as Ben Baxter. Mr Ambrose Horton enacts Jim Royston with ability; Miss Blanche Steele is a great success in the part of Lola Grey; Miss Marie Daventry is a charming Mildred Grey; and Miss Hilda Taylor a sprightly and attractive Lucy Wilson. Miss May Day and Miss Ethel Frances in the part of the Two Little Sailor Boys are well received, and Miss Dorothy Lennox is all that can be desired as Mary Primrose.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Harry Lavery Skivington.—The above theatre reopened for the autumn and winter season on Monday, when a talented company of artistes amused an excellent audience. Shack Seebold, Swiss instrumentalist, gives a clever performance on various instruments; the Raies, speciality dancers, are applauded; Gus Ryder imitates various birds in a marvellous manner; Tom Bassett, Shakespearian comedian, is very amusing; Ward Kemp, baritone, uses a good voice with effect; Bennett and Martell, comedians and acrobats, create much fun; the Henderson-Stanley Quartet, dancers and vocalists, provide an interesting turn; and the Electrograph completes the bill.

GUERNSEY.

ST. JULIAN'S HALL.—Lessee, Mr C. Robert Perkins.—On Tuesday the boards here were occupied by Messrs Addison and Maxwell's company in Quality Street. Mr George Brandram gives a polished and vigorous rendering of Valentine Brown, Mr A. C. F. Lysom is diverting as Ensign Blades, Mr Dan Dyer is the Sergeant, Miss Florence Jackson as Phœbe delights all by her charming acting and personality, and Miss Grace Edwin wins applause by her performance as Susan Throssell. On this occasion a new act-drop of Moullin Huet Bay, painted by Mr C. A. Lowe, was used, and was greatly admired.

HALIFAX.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Robinson; General Manager, Mr Otto C. Culling.—A great attraction here this week is Miss Madeline Barber, in her sensational act, "Looping the Loop" The daring feat is watched in breathless silence, and at its conclusion the applause is spontaneous and hearty. The Lukushima Troupe of Japanese acrobats are well known here, and are deservedly popular; Ella Retford, comedienne and dancer, is enthusiastically received; Aga floats in mid-air to the bewilderment of the audience; Charles Serra is a versatile and clever artist; Rose Harvey is attractive; Arthur St. George sings topical songs with tact and force; and the Biograph has some good up-to-date films.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Steuart Cecil.—Mdlle. Ella, with her troupe of lions, gives a daring and wonderful performance; Starr and Leslie supply some smart songs and juggling; Daisy James, comedienne, is popular; Jack Charman's sentimental ballads are affecting; Morny Cash is a funny comedian; the Imperial Boys' Orchestra is admirably trained; and Sylvo plays well on novel instruments.

HANLEY.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Elphinstone.—Mr J. F. Elliston's company is paying a visit this week in In Old Kentucky. The piece is well staged and admirably acted. Miss Amy Hermann is well placed as Madge Brierley, her impersonations being clever; Frank Harley is admirably portrayed by Mr Frank Strickland, Colonel Beauchamp finds a good representative in Mr A. S. Bankes, Miss Edith Halford shows much ability as Alethea Harley, Mr Harry Leander's performance as Neb is excellent, Mr Eric Hudson as Jasper Grafton plays with much power, and Mr Chas. Hermann as Joe Lorey is seen to great advantage.

GRAND.—Managing-Director, Mr Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr James Wynes.—The Caledonian Boys head the bill this week in their remarkably clever and entertaining musical performance. The Eugene Family are gymnasts of extraordinary ability; Frank Maura as a balancer has but few rivals; Florence and Lilian contribute an admirable musical turn; Wallau, the boy juggler, shows much ability; Verno and Voyce are seen in the capital scena entitled Jack Sheppard; Johnny Holland and company present a funny sketch in My Friend the Boots; Violet Wilton sings and dances admirably; Frank Coyle is a comedian of merit; and Walter Stanley sings his songs in capital style.

HARROGATE.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr R. Hullah.—Messrs Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's company opened here for three nights, and a matinée on Monday, in Mr J. M. Barrie's play Little Mary, in which Mr Arthur Holmes-Gore played capitally as the Earl of Carlton, and Miss Christine Silver portrayed the part of Moira Loney with an ability that greatly enhanced the success of the play. Mr A. Kightley, Mr A. W. Baskcomb, Mr George Mudie, Mr Ean Macdonald, Mr F. J. Watts, and Miss Elspeth Dudgeon, Miss Evelyn Nellida, and Miss Beatrice Kelston ably sustained the other parts. The Bugle Call was put on as a curtain-raiser. Mr Martin Harvey and company, in The Breed of the Treshams, was announced for Thursday evening.

KURSAAL.—Manager, Mr H. J. Dacre.—The week's attractions, in addition to the promenade concerts, have included Mr George Grossmith and party, Miss Ada Reeve and party, and the Rinaldo Trio. On Wednesday Mr Landon Ronald conducted a programme of his own works, and for to-day the band and pipers of the Gordon Highlanders are announced.

HARTLEPOOL.

EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Messrs Councillor Everton and J. W. Craggs.—The bill for this week is headed by the Manello and Marnitz troupe of acrobats and equilibrists in a performance that elicits well-deserved applause. Return visits are paid by Ryder Sloan, vocalist; George Prince, the crazy comic; and Charles Vandyke's company with the pantomimic absurdity Nicodemus. An acceptable comedy act is contributed by the Dillon Trio, and other attractions are Brothers Obo, comedians; Burns's Bioscope; Flo Harris, burlesque actress; and Florence Schubert, comedienne.

HASTINGS.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Geo. H. Gaze.—On Monday Mr Tom B. Davis's company, directed by Mr Wentworth Croke, opened here in Florodora. Mr Daly Cooper repeated his clever impersonation of Anthony Tweedlepunch, and his drolleries evoked hearty laughter. The Cyrus W. Gilfain of Mr C. J. Barber was quaintly humorous, and Mr F. Knowles as Captain Arthur Donegal showed abundance of life and action. Miss Ethel Dunbar sang agreeably as Dolores. The Lady Holyrood of Miss Rene Steadman was full of dainty grace, and Miss Daisy Byford was an attractive Angela Gilfain. The orchestra was under the able direction of Mr J. H. Hutchison.

HASTINGS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master, Mr R. Turner.—Large audiences are still attracted here by Ashton's Italian orchestra, under the conductorship of Signor Comuni. Combined with the musicians in the concerts are Miss Erskine, Mr Frank Tebbutt, and Miss Yvonne Lamor, vocalists, whose delightful renderings of the songs allotted to them are listened to with much pleasure.

ST. LEONARDS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master, Mr Elvey Thomas; Entertainment Manager, Mr Drew Mackintosh.—Mrs Bandmann-Palmer and company are drawing good audiences here this week. In The School for Scandal Mrs Palmer presents a faultless impersonation of Lady Teazle, being admirably seconded by Mr Sydney Bland in the character of Sir Peter. The contrast of temperament between the brothers, Charles and Joseph Surface, is particularly marked by Mr F. Skein and Mr William Trant. Sir Oliver is well represented by Mr C. Kingsley. Mr G. Munro as Crabtree and Mr Boyd Pearson as Sir Benjamin Backbite both present natural portrayals. Maria is very prettily taken by Miss Hodgson, and Miss Henthorn and Miss K. Herbert are equally successful in the respective parts of Lady Sneerwell and Mrs Candour. Minuets are gracefully danced, and the costumes and accessories are characteristic of the period. During the week Mrs Palmer has announced Hamlet, Mary Queen of Scots, Sapho, Nell Gwyn, and The Merchant of Venice.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr Harold Penny; Musical Director, Mr W. Denton.—Mr Dave O'Toole, the Irish comedian, opens a good programme here. Miss Flo Challis obtains a flattering reception as a comedienne; Mr Ernie Mayne is an amusing comedian; a smart and clever duologue is introduced by the Paytes (Frank and Violet); Miss Gwen Howard, an attractive comedienne, is warmly welcomed; some excellent fooling accompanies the comedy sketch given by Morris and Morris; Mr Harry Bedford achieves a great success with his amusing songs; and a welcome return visit is being paid by the talented coster comedienne, Miss Kate Carney.

HEBBURN.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr W. A. Jackson.—A Woman Adrift is the attraction here this week. Mr Leslie Beauford gives an excellent impersonation of Sir John Ingleby; Mr Sanderson Moffatt ably portrays the part of Ferdinand Castro; and the title-rôle, Cora Leigh, finds a most agreeable exponent in Miss Phyllis Hamilton. Stella Ferdinand is taken by Miss Violet Keand with grace and effect; Mr Charles Wilson is the cause of much amusement as Jibbs, the coster; and an exceedingly pleasing Rupert Ingleby is to be found in Miss Phyllis Graham. The play throughout is very well staged.

ILKESTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr L. F. A. Rogers.—Excellent dramatic fare is provided this week by Messrs Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company, in the new drama, When a Man Hates, a notice of which appears elsewhere.

INVERNESS.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing Director, Mr Cameron Burgess.—Messrs Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell's company has been here for the first three nights of this week with Quality Street. Mr F. Vernon Travers appeared with success in the part of Valentine Brown; Mr Edward Jephson was amusing as Ensign Blades; Mr Egerton Hine enacted Lieut. Spicer with ability; Mr Frank Mann thoroughly entered into the spirit of the character of the Recruiting Sergeant; Miss Nellie Bowman delighted the audience in the part of Miss Phœbe Throssell; Miss Maud Townsend skilfully depicted Miss Susan Throssell; and Miss Violet Vivian as Patty created much laughter.

IPSWICH.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. G. Fisk.—Sweet and Twenty has been played here by Messrs Murray King and Clark's company. Mr George Miller gives a clever study of the Rev. James Floyd. Mr Murray King strikes a congenial note as the handy man of the Vicarage, and Master Willie King does full justice to the character of Chris. Messrs R. Milstead and Lionel Glenister are both well suited to their respective parts. Miss Lilias Waldegrave as the Housekeeper and Miss Rosalie Jacobi as Joan show themselves to be accomplished actresses.

JARROW.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Hugh Robertson; Secretary, Mr William J. Oakes.—Mr Charles March's company is here in The Priest of the Temple. Mr Charles March gives a powerful rendering of the part of Valerius, and Mr Ronald Bayne is commendable as Decus Fronto. Mr Henry Moxon is well placed as Appius Herdonius. Mr Stanley May is capital as Hermanus. Caius Marcius is done full justice to by Mr Henry Oakley, and the part of Schofas is ably interpreted by Mr Alf. Lockhart. That of Polita is ably handled by Miss Evelyn Hope, and Miss Maria North gives a telling performance as Praestantia.

KEIGHLEY.

QUEEN'S THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Business Manager, Mr Frank Barnes.—The Lady Slavey has been seen here many times. However, Mr Greet's company retain their hold on Keighley audiences, and old faces receive a hearty welcome. Mr Frank Sherlock's performance of Roberta loses none of its attractiveness, and Mr Allen Morris renders the old favourite songs in good style. Lord Lavender is in the capable hands of Mr Walter T. Hybert; Mr Harry Walsh is a sprightly Major O'Neil; Phyllis finds a good exponent in Miss Addie Lennard; Miss Millicent Marsden is an effective Flo Honeydew; Maude and Beatrice are well played by Miss Jean Van Dalle and Miss Ethel Ashton, and their Terpsichorean efforts are loudly applauded.

KENDAL.

ST. GEORGE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr R. F. Chorley; Manager, Mr J. W. Butler.—Last week-end Mr Chas. Macdona's company, in A Chinese Honeymoon, gave two performances to crowded houses. Miss Cissy Schofield fairly convulsed the house with her quaint impersonation of Fi Fi; Miss Mamie Finbow was a charming Soo Soo; a finished character sketch was the "official mother-in-law," as depicted by Miss Julie St. George; Mr G. P. Ascot was strikingly original as Mr Pineapp'e, being well supported by Miss Dorothy Payne as Mrs Pineapple. Mr Edgar K. Favelle as Tom Hatherton and Mr Lester Carey as Hang Chow filled their respective rôles with distinction. The play was staged and dressed most effectively.

KETTERING.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Payne.—Mr Augustus Lytton's company is here in A Hidden Crime. As Jack Harrington Mr Aidan Lovett gives a manly impersonation; Mr Lytton presents a fine rendering of the character of Henry Adair; and Mr F. H. Neville is sufficiently villainous as Cecil Newton. Mr Harry Ray is seen to advantage as Tom Dacre, his songs and eccentric dancing being enthusiastically received; the droll humour of Mr Wallie Dunlop as Curly Black is quite acceptable; Miss Hilda Clyde is successful as Rose Adair; and Miss Bessie Frank is a vivacious Kitty Raynor. Miss Marguerite Romney as Marie Ferrara and Miss Jessie Lyons as Mrs Brander display considerable ability. The other characters are ably sustained.

KIDDERMINSTER.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr D. C. Gudgeon.—On Monday Mr William A. Armour's company commenced a week's engagement in What a Woman Did. Mr William A. Armour gives a fine representation of the part of Conrad De L'Orme; Messrs Kenneth Smith and Miss Simpson are respectively good as Raffaelle Duroc and Fritz Von Hoegithein, and Miss Phyllis Annersley as Elsie De L'Orme is realistic. The piece is well mounted.

LEEDS.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr John Hart; General Manager, Mr Fredk. Vincent.—The Royal Carl Rosa opera company is always assured of an enthusiastic welcome here, and this week's visit is no exception, for notwithstanding the sultry weather large and demonstrative audiences have been the rule. Monday evening saw an exceedingly fine presentation of Lohengrin, with Mr E. C. Hedmondt filling the name part in the accomplished style with which we are familiar. Elsa was a charming yet convincing portrayal of Miss Lizzie Burgess, a most promising recruit. The fine singing and dramatic action of Madame Augusta Renard as Ortrud was a much admired feature. Mr Chas. Victor, Mr Frank Arthur, and Mr Arthur Winckworth also filled their parts with distinction. An admirable performance of Faust was submitted on Tuesday, with Mr E. C. Hedmondt in the title-rôle, and a newcomer, Miss Una Bruckshaw, in a distinguished portrayal of the heroine. Also in the répertoire are Carmen, Bohemian Girl, Tannhauser, and Don Giovanni. Mr Eugene Goosens and Mr Walter Van Noorden are the musical directors.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; General Manager, Mr R. Ernest Liston.—Messrs Haddon and Loader's company remains here a second week with a change of programme. This time it is the exciting drama The Greatest Scoundrel Living. Mr Jack Haddon ably portrays the heavy lead, and receives strong assistance from his company, of whom Mr John Cecil, Miss Marie Rayner, and Miss Thorne Hallam are prominent members. The humorous element is well sustained by Mr Wm. Myers, Mr Wilton Bedford, and Miss Lottie Pearce.

QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs Dottridge and Longden; General Manager, Mr C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr Chas. Bush.—A bright and frolicsome entertainment, The New Barmaid, is proving a popular engagement at this theatre to judge by the excellent patronage bestowed. That clever comedian, Mr J. B. Montague, is filling his old part of Bertie White with huge success. Miss Gladys Elvey plays the name part in vivacious style, and Mr Harrison Brockbank's fine voice is heard to advantage in his portrayal of Captain Lovebury. Mr Albert Weston is responsible for much clever and humorous work as Mons Bonsor; and the Dora Heather of Miss Madge Merry is also a praiseworthy effort; whilst other leading parts are capably undertaken by Mr Herbert Cottesmore and Miss Hilda Blanche. The fine work of the chorus and pretty dresses and staging are big features of the production.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr T. Gerald Morton.—That prime favourite, Harry Randall, is largely responsible for the crowded state of this popular hall during the present week, his clever songs and patter evoking the greatest hilarity. At the other end of the bill we have a novel turn by Les Brunins, billiard-table experts; Abel and Welsh go through a clever exhibition of eccentric acrobatics; the De Kock Bros. are smart in gymnastic and balancing feats; and an acrobatic pantomime by the Mannings is also an entertaining feature; Ben Albert is a quaint and amusing comedian; a smart conjuring and sleight-of-hand performance is contributed by Kahn and Kahn; Beatrice Willey and Milner Verren are responsible for vocal entertainment; and the Olive Trio, song and dance artists, also appear.

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr Thos. Barrasford; General Managers, Mr Edgar O. Waller and Mr Chas. Weldon.—A favourite comedienne, Lottie Lennox, is the star turn here, and pleases greatly with some capital songs. The famous handcuff king, Hardeen, pays a welcome return visit, and repeats his marvellous performance. Feats of strength by Vansart form a prominent feature. The Zanettos are Japanese artistes of many talents. The Jurgens Trio are seen in an acrobatic speciality, and those clever comediennes and skipping-rope dancers, the Sisters Anderson, also contribute. Other turns include Gracie Taylor, burlesque artiste; Harry Walker, and Harry Thurston, comedians.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr F. W. Wood; General Manager, Mr J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr S. Jones.—An entertaining song-scena, Ten Minutes before Lights Out, presented by the Five M.I's, is amongst the most popular features here. The Sisters Geretti contribute a graceful and expert performance on the double trapeze; George Bendon evokes considerable applause with a clever song speciality of the coon variety; King Leo, the ventriloquist, scores nightly with his novel turn; the Rushforths, song illustrators, are very popular; capital vocal work is done by Harry Gray, the Australian artiste; and Post Mason, a good baritone. Selly and Myers, comedians, and Steeley and Dowton, the comedy pair, are also appearing.

LEICESTER.

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr C. D. Leigh.—A return visit of the laughter-provoking comedy Are You a Mason? is the attraction here this week, being presented in excellent style by Mr George Edwardes and Charles Frohman's company. There was a good house on Monday, which enjoyed to the full the many funny situations created. Mr Anthony Fawcett as Fisher, Mr Harry Asford as Amos Bloodgood, and Mr Stephen Wentworth as Frank Perry give admirable embodiments of their respective parts. Mr Tom Mowbray is good as John Halton, the same remark applying to Mr Valentine O'Conor as Ernest Morrison. Miss Violet Graham invests the rôle of Mrs Perry with much charm, and Miss Harriett Trench is excellent as Mrs Caroline Bloodgood. The Annie and Lulu of the Misses Lily Beagle and Isla Glynn are depicted with much cleverness. The comedietta Hushed Up precedes.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Sole Lessee, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General Manager, Mr John H. Clarke.—Rogues of the Turf, under the personal direction of Mr George R. Montford, is occupying the boards this week. The play, which is on a first visit, is of a most interesting sporting character, and is realistically staged, racehorses and a replica of the paddock of the new Manchester Racecourse being conspicuous features. Mr John F. Preston as Joe Flaxman, an old trainer, is seen to considerable advantage; Miss Gertrude Godart as Marion, an adventuress, contributes a clever portrayal; Mr Geo. R Montford as Captain Dudley Clinton and Mr Harry H. Rignold as Moses Solomon, the rogues, play with success; Mr Harry Benson is well placed as Sam Flaxman; and Mr Ernest R. Allen is good as Arthur Somerton. Miss Susie Fradelle makes a sympathetic Nellie Flaxman, and Miss Mabel F. Barlow an attractive Phillis Warzell.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Leonard Vidal.—Great interest is centred in this week's "show," as the premier star is the inimitable Dan Leno, who has not been seen in Leicester for many years. Packed houses are the rule, and the reception that is nightly accorded Mr Leno is one that this gifted comedian will no doubt treasure, as Leicester audiences are very critical, and do not bestow their favours easily. At the other end of the bill is May Edouin and Fred Edwards, who score a splendid success with their playlet, A Bachelor's Dream. Tennyson and Wallis are most amusing and popular comedians; James Stewart, the tramp at the piano, goes as well as ever; the Stavordale Quintet, in their wonderful imitation of voices on banjos and harps, are always a success; Miss Florence Esdaile vocalises to the delight of all; the Tribune Trio, in their grotesque eccentricity The Cheerful Idiot, raise hearty laughter; the Three Sisters Lee display their versatility as acrobats, vocalists, and dancers; and Charles Austin, eccentric comedian, is a good turn.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr Walter Lapworth.—The Sisters Johgnmanns, the original lady meistersingers, star this week, and evoke delight with their various items; the Brothers Redmond, knockabouts, score their usual success here; Barney Stuart, Irish dialect actor and mimic, displays great cleverness and versatility in his "Impersonalia." Other capital turns are given by J. C. Crowley, comedian; Marion Scott, comedienne; Rose D'Alberg, comedienne; Bessie Lind, serio; and Joe Daniels, pedestal dancer.

LEIGH.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Dewhurst.—This place of amusement is now electrically lighted both on the stage and in the auditorium—an immense improvement. The management has this week secured a company of first-class variety artistes, headed by Winona and King, American speciality artistes, who prove themselves to be crack rifle shots. Mr Percy Curry, comedian, is greatly applauded; Omega, queen of the wire, submits an excellent performance; Professor M'Cann's performing dogs do some clever feats and high jumping; Miss Florrie St. Roy, acrobatic dancer, achieves success; the Onatis (four in number), Algerian jugglers, are responsible for clever juggling; the Abadaroffs (four in number) are a group of excellent acrobats; and Miss Amy Elcock, comedienne, is pleasing.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr T. H. Dunlop.—This place of amusement has been closed for the summer vacation, and during that term great structural alterations have been made, both on and off the stage. The front portion of the auditorium is now fitted with the improved tip-up chairs, and the back portion elevated so that each person has a fine view of the stage. The bill is headed by Mr Norman Mills, who is greatly applauded for his song, entitled "John Bull." Bandoni, the one-man band, plays concertina, drums, and several other instruments at one time; Kelly and Wright, comedy acrobats, are very good; Mr Dan Noble, versatile comedian, is excellent; Miss Marie Yorke is a pleasing vocalist; Mr Wilton Warton, society entertainer, astonishes the audience with his sleight-of-hand performance; Messrs Weatherley and Ellis, Riviera duettists, are possessed of good voices; Messrs Francis and Francis, comedians and patterers, receive a full share of applause; and the Hippodrome pictures are very good.

LLANDUDNO.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr R. Bellis; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Payne.—Miss Fortescue was here supported by an excellent company on the first three nights of this week. On Monday Moths was given. Mr Conway Wingfield supplied a powerful impersonation of Prince Zouroff; Mr Dalziel Heron was successful as Lord Jura; Mr Francis Burdett did well as the Duke of Mull and Cantyre; Mr Cecil Newton scored as Raphael De Corrèze; Miss Miriam Lewis contributed a good impersonation of Duchesse De Sonnax; Miss M. Meredith was commendable as Lady Dolly Vanderdecken; Miss Gladys Jesson as Vere Herbert was capital; Princess Nadine was enacted by Miss Eugenie Vernie in excellent style; and Miss Fortescue showed histrionic ability as Fuchsia Leach.

LINCOLN.

ROYAL.—Manager, Mr Frank King.—Mr Horace Stanley and company, in The 10·30 Down Express, are fulfilling a very successful return visit. Mr H. T. Wood is a breezy Jack O'Malley, and Mr Scott Leighton a decidedly strong James Inderwick. Mr H. L. Day's Scotland-Yard detective is pointed and terse; Mr A. Burton well sustains the rôle of Cuthbert Leigh; and Mr F. C. Roper does well as Coombes. Mr A. E. Francis is good as the man in possession; Miss Adelaide Clare is a distinctly good heroine; Miss E. M. Walton makes a clever character study of Letitia; and Miss Kate Kilpack wins favour as Peggy. Mr Horace Stanley as Sam Wagstaff keeps the house in roars of laughter by his genuine drolleries. The staging is very effective throughout.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Sydney Arthur.—Will H. Fox is the chief attraction this week, and presents an entertainment at once novel, refined, and amusing. Mildare's wonderful whistling takes the audience by storm; Cassie Walmer receives the ovation Lincoln reserves for its especial favourites; and Amber and Alber secure appreciation of a more than ordinarily smart juggling act. Chris Richards is a clever comedian; the Remingtons present an astonishingly skilful Risley act; and other turns come from Eva Ward and Ryder Davis.

LIVERPOOL.

ROYAL COURT THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Arthur Lawrence.—The Girl from Kay's made her welcome reappearance on Monday. Mr George Dance certainly has sent a numerous and talented company, the members of which did credit to the sparkling play. Mr H. C. Barry was a host in himself, and as Hoggenheimer proved irresistible, his every appearance being the signal for uproarious mirth. Miss Simeta Marsden was the sprightly "girl," her singing and dancing being admirable; Miss Alice Russon proved a success as Norah Chalmers; Miss Maisie North was Ellen; Mr Charles Hanbury submitted a capital Harry Gordon; as the Hon. Percy Fitzthistle Mr Leslie Roy Cathie greatly assisted in the fun, especially when, in conjunction with Hoggenheimer, he burlesqued acrobats; and others worthy of mention were Mr Frank Ralph (Joseph) and Mr Frank Rayne (Archie Pembridge). Although the weather for several evenings was extremely oppressive good audiences were present, the Royal Court being noted for its coolness and comfort.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr J. M. Hardie; Acting-Manager, Mr J. Gaffney.—A great treat has been provided here during the week by the visit of Mr E. S. Willard with four gems from his répertoire. He has given The Middleman, The Professor's Love Story, The Cardinal, and Tom Pinch, all of which, needless to say, have been witnessed by delighted audiences. Although the first-named powerful work has often visited Liverpool, Mr Willard had not filled the rôle of Cyrus Blenkarn, consequently the revival has been particularly interesting. On Monday evening his presentation of the great-hearted potter was watched with breathless attention, and there was nothing but unrestrained praise on all sides. His wonderful sonorous voice and easy natural movements almost made the spectator imagine that a real old workman was present. Supporting the famous actor was a capital company. Mr A. S. Homewood gave a strong character sketch of Joseph Chandler, the unscrupulous employer; Mr H. Cane was a sharp, shrewd Batty Todd; Mr Walter Edmonds satisfactorily impersonated Jesse Pegg; and Mr Wm. Sauter was a manly Capt. Julian Chandler. Credit is due in a great measure to Miss Maud Hoffman, who presented a natural picture of the wretched Mary Blenkarn, and to Miss Russ Whytal, who was the other daughter, Nancy. Considerable interest centred in the production on Thursday night of Tom Pinch, a play that has not been given here before.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Licensee, Mr J. G. Howard; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Montgomery, jun.—The return visit of No Man's Land has been the strong attraction here this week, with Miss Ida Millais and company. The play is one of intense interest, and the four acts contain many striking situations, one especially being the bravery of a woman who dives into real water from a height in order to rescue another. The episode "brought down the house." The scenic effects are also good. Included in the company are Miss Ida Millais as Mary Bathurst, the heroine; Mr Henry Herne, Mr Harry Oaklands, Mr Fred Conyers, Mr Wm. Mathews, Mr Alfred Byron, and Mr Sydney H. Morton.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr Fred Coles.—Fred Karno's Troupe in Hilarity heads an excellent programme here. Tom White's Arabs are excellent; the Three Woodbee Wonders set the house in a roar; Burley and Burley are clever and original acrobats; Marie Blythe has a capital song; Duncan is very smart with the clubs; the Waffatangs are clever and amusing coloured dancers and singers; Oswald submits a daring equilibristic performance; and Henriette is a finished 'cellist.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr H. Fineberg; Acting-Manager, Mr M. Simmons.—The Mysteries of the Thames is a work full of powerful scenes of London life. Mr F. Brooke Warren's company is responsible for its production, among the principals being Miss Gwynne Warren, an actress of considerable accomplishments, who undertakes the dual-rôle of Flash Nell and her twin sister, Grace Rochdale. The company also comprises Mr Roy Fortescue, who fills the part of the unfortunate Brandon; Mr F. Brooke Warren, the Hawk; Miss Lallah Shelton, Brandon's wife; and Miss Nellie Palmer, the child Doris. The several views of London haunts and of the Thames are good.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs Carson and Granville; Manager, Mr Fred Granville.—This week the first appearance here of A Woman's Pluck has been greeted by enthusiastic audiences. The work is from the pen of Mr James Willard, who has given to the stage In the Shadow of Night and A Woman of Pleasure. He appeared in his original creation of Dick Darrell, a man with a past, his performance being an excellent one, and strong support was given by Miss East-Robertson as Grace Daremont, an expert lady boxer; Miss Jessie Yatman as Jessie Pope, the persecuted heiress, a pathetic character; and Mr Edwarde Ashby as Winston Dale.

EMPIRE THEATRE, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr H. E. Moss; Acting-Manager, Mr T. A. Cook.—At the top of the bill here this week are Horace Mills and W. H. Rawlins, with a company of artistes who render a comedy oddity, entitled Mashing the Missus, which has proved extremely popular and provoked great merriment. Miss Julie Mackey is second in importance, and received a flattering reception for her many catchy songs. Newhouse and Ward put in another week with their ingenious trick cycling; the Miles-Stavordale Quintet, with their playing of musical instruments imitative of human voices, are a source of keen enjoyment; Foreman and Fannan are a couple of funny comedians; and other capital turns are provided by Charles F. Johnson, with his coon ditties; Dan Crawley, eccentric comedian; Miss Hettie Chattell, burlesque actress, with pleasing songs; the Glenroy Troupe of male and female characteristic dancers; Frank Seeley, eccentric comedian; Lillian Bishop, male impersonator; and Marie Reeve, comedienne and dancer.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Mr John Tiller's spectacular ballet, The Harvest Home, puts in another week, and is received with rapturous applause. The scenery and dresses are much admired. The New York Comedy Four, who pay a return visit, are intensely humorous vocalists, their singing and "business" being cordially received; Sinclair and Whiteford provide a laughable comedy sketch with reference to married life; Bonnie Goodwin and her Apollo piccaninnies give a neat sketch The Hottentots; Felton and Manley submit an athletic scena A Rural Relative; while Charles A. Frazer and Harry Athol's company create some wonderment with their comedy illusion, "Keep your eye on the statue." Others in the programme are Edward Clode, vocalist; George Schindler, musical speciality; and George D'Albert, comedian.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr F. O'Toole.—A long list of artistes has been provided here this week. At the top we have the return engagement of the Breton Troupe of pantomimists (six in number) with their extremely laughable sketches; the Phœnix Quartet perform some wonderful balancing feats; Mannon and Cottrell provide a miniature burlesque drama, Saved from the Watery Grave; the dainty little Simosa San goes through a pretty juggling and balancing entertainment, introducing her trained pigeons; and others who appear are Arthur Beecham, comedian; Beattie Foster, vocalist; Sid Herman, Hebrew comedian; and Wallace Whitney, comedian. The singing competition each evening has proved very popular.

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor, Mr Edwin W. Smith.—Here this week the Sisters Russell head the bill with an exhibition of burlesque low comedy, a good turn. Mr Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic, brings several of his latest successes; Rivington and Gordyn provide comedy duologues; Young Waldron, the favourite boy comedian, puts in another week; Robert Beevers brings his Comicscope with funny songs and pictures; and George Foyle renders several excellent songs. The Bioscope continues to be popular.

PADDINGTON PALACE, LIMITED.—General Manager, Mr J. Kiernan.—A popular turn is given here this week by George White and his Night Arabs, in the farce School, which provokes great laughter. The introduction of the Liverpool Arab cake-walk is a funny incident. Leslie's Bioscope, showing the visit of their Majesties to Liverpool and other pictures, occupies an important place in the programme; Les Laurens' statuary act, including Mill May, who makes quick changes in view of the audience, is a capital turn; and others are Turner and De Gray, Jack Heath, Three Sisters Adrienne, vocalists and dancers; Tell and Tell, acrobats; and Daisy Silcott, comedienne. The cake-walk competitions continue to attract considerable notice.

WESTMINSTER.—Proprietor, Mr M. Montgomery.—Harry Glynn and his company of comedians are here this week with a sketch Before the Beak, which is followed with uncontrollable laughter. Edie Gray and her white coons are sweet vocalists; the Mozondos provide a comedy barrel and tumbling act; and others are Connie Nicholls; Bros. Hayes, comedians and dancers; Bob Nichol, with his impersonations of music hall stars; and the Bioscope, with latest sensational film "The Miser's Daughter."

PARK PALACE.—Director, Mr James Kiernan.—Howell Webb and his company are here with the musical comedy mélange The Convent Bell, which is watched with interest. Mark Anthony is a clever entertainer and vocalist; the Bros. Allison, as eccentric comedians and expert dancers, are well received; and the rest of the bill is filled by Harry Wilbury, Henry Howard, Emily Huby, Jack M'Kenzie, Bella Tilbury, Lewis Thompson, Oliver Birrel, and Ella Sennett.

LLANELLY.

ROYALTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Sole Manager, Mr John Tully.—Mr James Hare's clever company is here with A Woman's Redemption. Miss Irene Clifford greatly distinguishes herself in the part of the gipsy, Ruth; Miss Agatha Halford as Mary Griffiths is exceedingly good; as Sally Slapcabbage Miss Jenny Hallworth is a tremendous success, her songs being received with great applause. Mr Albert H. Clarke is a manly Farmer Griffiths; Mr James Hare sustains the part of the Hon. Bernard Sutcliffe splendidly; Mr Tom Arkinstall as Leonatus Lowe is excruciatingly funny; Messrs John A. Stimson, Hill Cremer, and J. Le Hair as Claudius Lowe, Jew Lee, and Inspector Norris respectively, and Mr Herbert M. King as the Rev. John Ganthony are all efficient.

LONGTON.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. S. Howard.—Mr E. Hill-Mitchelson's Rogues and Vagabonds company is paying a return visit here. As Harry Stamford Mr Bert Morley plays with distinction; the Fernand Delair of Mr E. Pyne is forcible; quite the feature of the piece is the Nathan Baxter of Mr John Cullen, who is ably supported by Mr Harry Creamer as John Lamb. Mr Frank Denis as Police-constable Clegg is very effective, being ably seconded in the comedy by Miss Lillie Wainwright as Sarah Tilley. As Ben Miss Marjory Armstrong is most successful. Miss Lizzie Webb as Hilda Jefferies plays with taste.

MACCLESFIELD.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr W. K. Gatley.—Col. F. S. Cody's company is here this week in The Klondyke Nugget, and on Monday opened to a full house. Vivian Cody as Joe Smith does very well; good work also is accomplished by Leon Cody as Waco; Tom Gilmore as Dr. Paddy O'Donohue is a host in himself, investing the part with much humour and originality; as Sam Deats Mr Edward Leroy is responsible for a powerful portrayal; as Bill Sykes Bob Thorp gives a good impersonation; Miss Edith B. Mumford as Rosie Lee distinguishes herself; and Miss Lillie Kerr as Nellie makes the most of her part.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Will Smithson.—Mr T. Morton Powell's Greed of Gold company opened here on Monday. Mr Carthage Caldcleugh forcibly emphasised the part of Harry Hood. Mr Walter M. Cameron capably interpreted Cull Snig. Miss Edith Wallis was deservedly applauded for her able rendering of Dora Hood. Mr B. Fox as Tom Welstead played with effectiveness, and frequently gained applause. Mr Wilson Summers gave a manly impersonation of Arthur Errol, and other members of the company who valuably assisted were Mr T. G. Warry as Mr Buglestone, Mr Hyland Shea as Conn Creamer, Miss Grace St. John as Mrs Maxwell, Miss Katie Leaver as Kitty Mayfield, and Miss Florrie Wood as Cecil.

MANCHESTER.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr Edmondstone Shirra.—A very favourable reception was accorded to A Man and His Wife, George Fleming's three-act domestic drama, played here this week by a company under the direction of Messrs E. H. Kelly and C. M Hallard. Improvements have taken place in the plot since the play's quite recent production in Liverpool. Mr C. Aubrey Smith plays the husband with very good effect, and the delicate and exacting part of the wife is enacted with character and force by Miss Nina Boucicault, Mr C. M. Hallard contributing his full share to the vigour of the second act. Other interesting rôles are filled very agreeably by Mr E. H. Kelly, Miss Enid Spencer Brunton, and Miss Beatrice Coleman. The play is preceded each evening by a comedietta, Jerry and a Sunbeam, in which Miss Annie Hill and Mr Reginald Dance appear with success.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr George Lee.—Mr James Welch reappeared here on Monday in The New Clown, a farce which is always sure of a hearty welcome from Manchester audiences. Praise of Mr Welch in his part of Lord Cyril Garston, which he renders with all his well-known naïve humour, is almost superfluous; he makes the piece an immense success; and Mr G. H. Snazelle as Mr Dixon and Miss Audrey Ford as Rosie Platt contribute valuable and enjoyable performances. Other notable parts are capitally played by Mr Cyril Harcourt, Mr Harry J. Crane, Mr Leopold Profelt, Mr Leonard Buttress, Miss Estelle Winwood, and Miss Alexandra Carlisle. On Monday Mr James Welch appeared in his original part of Jabez Gover, in The Man in the Street, by way of "curtain-raiser." On the other evenings Angelina's Lover, by Frank Stayton, preceded the farce.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Oscar Barrett; Acting-Manager, Mr H. M. Thorburn.—Amorelle is again the attraction at this popular house.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr W. H. Broadhead; Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The Bells of Haslemere drew a good house here on Monday. The company, which is a very capable one, is under the direction of Mr Charles A. Chandler, and the drama is exceptionally well put on. The scene of the Cane Brake at sunrise is especially fine. Mr Leonard Yorke sustains the part of the hero, his figure, voice, and deportment being everything that could be desired. Miss Mary Hardacre is highly commendable as the heroine, and Mr Montague Turner makes an effective villain.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—An attractive programme is, as usual, submitted here this week, successful items being Cabaret's dogs, a really remarkable animal show; the Earles, American banjoists; the Sisters Asquith, duettists and speciality dancers; Onda and Leon, gymnasts; the Seabornes, in an acrobatic act; and George Essman, juggler. Other good turns are Mint and Mint, entertainers and paper manipulators; Sheila Deans, Scotch comedienne; and George Edney, comedian. The Bradleys, trick cyclists, who are also on the programme, did not appear on Monday night.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—From Scotland Yard is presented here by a company under the direction of Messrs C. and R. Finch-Hatton. Mr C. Finch-Hatton undertakes successfully quite a number of "detective" parts, or disguises; other essential rôles being filled satisfactorily by Mr C. H. Matthews, Mr Graham Smith, Miss Renee Glendover, Miss Nelly Hook, and Miss Marion Forrester; while ample humour is distributed throughout the piece in various capable hands.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Richard Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr W. Berry.—A good audience at this theatre on Monday demonstrated the fact that A Royal Divorce is still a big attraction to local playgoers. It is played by Mr W. W. Kelly's original company, which includes Mr Frederick Victor as Napoleon, a remarkably fine performance, and Miss Edith Cole as Josephine, a part well suited to this actress's emotional gifts. Mr Claude Agnew as Talleyrand, Mr Alfred Greville as Augereau, Miss Ethyle Murray as Marie Louise, Miss Helen Richmond as Stephanie De Beauharnais, and Miss Violet Agnew as Blanche D'Hervas, all contribute to the success; and the staging is capital throughout. The programme includes a benefit on Friday to Miss Edith Cole.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—Percy Henri is the chief attraction here this week, his concertina solos, songs, and stories being much appreciated. A really excellent and refined turn. Dolly Harmer is a capital comedienne, and scores in a strong character song; Jerry and Joey are two of Ginnett's "fiery untamed steeds," and the attempts of the amateurs to ride them in competition cause roars of laughter; the Freans are well to the front, their patter, dances, and songs being very good; Weston and May give a pleasing musical comedy, Married Life; Pollo Jerome is a remarkably clever lady gymnast; Charles Rose does some good clog dancing; and other enjoyable turns are Walker and Lake, purveyors of patter; Lila Foy, comedienne; Adnin and Oram, eccentrics and acrobats; Tate and Tate, comedy acrobats; and the Hippodrome animated pictures.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr P. B. Broadhead.—The Mannons, in a laughter-making pantomimic absurdity entitled Uncle Yank, are responsible for the chief item in this week's programme, and are well received. Flo Deighton, Anglo-American soprano, sings in fine style, and is much appreciated; and Les Belles Americaines are pleasing vocalists and graceful dancers. Meritorious turns are also those of the Sisters Brand, comediennes; Keith and Merson, acrobatic singing comedians; the Brothers Brooks, contortionists and burlesque artistes; and Francis and Melli, in a musical act, Brigands. Beno, "the Continental phenomenon," contributes some feats of balancing; Walter Blake sings and dances acceptably; and Gilbey adds a sensational novelty by climbing in various fashions a tall unsupported ladder. The animated pictures complete.

TIVOLI.—Managing Director, Mr Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr Arthur B. Wilkes.—A capital programme is provided here this week. Alexandra Dagmar, the popular burlesque actress, heads the bill, and comes in for a flattering reception. The Maples are seen to great advantage in a vocal and acrobatic act, Little Japs at Home. Lottie Siegenberg, the quick-change artist, in her clever vocal sketch, The Lady Slavey, is, as usual, highly successful. Esta Stella is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Massona juggles in an expert manner; George Barron is a first-rate eccentric comedian; and George Goldburn makes a hit with a coster song. Other items of interest are Mdlle. Alice Fontainbleau and her cleverly trained dogs, and May and Belle, duettists and dancers.

GRAND.—Lessees, Messrs Thomas Barrasford and Will Sley; Manager, Mr H. C. Arnold, jun.—The programme is excellent this week. Charles Matthews, "the human kangaroo," is here this week, and does some remarkable jumping. The Moxon Family, in their novel acrobatic displays, are clever and amusing; Cheevers and Kennedy are capital eccentric comedians; Rhoda Paul is a talented juvenile comedienne and mimic; Harry Meir juggles cleverly; Lily Lonsdale is a first-rate soprano vocalist; and much amusement is caused by the patter of Ernie Myers, eccentric comedian. Other good turns are Simms and Simms, musical comedians; Joe Archer, comedian, in songs and stories; and a series of up-to-date pictures.

PALACE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr P. Watson; Assistant-Manager, Mr J. H. Stringer.—The honours of the bill here this week are shared by Lil Hawthorne, the well-known burlesque artist, whose songs are well received, and the Kaufmanns, who are well described as the greatest troupe of trick cyclists in the world. Capital business is submitted also by the Borghetti Troupe of head acrobats; Wood and Bates, musical comedians; the Boccaccio Minstrels (second week); Frank Leslie, vocal comedian; May Fallowfield, character vocalist; Kitty Rayburn, comedienne; the Sisters Morgan, duettists and dancers; and George Bohee, vocalist and banjoist. The programme is completed by an orchestral selection and a new series of Palace pictures.

ARDWICK EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Will Collins.—A highly enjoyable programme is provided here this week. Carlotta Levey is prominently successful in her singing of "Bill Bailey;" Kelly and Gillette, assisted by a third, but nameless, acrobat, contribute their laughable billiard table act; May Henderson brings down the house by her vivacious coon dancing; the Tally-Ho Trio submit a capital vocal comedy turn; Griff is seen in a performance bristling with funny sayings and doings; and Conway and Leland, the merry monopedes, create a large share of the entertainment by their quaint acrobatic business. Other enjoyable turns are James Kurry, comedian; Helen Charles, contralto vocalist; J. C. Jimson and his trained animals; Duncan and Godfrey, in a very good coster sketch; and Mdlle. Chalon, a graceful equilibrist.

MARGATE.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr E. Macknight; Business-Manager, Mr Charles E. Hardy.—The English adaptation of La Passerelle, by Cosmo Gordon Lennox, has been played here this week, under the title of The Marriage of Kitty, by Mr Wilson's company. Miss Vera Fordyce plays well in the title part; Mr Sydney Orton gives a good account of himself as John Travers; and Mr Frank Wilson acts well throughout as Sir Reginald Belsize, Bart. Miss Kate Harwood is seen to advantage as the hysterical Madame De Semiano, and Mr J. F. Leighton as Norbury, Mr Royston Keith, jun., as Hampton, and Miss Averil May as Rosalie are all successful contributors to the piece.

GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr C. F. Bawtree.—For the first time in Margate Mr George Dance's company has been presenting The School Girl. Mr Leslie Holland is very successful as Sir Ormesby St. Leger, and excels as comedian, vocalist, and dancer. Mr Lister Morrah uses a melodious voice to advantage as Edgar Viney; Mr Alfred Leslie is an exceedingly droll Tubby Bedford; Mr Charles Adeson plays well as the peppery General Marchmont; Mr Cameron Carr enacts with distinction the rôle of Peter Overend; and Mr Frank Sutton does capitally as Corner, his clerk. Miss Ethel Beech scores a decided success as Lilian Leigh, the runaway school girl, singing brightly, dancing daintily, and making the part particularly attractive. Miss Mildred King makes a picturesque and pleasing Mother Superior; Miss Grace Wixon is an imposing and effective Mrs Marchmont; and Miss Nellie Walbran is a sweet and charming Mamie. Miss Grace Sinclair is an unaffected Cicely, and Miss Nell Hope makes a handsome Saafedra. Miss Eleanor Sevesi plays well as Marianne, the French bonne, a part in which she displays plenty of vivacity.

HALL-BY-THE-SEA.—Sole Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr Charles Evans.—A particularly attractive programme is presented this week, most of the turns being of more than ordinary merit. After Maudie Kendall has given a brief song and dance, Professor Earle, humorist add prestidigitateur, amuses with some sleight-of-hand tricks, and then the Sisters St. Julian give a couple of delightful and tuneful songs and dances, the latter being especially smart. The Four Arizonas, three girls and a boy, display some clever tumbling and hand-balancing, giving also exhibitions of their skill as contortionists. Ferris and Farnley, comedians and dancers, are most amusing in their contributions of song, patter, and quaint jokes. Spring and Spring's barrel and chair jumping is smartly done, and they receive assistance from Rosie Carlo. H. K. Bradshaw, ballad and operatic vocalist, possesses a pleasing tenor voice, and Wally Payne's Bio-Photoscope retains the good impression it made weeks ago by showing an ever-changing series of pictures.

MEXBOROUGH.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr W. H. Melton.—Mr Jas. Willard's company is playing here this week in In the Shadow of Night. Mr H. L. Tracey gives a powerful delineation of Gordon Allington; Mr G. Harvey does well as John Allington; Mr A. Selwyn scores heavily in a dual-rôle as Joe Jackson and Rev. Nath. Hope; Mr C. Taylor (Tom Nainby) and Mr F. Norburn (Jake Grudgewell) also work satisfactorily; Miss May Richardson gives a graceful and refined rendering of the character of Violet Kingston; and Miss Nellie Sheffield is delightfully chic as Molly Woodstock.

MOTHERWELL.

NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr R. C. Buchanan; Resident Manager, Mr W. Gillespy.—This week we have here Mr and Mrs Chalmers Mackey's company, in The Shaughraun. Mr Mackey as Conn is the life of the piece, and sustains his part with great ability; Mr Henry Danson as Robert Ffolliott is also very good; Mr Reginald Garland in the part of Captain Molyneux acts with great refinement; Mrs Chalmers Mackey as Clare Ffolliott takes the audience by storm; Mr Conway Hastings as Squire Kinchella is capital; Father Doolan is well embodied by Mr Sainsbury; and Miss Adele Liddon acts well as Mrs O'Kelly. The rest of the company are well suited.

MIDDLESBROUGH.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, the Middlesbrough Theatres, Limited; Managing-Directors, Messrs Geo. and Charles Imeson.—Mr Walter Melville's company, in A Disgrace to Her Sex, is drawing good audiences here. Miss Grace Heywood in the principal rôle gives a sympathetic impersonation; Mr Augustine Knight is responsible for a realistic pourtrayal of Jules; as David Carrington Mr Eugene Stanley is worthy of praise; and Barnaby Mugg is in the capable hands of Mr Arthur Bryon.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, the Middlesbrough Grand Opera House Company, Limited; Licensee and Manager, Mr T. Hopcutt.—Mr E. St. Alban's company, in Les Cloches De Corneville, is here. It is some years since the opera visited Middlesbrough, and its reappearance is heartily welcomed by appreciative audiences. Mr St. Alban, who takes the arduous part of the miser, is quite successful; Mr George Delaforce as the Bailie is as good as ever; Mr Fowler Thatcher as Gobo is very amusing; Mdlle. Delrita in the part part of Germaine is charming, and gives a fine rendering of her various numbers. As Serpolette Miss Lucie Fitzroy sings sweetly; Mr George Fox as the Marquis shows himself to be a talented actor; and the other parts are well placed.

EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr John Brill; Manager, Mr J. W. Thornbarrow. The well-known Bonhair-Gregory acrobatic troupe is the top turn at the Empire this week in Risley work; the Rambler Troupe are a clever quartet of jugglers; and the Three Missouris in their acrobatic sketch, Captain Kettle and his Mates, are screamingly funny. How they Lost the Gordon-Bennett Cup is played by Harry Tate's motoring company; and the quaint patter of Barratt and Knowles causes much laughter. The Four Vampires, pantomimists, are good; and Miss Edie Maddison, comedienne and dancer; the Knicknackers, refined comedy and speciality dancers; and Leo Tell's imitations are all well received. The pictures are also attractive.

OXFORD.—Lessee, Mr Wm. Robinson; Manager, Mr William Ainsworth.—On Guard, a powerful little drama, played by Mr Philip Sefton and company, holds the principal position at the Oxford, and proves a most acceptable number. Ike Scott and Son, old favourites, are as successful as ever; Frank Leon, a champion clog dancer, well maintains that honour; Hughes and Elliott, in a comedy act, are good; Rosie Adams sings successfully; and Lizzie Kirk and George Victor are also billed. Animated pictures are also shown.

MORECAMBE.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee, Lieut. Julian Malvern; General Manager, Mr C. M. Julian.—The Christian opened a first visit to Morecambe on Monday, when this popular play was produced by Mr Wentworth Croke's company. The important parts of Glory Quayle and John Storm were in the capable hands of Miss Grace Chalmers and Mr Harry Scott, and both scored heavily. Messrs Stanley Radcliffe, Chas. E. Dering, Chas. B. Bedells, Jackson Wilcox, Wilfrid Blumberg; Misses Lily Crammonde and Clara Nicholls have been apportioned suitable parts. The piece is liberally mounted and well stage-managed.

WINTER GARDENS. — Manager, Mr William Holland.—The event of the week here was on Wednesday, when at afternoon and evening shows Mr Holland took his well-earned annual benefit. The programme included about eighteen turns: Wrestling by noted Northern champions, who appear at Grasmere; a cake-walking competition; two ballets; a fancy dress carnival; and innumerable side shows. During the week the bill has been contributed to by Yashma, contortionist; Flo Wood, comedienne; Fenton Cross, smoke and sand artist; Connie Milton, comedienne; Harry Taft, comedy whistler; and the Ladderites and Zaracs, the latter in Mashing the Barmaid. The coon ballet Ohio was successfully revived on Monday night.

CENTRAL PIER.—Manager, Mr E. Hill.—Mark Sheridan has headed the programme here, and his songs and patter have proved the joy of all and sundry, notably his parody "Little Japansy Faces." Miss Fanny Wentworth, the celebrated lady entertainer, has been at her best during the week; and the Boston Twins, Les Bollingers, rag pictures; Tom Morgan, tenor; Louis Murray, character actor vocalist; Fox and Melville, song illustrators; and Leona and Maude, in a smart trapeze act, have each done their best to keep the ball rolling merrily for the benefit of seaside holiday makers.

ALHAMBRA.—Manager, Alderman John Gardner.—Duncan's collies, those wonderfully intelligent animals, have taken the Alhambra by storm during the past fortnight, and deservedly so. The Motramos are as clever as ever in their musical act, the business being neatly worked. Charming singers and dancers are the Three Sisters Silcott, and funny in the extreme is the comedy acrobatic turn of the Four Herberts. Harry Carlton, with his comedy team, in One Night Only; Pinaro and Carol, comedy act; the Warlocks, patterers and dancers; and Misses Lytton, operatic duettists; have also contributed to the entertainment. Mr Fred R. Hartley, secretary at the Alhambra, took a benefit last (Friday) night, when twenty-one turns helped to make a bumper.

NEW BRIGHTON.

GRAND TOWER THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr Albert Bulmer.—The top of the bill here this week is occupied by Rose Hamilton, star burlesque artiste, who appears with a big répertoire of her latest London successes. Phil Herman, descriptive vocalist; the Alskarno Trio of expert Risley acrobats; Prince Fee-Lung, real Chinese equilibrist and conjuror; Jack and Evelyn, Liverpool's élite entertainers, in their Act of the Period; Lil Gorman, burlesque actress and vocalist; and the Waldrons, burlesque adepts, complete a strong and well-varied company.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr Fred C. Sutcliffe.—That favourite drama, The Silver King, is once again submitted to a Newcastle audience, and the company appearing is one under the direction of Messrs G. M. Polini and Austin Melford. Mr Lauderdale Maitland as Wilfred Denver is equal to the requirements of the part. Captain Skinner is excellently presented by Mr W. V. Garrod. Mr Edward J. George continues to give his well-known and life-like embodiment of Old Jaikes. Miss Lilian Bethel strikes a true sympathetic note as Nellie Denver.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr F. Teale Lingham.—Local playgoers in general, and the sport-loving section in particular, are finding a huge amount of diversion in the performance of The Money Makers, with its strong savour of racing life. Included in Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr Percy Hutchison's company are Miss Muriel Ashwynne and Miss Lorna Lawrence, who give much satisfaction as the amateur lady tipsters, while Miss Francis Davie occasions amusement as Bella. Mr Frank Lacy acts in good style as Captain Fitzgerald, and a humorous character impersonation is given by Mr Allen Thomas as the Scotch uncle.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr T. W. Rowe.—Here we have a return visit from Mr Arnold Bell and company in Ben-my-Chree. Mr Arnold Bell continues to give vivid and forcible expression to the emotions which exercise Dan Mylrea, and Miss Francis Campbell makes a graceful and sympathetic Mona Mylrea.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Director, Mr Richard Thornton; General Manager, Mr Frank Allen; Resident Manager, Mr E. Leslie Conroy.—A popular reception is being awarded George Lashwood, who is singing several new songs in addition to one or two of the old favourites. George Mozart is displaying his customary cleverness and humour in eccentric character impersonations. There are also appearing with credit the Stella Troupe of vocalists and dancers; Dome, the comedy clay modeller; Max Millian, equilibrist; Charles Barron with his burlesque lions and trained cats; Nellie Coleman, the clever lady comedian; the Oulaw Trio, wire workers; Nellie Young, comedienne and dancer; Gertrella, dancer and gymnast, and Harry Bickley, comedian.

PAVILION THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Thos. Barrasford; Resident-Manager, Mr Will H. Boardman.—Miss Annie Purcell makes a welcome appearance here amidst new surroundings, and the charming actress and vocalist has scored an emphatic success. The programme is also successfully contributed to by Mdlle. Nadji, the dusky queen of equipoise; the Olympian Quartet of dancers and vocalists; Luigi Athel, comedian; Marie Elsie, comedienne; Grahame and Harrington, in the sketch A Daughter of Pleasure; James Devoye, with his educated pony; Ward Brothers, eccentric comedy acrobats; and Orford's performing elephants.

OLYMPIA.—Lessees, Messrs Richard Thornton and Sidney Bacon; General Manager, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Nelson Barry.—The Triumph of Truth is the title of the drama in which Mrs Henry Mayhew and Mr Charles Herrick's capable company is appearing here this week.

GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, the Newcastle and Gateshead Theatres, Limited; Managing Director, Mr Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr Ernest W. Bacon.—Nothing succeeds like success, and the business now being done at this theatre is really wonderful, crowded houses being the rule. This week the best turn is undoubtedly that of the Two Eltons, whose expert horizontal bar performance has secured them enthusiastic recalls. Another clever turn is that of Miss Madge Grey, who is a big success in her musical comedy and dialect entertainment. The bill is headed by Mr J. K. Reynolds and company in a sketch entitled Conscience. The Josberthos Trio of gymnasts perform a smart turn; Joe Humphreys is a vocal comedian of considerably more than the average ability; Miss Agnes Krembser gives a smart juggling turn; the Sisters Corry are graceful dancers; the Danbys are successful in song and dance; Miss Minnie Moran is a good comedienne and dancer; and the Karno Trio, in The Travellers' Rest, contribute much fun.

NEWQUAY.

VICTORIA HALL.—An important fixture here was that of Mr Charles Macdona's A Chinese Honeymoon company on Saturday. Effectively staged and dressed and capably presented, the piquant musical comedy delighted a large and fashionable audience. Mr Steane Louch as the Emperor gave a highly amusing representation of an Eastern potentate. As Mr Pineapple Mr Sydney Burt was sufficiently funny, and the part of Mrs Pineapple was competently played by Miss Mabel Carlton. Miss Ettie Cinders as Fi-Fi showed herself to be a lively and painstaking follower of Miss Louie Freear; Tom Hatherton found a clever interpreter in Mr Arthur Foote, and Miss Adele Lacroft was well adapted to the rôle of Soo Soo.

COSY NOOK CONCERTS.—Large numbers continue to patronise this popular resort, and this week we have a fresh bevy of artistes, comprising Mr Arthur Sullivan (banjo soloist), Miss Francine Dewhurst (contralto), Mr Herbert Harden (sketch artist), and Mr Harry Arnold (baritone).

NELSON

NEW GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs T. Greenwood Croft; Manager, Mr George E. Mudd.—At this place the boards are occupied by Mr Fred J. Kirk's latest success, The Naval Detective, a musical comedy in three acts. Mr Arthur Hickman ably assumes the title-rôle as well as the characters of Rev. Frequent Nipper and Pat M'Guiness, and contributes several excellent musical numbers. A very amusing and mirth provoking character is that of Captain Hustle, which is well taken by Mr Arthur Beaufort, who with Mr Robert Gilbert as Dr. Schriener as a good lead well sustains the villainous part of the play. Miss Louie Fountaine as Phyllis Leslie, Mam'selle Lucette, and Bill Mainway acts and sings well. Miss Iris Banfield as Lulu Kaufmann, a half caste, scores in this role, especially with her songs and pretty dances. The Gaiety Girls are heartily applauded for their dancing specialities, which are thoroughly up to date. On Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday in the interval between the second and third acts, Mr Tom Grave made his first appearance in Nelson in his entirely new and sensational feat "Flying the Revolving Wheel." Great crowds assembled to witness this turn, and he was vociferously cheered.

NEWPORT.

LYCEUM. — Lessee and Manager, Mr Sidney Cooper.—Miss Grace Warner and her company this week are producing the new naval musical comedy The New Commander to appreciative houses. The feature of the performance is the acting of Mr George Gordon as Lieutenant Frank Harding, R.N., who is a perfectly natural humourist, and nothing could be better than the Tittums of Mr Mills Anderson. Miss May Dallas plays Vivette with quite an easy manner, and Miss Grace Warner is a decided success in the rôle of Violet Flintheart. Miss Maud Warburton does full justice to the part of Freddie Bounce. Matthew Flintheart is in the capable hands of Mr J. P. Marsden, and the Sultan of Ramjamjah is well played by Mr St. Bernard Wyntour. The songs are bright and witty, and the piece is briskly played. The dancing of the quartet and the eccentric dancing of Mr J. P. Marsden secure well-earned recognition. The Little Widow will be played for Miss Grace Warner's benefit on Friday evening.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Limited; Managing-Director, Mr O. Stoll.—Crowded houses are the order here, where George Robey, who heads the bill, keeps the house in roars. Fred Harcourt, a modern magician, astonishes the audiences with his tricks. Minnie Cunningham (looking charming), with a sweet manner, captivates her hearers; and Miss Ethel Haydon, the possessor of a good voice, renders a couple of songs that appeal to everyone. Miss Lillian Warren, who has a fine stage presence, with the aid of pictures, scores a great success in her pathetic rendition of "A picture an artist cannot paint," and a clever and interesting turn is that of Mdlle. Marvelle, with her macaws and cockatoos. Included also in the bill are Fred Lincoln, comedian; Nat Travers, coster comedian; and Henri Abdy's canine circus.

NORTHAMPTON.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Fred H. Anderson; Acting Manager, Mr Robert Barton.—Joe Barrett, ex 8st. 4lb. champion of England, and Louis Anastasie, light weight champion of France, head the programme here with their international boxing act. Billy Mueller and Clara Coyne are successful as comical variety entertainers. The Boultons, speciality sketch artistes; the Two Gems, duettists; Bert Lytton, society comique; Emmie Ames, comedienne; Harry Bancroft, actor vocalist; and Mdlle. Bartenelli, America's graceful lady bender, are also appreciated.

NORTH SHIELDS.

BOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Arthur Jefferson; General Manager, Mr Horace Lee; Secretary, Mr Gordon Jefferson.—The boards here are occupied by Mr Ernest R. Abbott's company, in The Mariners of England. As Lord Nelson and Bronte Mr Ernest R. Abbott was seen to great advantage, and Mr W. T. Riley was clever as Harry Dell. Mr W. H. Garbois made the most of Capt. Lebaudy. Mr Edward Keene was a satisfactory Tom Tripp, and Mr John Lester scored as Capt. Hardy. Miss Ada Abbott was effective as Mabel Talbot; Miss Isabel Singleton was well received as Polly Appleyard; Miss Linda Riley acquitted herself with credit as Nell Dell; and the remaining parts were ably sustained.

NEW CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager Mr William Mould.—The Imperial Russian Troupe of vocalists and dancers has had a hearty reception here. Messrs Ryan and Hall, eccentric comedians, cause much laughter, and Mr Charles Valvo ventriloquist, is very clever. Miss Mabel May, comedienne, has made a hit. Messrs Hector and Paulus, equilibrists and hand balancers, do some smart feats. Lavatter, Continental clown, and his clever dog, have a warm reception, and the Bio-Photoscope is received with favour.

NORTHWICH.

CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs S. Golden Manager, Mr Percy Webb.—During the vacation the management has made great improvement in the appearance of the building, the scenery amongst other things, having had special attention. The Hero of the Flag, described on the programme as a naval and domestic drama, opened a six nights engagement on Monday to a fairly good audience. The piece is of a highly sensational flavour, much of which is due to the machinations of the arch-scoundrel Mansfield and his tool Clifford, parts taken respectively by Mr S. Spenser and Mr F. Dallas. Mr W. Heilbronn makes a spirited hero and Miss L. Hall is a capable heroine. Mr B Methuen is a gallant Captain. Excellent fooling is supplied by Mr A. E. Andrews and Miss M. Le Ray. The dresses are good, and the representation goes with a swing.

NORWICH.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Manager, Mr Fred Morgan.—Mr Leslie Norman's company, in A Trip to Chinatown, is here this week. Mr Chas. Seguin is immensely funny as Welland Strong; Mr Jerrold Manville is equally amusing as Ben Gay; Mr Stanley Champion as Slavin Payne is very successful; and Mr Leslie Norman is equally so as Rastleigh Gay. Mr Little Britton is good as Jones, and Mr Oswald Gray as Saxon Blood and Mr Will Smith as Noah Heap ably assist. Miss Harriet Fawn as Mrs Guyer is well received, and Miss Dorothy Vicott as Flirt gains much approval.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr F. W. Fitt; Musical Director, Captain Selby.—This is the anniversary week of the opening of this popular place of entertainment, and the management must be congratulated on their twelve months' success, and the entire absence of vulgarity at any of the performances. On Wednesday evening, the anniversary day, the performance was under the patronage of the Mayor, the Sheriff, the Deputy Mayor, and the Corporation of Norwich, and the entire proceeds will be for the benefit of the local charities. There is an excellent programme presented. The Two Dromios create much amusement; Joko and Koko, with their highly trained ponies, ridden by monkeys, are heartily received; John Terry and Mabel Lambert are good in their character study of New York life; Signor and Signora De Roberti are charming operatic singers; Mdlle. Lucretia is successful in her dancing; and Billy Farrell, the Creole comedian, is quite a favourite in his dances, songs, and patter. T. W. Barrett is capital as an eccentric comedian, and Annie Lauri is well received for her songs. The Three Schaffers prove skilful acrobats and athletes, and Mackinnon's Scottish Meisters obtain much applause for their well-rendered quartets. Capt. Selby's band adds to the pleasure of the evening.

AGRICULTURAL HALL ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Mr John Dyson, his gipsy choir, and his interesting pictures opened here on Monday for two weeks. The charming singing and the variety in the entertainment are always a big draw here, and a hearty welcome was given them on Monday. Miss Miller, one of the company, is a native of Norwich, and is quite a warm favourite.

NOTTINGHAM.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr Howard Finney; Treasurer, Mr Bernard Hishin.—A Chinese Honeymoon, the phenomenally successful musical comedy by George Dance, is being presented here to large and appreciative audiences. Mr Martin Adeson's exhuberant humour as Mr Pineapple is always the signal for boisterous laughter; Mr Philip Hayden as Hang-Chow adds in no small measure to the amusement; and Mr Ernest Laws makes a comical Chippie-Chop. Mr F. Payne (Hi-Lung) and Mr Frank Crimp (Tom Atherton) play with success. A dainty singer is heard in Miss Madge Temple, and an exceedingly smart performance of Mrs Brown is given by Miss Holford Beringer. In the part of Fi-Fi Miss Vera Vere shows a vivacity that appeals to her audience, who respond in no uncertain manner. Miss Eva Bevington (Mrs Pineapple), Miss Kate Leicester (Mi-Mi), and a bevy of pretty girls work heartily and successfully, and an augmented orchestra, under Mr A. Romilli, adds its share to the general enjoyment.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr Chas P. Cooke.—Hilarity is in full swing here this week in the presentation of the musical farce His Majesty's Guests by Mr Fred Karno's company. Mr William Rokeby as Sergeant Lightning succeeds admirably in making that character as droll as it is possible to be. Mr George Hudson fills the rôle of Lord Easem with his usual capability, and Lady Maude Easem is carefully enacted by Miss Marie Campbell. Mr J. W. Hooper has a big fund of humour as Miffin, and Mr Charles Cardon makes a stolid doorkeeper as Fritz. Miss Katie Brunton scores well as Miss Manley, and Mr Tom Manardo helps the merriment as Selina. Mr L. Sterling (Harry), Mr Charles Leoville (Bunker), and Mr E. C. Lilly (Mr Minks) make every use of their opportunities, and the speciality dances by Miss Effie Northern evoke hearty applause.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr Geo. H. Beagle.—Miss Marie Menzies's company is here with a highly sensational drama, entitled A Rogue's Daughter, and a good house on Monday expressed in loud terms their appreciation of the play. Miss Menzies's conception of Letty Grey quickly secures the sympathy of her audience; Miss May Wynward makes an interesting exponent of Lady Mynard; and Miss Mabel Hall gains instant favour by her portrayal of the waif, Dicky; Mr Newton Buckland does well as Sir George Mynard; and Mr Wilfred Blair plays with feeling as Frank Tyler. As the scoundrelly adventurer, Colonel Foster, Mr Richard Ferris is sufficiently forcible, and has an able accomplice in Mr Charles Stimson as Isaacs. The comedy element receives full justice at the hands of Miss Milly Davis, and Messrs Will Wilson, A. Hall-Menzies, and E. Palairet.

EMPIRE THEATRES OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr Hatton Wharton.—There are few things more droll than Mr Harry Tate's sketch on motoring, and this capital comedian literally convulsed his audience on Monday by his funny burlesque. Leonard Barry has added fresh material to his successful sketch "The Mouchers' Walk;" Miss Millie Hylton is always a delightful artist, and her three songs roused much enthusiasm; the Wartenberg Brothers gave a remarkable exhibition of foot juggling; the hand performance of Jules Keller brought him applause; May Evans sang effectively, and Charles Vincent scored heavily with his medley. Hume Ross and Lewis are a smart couple of Americans; and the American Bioscope supplies films of the King's visit to Swansea and the British International boat race.

NUNEATON.

PRINCE OF WALES'S, LIMITED.—Managing Director, Mr A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr W. J. R. Bryan.—Messrs Hardie and Von Leer's company are here on a return visit with Two Little Vagabonds. Mr Talbot Homewood has carefully studied the rôle of George Thornton. Mr Douglas Cecil is successful as Captain Darville. The part of John Scarth is made the most of by Mr Harry B. Major. Mr H. Hesselgrave brings out naturally the dry humour of Bill Mullins, and is ably assisted by Messrs Charles T. Doe and C. H. Hughes as Dido Bunce and "The Coughdrop." As Leeson Mr C. W. Crowe is good. Miss Elena Lonsdale gives a pathetic reading of Marion Thornton, which holds the attention of the audience throughout. Miss Kate Hesselgrave is praiseworthy as Nurse Randall. As Biddy Mullins Miss Eleanor Papera figures well. Miss Lilian Francis makes a bright and vivacious Dick, and wins a large share of appreciation, and Miss Violet Carr assumes with skill the character of Wally. The minor parts are well played.

OLDHAM.

ROYAL.—Proprietors, Oldham Theatres, Limited; Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr George Knowles.—A capital "wakes" programme is being submitted here. The New York Nippers, in Bedtime, are well received; the Ashers (Agnes and Little Mike), in a novel act, "The Dude and the Soubrette," give an excellent account of themselves; Ada Cerito, as a comedienne, is up to the mark; Teddy Whittle, the Lancashire comedian, make a welcome appearance; and the Burnells create roars of laughter in their new act, "On the Links." Gus Balsigner is capital as a vocalist and instrumentalist; Bertha Winder, champion clog dancer of the world, is loudly applauded; Grant and Allen are up-to-date comedians; and Lotto, Lilo, and Otto are clever comedy trick cyclists.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Oldham Theatres, Limited; Manager, Mr Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr Hulme.—A Modern Adventuress occupies the stage this week, with Miss Beatrice M. Anderson in the title-rôle. Her clever acting and fine presence win favour. Miss Alice Defoe, as the wife of the hero, is well received, and the part of Harry Delby is admirably taken by Mr Charles Sterling. Mr G. D. Knight as the banker is successful; Mr Leonard Aardale as Pietro Donelli is favourably received; Mr W. R. Winning as Danton is very good; and Miss Mimi Fisher adds humour to the play as the servant, being aided by Mr Frank Hill as the good-hearted John Crompton.

GAIETY.—Proprietors, Oldham Theatres, Limited; Manager, Mr E. J. Dexter.—An excellent holiday company is here this week, including Frank Hemming and Marie Free, two clever comedy artistes; Little Cliff is an amusing turn; the Davanlos as contortionists are clever; Casselli and James give a clever musical performance; Edie King, comedienne and dancer, is well received; Lily Le Breton is a clever gymnast; and Walter Wallis is popular with his songs.

OXFORD.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr Wells.—On Monday Mr Bert Wentworth's company, under that gentleman's personal direction, commenced a successful week's engagement here with That Woman from France. Mr Jerrold Heather scored heavily in his manly and convincing impersonation of John Beaumont; Mr H. L. Williams was an interesting and natural Cecil Charrington; Mr Annesley Hely was well suited as the villainous brother Philip; Mr Bernard Dunstan was very amusing as Louder; and Mr John B. Murray made a highly creditable Sir Edmund Charrington. Miss Evelyn Marrable was a winning and delightful representative of Beryl Stancliffe; Miss Amy Maitland and Miss Lola Tempest were capital as Winnie and Martha Williams; and Miss Marie De Roos gave a powerful performance as Camille Nicholl, the Queen.
